Promise anything; give her chocolate

WEST NEWTON — Anyone who has succumbed to an urge to binge on chocolate ice cream, Hershey bars or hot fudge sundaes should feel less guilty about such indulgence.

Next month some 250 people will spend an entire weekend surrounded by fanatics of like mind, chowing down on chocolate.

Choco-holics from around the country will spend Feb. 6-9 at elegant Mohonk Mountain resort in New Patz, N.Y. eating chocolate, drinking chocolate, reading about chocolate, listening to people talk about chocolate, cooking with chocolate and learning everthing there is to know about chocolate from the experts.

The chocolate feast was organized by West Newton resident Lora Brody, a nationally-recognized dessert cook and chocolate expert.

"It's fabulous," says the 32-year-old chocolate fanatic. "It's a million laughs."

Scrumptious chocolate desserts are Brody's specialty. In the kitchen of her spacious home, where she lives with her husband David, a Boston attorney, three young children and a poodle named Hershey, Brody has whipped up everything from chocolate mushrooms to an eight-foot chocolate birthday cake for her husband.

Brody, who now teaches chocolate dessert baking and does some private catering, says she is not alone in her passion for chocolate. The chocolate industry, she says, is booming.

Chocolate, to get to the point, is in this year. Chocolate tops the Kiwi fruit, last year's rage, according to Brody.

"It's an inexpensive luxury item — inexpensive compared to a Cadillac," she said. "It's the new snob food. Here is a fairly affordable food item that is delicious and extraordinary to work with."

Brody has tasted chocolate treats from around

City could go underground for H_2O

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A preliminary water resource study indicates the Garden City could be in for a windfall — or waterfall — if underground resources are found suitable for tapping.

The $12,000 water study by a Wayland firm shows areas of the city could yield 25 percent of the city's drinking water, according to the firm's senior ground water analyst Walter Mulica.

This is a significant step in terms of progressive planning, say city officials, and might mean Newton could reduce part of its $1 million payment to the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) for water if the local supply proves drinkable, according to Mayor Theodore Mann. The mayor, however, cautioned against premature excitement since the water supply must be verified for its quality.

"This will help us find the answers to the problems we know we will face in the future - additional sources of drinking water," said Mann.

"The study has proven extremely exciting because it's like having money in the bank," said Mulica of the Wayland engineering firm of IEP.

An engineering study says untapped water supplies below Newton could yield 25 percent of the city's drinking water, with a savings on the MDC assessment.

The firm hopes to conduct further testing to determine the exact quantity and the quality of the water available to the city, according to Mulica.

The two most promising sites are near the Charles River, a location owned by the city, with a second under MDC control, said Mulica. He would not reveal the exact locations.

"This is a very exciting concept to find water in a city where everyone assumes the available sites were developed or paved over years ago," he said.

In its search for water supplies, IEP made test drills, geological studies and sent seismic waves into the ground measuring the time they took to "refract" back, said Mulica. The final study is a colored map-like graph showing quite a few areas where water exists, he said.

According to Mulica, the MDC has been encouraging its 34 member communities to search for supplemental water supplies.

A state law passed in 1981 allows MDC member communities to look into their own water supplies, according to the director of the MDC Water Division, William Brutsch.

Prior to the legislation, member communities were supposed to abandon any of their own water supplies in favor of MDC water, in accordance with legislation enacted in

Mayor cites employment concerns...

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — One of Mayor Theodore D. Mann's main concerns in 1983 is with "positive action to substantially reduce unemployment in the country," he said in an interview last week.

Mann said the nation's economic distress has hit in Newton and that he has advocated measures to provide emergency food, clothing and shelter for those hardest hit.

Several weeks ago, he attended a special meeting of the nation's mayors at which emergency assistance was the major concern. He came back from the session advocating that surplus food and public works jobs be made available to the city's unemployed citizens.

Listing other concerns he anticipates in 1983, Mann said he would like "to find more ways to meet the housing needs of the young the elderly and the handicapped."

The Board of Aldermen is presently considering Mann's proposal for the city to purchase the former St. Jean's School in Nonantum to build a 46-unit housing development. The plan would include elderly and handicapped housing, along with subsidized family housing.

In the past year the mayor was instrumental in obtaining more than $4 million in federal funds for a comparable project in the old Weeks Jr. High.

By Kevin C. Kennedy

NEWTON — Board of Aldermen President Matthew Jefferson, the man whose job it is to keep the state's largest municipal government body in the mainstream of city business, admits he's had little time to ponder the coming year, but he does have a sort of "dream sheet" of his own.

One of Jefferson's main concerns, looking forward to 1983, is that the aldermen make some inroads into the lack of low-income housing in the city.

"I'd like to see more action on low-income housing," he said. "But whether or not the board will move on it is something else again."

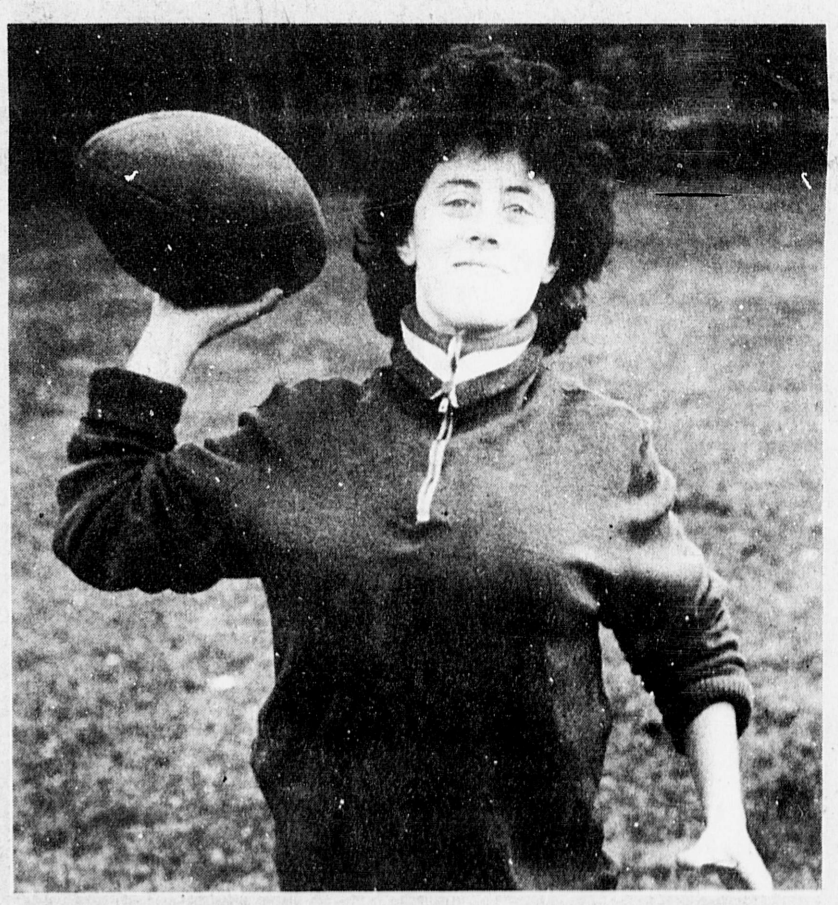

He said his hopes for more low-income housing in the city are undaunted by apparent popular reaction against a proposal that the city build a 46-unit complex on the grounds of St. Jean's School in Nonantum.

Jefferson attributed the difficulty the proposal has had in the Board of Aldermen to a vocal minority of dissidents and said he thought the item would be approved early in the year, "after all the maneuvers."

For a larger scale increase in the amount of low-income housing in the city, Jefferson said he is looking forward to the development of a pro-

Rowland eager for 'inside' look

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Richard Rowland, the new state Secretary of Elder Affairs, and long-time advocate for the elderly, said it will be different to work for the elderly from "the inside" but he is looking forward to the challenge.

"There are a lot of people I can call on for help," said Rowland, Governor-elect Michael Dukakis' choice to head the Department of Elder Affairs. "People already have been very supportive in offering their help."

Rowland, 51, of West Newton, executive director of the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans, was named last Thursday by Dukakis to the cabinet post.

In a telephone interview Monday, Rowland said that among his priorities will be a push to increase wages for homemakers employed by the state's 27 home care corporations, which serve 40,000 elders.

"The homemakers should be making more money," Rowland said. "We pay more to people who wash cars and dishes than to those who care for frail, elderly people. They're not even paid moderately well."

Homemakers now earn $3.35 an hour which Rowland favors increasing by putting more money into the state's homemaker program.

Rowland, a 14-year resident of West Newton, said he is exploring possible tax breaks and homemaker services as ways of assisting families caring for elderly relatives at home.

Rowland said he is concerned that

Aldermanic raise proposal debated

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen sent a proposal to appoint a "blue ribbon committee" to discuss the possibility of pay raises for the mayor and the alderman back to the Finance Committee Monday night, but not before a debate on the advisability of such a move in an election year.

"This is an ill-gotten time for this item," Alderman Robert Tennant told the board. "I defy any of you, when you're running for re-election this fall, to explain why you voted for a salary increase."

President Matthew Jefferson said he was "willing to take the heat" for voting for a wage increase.

"Even in the face of Proposition 2½, all the people working for the city have come in for some sort of raise," Jefferson said. He suggested the mayor and aldermen "should at least be given the same consideration."

He added he was willing to tell his constituents he voted for an increase because he thought it was fair.

Several aldermen agreed with Tennant, who said, "There's no question the mayor is underpaid."

Alderman Ethel Sheehan said the mayor's salary was "ridiculous." She also pointed out "the inequality of the work product of the 24 aldermen is obvious.

Affirmative action in schools is lauded

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Teacher layoffs in recent years have threatened gains in minority staff across the state, but despite such staff cuts, Newton schools have increased the percentage of minority teachers and administrators.

Newton's affirmative action record won praise along with a handful of Massachusetts cities and towns in the recent report on affirmative action by the state Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Nearby communities commended were Brookline and Cambridge.

"I think we've taken it seriously and done it well for quite a period of time (since 1968)," Dr. Tom O'Conor, assistant director of personnel for the Newton schools, said.

"I just think that Dr. O'Conor has done a very good job," Helen Thomas, director of personnel, said of the state commendation. "We're very proud of our record so far."

Mayor looks ahead to '83

Speaking of his other hopes for 1983, Mann said he would like to continue his commitment to public education in the city and "make sure that all possible resources are used to continue quality education in the public schools."

The mayor would also like to see the federal government "recognize that many federal programs do not apply to the older communities in the Northeast."

He said municipalities in New England, especially, have unique needs in the areas of retrofitting public facilities for energy conservation and repairs to ancient streets and sewer systems.

Mann said that, while he was in "the grab bag" of hopes for the coming year, he would like to see the state realign its formula for aid to cities and towns, putting it on a per capita basis and recognizing the uniques needs of different municipalities.

Pointing out the number of tax free institutions in the city, Mann said he would hope the state would "Show more consideration for communities, like Newton, with such a high percentage of non-taxable properties. Nearly 20,000 non-Newton residents enter and leave the city every day to attend Boston College, Mt. Ida College, Lassell, etc.

"We believe these institutions contribute significantly to the quality of life in the community, but the costs to Newton should be reflected in the state aid formula."

Mayor Theodore Mann

The mayor said he also hoped to see "a stabilized tax rate in the city and continuing growth in the favorable equity position of Newton homeowners, compared to those in neighboring communities."

Finally, Mann expressed a sincere hope "for a future which would see a community where the various villages live in harmony with each other and the differences of race, creed and color — and the resulting tensions — are understood and eliminated."

posal made recently by the Human Rights Commission to adapt existing housing for denser occupancy.

Representatives of the commission told the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee the development of more "accessory apartments" in some of the city's larger homes would help reduce the present "mismatch" between housing needs and existing housing stock.

President Matthew Jefferson

Jefferson called the commission's proposal "reasonable and worthwhile," adding, "We need to free up some of the larger housing in the city." He also said that he was looking forward to aldermanic action which will "scale down Ordinance 30."

The city ordinance presently requires a lot of 20,000 square feet for every single-family residence. Under the ordinance, a house would be required to be on a 40,000 square foot lot to be eligible for an accessory dwelling, according to Jefferson.

Jefferson would advocate a blanket amnesty on all existing accessory apartments with the stipulation that they be brought in line with health, fire and building codes. This would bring the city added housing and additional property taxes, he said.

The president of the board said he was also looking forward to aldermanic action on an item he docketed months ago which would require that the board be informed of any changes in city contracts which it has already approved.

He explained, when he first submitted the item earlier in the year, that changes in the city's contract with Finnegan Associates, the Acton-based firm which conducted the controversial citywide revaluation, prompted him to bring the matter before the board.

While he is "counting on both sides to get together" in ongoing contract talks, Jefferson said the aldermen "don't belong" in the collective bargaining process. "We can only approve the negotiated contract," he said. "That's our role."

Six homeless after blaze on New Year's Eve

By John Lempesis
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Six persons may be homeless after a fire caused an estimated $75,000 to $100,000 damage to their 25-room home at 315 Waverley Ave., on New Year's Eve.

A police officer was injured when he responded to the blaze which sent Patricia Frascatore and her daughter fleeing for their lives, according to Asst. Fire Chief Bernard J. Goulding.

Goulding said about four other persons lived in the house but were not home when the fire was discovered shortly before 7 p.m. He did not know where any of them were staying in the wake of the fire.

Goulding said the fire was caused by faulty lights on a Christmas tree.

According to police, the Frascatores found the fire when they heard smoke detectors and went into a first-floor family room to find their Christmas tree afire. They phoned the Fire Department and fled the flames.

Goulding said heavy smoke and fire were showing when Engines 3, 6 and Ladder 3 arrived at the 2½-story brick single-family home.

"The fire was at the point of taking off" to spread to other floors, Goulding said. "We got there just in time to make a good stop."

But almost on arrival, Goulding was told Frascatore's son was trapped on the third floor of the home. Three police officers already had tried to get to the third floor looking for the man but were driven back by dense smoke, police said. Police do not carry oxygen masks.

Goulding reported a working fire to headquarters prompting Engine 4, Ladder 2 and Fire Chief Edward B. Reilly Jr. to go to the scene to help. Meanwhile, firefighters with masks were searching upper floors for the Frascatore man while other firefighters battled flames below. The searchers found nobody there.

"If he had been trapped up there," Goulding said, "he would have been killed. The smoke and gasses and extreme heat would have killed him."

It was about 45 minutes before the fire was brought under control, Goulding said, and another hour elapsed before the fire was declared extinguished. Two fire companies stayed 30 minutes more to cover windows and clean up.

Goulding said the family room where the fire began was gutted and an adjacent dining room was heavily damaged by fire. The flames did not spread to upper floors but they still were extensively damaged by smoke, he said.

"Every one of the 25 rooms is going to have to be (renovated)," Goulding said. "And with the two heavily damaged fire rooms, there was $75,000 to $100,000 damage."

Patrolman Brian Henderson was treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for a facial cut he suffered when an unknown object near him shattered while he was looking for the man he thought was trapped upstairs.

Police searching for driver after fatal accident Monday

NEWTON — Area police were searching Tuesday for the driver of an auto which failed to stop after it struck and killed an elderly Newton man on Commonwealth Avenue at Irving Street late Monday afternoon.

Edward. T. Brackett, 91, was hit by a dark, two-door sedan, "possibly a compact and possibly maroon in color," driven by a white male in his 50's who was wearing a hat, according to police.

No home address was given for Brackett.

Chief William F. Quinn issued a plea to any motorists who may have been on Commonwealth Avenue around 4:45 p.m. Monday, requesting any information that could be helpful in determining the identity of the driver or the automobile.

Quinn said police from Newton and surrounding communities are currently trying to determine who the operator of the car is.

The case is being investigated by Capt. John J. Bartinelli of the Newton Police Traffic Bureau.

Any information regarding the accident should be phoned in to the Police Department at 552-7240.

Third hearing set on St. Jean's plan

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A neighborhood protest over a planned mixed housing project in Nonantum has led to a rare third public hearing on the matter.

A proposal to build 46-units of elderly, handicapped and low-income housing on the site of St. Jean's School, on Watertown St., caught the neighbors unawares when it first came before the aldermen in September.

Through several committee meetings and two public hearings, they have built up their numbers and organized their grievances until now, when the full board of aldermen was about to vote on the project, they have won yet another opportunity for public debate.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle made the motion for another public hearing, stessing the importance of the board's listening to the people who will be most affected by the project.

Alderman Sondra Shick pointed out that the Zoning Board of Appeals would hold a public hearing at which neighborhood grievances could be heard, but the aldermen opted for a hearing on Thursday, Jan. 13, in City Hall.

Testimony to the tenacity of the neighbors of the planned project was to be seen in their numbers, several dozen, and heard in a lengthy, spirited discussion which took place in the hall outside the aldermanic chambers.

Diane Donnellan, former head of St. Jean's School Board and the real estate agent in charge of the sale of the school to the city, fielded some loud complaints from angry parishioners.

"There's not one low-income project that's any good," she was told by a neighbor who objected to subsidized family housing being included in the project. "Go into Brighton, or look at Columbia Point."

Margaret Cormier, who has acted as a spokesperson for the neighborhood, said she was hoping for a month to gather new data for the aldermen. She agreed with another parishioner who, faced with only ten days until the next hearing, said, "It just means we'll have to work that much harder."

Newton Symphony Orchestra Conductor Ronald Knudsen leads the orchestra in its second subscription concert on Sunday, Jan. 16 at 8 p.m. and again on Saturdy, Jan. 22 for a free young people's concert at 2 p.m., with both shows at Brown Junior High, Meadowbrook Road. pay raise for 24 people?" Sheehan asked.

Alderman Richard McGrath said he was offended by the remarks made by Tennant and Sheehan. He contradicted Tennant when he said an election year, when the public was scrutinizing the aldermen, was the most appropriate time of all to vote on a pay raise.

He told Sheehan it was impossible to measure the effectiveness of an aldermen by the amount of time he or she spent in City Hall.

"It doesn't make me a better alderman because I spend more time here," McGrath said. "I've found many colleagues on the board I've disagreed with, but few who shirk their responsibilities."

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle said he thought a public hearing on the pay raise would be appropriate because, "we ought to listen to what the public has to say."

Alderman Edward Richmond discounted the idea of a public hearing on the matter. "I don't know anywhere citizens will step forward and say elected officials deserve a raise. The only people who will come forward will be those who can't separate the personality from the office," he said.

The idea of a "blue ribbon committee," which would review the need for pay raises, was opposed by alderman Terry Morris, who said the need could best be assessed by the aldermen themselves.

"The whole idea of a committee is as a means of insulating us from public opinion. The aldermen are the only ones qualified to make the decision."

Morris added, "The people vote for us, rightly or wrongly, because they think we're going to exercise our judgement."

It was only after several amendments to the item were rejected that the board decided to send it back to the FinCom for further review.

Symphony heralds 2 January concerts

NEWTON — The Newton Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Music Director Ronald Knudsen, heralds the new year with two concerts during the month of January, on Sunday evening, Jan. 16, and Saturday afternoon, Jan. 22.

The Sunday concert is the second of NSO's Subscription Series, and features Harold Wright, the renowned clarinet soloist and principal clarinet of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

As a resident of Newton, Wright makes his first concert appearance with the NSO in this event.

He will perform the Mozart Clarinet Concerto, an outstanding vehicle for the virtuosity and lyric tone Wright brings from his instrument. The Mozart work, rich in grace and charm, is one of the most popular pieces written for the clarinet, an instrument which was a favorite of the composer.

Also on the Jan. 16 subscription concert is the Symphony No. 3, or "Rhennish" Symphony of Schumannn. This symphony, written during one of the happiest periods of Schumann's life, is an attempt to picture, in music, the glory of the Cologne Cathedral, and in particular, a moving ceremony which Schumann attended, elevating the Archbishop of Cologne to the rank of Cardinal.

The concert will open with an overture to the very rarely heard opera, Il Signor Bruschino, by Rossini.

Seats may be reserved for this concert, at $8 each, by calling 965-2555. Subscribers who may be unable to use their tickets are reminded of the NSO resale policy, and urged to call in and release their tickets.

The second NSO concert on Saturday, Jan. 22, (with a snow date of Feb. 5), is the annual free Young People's Concert, and held at the Brown Junior High in the afternoon.

This year, NSO conductor Knudsen will lead the orchestra, and will include the city-wide elementary orchestra in one of the programmed pieces. Excerpts from Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony No. 6 and Schumann's "Rhennish" Symphony No. 3 will be accompanied by a slide presentation of vistas from those countries, scenes evoked by the music.

The highlight of the Young People's Concert will be the solo performances of the winners of this year's city-wide NSO young soloist competition, Peter May and Charlton Wilson.

May, a flutist, and Wilson, a bassoonist, are both senior at Newton North High School, and will perform with the Newton Symphony Orchestra. This concert, funded by the Music Performance Trust Fund, is open to the public at no charge, and will begin at 2 p.m. on Jan. 22.

Water, water everywhere?

1895, Brutsch said. The new legislation requires member communities to hold on to or reactivate water supplies.

The MDC is conducting long range water supplies of its member communities with special emphasis on nine, according to Chief Water Planner Patricia Corcoran.

"One of (the communities being studied) is Newton where there are abandoned sources of water," said Corcoran. A report is expected to be released by the end of January, she added.

The location of the wells being studied in Newton are near Needham Street, south toward Dedham, Corcoran said last week. The wells were last used 1953 and were developed between 1875 and 1938, she said.

Wells in Waltham removed from normal service in 1949, located along the Charles River south of Mount Feake Cemetery near the Weston line, are being looked at as well, said Corcoran.

The United States Geological Survey agency is doing a study of water supplies in relation to the Charles River and the results are expected soon, said Corcoran.

Valerie Russell is Woodbury speaker

NEWTON CENTRE — Valerie Russell of Newton will be the featured speaker at Andover Newton Theological School's 10th Annual Woodbury Workshop on "Management and Ministry" planned for Jan. 17-20 at the Newton Centre campus.

The focus of this year's workshop is on conflict management, addressing the nature and function of conflict and providing an opportunity to learn selected conflict management strategies.

Russell will be speaking as a layperson on the role of an administrator from a "faith perspective."

With a background in social action, Russell is the president of the City Missionary Society in Boston.

She was previously director of the National Conference on the Church and the City for the metropolitan Riverside Church in New York City. For six years she served as assistant to the president, Women and Minority Concerns, United Church of Christ.

The Woodbury Workshop at Andover Newton is held annually to acquaint church workers with the theory and processes of management.

Editorial

He showed he had 'the right stuff'

In his book "The Right Stuff," author Tom Wolfe expounds on the iron will and steely nerves which made America's early test pilots - and eventual astronauts - a little different from the rest of us.

With a writer's fascination and maybe a bit of envy, Wolfe documented the hopes and lives of those in the early days of NASA's space program.

It was a time when kids still really thought about growing up to be astronauts. A youngster in the know could rattle off the names of astronauts, the missions they flew, the success, or failure, of their flights.

By Tom Wolfe's definition, "The Right Stuff" evolved early in the program when heroes were still squeaky clean and every kid could grow up to fly to the moon.

Former astronaut and Congressman-elect Jack Swigert of Colorado was one of those who showed the humble nature and madman's determination which not only put people into space, but gave them a place in the dreams of boys and girls.

Swigert died last week of bone marrow cancer, only a week before he was to be sworn into office.

Swigert, remembered by fellow former astronaut Sen. John Glenn as "a man of tremendous bravery", was candid about his disease during the campaign and selfless about his earlier career as a man whose name was carved into NASA history.

Swigert had "the right stuff" of which Tom Wolfe wrote. But he demonstrated in his choice of a career in politics, his valiant fight against cancer, and his candor while in the public light, that he had much more than the normal stuff of which stars are made.

Swigert showed that he was a fighter, no more, no less. And he showed that even today, we can still have heroes.

Marking time

A wry year in review

By Mark White

As we "push out the old and ring in the new" I decided to do something different for the "Year in Review."

1982 was a year full of strife; revaluation, new aldermen, for me a new life.
As we look back on the problems this year past, let's take time to acknowledge our political cast.

For Dick McGrath, finishing political year eleven,
Finnegan Brothers were sent from Heaven.
However, as revaluation fades and assessing takes a pause,
To keep your name in headlinies you must find a new cause.

To Dave, Susan and Joe, our representatives at the State House show,
I don't know how you survive the strife, but if you deal with McGee, Bulger, et. al.,
Just watch your back for the knife.

To Bob, Hank and Liz, those in charge of the assessing biz,
I bet you're glad to be free, of hearings, abatements, protests but then... it all starts again January, 83.

For those who want all night parking the prospects of passage are dark;
Because if Aldermen Baker, Creem and Vance have their way, you won't have any place to park.
So you know that present you want to buy - the brand new sporty car;
Hold off until you take the time, to pave your front lawn with tar.

To his Honor, the Mayor, my political foe;
We enjoyed the 11th year of the Ted Mann show.
You worked very hard to hold onto your seat,
But being head of this city is no longer a treat.
Our schools are half-empty; our taxes are high.
We can't improve traffic no matter how hard we try.
So although things look bleak, some people may say,
Just remember our bond rating is still Triple A.

To Virginia T. and Dottie R., your new library plan has come ever so far.
But your brand new building you may have to eschew, in order to make your dreams come true.

To Carol Ann Shea, the VP of the Board, your noise ordinance just cannot be ignored.
I promise to turn down all volume without fail or else my dog's barking could land him in jail.

To the aldermen:
nuclear waste, hospice and trash; assessing, revaluation, schools, surplus cash;
Asbestos, school salaries, traffic, what a bore!
I'm glad that I don't have to deal with them anymore.

To my editor, Mr. Lodge - I indeed want a raise;
Putting time into this column - you said that it pays?
But there's nothing extra in the wallet; the prestige remains the same, next year I want more than just the printing of my lousy name.

To the people of Newton who've enjoyed "Marking time"
please excuse the meter and contrived attempts at this rhyme.
These columns, be they humble, sarcastic or biting,
some have accused me of bias in my writing.
But just take it all in the spirit in which it's sent - you hear?
because I promise to be just as irreverant "marking time" next year.

Happy new year.

Cribbing at North

Goodbye blue Sundays?

Not long ago Rep. Joe DeNucci discussed with his legislative colleague David Cohen the merits of changing the Sunday Blue Laws, which will be nixed later this year.

According to DeNucci, who said he favors Sunday store closings, he told Cohen there should be one day a week which "is different from the rest."

Cohen responded: "How about Thursday?"

DeNucci noted that that wasn't quite what he had in mind.

Leave it to the secondary

We have to hand it this week to the Newtonite, the Newton North High newspaper. The Dec. 22 issue should give parents an idea of just exactly what is going on in some quarters are North.

A story by David Green is included in the issue, which describes "10 of the most common ways" which students reportedly use to cheat on exams.

We're just giving it to you straight, folks.

Although it is unclear where the reporter obtained his information to conclude these were the 10 most common ways, the list does give a prospective cribber a good set of choices with which to practice his or her "talents."

Included in the 10 ways are: using crib notes on paper, a desk or hand; looking over someone's shoulder (one of our favorites for its simplicity); use of "code" to communicate across the room with another student; "going to get a drink of water" and looking up answers from notes in the hallway; and, perhaps the winner for its timelessness, "asking the person next to them (sic) the answer to a problem."

The story concludes that "ultimately teachers have the responsibility of prevention, and they depend on the cooperation of students."

Honesty anyone??

Letters

Seeking peace around world

To the editor;

Resolve: May each day be a Holy Day. May we find new harvests of joy with the incoming tide.

May we seek our neighbors and find comfort with them; and may all humans be our neighbors.

When gaps are bridged - and bridges connect all hearts - then we shall cook in a great feast of brotherhood the meal of peace. May peace like a river flow.

May Russia and America come face-to-face Pentagon and Politburo - you kidnap your children and hold the future ransom. Leaders - we, your children, don't want even one nuclear weapon or one germ for germ warfare. Leaders, with the feast of affirmation, let Russi ans and Americans congregate on a great dance floor, nation dancing with nation.

Let's become friends.

Children of tomorrow: We must rededicate our lives so that nations understand nations, that wars are no more and conflicts are resolved. Otherwise, that this planet's resources are shared and life assured for all.

We must be dedicated to relieve and create celebration. Only our blessed actions will bring us toward our complete destiny.

Let us nourish our dreams, nurture vision, show compassion. The future is for our making.

Children of tomorrow: If we want peace we must rededicate our lives for the whole earth's healing. We must be seekers, dreamers, keepers, makers of peace.

Protests action again Mayer

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Secretary of the Army John Marsh with carbon copies to "The President, The Press.")

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am writing to express my outrage as regards your remarks concerning the burial of Norman Mayer in Arlington National Cemetery.

I may not have agreed with actions at the Washington Monument but to deny his interment at Arlington is as abhorrent as his actions at the Monument.

We must not forget that Mr. Mayer was a partially disabled veteran of World War II and by all accounts served his country well as that time.

Unfortunately, his act of civil disobedience ended tragically.

I personally believe that he committed this act out of frustration that the anti-nuclear movement is not being readily acknowledged by our elected leaders.

But, they are wrong. This movement is steadily growing and is the issue and the agenda for the 1980s.

Says remarks made her mad

To the editor;

I want you to know that I resent the remarks (in a story by) Donna Lombardi that we Roman Catholics embarass our Jewish friends at Christmastime.

I went to school with Jewish girls and never minded any of their holidays and respected such. I also have Jewish neighbors and friends and feel the same way about them.

I feel a retraction about the article should be made. Up until now I have enjoyed your paper, but am thinking of cancelling as I am sure many of my Catholic friends feel the same way.

Elizabeth Zdankowski
Dedham

(Editor's note: The story quoted participants at a conference as saying the Christmas season can be an emotionally difficult time because so much emphasis is placed on the Christian holiday. The story does not say that Roman Catholics embarrass Jewish friends at Christmastime.)

She cites the 59 Maple St.

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Mayor Theodore Mann)

For the second year in a row the city of Newton has failed to deliver my excise bill to me.

However, the Registry of Motor Vehicles does succeed in locating me with the final deliverance of a pink notice of intent to suspend registration due to non-payment of excise tax.

The city of Newton fails because it does not include my zip code on my mailing address in a city with two "59 Maple Streets."

Consequently, the negligence in the very city in which you represent, has led me to pay a fine well in excess of what was due. I resent being made to feel like a delinquent citizen.

Rather than bring a formal complaint, I look forward to your immediate reimbursement, and affixation of my zip code on subsequent excise bills.

THE CENTRAL THOUGHT OF MATTHEW

The Gospel of Matthew reveals that Christ is Jehovah God incarnated to be the King-Savior who came to establish the kingdom of the heavens (the heavenly rule) by saving His people from sin (of rebellion) through His death and resurrection.

With every book of the Bible we need to find the central thought. The central thought of Matthew is: Christ, as Jesus (Jehovah the Savior) and Emmanuel (God with us), is the King, the Baptizer, the light, the Teacher, the Healer, the Forgiver, the Bridegroom, the Shepherd, the Friend, the wisdom, the rest, the greater temple, the real David, the Lord of the Sabbath, the greater Jonah, the greater Solomon, the Sower, the seed, the Feeder, the bread, the crumbs under the table, the Christ, the Son of the living God, the rock for the church, the Builder of the church, the Founder of the kingdom, the present Moses, the present Elijah, the Head of the corner, the Lord, the resurrected One, the One with authority, and the one ever-present to His people in resurrection.

How rich Christ is in the book of Matthew. We must enjoy Him and partake of Him in all these aspects in resurrection.

His Genealogy — Among the four Gospels only two, Matthew and Luke, have genealogies. Matthew tells us that Jesus is the proper descendant of the royal family, that He is the legal heir of the royal throne. Such a person surely needs a genealogy telling of His origin and descent. Luke presents Jesus as a proper, normal man. To show Jesus as a proper man also requires a genealogy. In Mark, Jesus is pictured as a bondslave, as one sold into slavery. A bondslave has no need of a genealogy; hence, Mark does not include one. John tells us that Jesus is God. "In the beginning was the Word...and the Word was God." With Him there was no beginning, no descent. He is eternal, with no beginning of life nor end of life (Heb. 7:3). In the beginning was God! For John to talk about His genealogy would be ridiculous. Jesus has two genealogies. Once again we see that He is wonderful!

'Dreams' for new year from City Hall

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Community leaders, whose responsibility it is to balance ideals with realities throughout the year, should be allowed to dream a little when contemplating the new year.

When asked individually last week what one thing they would like to see happen in 1983, the responses ranged from humorous to philosophical to practical.

Alderman Richard McGrath, whose six-month battle against appropriating $7,200 for a new Newton Police Department motorcycle dragged on until the mere mention of it brought peals of laughter in the aldermanic chamber, said he will enter the new year "waiting anxiously for the chief to request funds for a helicopter.

"I'm looking forward to reponding in the best interests of the citizenry, as usual," McGrath said. "It's about time the city had helicopter patrols, if only for image purposes. It's logical that, once you have a motorcycle corps, you'd want to expand.

"It's the only thing lacking for the city to have a full-fledged crime fighting force equal to Boston's."

Assessor Harold Brady, whose department has been embarassed more than once over the past year by a host of computer errors, said that, if he had one wish in 1983, it would be to get his hands on the computer that was named "Man of the Year" by Time magazine.

Recently appointed Public Works Commissioner John Sulik, whose department has to face the mammoth task of snowfighting every winter, wished the balmy weather which has marked the first winter month would continue throughout 1983.

Several community leaders waxed philosophical when they contemplated possible developments in the new year.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan said she hoped 1983 would be distinguished by "a new ability of the aldermen to disagree without being disagreeable. I'm hoping for peace."

Her colleague Robert Tennant, whose experience on the board spans some 20 years, said his hopes for the new year include "a gelling of all the different villages in the city and a stronger sense of cooperation to make the city even better than it is today."

He added he would find it very satisfying "if I felt that was accomplished before I left the board."

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle joined in with Tennant on a somewhat philosphical note. Looking forward to 1983, he said, "I would just like to hear the board listen to the voice of the people. I don't care what side they're on. Just listen to them."

Election Commissioner Alan Licarie also took the large view when asked what he hoped would be accomplished during the coming year. He said his main concern was "to protect the integrity of the election system, the cornerstone of government."

The city's Director of Planning and Development Barry Canner took the broad view and said he hoped for "housing opportunities for everyone in the city." He added that certain people who heard what he hoped for would know exactly what he meant.

The majority of local officials, still immersed in the day to day business of running the government, hoped for more practical developments to come out of the new year.

Newton Rep. Joseph DeNucci, chairman of the Department of Human Services, said he thought the most important task in the coming year was "to start a program of capital outlay for increased prison space. We're at a dangerous point," he said. Pointing to an ongoing situation in MCI Walpole, where a female hostage was being held, DeNucci said that overcrowding always leads to such frustration. "We have to do something quickly. It's crucial." he said.

He added that another major concern he had with the business of the coming year was that something concrete be done about child abuse. Calling it a "personal priority," he said the problem "has reached epidemic proportions."

Alderman Marcy Richmond's hopes for the new year are also in a practical vein. "I'd like to see us retain the trash pickup in-house," she said, "at a price comparable to the private contractor's, but not exactly dollar for dollar."

Recent comments by Mayor Theodore D. Mann that sanitation workers had missed their mark in trying to compete with a private contractor's bid, might turn Richmond's hopes into dreams, but she is not the only alderman who asked for something apparently improbable in 1983.

Her colleague Verne Vance said of his hopes for the coming year, "It's probably impossible, but my most immediate concern is to get the traffic problems of Chestnut Hill solved to everyone's satisfaction.

"Now, that's a dream!" he added.

He said he was also "interested in seeing the school system get a budget adequate to put it in a position to start bringing back some of the kids who have gone to private schools."

Predictably, Alderman Joseph DePasquale, hoped for the institution of on-street permit parking. "After five years, that's a legitimate hope," he said.

City Clerk Ed English, who has been know to drive a precious, antique car, said he hoped for "a greater concern for driver courtesy in the city" in the new year. "There's a complete void of it right now."

Auburndale Alderman Carol Ann Shea was quick to respond that she would like to see the abandoned Auburndale city yard "declared surplus and developed into some kind of housing."

Asked what kind of housing she would prefer, single-family or something denser, Shea said, "I would just like to see people living there."

Newton Highlands alderman Rodney Barker leaned on a project to which he has devoted many, many hours when he said, "I want the Hyde School project to go ahead and get built."

Alderman Michael Malec said he would be happy if developments in 1983 would allow that "everyone felt satisfied with their property tax...that everyone felt they got a fair deal."

Alderman Lisle Baker said he hoped the coming year would see the expedited passage of a pending rule change which would allow all committee reports to be voted out of the full board with one vote. "I'm not unhappy with the pace," he said, "but I would like to simplify the process."

City Solicitor Dan Funk could top the list of practical visions of the new year with his hope that his department might be blessed with a word processor sometime before 1984. He said most law firms of any size have them and that he needs one to store information in.

Hyde School fund may be used for temporary roof

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The fund established at the time of the Hyde School fire may now turn out to be a lifesaver for the old school building.

While the community has fought since April, 1981 for rebuilding of the school, the 1895 three-story brick building has fought to survive the effects of the weather.

The structure survived last winter; there is serious doubt that it could survive another.

What the building needs is a temporary roof and contributors to the Hyde School Fund have agreed to the use of some of the more than $28,000 in the fund in order to give a reuse proposal for the school a chance.

The School Committee voted 5-4 in mid-December to wait until the end of January to decide on reuse or to opt for redistricting about one-third of Hyde's elementary students to three or four other schools.

In order to make sure the decision is not made by the weather before then, the officers of the Hyde School Fund, Jeff Swope and Paul Croce, wrote recently to the more than 100 contributors to the fund asking for consent to pay for a protective roof.

Swope said Thursday the response has been overwhelmingly in favor of paying for the roof. "We have received only a few objections," said Swope, who is co-president of the Hyde PTA with his wife, Linda.

Two proposals will be considered, Swope said, both in terms of the cost and the solution. Swope said he was optomistic that "in the next few days," the school building would be on its way to getting a temporary roof, at a cost of more than $10,000.

Swope said contributions from those who do not wish to have their gift used on such a project will not be used for the roof.

Aldermen Rodney Barker, who represents the Highlands, called the "It is not going to get done any other way, Barker said of providing the school with a protective roof.

"The community is very keen to preserve the building and I think it is a good thing," he said. "I think the community is showing a real concern for the financial situation of the city and a real commitment to the rebuilding of the school."

Swope said he was "encouraged" by Mayor Theodore Mann to use the Hyde Fund for the roof, largely because of the time required for the Board of Aldermen to consider the expenditure.

The community has already showed its concern by paying $2,700 for a structural engineer to report on the condition of the building.

Swope said the report, completed in November, determined that the building was "structurally sound and could be rehabilitated for a reasonable cost."

But, without a temporary roof, the engineer from the firm, Souza and True, said there was "immediate concern" over further water damage to the wood framing in the building.

The Board of Aldermen unanimously approved Dec. 6 the reuse proposal for rebuilding the Hyde School building with insurance money from the fire. The proposal would allow for six classrooms, a self-supporting day care facility, and the use of half of the building to house residents of the Boston Center for Independent Living (BCIL).

The handicapped housing proposal has a tentative commitment from the State for $945,000 to construct its share of the building. But time is critical to the BCIL obtaining the funds.

The School Committee will take up the issue of whether to approve the reuse proposal or redistrict students at its Jan. 24 meeting.

'Moving Arts' faculty slates new approach to dance, sports and more

NEWTON — "Moving Arts," a new non-profit series of courses in clowning, theater, dance, art and sports, opens its doors in Newtonville and Waban Jan. 17.

"Moving Arts" was founded to offer arts classes with a focus as much on the person as on the art. The faculty, with experience as artists, teachers and psychotherapists, created "Moving Arts" as a place to practice faculty members' teaching philosophies and methods of personal expression.

Courses will range from modern dance for adults and creative movement, for ages 4-5, to clowning classes for ages 8-12 and teenagers and adults.

Classes will be held in St. John's Episcopal Church in Newtonville and in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Beacon Street, Waban.

The faculty consists of eight individuals, with noted Dance Collective founder Dawn Kramer and Stan Stickland, a musician, singer and dancerw who has performed throughout this country and parts of Europe, Africa and the Caribbean.

Other faculty members of Moving Arts include: Cathie Brenner, who has taught children through Emerson College Youth Center, the Children's Museum and Theatre Workshop of Boston; Ellie Friedland who holds a master's in human behavior and development and is currently a child and family therapist at North Shore Children's Hospital; Bob Poole, a licensed independent clinical social worker and a member of The Clown Jewels, a Boston area performing troupe; and David Spinner, a clinical social worker who specializes in the use of sports to promote healthy child development.

Also: Marilyn Unger, who has 10 years experience teaching dance to kids and adults and has performed with the Washington, D.C. Ballet Company and Improv-Cinque in Boston; and Linda Watson (Klein), an experienced expressive therapist and faculty member at Lesley College Graduate School.

For information on courses and dates call 739-7884.

Five autos are vandalized

NEWTON CENTRE — A car battery was stolen last week from a car parked on Sumner Street, police said. The 1966 Falcon was broken into sometime over the night according to police.

Also a CB radio worth $300 was stolen from a 1978 Chvrolet parked Tuesday on Elliot Street, police said.

In addition, an AM/FM radio and cassette player worth more than $400 was stolen Tuesday from a 1966 Ford Mustang parked in a Hamlet Street driveway, police said.

In Upper Falls, a 1971 Dodge was extensively and maliciously damaged Tuesday morning while it was parked in the rear of an Oak Street home, police said.

Police said it appeared that the van was hit intentionally several times by another undetermined vehicle.

And in a separate incident, thieves smashed the driver's window of a BMW and stole $600 stereo system last Tuesday as the car was parked in an Oliver Street driveway, police said.

Flag is stolen from school

NEWTONVILLE — Vandals stole the American flag and threw other items around the Horace Mann School after they broke into the school building last week, police said.

The thieves entered the building, located at 687 Watertown St., by breaking the lock on a rear door. Fire extinguishers were thrown about, a piano bench was broken, folding chairs were thrown in an outside dumpster and the American and Massachusetts flags are missing, police said.

Sunday sales could up assessments

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As if the assessors did not have their hands full already, the recently approved repeal of the state's "blue laws," which had most retail stores closed on Sundays, promises to give them another complicated problem to solve.

With the stores open one more day a week, it is probable that their incomes and their fair market values will go up, according to Harold Brady of the Assessing Department.

"If their incomes improve considerably, their evaluations will have to be upgraded and they will have to pay more property taxes," he said.

"We can't do anything about it now," Brady added. "At the end of the year, we'll be getting income statements from them, and we'll find out if this has increased their income. We'll compare a couple of years and see what happens."

If the incomes reported are significantly higher, Brady said, there would be "a possibility" the businesses' assessed values would be changed.

Commercial properties already pay a 150-percent assessment in the city, as opposed to residential properties, which pay 100 percent.

Brady said the possibility of raising commercial evaluations in response to the repeal of the "blue laws" was one of several matters he is looking forward to discussing with Chief Assessor Robert Palmer when he returns from vacation.

Another matter he said they would be taking up soon is the possibility of redrawing the boundaries of the neighborhoods by which they have divided the city. Some taxpayers have complained that the present configuration has parts of high valued neighborhoods mixed in with neighborhoods of lower property values.

Critics of the present arrangement complain that the existing mix skews property values disproportionately and makes comparing the real values of various properties almost impossible.

Gas station robbed by teen

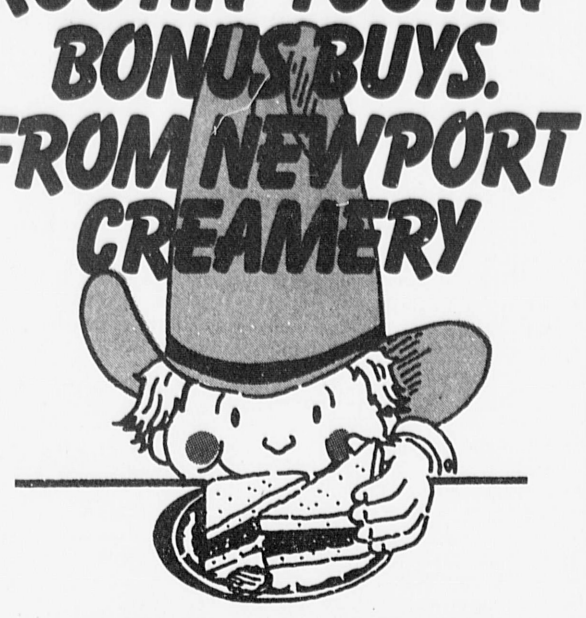

NEWTONVILLE — A man estimated to be about 18-years-old grabbed $30 in cash from a North Street gas station register and fled from the scene about noon last Wednesday, police said.

An attendant at McDonald's Garage located at 175 North St., said he heard the cash register open as he was attending to a customer, police said. The worker then saw a black male run from the office, police said.

Police said officers chased the man but the suspect not caught.

The suspect is described as about six feet tall, medium build, clean shaven and was wearing jeans and light-colored jacket, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Birenbaum

Sara Lee Gens weds Louis B. Birenbaum

NEWTON - Sara Lee Gens and Louis Barry Birenbaum were married recently at the Dorothy Quincy Suite in Boston. The ceremony was officiated by Rabbi Abraham Koolyk.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Gens of Newton and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron L. Gens of West Roxbugry.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Norman Birenbaum and the late Mr. Birenbaum of Haverhill and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenberg of Brookline.

Julie Gens Rich was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Audrey Feffer, Dana Riseberg and the groom's sister, Randi Lapidus.

Best man was Robert Bendetson and ushers were the bride's brothers, William, Cory and Noah Gens, as well as Dr. Peter Bendetson, Jeffrey Goldberg and David Weinstein.

The bride is a graduate of Simnons College and the New England College of Law. She is a partner in the law firm of Gens & Gens.

The groom, a graduate of Tufts University, who received his law degree from Suffolk University Law School, is assistant general counsel at the state Department of Social Services.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will live in Brookline.

Three generations in Rotary carry on tradition of service

NEWTON — For the first time in its long and proud history dating back to 1923 or 60 years, the Newton Rotary Club installed a third generation member into its organization recently.

In the presence of his proud grandfather, Russell T. Keery, and father, Thomas D. Keery, Thomas D. Keery, Jr., became a member of the Newton Club at a ceremony officiated by David Nixon, past president: 1980-81. The well attended ceremony was noted as historical for the organization.

Russell Keery has been a Rotarian since 1948. Under his leadership as president-treasurer of Frost Motors in Newton, his company flourished and most recently Tom Keery, Sr., continued the sound management policies of his father as chief overseer of the operations.

Tom Keery, a Rotarian since 1959, and like his father an active supporter of service and an advocate of fostering high ethical standards in the business community.

Over the past two years, the Keery's have been most actively supporting and leading in the sponsorship of the Newton Rotary Antique Auto Show. It was through this activity and a life time of hearing and learning about Rotary that Tom Keery, Jr., decided that he too would like to wear the proud pin of Rotary and join an organization of business and professional men.

Tom Keery, Jr. accepted the chairmanship of the Antique Auto Show for 1983 which is counted upon not only to provide the city and surrounding communities with a day of excitement but also results in raising funds for the needy organizations of the community.

Temple hosts discussion on 'Reagan Begin and us'

BROOKLINE — The Combined Sisterhood will hold its annual breakfast program Wednesday, Jan. 12, at Temple Emeth, Brookline, with a meeting to include a panel discussion on ' "Reagan, Begin and Us."

Members of the panel will be Dr. Leonard Fein, the Honorable Yuval Metser and Professor Benjamin Bruade.

Serving as moderator will be Rabbi Richard Yellin of Congregation Mishkan Tefila.

Dr. Fein, a writer, activitsist scholar and well-known interpreter of contemporary Jewish life, will discuss the Jewish viewpoint on President Reagan's attitude toward Israel, and Prime Minister Begin's attitude toward the United States.

Braude, assistant professor of history at Boston College, will give an historical and factual analysis of the United States government's handling of American-Israeli relations.

BENJAMIN BRAUDE

Metser, consul general of Israel for the New England area, will discuss Israel's viewpoint of the Reagan administration's relationship with Israel as well as future US-Israeli relations.

The Combined Sisterhood meeting has had large attendance each year in the past.

For reservations and information call Temple Emeth at 469-9400.

Newton seniors are offered new city-run bus service

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann announced the start of a new transportation program for senior citizens on Jan. 4.

The service, a cooperative effort by the Human Services Department and the First Baptist Church of Newton, which is supplying the van, is for people 60 and over who do not have access to other means of transport.

The program will operate on Tuesday and Fridays within Newton, Mayor Mann said, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Rides will be provided to essential services such as medical appointments and social service agencies or programs.

The program is assisted with funding from the state Department of Elder Affairs Council on Aging Formula Grant.

Stephen Holmes, chairman of the Council on Aging, said that persons who wish to use the new bus service should call the Dept. of Human Services at 552-7170 at least a day in advance.

The World of Travel

by Hank Fleming

PLANNING YOUR TRIP

Vacationers often run themselves ragged before and during their trip, coming home exhausted. Vacations require careful planning to bypass the energy-draining aspects. First, allow your travel agent to make the reservations and coordinate hotel accommodations and travel times. Next, divide those tasks that must be completed before your trip, such as wardrobe shopping, making kennel reservations, stopping the mail and newspaper delivery, etc., into weekly chores. Be certain that they are completed at least one full day before your departure. Lastly, familiarize yourself with your destination with the help of your travel agent, so as to avoid needless side trips. Only by making your reservations through a "Travel Agent" can your vacation be personalized to your specific needs.

We invite you to come into FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham and visit with one of our friendly travel agents. We will be happy to simply say hello and to have you browse through our many brochures. However, if you are beginning to plan that special once in a lifetime trip allow us to use our expertise to make it even more memorable. Our job is to help our clients get the most for their travel dollar. Call us at 899-5658. We will take your PASSPORT PHOTO for overseas travel. Open: Mon. - Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. 'til 8.

Newton newsmakers

NEWTON — Robert Sage of Newton and the Sage Hotels and Motor Hotels, Boston, was re-elected president of the Massachusetts Hotel-Motel Association for 1983.

Sage's reelection took place at the group's annual meeting held at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Cambridge.

Charles Popper of Sonesta Hotels, Boston, will continue as chairman of the board of directors.

Morton Rubin of Allerton Road, Newton, sociology professor at Northeastern University, is the 1982-83 president of the Massachusetts Sociological Association.

As president, Rubin will be responsible for arranging scholarly meetings during the spring and fall, for publishing The New England Sociologist, the association's journal, and for bringing together academicians, practitioners, community and institutional leaders throughout the region for information meetings.

A faculty member at Northeastern since 1957, Rubin's academic specialties include community and urban stuies and intergroup relations. He has authored several books including Plantation Country, concerned with the American rural South; The Walls of Acre, an interpretation of Israel; and Organized Citizen Participation in Boston, a book combining Rubin's action-oriented as well as academic analyses of life in his native city.

Rubin, active in the Newton community, is a board member of the Community Development Corporation and chairman of its housing committee. He also is one the Board of the Boston Urban Gardeners, the Corporation of the United South End Settlements, and participates in activities of Citizens Housing and Planning Association, The Boston Harbor Associates and the Charles River Watershed Association.

William D. Murphy Jr., a Newton native, was recently appointed vice president of Business Interiors of Boston.

The company, formerly Business Equipment Corporation, is one of the largest distributors of office furniture and systems in the United States.

Murphy joined the firm in 1972 as an account representative, and became Sales Manager for National Accounts in 1979. He earned his B.S. in Business at Boston College.

The American College of Physicians (ACP) announced that former Newton resident John Paul Bilezikian, M.D. of Scarsdale, New York, has been elected to Fellowship in the 54,000 member national medical specialty society. Dr. Bilezikian, a specialist in Endocrinology, will be honored during the Convocation ceremony at the College's Annual Session in California in April.

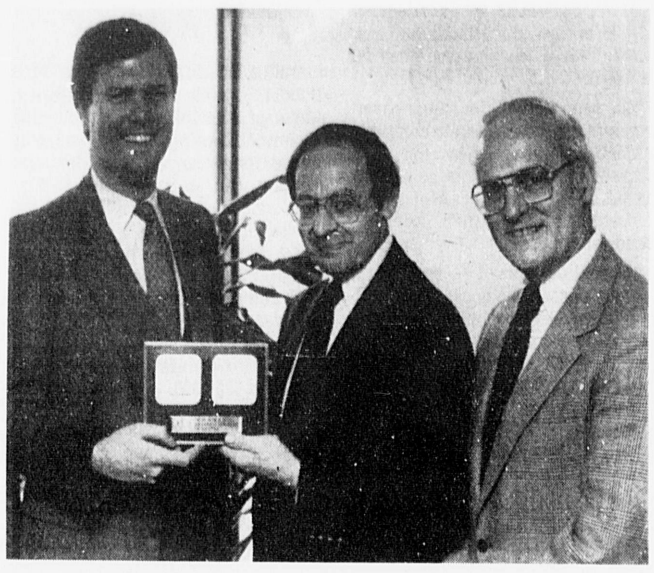

A 1969 graduate of The College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, Dr. Bilezikian has been a resident of Scarsdale for nine years, where he lives with his wife, also a physician at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City. Dr. Bilezikian is also an associate professor of Medicine and Pharmacology at the College of Physicians and Sugeons of Columbia University.

Dr. Bilezikian's early education was obtained through Newton Public Schools. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bilezikian, have been Newton residents for over 40 years. After being graduated from Newton High School in 1961, he entered Harvard College from which he was graduated in 1965, magna cum laude in biochemistry.

Jill Katz, of Waban, formerly WCVB-TV promotion manager, has been promoted to creative services director for the station.

Katz first joined WCVB-TV in 1972 as associate producer for the award-winning children's program "Jabberwocky" and "Cozmics."

In 1975, Katz joined WCVB-TV as associate producer of "Playmates/Schoolmates." After being associated with Marvin and Leonard Advertising as broadcast producer and junior account executive from 1976 to 1978, she returned to WCVB-TV to join the creative services department as an on-air promction coordinator and then promotion manager.

Doc's honor

Dr. Murray Freed (center) of Littlefield Road, Newton Centre, received a 10-year service award from New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn recently from Dr. Michael F. Curran (left), senior vice-president and Dr. Edmond Charrette, medical director and vice-president of medical affairs. Dr. Freed, a consultant at the facility, is also chairman of the Dept. of Rehabilitation at Boston University School of Medicine.

The first of Frances Shrand's FANTODs, readings of Edward Gorey stories, followed "Mystery" on Channel 2, Dec. 28.

Shrand, of Newton, one of the originators of The Spider's Web, WGBH Radio, and a member of the Newton Cultural Affairs Commission's Advisory Board, also read the story of the Snow Queen, an ice ballet produced by WGBH TV, starring John Curry, which is being shown nationally.

Shrand is currently humanities coordinator for the new Spider's Web Project which will feature readings from 19th Century American Literature.

Christmas cops

The children and grand-children of Newton Police officers were guests recently at the annual Christmas party sponsored by the Newton Police Wives. The party, held at the MacKenzie Center in Newton Centre, included songs, refreshments, gifts for all and after the party the costumed hosts visited the Newton Wellesley Hospital Emergency and pediatric wards with greetings and gifts. Committee chairwoman was Debbie MacNair.

Rev. Hoyer named interim minister

NEWTON CENTRE — The Lutheran Church of the Newtons in Newton Centre has welcomed Rev. George W. Hoyer as interim minister during the sabatical leave of its pastor, Rev. Robert L. Griesse.

Under the terms of an unusual and innovative grant, Rev. Griesse and his wife Rosalie will spend the next six months studying and working among Lutheran churches in Namibia and in South Africa, doing research in Rome and in Jerusalem and visiting parishes in both East and West Germany. After a month with relatives in England, they will return in May, in time for the observance of Pentecost.

Rev. Hoyer is a professor and the dean of the Chapel at Christ Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri. A graduate of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, he served for 10 years in parishes in Ontario, Canada and in Maryland before beginning his distinguished career as a professor of Homiletics and Dean of Chapel at Condoria Seminary and, since 1974, at Christ Seminary.

Both Rev. Hoyer and his wife, Dorothy, who accompanied him to Newton, are well-known for their involvement and leadership in Family and Children's worship.

While at the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, Prof. Hoyer will officiate and deliver the sermon at the 9:30 a.m. Sunday worship. He also plans to hold a weekly adult bible class to discover "The Message of Reconciliation" through the study of St. Paul's Epistles the the Galatians and the Romans.

At the same time, Dorothy Hoyer will facilitate a Parenting Discussion Group, concentrating on such topics as home worship, discipline, parents as teachers, conscience and other problems faced by parents of young children today.

Extensive preparation on the part of the church council has resulted in a unique plan to insure a dynamic and interesting ministry during Rev. Griesse's sabatical leave.

Anita Lofgren-Nuber, an Andover-Newton Theological School seminarian who has been serving as intern and Pastor Griesse's assistant this year, will act as the administrative pastor and will be available for any needed pastoral services.

REV. GEORGE HOYER

Continuity in parish affairs will be maintained by an active team of church members under the leadership of church president, Lois Boemer. The church, which is located at the corner of Cypress and Centre Streets, recently celebrated its 25th year in Newton.

Art Association plans special event

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The Newton Art Association is providing a special treat when it opens its 1983 program by presenting Maris Platais, lecture-demonstrator and artist, skilled in pen and ink drawing. This program will be held Thursday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Newton Highlands Workshop at 72 Columbus St.

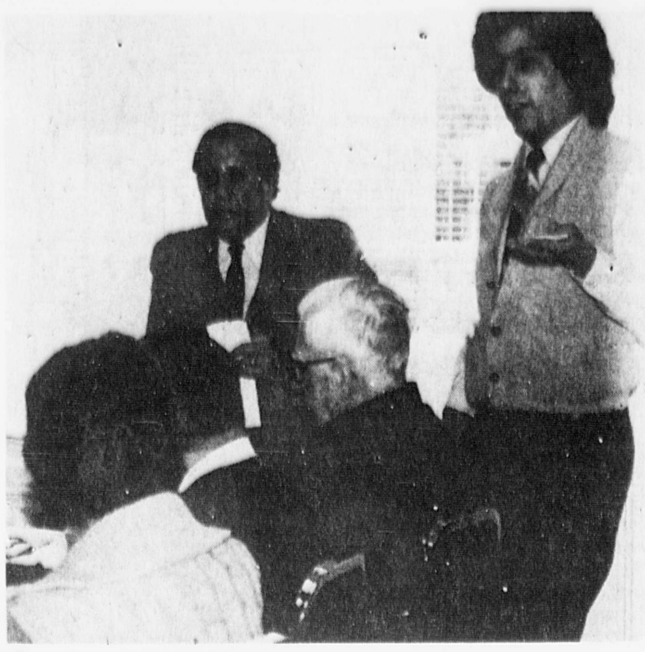

This is an opportunity for the public to come to the Newton Art Association meeting to hear and watch Platais at work. There is a guest fee of $2 for non-members; no fee for members. Refreshments will be served by hostess Margaret Campbell during the social hour following the lecture-demonstration. For further information call 527-1734.

Platais was born in Jelgava, Latvia, in 1936, and arrived in the United States after World War II. He is a graduate of the Boston Museum School and Tufts University. He has taught drawing at the Museum of Fine Arts for 15 years, and his work has appeared in several publications, including Yankee Magazine and the Boston Globe.

He has exhibited at the Worcester Art Museum; Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; Symphony Hall; Boston City Hall; Concord Art Association; and many private galleries. Platais is a member of The Guild of Boston Artists, Concord Art Association, and Framingham Artists Guild. He maintains a studio in Carlisle, and in Georgetown, Me.

The Newton Art Association is a non-profit organization dedicated to stimulating and encouraging the expression of the fine arts. It provides a wide range of programs, including demonstrations in all media by outstanding New England artists, as well as a forum for critiques, the exchange of ideas, and lectures.

President is Henry Schoenberg. Vice Presidents are: First - Joseph Briand; Second - Margaret Campbell. Treasurer - Leo H. Myers; Recording Secretary - Robert Hunt; Corresponding Secretary - Beatrice Hurwitz, assisted by Dorothy Goulston.

Senior planners

Mayor Theodore Mann (left) and Newton Community Schools Executive Director Joseph S. Baron addressed senior leaders from throughout Newton recently in a workshop to learn planning and organizing techniques for use in neighborhood-based activity groups. Sponsored by NCS the workshop brought participants from the Upper Falls Senior Activity Group, Oak Hill Park Leisure Group, Thompsonville Senior Forum and Lifetime Learning.

Professor's concept leads to new planning at the Babson Library

ASHOK RAO

WELLESLEY — Professor Ashok Rao of Magnolia Ave., Newton, associate professor of mathematics/science at Babson College, originated a concept of cooperation between the educational and corporate worlds which has found fruition in the establishment of a special library collection of materials relating to production and inventory management at Horn Library, Babson College.

As president of the American Production and Inventory Control Society's (APICS) Boston Chapter, Rao spearheaded a proposal by which the Boston chapter has given Babson College's Horn Library a grant for the acquisition of materials related to this management field.

The grant permits the college to acquire books, as well as non-print materials. In return, APICS members will be able to use the facilities of the Horn Library for research and study.

It is expected that over time the materials will constitute a center for scholarly research and information related to this topic.

In announcing the grant, James A. Boudreau, director of Babson College libraries, cited the award as an invaluable contribution to both chapter members and to Babson student body and facility.

"This project is an excellent example of the educational and corporate world working together for mutual benefit," stated Boudreau.

The proposed bibliography covers areas from automation to computer CAD/CAM to robotics and work measurement. Journals as diverse as "Computer Graphics World" and "Machine Design" will be available.

This collection will be distinguished by a distinctive bookplate identifying each item as belonging to the APICS Special Collection for Production and Inventory Management. Horn Library staff will provide reference assistance including on-line computerized literature searches on a cost basis for member of the Boston Chapter.

If you complain about your health care plan, meet some people who don't.

"We found a terrific pediatrician through West Suburban. And now the cost of the kids' office visits doesn't come out of my husband's paycheck."
Betty Millen
Mother

"I chose them for cost. I saved $20 a week on premiums plus out-of-pocket expenses. I'll stay with them because they're convenient, courteous, and affiliated with an excellent hospital."
Anthony Ferolito
Fire Lieutenant

"It's a godsend. Paperwork used to drive me crazy, but now there's no paperwork or red tape. It's less expensive for me and my employees, and I've heard nothing but excellent comments. I've recommended West Suburban to many business owners."
Leonard Scafidi
Business Owner

Most health care plans inspire complaints, not praise. And paperwork for employers, out-of-pocket expenses for employees, delayed claims, and skyrocketing premiums give everyone plenty to complain about.
At West Suburban Health Care Plan, we've solved these problems and more. Whether you're in the doctor's office or in the hospital, you'll receive the highest quality health care available.
So if you've been complaining about your health care plan, remember West Suburban. We're the health care plan with the satisfied customers.

Brotherhood hosts talk on computer use

NEWTON — Temple Reyim Brotherhood president Dan Briansky, announces that on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 9:15 a.m., Nancy Alimansky and Jeff Lazarus, both of Newton, will address a Brotherhood Breakfast at the Temple at 1860 Washington Street, Newton, on the use and many applications of the personal computer.

Alimansky, a holder of an M.B.A. degree in Computer Sciences from Boston College, is a co-founder and former president of The Computer Forum. She has recently formed a new company to offer instruction in the personal computer and microcomputer.

Lazarus hold a B.S. degree in math from Duke University and M.B.A. from Boston University and is a certified data processor. He is presently an associate vice president for Management Information systems at Boston University.

A demonstration and question period will follow the talk. The public is invited.

Breakfast will be served; however, reservations are required. Donations are $5 per person. Reservations may be made by calling the Temple at 527-2410 or Mark Alimansky at 244-2570.

Shirtsleeves

Members of the Solomon Schechter Day School Parent-Teacher Association, along with children, grandparents and friends, rolled up their sleeves recently to make potato latkes and served a traditional Chanukah meal to more than 400 people at Temple Mishkan Tefila, Chestnut Hill.

Newton Free Library features artistic variety

NEWTON CORNER — The work of contemporary crafts people working in wood, glass, clay, metal, leather and fiber will be featured at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., during January.

Handwoven scarves, handblown glass, and handbuilt porcelain vases, as well as casseroles, boxes and quiche pans will share display space with necklaces incorporating beads, cloisonne buttons and African brass, and ornamented stoneware and leather goods.

Small alphabet etchings, silkscreened cards, and crib quilts will also be included in the exhibit.

The library show was coordinated by Joanne Issacson, proprietor of "Limited Editions" in Newton Highlands.

Visitors to the library will see many items to treasure; collectibles, functional and decorative, lovingly and carefully crafted.

Library hours are Monday-Thursday 9-9; Friday 9-6; Saturday 9-5 and Sunday 1-4.

The library will be closed Friday, Jan. 14, in honor of Martin Luther King Day. Call 552-7145 for more information.

'Uncommon women' plays at BC Center

CHESTNUT HILL — "Uncommon Women" will be presented by the Boston College Dramatics Society on Jan. 28-29, in the Boston College Theater Arts Center, at 8 p.m. each evening.

Tickets are $2 at the Boston College Theater box office or by telephoning Laura McManus at 964-5310. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Directed by senior Nancy Doherty, "Uncommon Women" is a second season show, produced, directed, designed and acted by students.

"Uncommon Women" is a modern drama that compares the aspirations of seven Mt. Holyoke students before and 10 years after graduation.

College offers workshop on finance plans

CHESTNUT HILL — The Open College, the division of continuing education at Pine Manor College, is offering a three session, non-credit workshop called "Financial Planning for the 80s" as part of its spring curriculum.

The workshop, aimed at introducing concepts of prudent investment and tax planning, will explore today's general financial environment, examine the basic concepts that influence the economy, and will concentrate on the major components of a financial plan and survey the steps necessary to build one. The workshop will also examine tax strategies available as a result of recent tax legislation.

"Financial Planning for the 80s" will meet for three sessions on Tuesdays, beginning Feb. 1, from 7-9 p.m. The workship fee is $55. The instructor for the workshop is Fred Mandell, a certified financial planner and the district manager for Investors Diversified Services, Braintree.

Pine Manor's Open College is an educational resource which offers women the opportunity to begin or resume their college studies on a part-time, full-credit basis.

The Open College at Pine Manor College has a variety of learning options open to those who enroll. The Open College certificate programs are offered in business management, marketing, and child care, and are designed to provide specific practical skills necessary to pursue a career in any of those fields.

'Hugging' psychiatrist wins his court battle

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A judge ruled Friday a Newton psychiatrist, fired from a Lynn hospital two years ago for talking to reporters about his patient-hugging practices, deserves unemployment compensation.

Dr. Daniel Murrow, a 20-year Newton resident, is now working part time with Lynn and Saugus mental health clinics which his former patients formed following his Jan. 24, 1981, dismissal from Union Hospital.

Murrow, 57, of Newton Highlands, says he is still hugging his patients, and Newton District Court Judge Paul Chernoff has ordered that he receive unemployment benefits which he was denied by state unemployment officials.

Court records show Murrow was first suspended on Jan. 23, 1981, by Anthony Raynes, clinic director, because he hugged a patient after being told several months earlier to cease the practice. Upon hearing about Murrow's suspension, two television news reporters went to the hospital and interviewed Murrow about hugging patients as a method of therapy.

The following day Murrow was fired because he had not received administrative permission to talk to reporters, court records show.

The state Division of Employment Security (DES) denied Murrow unemployment benefits because he acted "in willful disregard" of the hospital's interests, records show.

However, Judge Chernoff said Murrow had not sought media attention. Chernoff also said the hospital's public relations policy, though explained in an administrative manual, was not given to employees individually.

The judge said further that Murrow's remarks to the news reporters did not "downgrade, criticize or embarass" the hospital and thus did not constitute willful disregard of the hospital as the DES stated.

Murrow said Sunday night he thought Judge Chernoff's decision was "wonderful" but would not seek back his job at Union Hospital.

"I really feel that I've just outgrown it. It would be like a shoe that no longer fits. Creativity is restricted (at the clinic). Some of the people (patients) who I saw when I worked there also thought the hospital was too restrictive," Murrow said in a telephone interview.

Murrow said he is not certain how much back unemployment pay he will receive.

A Union Hospital telephone receptionist said Friday that Raynes was unavailable for comment. An attorney representing DES declined to comment Friday on the case because he had not received a copy of the decision. Jane Alpern, Murrow's attorney, could not be reached for comment.

"So much good has come from this experience," said Murrow, who is the father of three daughters, aged 18 to 23.

Murrow said he has received many letters from therapists and judges around the country who favor hugging as a practice in therapy.

Murrow, who was employed by the hospital for nine years, said he practices hugging as a "gesture of trust and confidence."

Murrow added that Fred Small, an attorney and folk singer, wrote and recorded a song called "The Hug," which describes Murrow's experience.

South High skaters roll by Weston for first win

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

BRIGHTON — A mixture of home cooking and hustling play provided the Newton South hockey team with a winning combination for the first time in the young season.

The Lions dropped their first two games of the season, but they roared out to an 8-0 lead and went on to defeat Weston, 8-3, Monday afternoon in a Dual County League game at the Cleveland Circle Rink.

Despite its fourth straight loss, the Wildcats ended a scoring drought, which lasted nine periods, by erupting for three goals in the final eight minutes of the contest.

The victory was a big boost to a young, inexperienced Lion squad. There are just four seniors on the South varsity squad. Newton South coach Charlie Rezzuti, who is in his second season, has been trying to get everyone to get to know each other and play as a team.

"We just need a lot of game experience," said Rezzuti. "The win today is a big lift for us, but we're in a tough league and we must keep battling. We've lost a couple of games, but we're getting a little better each game. That's the key to get a little better with each game.

"Our entire third line is made up of freshmen, but today we skated three lines and used three pair of defensemen," said Rezzuti. "A lot of the players got some ice time and they all worked hard and hustled. The players are new to each other. It'll take time before they start playing together as a team."

The contest was scoreless for the first seven minutes, but Newton South exploded for five goals in the final eight minutes of the period. Defenseman Mark Paglia, who is a team captain, got the Lion scoring parade started with 8:02 left to play in the period.

"Mark is big asset for us on defense," said Rezzuti. "He is a leader on the ice and plays most of the game for us. Mark's done a good job for us thus far and we depend on him quite a bit."

Paglia assisted on the second South score of the contest. Will Roesner poked the puck into the net just 43 seconds later. Sophomore John Jewett scored twice in the first period for the Lions and Jud Cohen tallied the fifth Newton South score.

It was the most productive goal-scoring period of the season for the Lions. They stormed the Weston end throughout the period putting 10 shots on goal. The Lions kept up the pressure in the second frame scoring two more goals to add to their lead.

Freshman Al Brigham picke up a loose puck in front of the net and slid in the sixth goal of the contest. Rob Goldberg shot the puck on goal and he picked up an assist on the play. Junior Eric Short pumped in the seventh goal of the contest with assists to Roesner and Jewett.

The Lions would control play for the early part of the third period and extend their lead to 8-0 on Jud Cohen's second goal of the contest. Weston took charge of the contest at that point, however. The Wildcats played their best hockey in the last 10 minutes of the contest.

After numerous close calls, Weston finally broke the scoring drought, which has carried through four games. It took a combined effort by the Sacher brothers, Jeff, Andy and Matt to break Weston out of the scoreless streak. At the 6:56 mark of the final period, senior Jeff Sacher drilled in the rebound of his own shot to get Weston on the scoreboard. Suddenly, the close calls became goals for the Wildcats.

The second goal of the game for Weston would come just three minutes later. Andy Sacher, a junior, picked up a rebound in front of South goalie Brad Hochberg and drilled it between his pads.

Freshman Matt Sacher closed out the scoring with 17 seconds to play in the contest. "I really can't draw any conclusions from this game," said Weston coach Don Smith. "We're hopeful."

Newton South will face a tough Boston Latin team Saturday night, 7:15 p.m. at the Northeastern Arena, while Weston will meet traditional rival Wayland Saturday night, 5:30 p.m. at the Belmont Hill Arena.

5 pins net mat win for Newton North

NEWTON — The Newton North wrestling team captured five matches by pin to roll to a 26-27 victory over Catholic Memorial Friday afternoon in a non-league meet.

The Tigers earned an lead on three straight pins. Junior Liam Griffin pinned his opponent at 100, while Mark Fabian earned a first round pin at 107. Foster Lin pinned his opponent at 114 and the Tigers were out to an 18-0 lead. Mike Chow, who was named the team's outstanding wrestler, pinned at 128.

Steve Hartman pinned at 147 for the Tigers. Junior Jimmy Walker won a tough match at 169 by a 6-2 decision, while Leo Butera also won his match at 187 by decision. Butera was the champion at the Catholic Memorial tourney held just two days earlier.

The win lifted the Tiger record to 4-1-1 on the season. Newton North is 1-0 in the Suburban League and it will face a tough test Wednesday night when it hosts perennial league champion Quincy.

Newton North comeback falls short, 76-72

South works for 5th straight

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — It promises to be an exciting new year of basketball in Newton if the two local high school teams continue to preform the way they did Thursday night in the Newton South gym before a capacity crowd that at times spilled onto the court.

Newton South and Newton North hooked up in a basketball treat. The Lions earned the 76-72 victory in front of the home crowd, but not before the Tigers turned a 12-point third quarter deficit into just a one-point deficit with three minutes to play in the contest.

Each team played its final game of 1982 with determination and total concentration. Every participant contributed regardless of minutes played or points scored.

Newton North coach Jerry Phillips was more than satisfied with his team's performance. "Every player on that court gave 110 percent tonight and that's all any coach can ask," said Phillips. "They all played as well as they could. I'm proud of this and the way they came back. We just let them get a little too far ahead."

"There were two good basketball teams out there," said Newton South coach Joe Killilea, whose team is unbeaten at 5-0 on the season. "We had big performances from all of our people and we got the big hoop when we needed it. They should be proud. They played a great game and their two guards were the best we've played against all season."

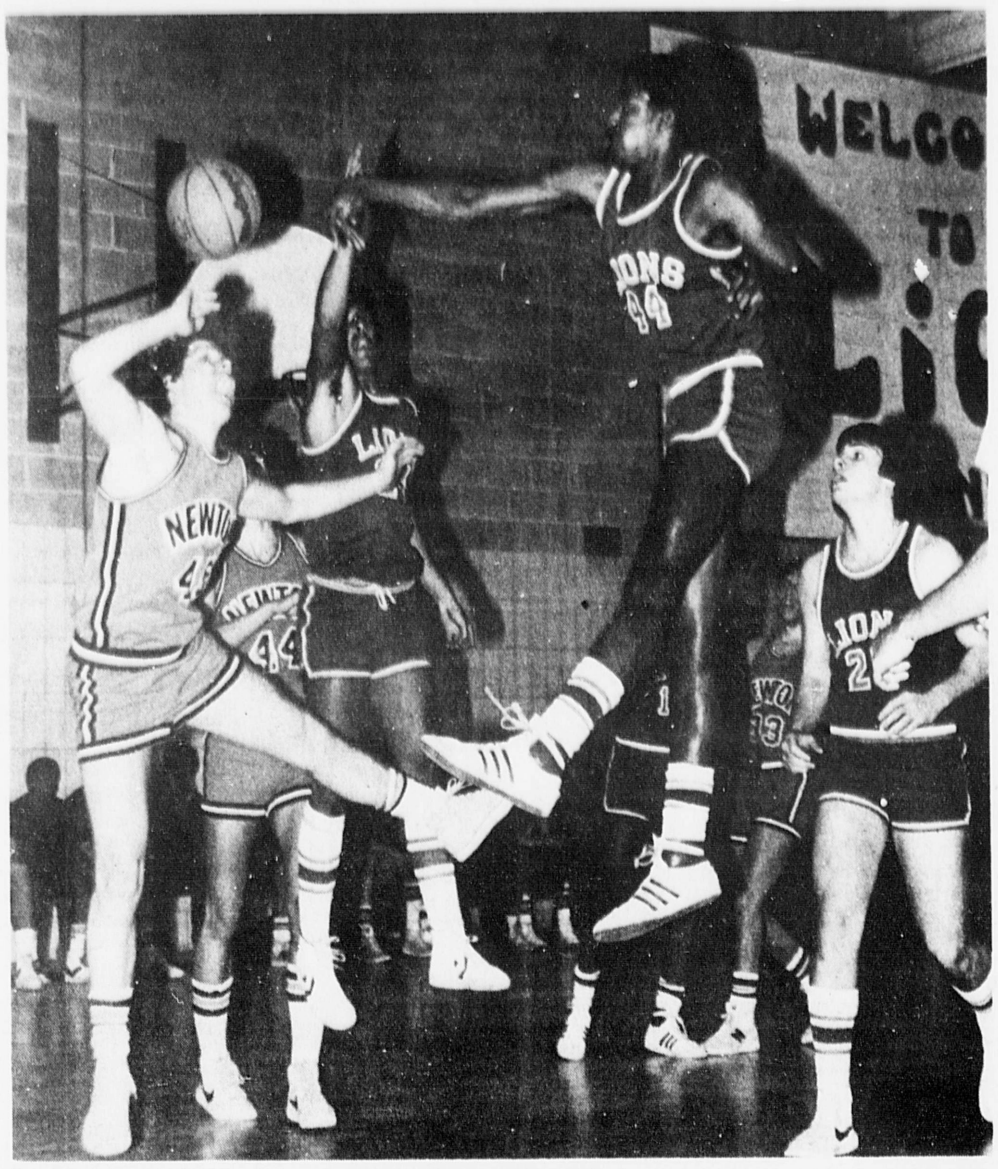

Killilea was referring to the play of North guards Mark Coppola and John Humphrey. The senior backcourt tandem took turns leading the North offense in the second half. Coppola ended with a game-high 28 points, while Humphrey finished with 20 points.

The Lions were not without their key performers. The familiar names of Scott Anglin and Meatchie Russell lived up to there reputations by hitting the clutch hoops. Anglin scored eight points in the fourth quarter from the foul line. Anglin finished with 25 points (13 from the free throw line). He was also a force on defense with 13 blocked shots and 12 rebounds.

Russell was his usual creative self at the guard slot. He scored a team-leading 27 points and dealt out 10 assists. Russell led the charge for Newton South in the third quarter when the Lions were seemingly in control with a 12-point advantage.

The second half began with Newton South holding a 43-40 lead over the Tigers. With less than three minutes to play in the quarter, South had built the lead to 10 points on a couple of hoops by Anglin inside. It was Anglin's intimidation in the middle which set up the Newton South fastbreak.

The Lions got into a high-speed flow and looked about ready to run Newton North off the court. Meatchie was at his best wheeling and dealing off the break and scoring seven of the team's 17 points in the quarter.

Scott Anglin (44) blocks shot by Duffy Plunkett in second period. John Duffy Photo

The Tigers' low point came with 0:56 to go in the third period and South ahead 60-48. North's Coppola, who had picked up his fourth foul in the early going of the third period came in to hit a key jumper and make it 60-50 at the end of the quarter. Coppola's shooting kept North close in the third period. He scored eight of the team's 10 points in the third frame.

Newton North came out storming in the final period and cut the 10-point lead to 64-60 with five minutes to play. Mark Coppola led the charge on offense and John Coppola backboned the defense. Mark hit two jumpers and John banked in a shot for six-straight points to start the period.

On the other end, guard Tracy Hairston sunk a key baseline jumper (shot from almost behind the hoop) to stem the North tide momentarily.

Humphrey then came into play with a brilliant drive by the soaring Anglin to bring the Tigers back to within four at 64-60. John Coppola made a top notch defensive play blocking two consecutive shots in the North 4th-quarter surge.

Anglin then nailed six-straight free throws to keep the Lions on top. Anglin hit two foul tosses with just 2:07 to play to put Newton South on top 70-64. The game seemed out of reach, but sophomore Greg Lee stepped into the limelight.

The first-year player scored just three points all night, but what a big three. They came on one play. Lee was on the side of the key when he took a pass and made an inside move. He was fouled and the shot went in. Lee banged home the free throw and suddenly its a three-point game, 70-67.

The Tigers could have cut the lead to one when Humphrey stole the inbound pass, but his baseline jumper skidded to the side and Anglin snagged the rebound. Gene Lindsey, who scored just two points all night, connected for two big free throws to put South ahead 72-67 with 1:27 left.

Humphrey was fouled and he hit two foul tosses for a 72-69 score with 1:09 to go. South spread out the offense, but Angling saw an opening. He drove and the shot fell short. Duffy Plunkett grabbed the rebound and North was in business. Humphrey was fouled on a drive and his shot just nicked the side of the rim eliminating the chance for a possible three-point play. Humphrey hit both shots and the Tigers trailed, 72-71 with 51 seconds left.

Plunkett tried to draw a charge on Anglin, but the foul was called on the defense. Anglin, after a timeout, calmly sank two free throws to ice the game. Meatchie finished things off with a pair of free throws.

The summary:

NEWTON SOUTH(76)-Scott Anglin 6-13-25; Russell 10-7-27; Hairston 4-0-8; Sullivan 1-0-2; Lindsey 0-2-2; Kushner 3-0-6; Ogelsby 2-0-4; Gaines 1-0-2. Tot. 27-22-76.

NEWTON NORTH(72)-Mark Coppola 14-0-28; Humphrey 7-6-20; Fortune 2-1-5; Plunkett 1-2-4; Lee 1-1-3; John Coppola 4-0-8; Berrigan 2-0-4. Tot. 31-10-72.

Tiger five ready for Suburban League action

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Newton North boy's basketball team has played in three useful and necessary non-league games, but the time has come to get down to the business of the Suburban League.

Last season wasn't the most successful of Suburban League years for the Tiger hoopsters. Newton North is 2-1 after the first three games and they've been playing a hustling, physical and enthusiastic brand of basketball that should turn a few heads in the Suburban circuit.

North opened the league season Tuesday night, 7 p.m., at Brockton. The Boxers have also worked hard in four non-league encounters and they've put together a 3-1 record. But, both teams are anxious to find out how well they can do in the league.

"We feel we're ready to get going in the league," said Newton North coach Jerry Phillips. "Our players have worked very hard in the non-league contests. We've had a chance too sharpen up our game and work on a few weakenesses. We just have to execute on offense and keep playing the good defense."

Brockton has an experienced team with good height. The Boxers are anxious to find out how well they can do in the league.

"We're all anxious to get things started in the league," said Brockton coach John Boutin. "We know every league game will be a tough one because there are no weak teams. I feel we have a pretty good shot to be one of the teams vying for the top and we just have to prove it."

The Boxers will be going against a fired up Newton North quintet. The Tigers defeated Walpole twice and lost a tough decision to Newton South in the final non-league contest. A great deal was learned from the loss to the Lions and North hopes to learn from that loss.

"We played well in the Newton South game and we have to use what we learned in that game to our advantage," said Phillips. "We went against a top shot blocker in Anglin (Scott). Hopefully our players have learned to be more mobil under the hoop and fake more. We also were able to make plays under pressure."

The North frontcourt will be tested by Brockton. Starting with 6-7 center John Loonie, the Boxers have good height and mobility under the hoop. Loonie, a senior, was a part-time starter a year ago.

Brockton has a pair of versatile forwards. Frank Kotopoulos, 6-4, has been averaging 15 points per game and he was a Suburban League ALL-Star last season. Kotopoulos is strong underneath and he has a nice outside shot.

The other forward averages 17 points a game for Brockton. Eric Skeen is 6-3 and quick. He can power under the boards or take the outside jumper. Senior Chuck Cassaina, 6-4, is a solid rebounder and he can play either forward or center.

"We're going to have to keep their big men off the boards," said Phillips. "They are a big team and they pass the ball well under the hoop. We have to keep them away from the hoop and make them shoot the outside shots."

North has been rotating five players at forward. Seniors John Coppola, 6-4, and Eric Fortune, 6-3, have been sharing the duties at center. Each player had a fine game against Newton South. They split the time evenly.

At forward, the Tigers can use two or three different combinations. Senior Duffy Plunkett is a team player with good defensive and rebounding skill. Sophomore Greg Lee looks promising. He has good offensive ability and is quick on defense. Senior Deane Morreale provides the Tigers with some muscle under the boards. Jim Berrigan and Bruce Corwin can play either forward or center.

"Newton North has some big people under the boards," said Boutin. "They are a physical team. Our forwards will face a tough test. North also has a fine pair of guards and we must try to find some way to stop their scoring."

The play of North's Mark Coppola and John Humphrey has been outstanding in the early going. Coppola and Humphrey are double threats for Newton North. Each can drive to the hoop or can the outside jump shot. Coppola has great moves to the basket and the bulk to bang with the big guys underneath. Humphrey is quick and shifty.

Brockton's guard tandem of Henry McCourt (All Suburban League a year ago) and Derek Olivacce are also a talented pair. McCourt is the field general on the court. He is a great passer and has a good outside shot. Olivacce is a good defensive player with a better-than-average outside shot.

Tiberio cops two for North gymnasts

NEWTON — The Newton North gymnastic team scored more than 100 points for the first time in three years in a 100.1-91.5 victory over Natick Thursday afternoon at Newton North in a non-league match up.

The win was the first of the season for the Tigers after an opening day loss to Acton-Boxboro. Newton North was spearheaded by the efforts of sophomore all-around Cindy Tiberio, who missed the first meet of the season with an injurey.

Tiberio was first in the vaulting and the balance beam to pace the Tigers. She also picked up an all-around score of 29.2 to start the season off on a high note.

Sophomore Cheryl Gargone was second in the vaulting for the Tigers, while teammate Debbie Katz was second in the uneven bars. Newton North will travel to North Quincy Friday, Jan. 7, for the first Suburban League meet of the season.

PeeWee A hockey

QUINCY — The Newton PeeWee A hockey team rebounded from an opening round loss, advancing to the quarter finals before bowing out of a 20-team tournament held last week at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The tourney was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

A near perfect effort was not quite enough in the quarterfinal contest against Weymouth, as a Weymouth goal only three minutes from the end of the game set Newton home from the tourney.

In the tournament lidlifter on Dec. 26, Braintree, which lost in overtime in the tournament finale, edged Newton 4-3 in overtime. After Michael Cosgrove and Scott Lawrence switched roles on the first two Newton goals, Mike Castriotta converted a feed from Tommy Demaio to tie the game at three early in the third period. Less then four minutes into the overtime, however, Brockton scored, pushing Newton into the tournament's losers' bracket, where another loss would mean elimination.

They responded well, dumping Andover 4-2 two days later. Newton led for the entire game, with John Capello (assist to Lawrence), Cosgrove (Lawrence), Craig Mcgary (Demaio, Dan Murphy) and Cosgrove again (Demaio, McGary) scoring the goals and goalies Bobby MacDougal and Andrew Ashere backstopping the defense.

On Dec. 30, Cosgrove's hat trick propelled Newton to a 3-1 victory over Malden.

School staffing praised

During the last 13 years, the Newton schools lost 395 professional staff positions, a 32 percent drop. Contrasted to that dramatic decline, the system was able to increase the percentage of minority professionals by 105 percent or 41 positions.

Of the 727 teachers in the Newton schools, the number of minority teachers is 70 or 9.6 percent of the total. Four of Newton's elementary principals are from minority groups.

Newton's holding power over the past 12 years was also praised in the state report. The retention rate for minority staff has been at 80 percent compared with an overall rate of 70 percent.

According to Dr. Tom O'Conor, affirmative action officer for the School Department's personnel office, most of Newton's minority teachers and administrators are black.

But Newton's affirmative action record will become more difficult to maintain in the coming year, both Thomas and O'Conor warn.

"This coming year is the one that concerns me the most," O'Conor said.

O'Conor said the closing of Warren Junior High, the reorganization of grade levels at Newton North High, Bigelow and Day Jr. Highs, and continued declining enrollment may further reduce or eliminate the flexibility available in past years.

Next year there will be few nontenured teachers remaining in the Newton system and the economic climate may also force more tenured teachers to hold onto their jobs.

"I think it's going to be even more difficult next year because the opportunity to hire back will not be as great," Thomas said.

Unless there is turnover through early retirements or unpaid leaves of absence, there will be little room for rehiring.

Teachers gain tenure in Massachusetts after three years.

Newton has been able to keep its minority staffing on the increase because it bases layoffs on more than seniority. Consideration is given to length of service as well as recent evaluations, certification, experience within the discipline the person is teaching, and the needs of the system.

Newton's affirmative-action record is also the result of a national recruiting network developed along with nearby communities. O'Conor said a network has been established with "all conceivable sources" and institutions that are preparing teachers. "That is very valuable and it has given placement of minority teachers in the Boston area high credibility," he said.

O'Conor praised the work of Newton's Oak Hill Elementary Principal Sam Turner, Al Fortune of the Devotion School in Brookline and William Sheridan, director of personnel for the Brookline schools, for helping to establish the extensive recruiting network.

The 1982-83 Cooperative Affirmative Action/Minority Recruitment Program involved Brookline, Concord, Lexington, Needham, Newton, Wayland and Weston.

Carmichael said in stable condition

NEWTON — Ward 1 Alderman Bruce Carmichael was described as "stable and comfortable" by a spokesman at Newton-Wellesley Hospital Monday night, after he was rushed to the facility in Lower Falls early Monday morning.

Carmichael reportedly suffered from a burst appendix very early Monday and was transported to Newton-Wellesley for treatment.

Harvard acceptance

NEWTON — Marcy Widershien, who is graduating from Newton South High in June, 1982, has been accepted to Harvard College.

An honors student, she has also been very successful as a violinist for the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra.

Rowland considers his new state position changes this year in the social security system are equitable.

"The elderly should not unfairly take cuts in benefits to balance the federal budget," Rowland said.

Some $150-200 billion is needed to keep the federal Social Security system solvent, Rowland said. The Reagan administration favors cutbacks in benefits while resisting an increase in the social security tax, he said. A compromise must be reached because Congress has already borrowed funds from two trusts to keep the social security system functioning, the new secretary said.

"The president so far has been unwilling to take cuts in the defense budget," Rowland said. "I think we are going to have to cut back on defense spending in order to fund social security. It's not an easy issue. It's the old guns and butter issue."

The state's hot meals program suffers from a lack of transportation for elders, Rowland said, adding that he favors an expansion of the statewide Meals on Wheels program for home-bound seniors.

Rowland said he favors cooperation between public and private industry because "human services compete for dollars to build roads and whatever else."

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin and Boston University School of Social Work, Rowland earned a doctorate degree in social planning from Brandeis University.

Rowland and his wife Martha, members of St. Bernard's Church in West Newton, have four children who attended Newton public schools. Two of his children are in college, another works for the Perkins School for the Blind in Watertown and a son is a sophomore at Newton North High School.

Rowland's wife has for eight years worked at Massachusetts Bay Community College were she is developemental program director.

It's a true chocolate lover's paradise the world and is now "fussy" about the kind of chocolate that she eats.

Coted'ore from Belgium is Brody's favorite chocolate candy bar; her favorite bon bons are Manon, also from Belgium; and she praises the treats from American Harbor Sweets of Marblehead.

"My opinion is subjective," Newton's chief choco-holic says. "It's really very individual. I try not to force tastes on other people. It's much more fun to have people try chocolate on their own."

Brody jokes that her one-year-old son whom she is nursing gets plenty of chocolate milk.

"I eat enough chocolate for him to be getting some of it," Brody quipped.

Brody said she eats "some" chocolate every day, but does not worry about losing her slim figure: "You can't eat enough chocolate to gain weight because you'd get sick."

Brody received no formal training in the culinary arts. She taught herself how to cook. For 10 years she ran a catering service in the Newton and Wellesley area and has also worked as a cook and chef at Boston and Cape Cod restaurants.

Chocolate desserts became her specialty about six years ago. Since then her more elaborate recipes have been published in magazines and newspapers around the country. Brody attributes her success with chocolate to her "mentor", Maida Heaseter, a well-known dessert cook and author.

Brody, co-founder of the Women's Culinary Guild, organized the first chocolate binge weekend last year. The chocolate lovers weekend is so popular that this year most of the reservations have been made.

The cost of the weekend is $222 per person and reservations can be made by calling the hotel at 212-233-2244.

Bill to prevent elder abuse is now law

NEWTON — A five year effort by a coalition of advocates for the elderly to establish a statewide program of protective services elderly victims of abuse, climaxed last week with the governor signing the Elderly Abuse Bill.

Sen. Jack Backman (D-Newton, Brookline) and Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton), co-chairmen of the Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs, and Sen. John G. King, (D-Danvers), chairman of the Committee of State Administration, among the prime sponsors of the bill, were present at the signing ceremony.

The bill requires various professionals as well as others who are in contact with elderly in the community, to report cases of abuse to elderly to the Department of Elder Affairs.

The department would designate local public agencies or private nonprofit organizations to act on the department's behalf in recieving, assessing and evaluating reports of abuse and providing protective services to elderly persons.

Protective services would be provided to all elderly persons requesting or consenting to services. The services would include homemaker, home-health aide, transportation, legal assistance counselling, emergency assistance, foster care, nutrition, medical care and other needed services.

Sen. Jack H. Backman stated, "It is unfortunate that senior citizens, like our children, are often at risk of harm as a result of emotionally unstable, cruel or negligent caretakers. Over the years, our committee on Human Services has been beseiged with reports of abuse both in nursing homes and within our communities. It is not only strangers that cause abuse. Often it is the children of older persons who tragically fall upon helpless older members of their own family."

Rep. DeNucci stated, "I am pleased that Gov. King has signed this legislation into law. Elderly abuse is a serious problem which has only begun to reach public awareness in the past few years. This law will provide both protection and services to victims.

"Importantly, this bill does not create a new bureaucracy. Rather, it establishes a protective services network through the homecare agencies. This part of the proposal is essential," DeNucci said, "because without support services, victims of abuse do not have realistic options apart from nursing home placement."

The law also ensures input in developing these protective services from the Department of Social Services, existing adult protective service agencies and other agencies currently involved in the provision of social, health, legal, nutritional and other services to the elderly.

Finally, the legislation provides extensive protections of the rights and confidentiality of all involved parties.

City offers energy assistance

NEWTON — The city Department of Human Services reminds residents about the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) offered in cooperation with ABCD (Action for Boston Community Development). The program helps low income families with heating bills, including oil, gas, electricity and kerosene.

The program will pay $325 to $750, depending on income, for a limited number of low income people. Payments go directly to the oil or utility companies.

Funds will be made available by the federal Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and the state.

The Newton Department of Human Services (552-7170), located in City Hall, is processing applications from Newton residents.

Applications for senior citizens will also be available at the Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center, 345 Walnut St. (Newtonville Library), 527-6770; the Beethoven Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, 30 Beethoven Ave., Waban (Zervas School), 527-6749; the Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center, 191 Pearl St., (Lincoln-Eliot School), 969-8030; and the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Ave, 965-6390. Nonantum will also assist non-senior citizens. Call Nonantum between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. for more information.

All applicants must call and make an appointment at all locations before applying for this program.

All applicants need to submit the following information when they apply: A currently dated utility fuel bill, paid or unpaid (original copy), or a shutoff notice from a fuel dealer or utility company.

For cash on delivery (COD) fuel customers, a statement from a fuel dealer noting the cost of a fill-up for the applicant.

Documentation of income. Please call for further explanation of appropriate documentation.

Special needs program

The Volunteer Guardianship Project of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Mental Retardation Area Board will host an afternoon program on Financial Planning and Money Management for Adults and Children with Special Needs on Wednesday, Jan. 12.

The Guardianship Project provides training and individual guardians on a temporary basis to mentally disabled persons who need a guardian to protect their rights and interests.

For further information on time and location of this program, call Anne FitzPatrick at 969-3360.

Soft sculpture

The Newton Arts Center hosts an exhibition of soft and hard sculpture (pictured: Soft Sculpture by Barbara Ward) by Linda Clement, William Fulbrecht, Catherine Holahan, Linda Miller and Barbara Ward Jan. 14-Feb. 6, with an opening from 6-9 on Jan. 14. Call the NAC in Newtonville at 964-3424 for details.

You better not cry

Newton residents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Healy received a special Christmas present when their sixth child, daughter Ceira, was born just before the holiday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Ceira was dressed in St. E's traditional holiday attire and received a visit from Santa Claus while mother, Monica, looked on.

Off-street parking item stalled

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Overnight parking in municipal lots for residents who need it was given aldermanic approval, but a twist in legislative procedure will bring the item back to the board again.

Monday's full Board of Aldermen gave its approval, voting 20 to 3 in favor of a motion aimed at helping residents in "desperate need" of parking by providing space on municipal lots, but Alderman Edward Richmond, who had the item removed from a board vote prior to the holiday break, said he will "reconsider the motion.

"I've already reconsidered the motion," said Richmond after he gave written notice to City Clerk Edward English. This legislative loophole allows Richmond to bring the item back before the board.

"There are 25 to 30 people in my ward who are in desperate need of parking and all these delay tactics by Richmond are reprehensible," said Alderman Ethel Sheehan, the main sponsor behind the municipal lot proposal.

Both Alderman Lisle Baker and Richmond failed to pass ammendments to charge from $50 to $100 a year for the municipal parking privilege.

"Sticker parking is a valuable right and at 30 cents a night it's a bargain," said Baker.

Alderman Michael Malec's ammendment to the municipal lot proposal called for no regulations, but suggested the same Sunday parking procedures be applied on a first come first served basis for those needing of the lots. It failed by a vote of 17 to 6.

"We're making mountains out of anthills," said Alderman Harold Levinsky speaking in favor of the defeated ammendment.

Four pages of regulations drawn up by City Solicitor Daniel Funk will restrict parking in municipal lots to residents' vehicles bearing a sticker which requires residents to prove they lack off street parking. The regulations will permit residents to park legaily between the hours of 2 a.m. to 6 a.m., which is currently banned.

Richmond raised his concern about residents taking advantage of the parking privilege by leaving their cars parked in the lots all day.

"They will leave their cars there all day and police will not be able to enforce the 7 a.m. move requirement," said Richmond. He added police should be able to double and triple ticket cars parked beyond the time limit.

Alderman Joseph Depasquale noted police do have the ability to double ticket and can also give fines during snow emergencies to deter abusers of the parking privilege.

Sheehan said Police Chief William Quinn and Public Works Comissioner John Sulik favor the municipal lot proposal.

Overnight curb parking still on tap

NEWTON — A proposal by Alderman Joesph Depasquale to allow overnight street parking failed to pass the board, but the idea is not at a dead end as subcommittee parking Chairman Michael Malec promised to survey residents to determine parking needs.

On Monday, the full Board of Alderman nixed the overnight street parking proposal by a vote of 15 to 5.

Depasquale tried to ge the board to approve a six-month test of the parking proposal in his own Ward One, but it also failed.

"This ordinance would simply add a few more hours to the 20 hours already legally allowed for on-street parking," said Malec.

Under the current ordinance, residents may leave their cars on the street from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. . Violators face a $4 parking ticket.

Alderman Richard McGrath pointed to the safety objections by Chiefs William Quinn, Edward Reilly and the Traffic Commission and said, "Why is it more of a safety hazard at night, when people park over 18 hours in the same spot now," said McGrath. "It defies all logic," he added.

"We can't turn the public ways into parking lots," said Alderman Rodney Barker, who suggested those in need of parking can use church lots.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle suggested the parking committee take a survey to determine how many people really need night parking on city streets.

Condo conversion bill on Beacon Hill

NEWTON — A condominium conversion ordinance, passed by Newton aldermen in August, 1981, and invalidated by the courts, appears reflected, at least in spirit, by legislation now before the General Court.

Gov. Edward J. King has sent a bill regulating condominium conversion back to the legislature with amendments which echo the aldermen's concern for the welfare of elderly and handicapped persons.

King's amendments recommend a one-year grace period be granted all tenants of a building about to be converted to condos. He also recommends a two-year grace period for elderly and handicapped tenants and the payment of relocation costs equalling one month's rent, not to exceed $500.

Another amendment in the governor's version of the bill exempts owner occupied residential proprties of four units or less. Owners of these properties can convert at will.

Although it did not appear the legislation would be approved by the General Court before the new session began this week, one local advocate of the bill said she hoped the Dukakis administration would back the bill.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan, a strong advocate of the city's condo conversion ordinance, said she hoped that, if the bill did not go through during the remainder of King's administration, the new legislature would "enact the bill immediately, without going through the whole process again."

Sheehan offered a resolution before the full Board of Aldermen two weeks ago which urged the General Court to expedite the passage of the condo conversion legislation. The resolution passed overwhelmingly.

City sick leave 'abuse' target of task force

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Excessive use of sick leave by city employees has caused the administration to form a special task force to investigate all departments and recommend strict enforcement of city ordinances, according to Mayor Theodore Mann.

"It appears sick leave is being used by some employees as vacation time," said Mann. He said sick leave abuse is difficult to prove, but the incidents of workers being sick on Mondays and Fridays make him suspicious.

Personnel Director Edith Meisser said last week, employees suspected of excessive use of sick leave will "eventually be called in for questioning. Everyone will be given a chance to justify their sick leave days taken," she said.

"I'm not criticizing all employees, but some have misinterpreted their 15 days of sick leave and need to be reeducated," said Meisser.

The task force looking into sick leave and the problems of enforcing city ordinances pertaining to its abuse, will be made up of the personnel director, Deputy Mayor James Hickey and city physician John LaRossa, according to Mann. He expects recommendations within a month.

Meisser said her office hopes to commend employees who have taken very little sick leave.

"The personnel office is investigating all departments to determine the amount of sick leave taken," said Meisser, who added all the numbers weren't in yet to reveal which departments have the worst record.

Meisser said they are just looking into departments and "aren't out to get anyone or hit any particular department."

LaRossa is responsible for verifing employees on sick leave by approving a medical statement from the employee's physician or from LaRossa, according to Meisser.

"It's really up to each foremen to check on the men in their department and we will have to make certain it's being done," said Meisser. Unions are being very cooperative in curbing sick leave as well, she added.

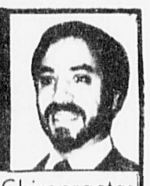

After three days out sick, an employee is supposed to submit a medical form to the city physician to prove they are ill, according to the city ordinances.

Still on the bargaining table between the city and unions is the issue of buying back unused sick leave days, according to Meisser. Right now the city buys up to 60 percent of employee's sick days when they retire, to a maximum amount of $2,000, she stated.

In a previous news report union officials indicated they wanted a more liberal buy back policy allowing for more days to be bought back by the city.

"We want the city to remove the $2,000 restriction and pay back 60 percent unrestricted to the workers," said Kevin McArdle President of the Newton Firefighters Association at a November meeting of the Newton Labor Council (NLC).

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor

LIFTING

Avoiding back injuries is due, in part, to correctly lifting heavy objects. This is accomplished using the body to best advantage. Be sure that the object to be lifted is as near to the vertical axis of the body as possible. Always bend at the knees, keeping the spine vertical. Keep in mind that lifting an object as close to the vertical axis of the body as possible increases leverage. Try to lift with your muscles in their middle range of motion. Fully contracted, or fully stretched, muscles are much more vulnerable to injury.
Oftentimes lifting as well as other types of physical activity may result in creating undue pressure upon the spinal column. Resulting pain and discomfort may well respond favorably to chiropractic applications. At the office of DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale, we are concerned with your continued good health. Call today for an exam and chiropractic review that will help you maintain such well-being. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.

WHITE WATER REBELS. A thriller about a white water kayaker and his efforts to keep a wild mountain river free from unscrupulous developers. Filmed entirely along the treacherous Kern River in California's majestic Sierra Nevada Mountains, featuring James Brolin and Catherine Bach. A deadly race for survival in raging rapids.

SUN., JAN. 9

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

ASSAULT FORCE
ROGER MOORE

ASSAULT FORCE. Roger Moore as commander of a specially trained team of English frogmen, matches wits with a diabolically clever gang of hijackers set to blow up a beseiged oil rig in the North Sea unless the British Empire meets it staggering ransom demand. This suspenseful action adventure also stars Anthony Perkins, James Mason, and Faith Brook.

MON., JAN. 10

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

I MARRIED WYATT EARP

I MARRIED WYATT EARP. John Bennett Perry stars as Sheriff John Behan and Bruce Boxleitner portrays Marshall Wyatt Earp, who compete for control of Tombstone and for the affections of Josephine Marcus (Marie Osmond), a Jewish singer who becomes Earp's wife for 47 years. A romantic drama.

TUES., JAN. 11

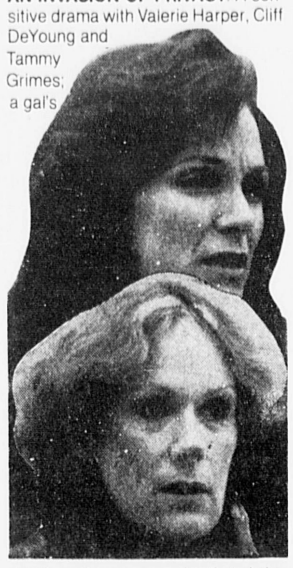

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

KENTUCKY WOMAN
CHERYL LADD
NED BEATTY

KENTUCKY WOMAN. Lensed on location in eastern Kentucky, this dramatizes a woman's struggle to gain acceptance and equality in a traditionally male environment. Cheryl Ladd is the gal who encounters humiliation and harassment when she goes to work as... a coal miner. With Ned Beatty. No fried chicken here!

WED., JAN. 12

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
AN INVASION OF PRIVACY. A sensitive drama with Valerie Harper, Cliff DeYoung and Tammy Grimes; a gal's lonely and courageous battle to bring her assailant to court despite the support he enjoys from a very sympathetic community.

FRI., JAN. 14

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

THE ISLAND
MICHAEL CAINE

THE ISLAND. Michael Caine stars as an intrepid reporter investigating a story behind a series of mysterious disappearances in the Carribean, only to run afoul of a lost tribe of pirates who plot his weird execution while setting him up for a romantic interlude with the most suitable of the tribes women. Also stars David Warner, Angela Punch, McGregor, and Jeffrey Frank.

SAT., JAN. 15

9-11:30PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

BURT REYNOLDS "HOOPER"

HOOPER. Burt Reynolds returns as the hot, reigning king of the brawling, risking, fun-loving Hollywood stuntmen... as the scars on his pain-racked body will attest. This is actually a very autobiographical film in many ways: Sally Field plays Burt's live-in girlfriend whose dad "Jocko" (Brian Keith) is an aging stuntman; (Ms. Field's real step-father is Jock O'Mahoney, a former stuntman who later played Tarzan after dropping the "O" from his name); and Robert Klein does a savage impersonation of director Peter Bogdanovich who directed Burt's biggest flop (At Long Last Love), but Mr. Reynold's gets his own back in this one. Also starring Jan-Michael Vincent, Terry Bradshaw and Norman "Woo-woo" Grabowski. Relax and enjoy... this is pure fun!

TUES., JAN. 18

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
ILLUSIONS. Karen Valentine is an American western wear designer entangled in chilling patterns of international intrigue after her husband is reported killed in a mysterious plane explosion off the coast of France. A taut thriller.

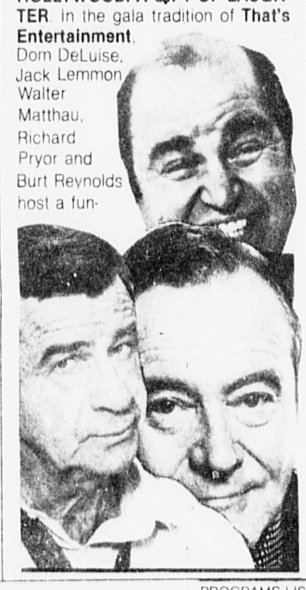

WED., JAN. 19

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
ANOTHER WOMANS CHILD. Film about a happily married childless woman who must act as a stepmother to the daughter her husband secretly fathered years earlier through an illicit affair. Stars Linda Lavin, Tony LoBinco, Joyce Van Patten, Doris Roberts, Ron Rifkin, and Alba Oms.

There are as many reasons to get The Globe as there are days of the week.

Yes it's Sunday and you've laughed through the comics. Enjoyed Boston's best sportswriting. Pored through our magazine. Caught up on the complete regional and national stories.

Now what will you do the rest of the week? For openers, we'd suggest putting The Globe in your hands Monday so you'll know how the rest of the world spent their day of rest.

Come Tuesday, you can open a bigger business with "Business Extra." A special section devoted to the people, industries, facts and figures that make New England's business world turn.

Wednesday, you'll get a golden opportunity to cut corners with pages of money saving coupons, budget hints, recipes and all you need to serve it up right, in the Food pages.

Thursday, there's every reason to check our Calendar. With The Boston Globe's leisure magazine you'll have the complete goings on in and around Boston for the week.

You'll find "At Home" the place to be on Friday, with ideas for decorating, improving, repairing and enjoying.

Saturday has a plus all its own. "Sports Plus." The official word on the winners and the losers. Plus in-depth stories on the action on and off the field.

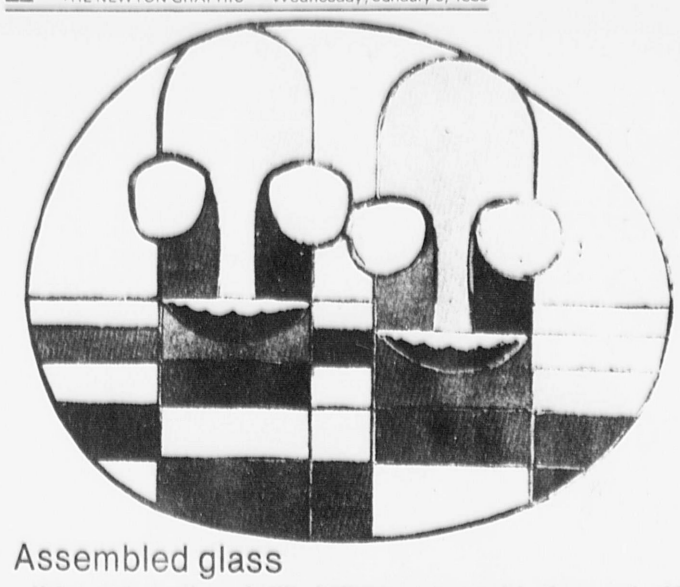

Ahhhhh Sunday. It wouldn't be the same without The Boston Sunday Globe.

See, just like the world, The Boston Globe doesn't stop between Sundays. Every day, The Globe provides quality, comprehensive coverage of the happenings from around the world. As well as timely features and the entertaining and informative columnists you've come to know.

We'll bring it all to you fresh each day. And that makes one more good reason to get The Globe all the days of the week.

Assembled glass

Using antique glass, bottle bottoms, commercial glass and old eyeglasses, artist John Bassett, in this one-man show at the main branch, Newton Free Library, creates abstract pieces and figurative designs. Show runs through the month of January with the opening from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 15. Library is at 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Backman files education bill to help reduce drunk driving

NEWTON — Legislation to establish a Massachusetts Highway Safety and Alcohol Education fund has been filed jointly by Sen. Jack Backman (D-Newton-Brookline) and AAA Massachusetts.

The bill would provide money for preventive and informative alcohol education programs aimed at reducing the incidents of drunk driving. Funds would come from a portion of the fees paid by those convicted of drunk driving, and would be administered by the state secretary of public safety through the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau.

"There can be no truly effective attack on drunken driving without education," Sen. Backman said in a press release. "Apprehension, punishment, treatment, and rehabilitation of drunk drivers are important but are after the fact.

"Education is before the fact, Backman added. "It is the key to changing the social attitudes about drinking and driving."

Richard W. Hoover, legislative agent for AAA Massachusetts, said: "We must show through alcohol educations program that our society does care about the losses, the pain, and the waste caused by drunk drivers. Education costs money, but will return the investment a hundred fold by reducing the number and severity of traffic accidents, more than half of which involve drinking.

Chamber tops goal in member drive

NEWTON — For the eighth year in a row, the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce has exceeded its Fall Membership Campaign goal, according to Chamber President James A. Miller.

Philip A. Cacciatore, president of American Door Distributors, directed the campaign efforts, assisted by four team captains: John Burgess, Marriott Hotel; Francis Fryer, Guaranty-First Trust Co.; Thomas Henderson, Shawmut Community Bank, and Robert Nutting, Park Tower Motor Inn.

Victor A. Nicolazzo of Bigelow Oil Co. was the Oustanding Membership Sales Person with the most new members and largest dollar value of new membership investment. He will be recipient of an "Escape Weekend" donated by the Marriott Hotel.

James A. Miller, planning and development consultant, was the runner-up "Outstanding Sales Person" in terms of number of accounts and dollar value of investment. He will receive an Escape Weekend donated by Dunfey's Howard Johnson Motor Lodge.

Robert Nutting of the Park Tower Inn was the outstanding Team Captain in terms of number of accounts and dollar value of sales. He will receive a gift certificate donated by Allen Furniture.

Others who sold more than $500 in new memberships and will receive "Dinner for Two" certificates include Cacciatore, Richard Gagney, BayBank Middlesex, and Oscar Wasserman, Wasserman and Feinberg.

Additional successful sales persons include Peter Barber, Northland Investment Corp.; Nathan Berkowitz, C.W. Whittier & Co.; Mario Boccabella, Cantin' Abruzzi; Marie Boole, Gallery Realty, Mennel Division; Reo Boren, Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge; Linda DesRoches, New England Co.; Frank Fryer, Guaranty-First Trust Co.; Thomas Henderson, Shwamut Community Bank; Richard Kaerwer, Vikor Co.; John Kerrigan, Leggat, McCall and Werner; Robert P. Lurvey, West Newton Savings Bank; William Maurhoff, Coolidge Bank and Trust Co.; Justine Milliken, Ludlow Corp.; Barry Queen, Mutual Bank for Savings; Paul B. Rubenstein, Security Mills Realty Turst; Robert Stevens, Pioneer Financial, a Cooperative Bank and Walter Tennant, R.I. Tennant Insurance Agency.

Year-end reward

Newton resident Mrs. E. Daniel Gilligan, president of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association, recently presented the aid's year-end gift of $50,000 to NWH Pres. Felix M. Pilla. The gift is earmarked for purchase of a new mammography machine which will enable the radiologist to take more detailed X-rays to detect breast tumors.

Senior center lists program

NEWTONVILLE — The Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center, 345 Walnut St., in the Newtonville Library, invites all Newton seniors to stop by the Center and pick up its winter schedule.

Financial planning will be the topic discussed on Thursday, Jan. 20 at 12:45 p.m. Richard Gagney from BayBank Middlesex will speak on the new money market type accounts now offered by banks along with other investments and financial planning. Everyone is welcome to attend and bring in questions.

The Newton Public Library is sponsoring M.U.S.E. (Music Serving the Elderly) Concert at the Drop-In Center on Thursday, Jan. 27, at 1 p.m.

The concert is free and all are welcome to attend. Hot lunches are served at noon every weekday at the Center.

The Newton Health Department will be offering a Diet Clinic at the Drop-In Center beginning in early Spring. If you are interested, you can sign up now. The Health Clinic is offered 4 days a week, Mondays 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2-5 p.m.; Tuesdays and Wednesdays 9 a.m. to noon, and Thursdays 1-4 p.m. The clinics will be held at the Center. All Newton adults are welcome to take advantage of this free program.

A Free Tax Program will be offered again this year. Retired accountants offer assistance in filing your personal income tax returns. This program will start in early February. Call for more details.

For information, call Marilyn Shaughnessy, 527-6770.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Trash talks still stalled

NEWTON — Negotiations with sanitation department workers to avert private trash collection seemingly have come to a dead end and Mayor Theodore Mann says he will seriously consider "disfunding" the department if the aldermen fail to approve the city's trash contract with SCA Services.

"The last thing they said (city administrators) to us is they are going to go ahead and recommend the private trash proposal to the board," said American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) local 93 President Daniel MacLaren last week.

The negotiation team apparently reached an impasse with city administrators last Monday, according to MacLaren.

"The game isn't over as far as I'm concerned said AFSCME Field Director Mike Botelho, who added he plans to speak with the mayor soon.

The mayor stated if the Board of Aldermen do not pass the private trash plan, then he will seriously consider disfunding the sanitation department.

"Despite the negotiations, a private contract will still guarantee savings of well over $135,000 a year," said Mann.

Mayor Mann told the press on Tuesday, not to believe any figures but those presented by his administration as the "true figures" in regard to the union attempt to meet the same savings offered by SCA Service Inc., the firm with the lowest bid to collect residential trash.

Original estimates by the administration had projected savings of nearly $3 million over 4½ years, or an average of $650,000 yearly.

Mann cites sick-leave abuse and the amount of overtime taken by the sanitation employees as a serious problem with the department.

"The union was only $20,000 from reaching an agreement with the city, but the city would not accept their proposal," said aldermanic Public Facilities Chairman Richard McGrath.

According to McGrath the union proposed to staff the department with 28 men, it now has around 50 men, but the mayor wanted it done with 27 men. "It's obvious he (the mayor) had no intention of accepting the union plan," added McGrath.

"We're talking a $20,000 difference," said MacLaren.

Thomas J. Naughton, 39

LEXINGTON — Thomas J. Naughton, 39, a Newton native and three-year president of the Lexington Education Assocation, died suddenly Christmas Eve at Symmes Hospital in Arlington.

Mr. Naughton was graduated from Our Lady Help of Christians High School in Newton in 1961, and received a bachelor of science degree with honors from Boston State College in 1967, a masters degree in psychology from Boston College in 1975, and completed work for a doctorate in child psychology in 1977.

Among his survivors, his mother, Margaret (Shaughnessy) and his siter, Mary Bertrand, both reside in Newton.

While in the LEA post from September 1979 to June 1982 (the longest term of any LEA president since the group's inception in the 1920s), Mr. Naughton was well-known by the community as a controversial figure who advocated many varied causes.

In June of 1982, he declined to seek another term as LEA president, instead devoting more time to his work as a special needs teacher and to his family.

His involvement in the LEA followed his role as vice-president of the Teachers' Club in his previous residence of Wilmington, Vermont, where he began his teaching career. When he moved to Lexington in 1969, Mr. Naughton became a treasurer for the LEA through 1982.

Shortly after his retirement from the LEA presidency, Mr. Naughton was one of 15,000 delegates at a National Educators Assn. meeting in Los Angeles. He had served as a delegate to the Massachusetts Teachers Assn. and the NEA for several years, as well as being involved with MTA committees and serving as a member of the MTA credit union board of directors.

In addition to his mother and sister, Mr. Naughton is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, his children, Kelly Lochridge, 15, Wendy Lochridge, 11, and Christopher, 6, his mother, Margaret (Shaughnessy) of Newton and a sister, Mary Bertrand of Newton.

Donations may be made to the Thomas J. Naughton Scholarshi oundation, c/o LEA, Lexington High School, Lexington, 02173.

Mayor happy with tax bill certification

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore D. Mann is having a hard time concealing his satisfaction over the city's being one of only a few cities in the state to have its revaluation figures certified by the state and its tax bills out.

Mann said last week it was "refreshing" to see recent newspaper reports which pointed out the comparative effectiveness of the Assessing Departments in 84 of the state's 351 cities and towns.

Those 84 have their tax rates set, while some of the rest threaten to drag the process out until after the July deadline, according Jane Malme, head of the state Revenue Department's Bureau of Local Assessments.

The state Supreme Judicial Court ruled four years ago that municipalities had to bring property assessments up to 100 percent of full market value.

Mann said the recent published reports put into perspective previous detailed accounts of the many problems the city has had in its attempt to achieve an equitable revaluation.

Two requests from Newton's Assessing Department for additional funding to process abatement applications recently prompted aldermen to call for an independent audit of the department's procedures.

The mayor noted the difficulty that Boston, Cambridge, Worcester, Somerville and Springfield have had getting certified by the Department of Revenue, and quickly estimated some of the mammoth costs incurred because of their delinquencies. He said they will have to borrow millions against the anticipated tax revenues and added that, because they do not enjoy the AAA credit rating Newton does, they will have to pay some very high interest rates.

Mann said, "Our assessors were given the financial support from the Board of Aldermen and the administration and were able to complete the revaluation within the mandatory timetable, thereby helping us to avoid hundreds of thousands of dollars in additional bonding costs."

He added, "Communities going through revaluation don't have their assessing departments winning popularity contest, but, nonetheless, despite all the problems and the many individual tax bills which need adjustment, the Newton community has weathered the storm.

According to the mayor, the city had "the best performance" in the state in the often painful revaluation process, and was "the least affected by cutbacks."

Census forms are in the mail

NEWTON — More than 28,000 city census forms for 1983 are in the mail, according to Election Commissioner Alan W. Licarie.

This year's forms, designed to depict the demographic makeup of the city in detail and to allow citizen input on the quality of city services, are part of the "constant massaging of data" which Licarie describes as the primary responsibility of his department.

Filling out the demographic part of the census is required by Massachusetts General Laws. It must be filled out and returned to the Election Commission within seven days.

Licarie appealed to all residents to return the forms on time in order to avoid unnecessary costs to the city.

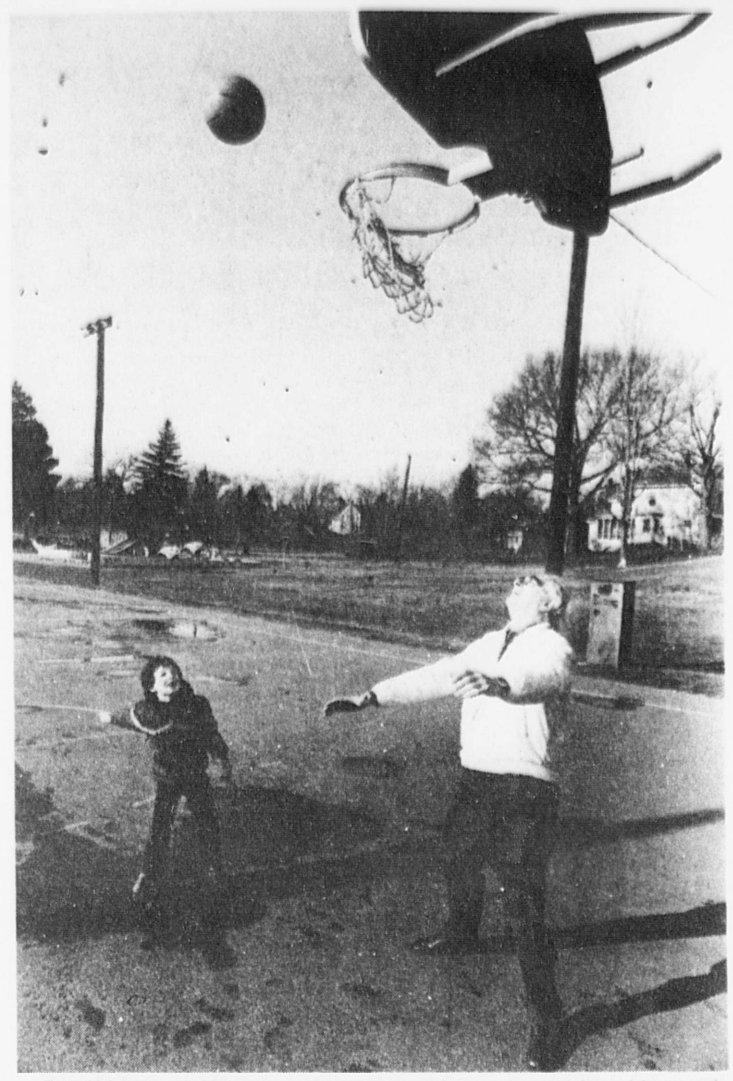

"If I have to start chasing them down, it's going to cost some money," he said. In a cover letter which accompanies the form, he explained in bold-faced type, "Failure to respond by the deadline will require us to send a police officer to your home to collect the necessary information."

Part two of the questionnaire, which residents are not required by law to fill out, is designed to "assist the city in improving its services." Residents are asked to rate services "good, fair, poor, don't know."

The areas of service being assessed are "Protection, Planning and Development, Education, Physical Plant, Health and Social Services, Recreation."

A separate section asks residents for their opinions of city child care facilities, public lighting — specifically their reaction to new, high pressure sodium lighting being tried out in several sections of the city — and school enrollment.

Licarie emphasized that citizens' responses in the in the area of school enrollment are crucial to ongoing deliberations as to which facilities should be closed to cut costs. He added that the results of last year's poll on school enrollment has been an important part of this year's decision-making process.

Our repair policy hasn't changed; we'll still fix your phone. As long as it's one of ours.

There's good news about telephone repairs: no news.

New England Telephone lines and equipment will still be maintained at no additional charge.

How do you get repairs?

The first step is to call a New England Telephone Repair Center. If you need repairs on a home phone, call Residence Repair at 1 555-1611; if you need repairs on a business phone or phone system, call Business Repair, 1 555-1515.

Our repair people will discuss your problem with you, and determine whether it's in the phone or the line. If a simple replacement of the phone is indicated, they'll direct you to a nearby New England Telephone Service Center (formerly Bell PhoneCenters) or other locations where you can exchange your broken phone, at your convenience, for a working model. Or they'll ship a telephone to you. Replacements will be provided subject to availability.

If a visit to your home or business by a repair technician is required, they'll schedule one for you.

What about line repairs?

New England Telephone will still make all telephone line repairs. So your service will be as dependable as ever, no matter where you buy or lease your telephones.

What if your phone isn't one of ours?

This policy hasn't changed, either. If your phone isn't leased or purchased from us, you'll have to take it back to the store where it was purchased, or deter. ine its manufacturer's repair policy.

What's next?

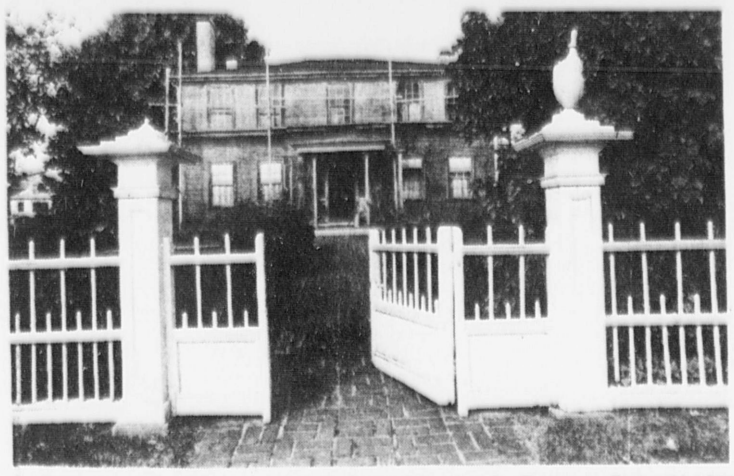

A recent ruling by the Federal Communications Commission has affected how you'll get service or telephone equipment from New England Telephone.

But despite these changes, New England Telephone will still be your local company. We'll be here, working harder than ever to see you through any coming changes. And doing our best to see that you barely notice any change at all.

But to do our job right, we need to stay in touch with you. So let's talk. If you have any questions, call us on our "Let's Talk" number 1 800 555-5000. We've got the answers.

Best face forward

NEWTON — City officials and history buffs raised a glass last week to celebrate completion of a major restoration and facelift at the Jackson Homestead, the city's historic museum.

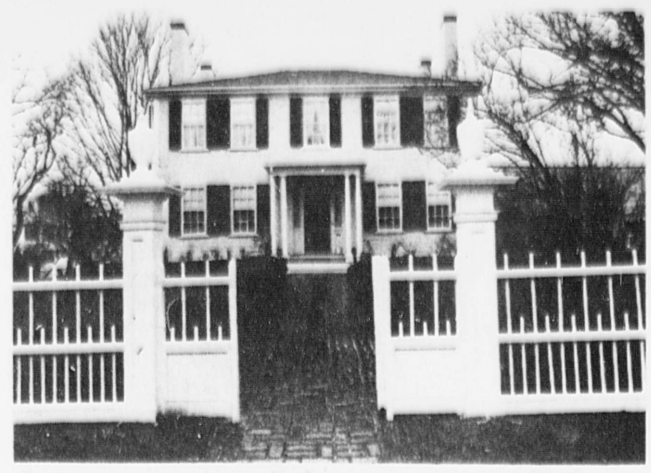

"We thought it was only a dream to get all this work done, but it actually happened and now the house seems to be smiling and actually looks more inviting," said Jackson Homestead Director Duscha Scott.

The 174-year-old house - which had been painted white until this fall - was stripped to its bare wood as part of the $82,000 facelift. Three coats of paint were removed, windows were reconstructed and weather stripped, railings and porches fixed, the chimney brick repointed and fireplace dampers installed, according to Scott.

Funding for the job came from federal Community Development funds and the Community Development project director was Paul Chmielinski and Diane Shorr of the city's planning department, according to Scott.

"There's been a battery of people involved in the renovation program," said Scott.

Custodial talks stalled

By Richard Lodge
and Sarah Clayton
Staff Writers

NEWTON — Refusal to accept overtime work by more than 100 members of the school custodial union, in protest over stalled contract talks, prompted the School Committee on Friday to ask for a state labor investigation of possible violations of laws governing strikes by civil service employees.

In a related move, school officials ordered the custodians leaving at the end of the day Friday to leave on all indoor and outdoor lights and heating systems in preparation for weekend activities in the buildings and for expected below-freezing weather.

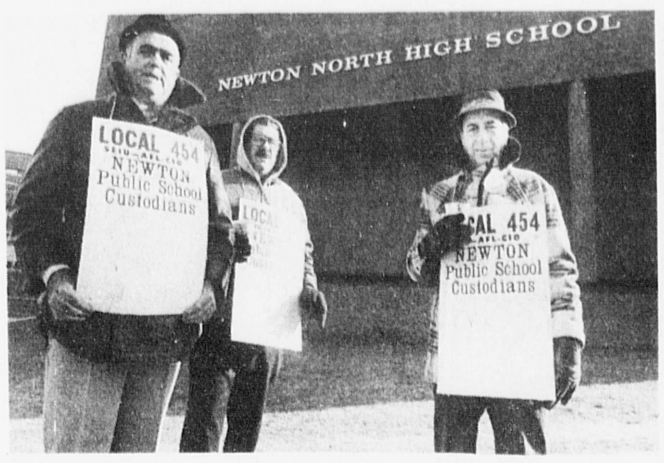

Members of the union, Local 454 Service Employees International Union, angered over what they claim are unfair labor tactics by school department negotiators, picketed Newton North High and Day and Warren Junior Highs briefly Sunday morning to protest use of police officers by school officials to open the buildings.

Normally, custodians would open and maintain school buildings over the weekend.

The refusal of overtime assignments, likened by union representatives to the "work-to-rule" practiced by teachers' union members this fall when teachers' contract talks stalled, was termed unlawful by Thomas O'Conor, the school department's chief negotiator in talks with Local 454.

O'Conor said the "petition for strike investigation" was filed with the state Labor Relations Commission Friday because the overtime refusal by custodians was thought by School officials to be in violation of the existing contract.

Israeli President Navon in Newton.

Navon tells of risks tied to peace

By Donna Lombardi

CHESTNUT HILL — Israeli President Yitzhak Navon told an audience at Temple Mishkan Tefila Sunday that Israel wants peace but "peace without security cannot last.

"Peace is our dream, our ideal for our people who have been through so much persecution and suffering," Navon said.

The Israeli president, addressing 2,300 people, said there is disagreement in Israel as to how peace should be achieved. But Israelis are in agreement the country should not return to the borders established in Arab territories under Israeli occupation since the 1967 war.

"We all agree that we'll not accept going back to the 1967 borders. (The borders) are not secure (and) are a risk to the safety of the State of Israel. They're not defensible," he said.

Navon said "ninety percent of us agree to that" but disagree about the sizes of the border changes.

Navon also said "an independent Palestinian state is a danger to Israel."

Often applauded by the audience, Navon said Israel should "stop being the object of the will of others."

"To mold our fate in our own hands, this is the essence of Zionism," he said.

Navon, who left for New York Sunday, had been on an 11-day visit to the United States which began with a meeting with President Ronald Reagan. Navon arrived in Boston Friday and met with Gov. Michael S. Dukakis. Early Sunday morning he visited the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston.

His visit to Newton was sponsored by the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Boston and other Jewish organizations.

The hour-long speech, during which he spoke English, was mainly non-political. Although Navon's post is largely ceremonial, some in the crowd speculated that the 61-year-old Navon, regarded as a political moderate, may seek Isreali Prime Minister Menachem Begin's post.

Ex-firefighter fights for pension

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A local attorney claims the Newton Retirement Board made "an error in the law" when it denied a disability pension to a former Newton firefighter who fell from a ladder truck eight years ago.

Newton attorney George Chefitz said this week he is appealing the retirement board decision to Suffolk Superior Court because, he said, medical reports on former firefighter Richard Morse were incomplete.

The state's Contibutory Retirement Board in 1981 upheld the Newton Retirement Board's decision denying Morse a disability pension.

Morse, 38, now living in Brighton, has sought a pension since 1975. He has appealed the decision denying him a pension three times.

Scores of medical specialists have treated or evaluated Morse. And he has been evaluated by three medical panels, selected by the retirement board, which came to different conclusions as to the nature, cause and permanence of his disability.

The last panel of doctors to examine Morse, who suffered a fractured skull when he fell from the fire truck, advised the retirement board that Morse be examined by "an interdisciplinary panel...where multidisciplanary expertise would be available."

Chefitz said that because the doctors suggested Morse be examined again, the medical evaluation was incomplete and, as a result, the board should not have made a decision on Morse's request for a pension, which would represent 72 percent of his previous salary.

But according to retirement board documents, which with Morse's permission were released Friday to the Newton Graphic and News Tribune the board denied the pension because a doctor said Morse's condition, described as "psychoneurotic dizziness," was the result of a "pre-existing condition."

The pre-existing psychological condition refers to the death of Morse's father, who committed suicide 20 years ago, according to documents.

"If there was a pre-existing psychological problem, it did not impair his ability to be a firefighter prior to his accident," Chefitz said Friday.

Doctors' reports state that Morse was depressed following the accident. However beyond the reference to Morse's father's death, the medical reports do not elaborate on the pre-existing psychological condition.

Morse also disputes the doctor's opinion that his condition is related to his father's death.

"I had no pre-existing psychological condition. If I am going to have any psychological problems, it's going to be because I've been dragged around," said Morse, referring to the fact that his case has continued for eight years, including several appeals and visits to dozens of medical specialists.

"I just want someone in the state to look at the evidence. There are a lot of discrepancies," said Morse.

According to doctors' reports, Morse suffers from recurrent vertigo (dizziness, loss of balance), persistent tinnitus (ringing in the ears) and neck and back pain. Morse currently is treated for pain twice a month at the Veteran's Administration Hospital.

Morse's case began on Nov. 2, 1974. On that day, Morse, a Vietnam veteran, was standing on the side of a ladder truck, which was heading for a reported car fire, according to documents.

As the truck began to turn onto Washington Street from Commonwealth Avenue, Morse fell off and his head hit the pavement. Temporarily unconscious, Morse was transported to Newton-Wellesley Hospital where he was treated for a fractured skull and concussion, according to reports.

Some items on the 1983 agenda

From City Hall...

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The problem of matching the city's constantly increasing needs with its economic means — dwindling as a result of Proposition 2½ and Reaganomics — promises to generate the major issues city officials face in 1983.

One of the main events of the year, the city election in November, will be directly affected by how city officials decide to do "the most good for the most people" with diminished funds.

A proposal by Mayor Theodore D. Mann to save the city millions over the next four years by consigning curbside trash pickup to a private contractor promises to be a good example of the city's quandary.

While officials are concerned with saving money, they are also concerned with maintaining the quality of a service ranked high by residents and with avoiding adding city sanitation workers to the already swollen ranks of the unemployed.

The mayor has already announced that last minute efforts by representatives of the sanitation workers to match the bids of private contractors have fallen short of the mark. He has predicted radical cutbacks in the department if the aldermen do not approve his proposal to farm out the service.

The economic squeeze will also be crucial to ongoing negotiations with 11 of the city's 12 unions. The teachers have settled for a contract which offers them a 5.5 percent raise each year for two years, but the other unions still have to press their demands.

Decreasing enrollment and funds will see the Warren Jr. High abandoned as of this coming June, and there is already a full spectrum of opinions as to its re-use.

Suggestions it be used as a site for a new main library have elicited an unqualified "never" from library trustees, who plan to offer a detailed proposal for a new $7 million structure to be built near City Hall.

The changing needs of the city already have several municipal buildings sitting idle, with no definite plans for their revitalization and re-use.

...And the schools

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The budget. The budget. The budget. It's always weighing on the minds of school officials as they begin the new year.

While there are many other major issues which school officials will grapple with in the new year — whether to rebuild the fire-damaged Hyde School and how to eliminate the lunch program deficit — the budget looms largest in many officials' minds because money continues to be tight.

This year could be the toughest budget season ever for the current School Committee and its three longest term veterans, Chairperson Nancy Mann, Katherine Jones and Ann Berwick, who are all in the end of their fifth year.

That is the downer of the new year for some school officials.

The future is still very bright, officials say, largely because they expect some great ideas from new Superintendent John Strand and they foresee continued strengthening of the system.

But, many of Strand's ideas will require money.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said she expects the school budget

Staying after school is okay with these kids

NEWTON — Staying after school with the principal has often brought fear into the hearts of students. However, for a group of fifth graders at the Peirce Community School, Monday afternoons are eagerly anticipated.

Their after-school teacher is their principal during school hours. Their classroom is the woodworking shop at Warren Junior High.

Under the sponsorship of their local Community School, Peirce principal Herb Callahan and the seven students have been meeting since October in a class simply entitled "Woodworking."

Recently the group held its final meeting in the lobby of Peirce School. Scattered around the room were bookends, birdfeeders and other projects in various stages. Most projects were near completion, and all were receiving the attention of Callahan.

"Hold that hammer down further," Callahan directed Jessica Simon as she attempted to nail the roof on a large birdfeeder. "You'll get more power out of the handle. Here, let me show you."

"How about these bookends?" asked Tom Fox. "They're not doing so well." With several adjustments and some glue, Callahan helped the 10-year-old fit the pieces together. "There you go, Tom, now hold that like this and count to 331."

As the student counted, Callahan reflected on his role as principal turned teacher. "It's fun to be with kids and watch them get satisfaction out of seeing their own work. They're a great group of kids and we all enjoy ourselves."

According to Peirce Community School Coordinators Kathy Becker and Susan Simon, the class has run for three years and is a favorite among fifth graders. They attribute the success of the activity directly to Callahan.

"I think its incredibtble," notes Susan Simon. "Herb is very gracious to work on such a personal level with the pupils in his school. They really do enjoy themselves."

The students agree. "It's really fun," noted Jessica Simon, as she pieced together her birdfeeder. "I learned a lot - I learned that it's harder to use hadn tools than electric ones."

Julie Freedman concurred. "Woodworking is a lot of fun now that I know something about it." The student held up her project and explained, "I didn't know what to get my brother, so I made him a tugboat."

How does Callahan feel about trading roles? "I really enjoy it," he states quietly. And then he raises his voice slightly as he looks at one of the students. "Don't get any paint on that table or they'll fire ome on the spot!"

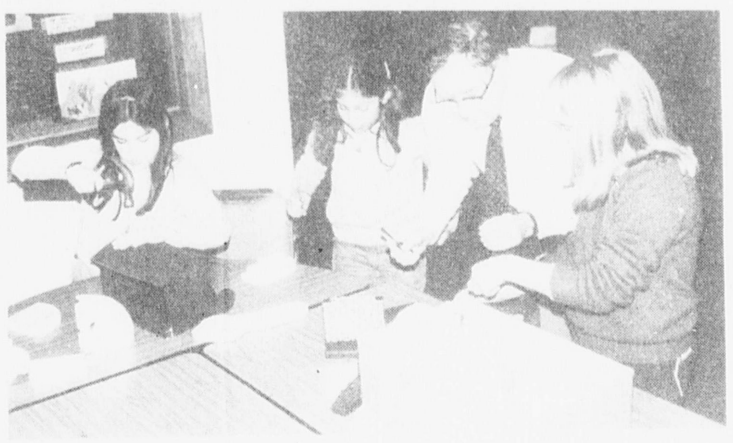

Given the affection shared between this principal and his tudents, such a firing seems unlikely even if the table were to become covered with paint.

For more information about this class or any other activity offered by Newton Community Schools in the upcoming Spring program, call 552-7117.

Aldermen take steps to increase salaries

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen are looking seriously at a 50 percent pay hike for themselves and a 15 percent increase for Mayor Theodore Mann.

"Compared to other elected boards, $3,000 a year is a modest stipend," said Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond Monday night.

Aldermen receive $1,800 in salary for time given to their elected office and Richmond said Waltham City Councilors receive $4,200. City Council members in Cambridge are paid around $15,000 a year, he said.

"There are 24 people out there who will fill our seats for nothing," said Alderman Wendell Bauckman, who along with Alderman Robert Tennant voted against the aldermanic and mayoral raises.

The committee voted 5 to 2 in favor of the aldermanic raise and 6 to 2 for a mayoral hike. Alderman Sondra Schick abstained from the aldermanic raise.

Alderman Lisle Baker suggested $2,900 as the aldermanic salary, but Aldermanic President Matthew Jefferson said jokingly, "Why don't you just make it $2,995.99?"

The committee recommended the mayor's increase take effect on January 1, 1986 and include annual increases of 50 percent of the consumer price index.

"By voting on this now, we can remove the issue from the heat of politics," said Richmond.

Last time the issue of pay a hike for the mayor came up, aldermen "punished" Mann for his executive decisions by not granting him a raise, stated Richmond.

Mann earns $37,500 an 15 percent increase would bring his salary to $58,000. The last time he received a raise was in 1978.

"Informal surveys say $60,000 is right, but $58,000 will be easier to sell," said Richmond.

Speaking against any pay hikes Tennant said, "I've always thought being an alderman should be done out of a matter of civic interest not for pay."

Contract stalled; custodians angered

A two-year contract between Local 454, which represents 109 custodians and 52 cafeteria workers, expired at the beginning of July. With ratification of a new contract between the School administrators' unit of the Newton Teachers' Association and the School Department last week, the custodians became the last school union without a new contract.

In a letter from Local 454 Secretary Carmine Testa to school Superintendent John Strand, dated Jan. 5, union officials claimed the Newton School Committee "is not sincerely interested in dealing with our group in a fair and equitable manner as they did with the other (school unions)."

The letter said union members had decided to refuse overtime as of Jan. 7, "an action we are very reluctant to take."

Local 454 member and spokesman Robert Robards said Friday the old contract (which is being extended as negotiation continues) states "overtime work shall be voluntary except in the case of an emergency."

That statement is contained in a section of the contract on overtime, but O'Conor said overtime is nevertheless "within the control of management."

"When a contract says overtime shall be voluntary," O'Conor said, "it means that the individual custodian, given a reasonable excuse, may not be able to accept an assignment of overtime."

"But overtime is, of its very nature, discretionary and within the control of management as assigned to meet educational needs or for purposes of public access to school facilities," the school official said.

Robards said the union's rank and file had concluded the School Committee was not bargaining "in good faith." Although the next bargaining session is slated for Jan. 21, Robards said the union would like to reopen the talks "as soon as possible to get this settled and signed.

Robards said union members were frustrated at having been the first school union to have its contract expire, and the last to reach agreement on a new pact.

Referring to the refusal of overtime, he said, "This is a very tough action to take. It is the ultimate we can take under the law."

"It's an inconvenience to the taxpayers who use the (school properties and we regret that," Robards said. "But all we ask for is to sit down with the (school administration0 negotiators and try to reach an agreement."

The School Department's decision to maintain heating and lighting over the weekend as if buildings were occupied by students will not be without its cost.

The city's Energy Manager, Mike Kuklinski, said the measure taken by school Officials would use significant amounts of energy if only in effect for two weekends.

School buildings are normally in use by students 25 percent of the time, according to Kuklinski, and when not occupied by students, nearly all lights are off and heating is turned down to a night setting.

By leaving the heat at 68 degrees and most lights in Newton's 23 school buildings on, Kuklinski said the energy usage could "theoretically" be compared to using as much energy on Saturday and Sunday alone "as you would during a complete week of school.

Other than that comparison, Kuklinski said the cost was "very difficult to quantify" at this point.

The School Department's Director of Support Services, Roy Cornelius, said the action was being taken "for the safety of the buildings."

"If it gets very cold this weekend and the boiler trips up, I don't have a custodian who will go in to check," Cornelius said as one example of situation which required the measure.

With heat in buildings set at the higher "day" setting, it would take a longer time for the buildings to cool down if such a situation should occur and it is unlikely pipes would be damaged.

Homestead work is complete

The Preservation Partnership of New Bedford supplied architects for the project and they determined the original color of the home was ocher when its namesake, William Jackson first moved in, in 1820. The ocher, a mixture of orange and yellow, now replaces the former white facade.

"We chose to go back to that color, because that's how the house looked when William Jackson moved in," said Scott.

Doing all the construction work was contractor Paul Lussier of Oakham.

Scott says future plans include plans to increase the focus of a few displays relating to black history.

Others involved in the renovation include: Planning Director Barry Canner, Mayor Theodore Mann, the Jackson Homestead Trustees and the Building Department, according to Scott.

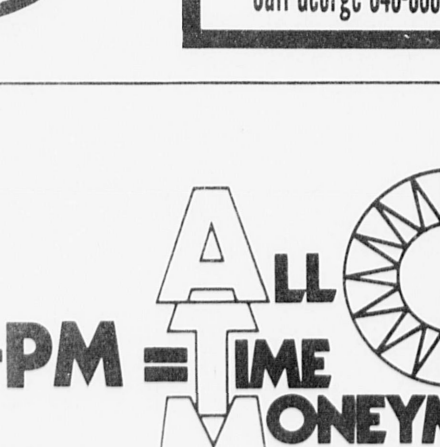

Last Thursday all involved attended a party with goodies provided by Blanchard's and Antoine's bakery, said Scott.

Harold Wright, guest artist

Clarinetist is guest for NSO concert

NEWTON CENTRE — Harold Wright, principal clarinet of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, marks his first performance with the Newton Symphony Orchestra in the upcoming second subscription concert of the NSO Jan. 16 at 8 p.m.

A resident of Newton, Wright was born and brought up in Wayne, Pa., and started to play the clarinet at the age of 12. He studied with Ralph McLane at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, and played with the Houston and Dallas symphonies before his appointment as principal clarinet of the Washington National Symphony.

He joined the BSO in 1970.

While in the service, he found himself playing cymbals and bass drum in an army band, and eventually became a drum major in the service.

For seven years, Wright took part in the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico, and he has played at the Marlboro Music Festival for the last 19 years.

In past years, he has made many recordings, including albums of Brahms sonatas, Copland's Sextet, Mozart's Clarinet Quintet, and Schubert's "Shepherd on the Rock" with Benita Valente and Rudolf Serkin.

Wright, who will perform the Mozart Clarinet Concerto with the Newton Symphony, has recorded this piece with Seiji Ozawa and the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Wright has performed with many of this country's leading string quartets, including the Guarnari and Budapest Quartets. He has toured with both the National Symphony and the Marlboro Festival players.

Wright will repeat his performance with the Newton Symphony Orchestra at the Boston College Theater on Tuesday evening, March 8.

Tickets are available for the Jan. 16 concert, at Brown Junior High. They are $8, and may be reserved by calling 965-2555, and will be available at the door.

Subscribers to the NSO are reminded of the orchestra's resale policy, and urged to release their tickets if they find they are unable to attend the concert.

Community Club meets Jan. 13

Newton Community Club meets Thursday, Jan. 13 at 2 p.m. in the Eliot Church, 474 Centre Street, Newton Corner. Refreshments will be served; Boston Gas Co. will present a slide show called "Salt, sand, surfs." Bring a small item for the opportunity table.

City could save $118,000 on private school bus for kids

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Newton schools could save $118,000 next year as the result of a recent court decision which dramatically reduces public school systems' responsibility to provide transportation to private school children.

A state Supreme Judicial Court decision, in a case where a group of citizens filed suit against the Essex school board over transportation to private schools, changes the criteria by which a school system must provide private school transportation.

The change represents a 180 degree shift in the court interpretation of the school a child is "entitled" to attend. Previously, the courts said a child was entitled to transportation to the school of his choice.

If a child wanted to go to a private school within his city or town, he was eligible for transportation from the public school system under the same state-mandated distance and safety criteria used for public school children.

The catch was that the distance and safety requirements were applied to the private school.

Now, if a student chooses a private school, he or she is only entitled to the same amount of transportation he or she would get in going to a public school.

If, for example, a private school student lives more than the two mile limit from his Newton public school – say, 2½ miles – he would be eligible for a 2½ mile bus trip to his private school.

Currently, 375 private school students use Newton public schools transportation daily.

The School Department's obligation would end there, and so would the bus trip, even if the private school was three miles away.

If for safety concerns a child living less than two miles from his public school would receive transportation, he would receive a bus trip of the same distance to his private school.

Most of Newton's waivers for safety reasons go to elementary students who walk a dangerous route or cross a major street where there is no crossing guard.

A specific example of an area of Newton where children who live less than two miles from school are provided with a bus is the Dudley Road area. Dudley Road has no sidewalks and is considered a dangerous street for children walking to Oak Hill Elementary, according to Ken Temkin, an administrative assistant to the school's Support Services Department.

If the Newton School Committee approves dropping the now ineligible private school students, the schools could reduce the number of buses in service by five, according to Roy Cornelius, director of Support Services.

The savings, he says, would be nearly $118,000 for next year.

Based on a recommendation from Cornelius, the School Committee agreed recently to postpone any change in bus service for private school students until next year.

By the time the new policy would take effect, "there is not a lot of savings to make it worth the aggravation to everybody," Cornelius said.

If the schools dropped transportation for students now ineligible as of March 1, the savings would amount to about $39,000, according to Cornelius.

Mann said private schools in Newton have been notified and have been invited to address the School Committee in late February. She expects the School Committee will vote at that meeting to eliminate the five buses beginning with the 1983-84 school year.

"We need to look for money wherever we can," Mann said. "I think if parents can pay to send their kids to private school, they can pay for transportation."

Mann said she expects some outcry over the proposed cuts from parents. "I think the people who will be most upset are people who send their children to parochial schools," she said.

"I think those people tend not to be very wealthy," she said, as opposed to parents who send their children to private schools which "cost thousands of dollars."

According to Cornelius, the Essex case was actually over bussing outside of the town limits to private schools, but in ruling on the case, the court "clarified" the law. The ruling also pointed out a loophole which most school systems had not known existed – that public schools' responsibility to provide any transportation to private school students ends when students reach the age of 16.

Following the court ruling, the state Department of Education notified school systems that it would change its reimbursement formula for private school transportation beginning next year.

Cornelius says Newton is currently reimbursed at about 54 percent of the cost of private school transportation, but the amount would be severely cut next year.

When Cornelius first read about the Essex decision, he gave the article to the city solicitor. "He gave us an opinion that floored us," Cornelius says.

The city solicitor's opinion was later confirmed by the Department of Education.

Two years from now, the Newton schools may save even more as they enter into the first year of a new bus contract. Since most private school transportation involves bus runs in the late afternoon, Newton could possibly reduce the amount of time the bus company has to have available each day, Cornelius said.

Navon ends visit in city

As a result, Navon's White House visit was termed by officials as "a working visit." Navon's five-year term expires this spring. He said he will announce his future plans in February.

The Israeli president was warmly received by his audience and dozens of dignitaries who applauded loudly and energetically sang "Shalom" as he walked onto stage.

Greeting Navon were several foreign diplomats including Samuel Lewis, U.S. ambassador to Israel, with U.S. Rep. Barney Frank, (D-Mass.), State Senate President William Bulger, Mayor Theodore Mann and state Sen. Jack Backman, (D-Brookline-Newton).

Navon talked of the first people who settled the State of Israel, Jerusalem as the world's center of Judaic culture and American volunteers in Israel.

Navon's address also included a bit of humor, which the audience enjoyed.

"There are problems. We try to export some of them," Navon quipped, "But nobody wants them."

Following the address, Rabbi Yellin of Temple Mishkan Tefila said the Israeli president's visit was successful in that it brought together a diverse Jewish community.

"He brought out the Jewish community the way it has never been brought out before. What he did for us today, that's the greatest thing he can do for Israel," Yellin said.

Navon's speech was "outstanding in a non-political way," Yellen said, adding that the president presented himself as "a Jewish father, a teacher and spokesman."

"We sensed that he did not step on any political toes."

Brookline resident Ephaim Greenberg said Navon's talk was "superb." "He said what is deeply felt by the people here," Greenberg remarked, noting that he was not expecting a political speech from Navon.

"He was humorous," said Gladys Kadis of Newton, who said she attended Navon's speech because she is "very interested in Israel."

"You could understand him. He spoke English beautifully," she said.

For Rabbi Yellin, Navon's visit to Newton was "the most exciting day of my life."

Rise in vandalism must be monitored

Recent figures released by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith indicate an increase in incidents of anti-Semitic vandalism for 1982 in Massachusetts.

The rise, from 59 incidents in 1981 to 62 last year, is small but this watchdog group takes each incident seriously.

Nationally, the survey showed a drop in anti-Semitic acts from 974 in 31 states in 1981 to 829 in 35 states in 1982.

The attacks included the defacement of Jewish institutions, stores, homes and public property with swastikas, anti-Jewish slogans and graffiti. One incident quite close to home took place in Needham last year when vandals spray-painted swastikas and obscene slogans on the side of a home owned by Jews.

Even though the cases of anti-Semitic vandalism dropped in this country last year, the ADL pointed out an increase worldwide in violence against Jews. The trend, which included bombings and shootings which left six people dead and 216 others wounded last year indicates a "disturbing increase", according to ADL officials.

There were 41 episodes of terrorism in six West European countries in 1982, compared to 15 such attacks the previous year.

The cases of anti-Semitic vandalism have not escalated to outright violence in many cases here in the United States but with the tenor of discrimination and tension around the world, such a move would not be unexpected.

It would, of course, be a disturbing signal if the use of violence against a religious or ethnic group is seen tolerable to terrorists in this country. A strong law enforcement effort and continued public awareness of the dangers of anti-Semitic, racial or ethnic acts must be maintained.

"Poor fella! He seems kinda lonely since the kids got those 'E.T.' dolls for Christmas."

'Marking time' called off the mark

Joseph W. Chevarley

Please consider this as a response to Mr. Mark White's article appearing on the editorial page of your Tuesday, Dec. 21, 1982 edition, "Marking time - Ban banning, not dirty books," in which he also identifies himself as a former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen and a practicing attorney.

Mr. White's erroneous diatribe against the people of Stoughton because of their forthright stand against the presence in their community of smut peddlers, which stand received wide acclaim and highly publicized support of many segments of the media, the public, Governor King and incoming Governor Dukakis, comes as a surprising shocker, especially when he refers to himself as a former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen, in which capacity he was presumed to be acting at all times, certainly, in the best interests on Newton's citizenry, which is composed almost entirely of families and their children.

It is hoped the present city administration of the city of Newton does not share Mr. White's views.

Mr. White may consider the outraged citizens of Stoughton to be "Cro-Magnon" in their thinking and their political leaders as "prostitutes," but many of us consider Mr. White's dictum "Dirty books are no danger to society" to be a classic of wilful Neanderthal myopia.

As an attorney, Mr. White's comments display either an intent to deceive his readers or an alarming lack of knowledge of the authoritative opinions of recognized experts in the field of behavioral or social sciences and the laws presently in effect pertaining to obscenity and indecency.

The following source data, contrary to Mr. White's aforementioned views, from many other readily available concurring sources, are offered for the enlightenment of your readers:

1. In the widely publicized and respected book, "Where Do You Draw the Line?" edited by Victor B. Cline, psychologist and specialist in social science research methodology and statistics, of Brigham Young University, which book is also described as "An exploration into Media Violence, Pornography, and censorshhip," Professor Irving Kristol, of New York University, states in his contribution to the book, "If you believe no one was ever corrupted by a book, you must also believe no one was ever improved by a book (or a play or a movie). You have to believe, in other words, that all art is morally trivial and that, consequently, all education is morally irrelevant. No one, not even a university professor, really believes that."

2. Nick Cavner, in a recent article in Catholic Digest, quotes Father Bruce Ritter, director, Covenant House for runaway children, in New York City: "There is an absolute, direct relationship between pornography and what happens to these children. Why do you think we send our children to good schools? Why are we so careful about what they read? Why is the ACLU so interested in keeping negative things about minorities out of books? Because we know people can be taught good things, and we know they can be taught evil things. We have known that ever since Adam and Eve. To proclaim piously that there is no demonstrable relationship between pornography and violence and warped attitudes is ludicrous."

> Mr. White may consider the outraged citizens of Stoughton to be 'Cro-Magnon' in their thinking and their political leaders as 'prostitutes' but many of us consider Mr. White's dictum 'Dirty books are no danger to society' to be a classic of wilful Neanderthal myopia.

The article also cites alarming statistics, such as the 12,000 kids under 21 who come every year to Covenant House for help, of which fully 60 percent have been involved in prostitution or pornography, forced on them by sex deviated adults, and that this represents only a small number of the 20,000 kids that police say can be found in New York City at any time.

3. Philip Perlmutter, in one of the 1981 issues of the Jewish Times, had this to say: "Pornography is corrosive and destructive of the societal values and mores...in the case of porno, the more sophisticated will claim that in trying to stop it, they are undermining the First Admendment, though the First Amendment never said pronography was kosher.

"Actually, opposing pornography has nothing to do with censorship or freedom of the press. There are certain societal behaviors which need not be tolerated or validated. There are no absolute rights to anything in this world, least of all to crooks, murderers, rapists and liars. That's why we have laws - though they limit or restrict the right of criminals."

4. The Hill-Link Minority Report of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, widely described as a blueprint for the solution to the problem of obscenity, sets forth the actual and complete results of the research effort conducted for the Commission, which clearly describes the relationship between high exposure to pornography and "sexually promiscuous" and deviant behavior at early ages, as well as affiliation with groups high in criminal activity and sex deviancy.

Mr. White, as a practicing attorney, should also be familiar with Massachusetts laws dealing with obscenity, as well as the following landmark cases handed down by the United States Supreme Court, which are presently in effect, and which confirm that obscenity is not protected by the First Amendment:

1. The famous Miller Decisions handed down during June, 1973, consisting of:

a. Miller v. California, establishes a clear and enforceable definition of obscenity and reiterates that community standards does not mean "uniform national standards";

b. Paris Adult Theatre, rules that "adult theatre" does not compare with "privacy of one's home" and also rules that when obscene matter complained of is placed in evidence, expert testimony is not necessary for a finding of obscenity;

c. U.S. v. Orito, ruled that the zone of constitutionally protected privacy encompassing possession of obscenity in one's home does not extend to transportation of obscene matter by passenger on common carrier, even through intended for his private use, nor to transportation in violation of Section 1462 of U.S. Criminal code;

d. Kaplan v. California, ruled that First Amendment does not bar finding that book without pictorial content is obscene; and,

e. U.S. v. 12 200-ft. Reels of Super 8mm film, ruled that the Commerce Clause empowers Congress to ban importation of obscene material even if importation is for individual importer's private use and possession in his home.

The Conference at the White House on Enforcement of Federal Obscenity Laws on July 27, 1982, hosted by Morton C. Blackwell, Special Assistant to the President for Public Liaison, was attended by top officials in the Administration, a large truly representative delegation of religious leaders, many national organizations concerned about the affects of the spread of pornography, together with strong representation from labor and industry, also provided tangible evidence of the national concern. At this conference it was agreed that the pornographic industry has become a multi-billion dollar industry, spreading rapidly into cablevision, and is largely, if not entirely, controlled by major crime interests.

In view of the foregoing, is it any wonder that Mr. White's position on pornography is subject to question?

Marking time

Questions of public standards are many

By Mark White

It's funny. When I first decided to write about the "Stoughton Dirty Bookstore" I thought people would just read it and forget it.

After all, this humble columnist attempts at most times to inject a bit of humor. I felt at the time that readers would merely give it a passing interest.

Au contraire!

This one turned out to be a time bomb. First, I returned home one night to find a friendly message on my answering machine which noted, "I just finished reading your column and I want you to know that I think that you are an —— and a Jew."

The gentleman was at least half right.

However, this didn't upset me since I know you have to receive at least one obscene phone before you become legitimate.

But now it would appear the "enemy" has trotted out the heavy artillery: Morality in Media (see above).

There are so many of these self-righteous right-wing groups around today it's hard, at times, to keep them all straight.

But I recollect that Morality in Media is an offshoot of the Moral Majority. In fact, "M in M" was the group which urged you to stop buying soap from Proctor & Gamble until the firm dropped its sponsorship of such "obscene" shows as Soap and Three's Company.

As I recall, they succeeded, and the company bowed to M in M's wishes.

So I am honored to have one of their number respond to my column.

So fellow civil liberterians, it's time to rally the forces and ward off the attack of the Cro-Magnons.

As usual, these people couch their arguments in simplistic, as well as contradictory logic.

They list a series of cases articulating that obscenity is not constitutionally protected free speech, particularly Miller v. California. They wrap their arguments in the cloak of Supreme Court decisions.

However, these are the same people who are the first to blast the Supreme Court for decisions with which they disagree: Roe v. Wade (right to an abortion); Miranda v. Arizona (rights given to an individual under arrest); and the line of cases restricting illegal searches.

Needless to say I disagree with their legal interpretations but I will leave those arguments to the Constitutional scholars.

Furthermore, I defy any of these people to show one bit of legitimate empirical evidence that pornography causes crime and the decay of society.

Don't give me quotes from clergymen and religious journals. How about cold, hard facts?

These people scare me worse than the fellow who made the phone call.

They disguise their antiquated thinking in a well-written and legitimate presentation. You have to accept their right to disagree and to expound their point of view, as well as to defend their right to say it.

> What these guardians of the public decency completely ignore is the question as to whom is going to make the rules? Who is going to determine what is obscene? One man's obscenity is another man's Venus de Milo.

The moron who made the obscene phone call - and didn't have the guts to leave his name - has no legitimacy. You can simply ignore his diatribe as pure prejudice.

Finally, to the comment, "How would I like that type of store in my neighborhood?" I would lightly respond, "Great. It's just a shorter distance to drive."

That ought to get them thinking.

(Mark White, who really doesn't shop at dirty book stores, is still an attorney and a former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen)

Letters

'Appalled' by statements in column

To the editor;

I was appalled by the statements made by attorney Mark White in the column of Dec. 21, 1982, captioned "Ban banning, not dirty books."

Without his saying so, the column was just a shill for the civil Libertarian groups, who want no laws on the statue books whatsoever.

He vents his spleen on the good citizens with his billingsgate, diatribes and vituperation.

The Stoughton citizens were only showing their concern for the continuance of minimum standards of public decency in the town. These decent people went to court on a violation of the State Obscenity Law after the owners sold obscene material in violation of said law. And by due legal process the citizens' case was upheld by the judicial branch of the law.

Does Mr. White want certain laws to be disobeyed because they don't meet his fancy?

In a whining complaint, Mr. White states he desires to make his own determination of what he shall read, what movies he desires to see, etc., etc., etc. But by saying that, he is only trying to kid the public!

No single individual can tell him, but the community can tell him through the media of duly enacted laws. The community can tell him what literature cannot be sold in that city or town, and what movies can be shown.

As a lawyer, he must know of the Miller v. California decision where our highest court ruled for the "umteenth" time that obscenity was not protected free speech under the First Amendment. And he knows of the Paris Adult Theater v. Slayton case where our highest court ruled that a moving picture theater owner could not plead immunity even though the obscene movie he showed was shown to consenting adults.

Mr. White's closing was a statement that the sale of dirty books did not endanger society.

Not so, Mr. White!

If he honestly believes that statement, then he must believe that the reading of good books does not improve society. Can anyone in his right mind believe that reasoning?

You can't have it both ways, Mr. White.

Maybe the answer to Mr. White's problem would be the establishment of an "Adult Book Store" next to his residence. Probably then Mr. White would not be so shrill and blatant in "putting down" the Judeo-Christian principles and traditions which uphold public decency.

Use common sense approach in economic war with Japan

To the editor;

Today, we read more and more about the Japanese miracle and we are turning it into a myth. It is a strong Oriental nation, far superior to us.

Recent history proves this to be false. In 1946, Japan was defeated and totally devastated. Harry Truman wanted to punish them for their crimes; he deprived them of an army.

Free of responsibility for defense, Japan threw money at the industry. Industry built plants and put people to work.

Government collected taxes, grew rich, and used its profits to subsidize more industry, create more jobs and make a better life for its people. Today, they are one of the most productive people in the world.

In the U.S., an industry and individuals were being taxed to support military expansion and the Cold War. New Deal Democrats with their anti-business rhetoric used high taxes, inflation, excessive regulation, and foreign adventure like Korea and Vietnam.

Utilizing these to de-industrialize our nation, business did not receive subsidy as in Japan; they were exhausted so much that they could not even hold on to what was theirs, resulting in plants and factories becoming old, obsolete and non-competitive and workers being laid off.

In 1960 when John Kennedy took office, US Steel wanted to raise prices and capital, to build plants and remain competitive. Kennedy said "NO"; he preferred to go to the moon, spending billions of dollars to get ther. This money should have been spent for US Steel in re-industrialization and program for the poor and elderly.

As US companies deteriorated, the Japanese moved in, and threw money at Japanese industry to build some of the most modern and productive plants in the world to meet the American demand.

Today, unemployed US Steel workers can thank President Kennedy for trading their future for a trip to the moon and the Vietnam war.

Today, Reagan is following in his footsteps, willing to sacrifice what little is left of the American industry for the biggest military build-up in history.

While the standard of living of the average American is declining each month, and poverty is accelerating rapidly, we have a choice - either the biggest deficit in history or the biggest tax hike in history.

There is no magic in the Japanese accomplishment, only common sense.

In our economic war with them, we will lose and deserve to lose because any nation that cares about a trip to the moon, military build-up, and foreign adventure deserves to lose.

Continuing war against lice

To the editor:

The high incidence of head lice infestation in our community did not develop overnight, and we would be dreaming if we assumed that we could effect a solution to this health threat in a short amount of time.

In the interim, however, we can take charge of our own health habits by thinking about the lice problem as we go about the day-to-day care of our children. Here are a few suggestions from P.A.L. - Parents Against Lice - which will help your family reduce the risk of bringing home head lice.

Reduce the Risk - when you take your children to a birthday party and you know they will not be needing their hats and coats by taking them with you. This way, your children's belongings will not be thrown in a pile with, or hung closely with other children's possibly infested clothing.

Reduce the Risk - by asking other mothers if they have checked their children before you make social arrangements with them. Don't be embarassed; if everyone would get into the habit of asking, we would all have the assurance of knowing that other parents are concerned too.

Reduce the Risk - by discouraging head gear for play outside the home, e.g., fireman's helmets, baseball caps, etc. Remind your children not to try on other children's hats.

Reduce the Risk - by assessing organized games for lice safety. Simple birthday games such as pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey can easily spread lice if only one blindfold is used. Provide separate blindfolds for each child or choose another activity.

Reduce the Risk - by using lice etiquette whenever possible. Don't be too uncomfortable to notify parents of your children's playmates if your child develops a case of lice. And do notify your child's school so that his classmates can be checked.

Reduce the Risk - of abusing of misusing chemical remedies. Always call your pediatrician for a prescription rather than borrowing medication from friends. Your pediatrician should be able to tell you how to use the medication, and more importantly, how not to use it.

Reduce the Risk - if you are pregnant or think you might be, by checking with your obstrecian before using any chemical lice treatment on yourself. And wear rubber gloves when you treat your children.

If every parent would take steps to protect his or her own family, the head lice problem in this community would soon take care of itself.

Police link Newton, Weston holdups

By John Lempesis
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Police believe two women bound and robbed in their homes here Friday were victims of the same gunman who robbed basketball star M.L. Carr's wife in Weston Dec. 28.

The home of the first woman robbed Friday had been burglarized only two days before, Newton Police Lt. Charles E. Feeley said, adding that it apparently left little for the robber who posed as a delivery man.

"It looks just like the Weston invasion of M.L. Carr's home," Feeley said of the gunpoint robberies here. "The only difference was the hat" and other clothes, Feeley said.

Feeley said both victims gave the same description of the robber. The women, both in their 30s, were terrified but not physically hurt by the gunman, he said.

Police said the robber went to the first woman's Newton Center home shortly after noon Friday under the guise of delivering a package. When the woman began to get a pen to sign for the package, the bandit pulled a grey handgun and entered the house.

The gunman handcuffed her and put surgical tape over her eyes and mouth. He took her upstairs where he ransacked a bedroom looking for jewelry and took $10.

Feeley said the gunman asked why there wasn't more jewelry. The woman answered that a burglar had stolen most of it only two days before, Feeley said. But she believes she heard the robber going through what remained and that he put some jewelry in the box he carried as his "delivery package."

The robber took her downstairs and went to his car where he retrieved short lengths of cord. He removed the handcuffs and tied her hands but said he would make the bonds loose so she could free herself. He then drove east, Feeley said. He said the woman was able to free herself quickly.

About 12:45 p.m., the same gunman used the package-delivery ploy to get into a Newton Highlands home just three-quarters of a mile from the home of the Newton Center robbery victim. He again used a gun and handcuffed the woman, taped her eyes and mouth and ransacked a bedroom. He stole $28 and also may have taken jewelry.

The bandit cut the phone line, removed the woman's handcuffs, tied her and left.

Feeley said a neighbor entered the second woman's home and untied her just after the gunman left. Feeley was doubtful that the neighbor saw the gunman.

Police Chief William F. Quinn said the gunman completed his robberies in less than 15 minutes.

The Friday bandit was described as white, 35 to 40, 5 feet 10 with a medium build, cleanshaven and was wearing horn-rimmed glasses. He also had on a royal blue ski cap with gold trim and an Army fatigue jacket and blue jeans.

He was driving a black Volkswagen Beetle with red interior. Feeley said a registration plate on the car had been reported stolen in Boston prior to the robberies.

On Dec. 28, a man wearing a business suit who claimed he was looking for an address in the area, pulled a gun on Sylvia Carr, wife of M.L. Carr, forcing his way into their Weston home. Mrs. Carr was alone at the time.

The gunman pushed Mrs. Carr onto a bed when he was unable to find jewelry and only found $10 in her purse. He forced her to give him a ring, bracelet and watch she was wearing and fled in a sports car, possibly a Toyota Celica. Mrs. Carr was not hurt but was shaken by the experience, her husband said at the time.

Police sketch of suspect.

Weston Police Chief Frank Shaw said he thought it was a random robbery. No suspect was arrested.

Sunday, Feeley said police have no information that indicates that the bandit staked out the Newton homes before robbing them. But he added, "It's entirely possible he might have known the families. He did go to the homes where the women were alone. We're looking into the fact both women have school-aged children."

Asked whether there are precautions other residents might take against such robbery, Feeley replied, "We recommend you look through a peephole before opening the door."

Tsongas staffer to meet residents

NEWTON — Senator Paul Tsongas is sending staff member Shirley Simons to meet with residents from Newton, Brookline, Weston and Wayland on Wednesday, Jan. 19 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Newton City Hall.

The informal question and answer session is open to the public and individuals are met on a first come, first served basis.

No appointment is necessary.

Some of the issues that Senator Tsongas has been involved in recently include the Japanese challenge to the high technology industry and its effect on Massachusetts' economic future.

He has also expressed concerns about the pressing need for a nuclear weapons freeze and has voiced his concern for the high rate of nationwide unemployment.

Social Security, immigration, student loans, small business loans and housing are among the many subjects that residents have raised with Simons.

The Senator, a member of the Senate Committees on Energy, Small Business and Foreign Relations, recently expressed his continuing support for federal assistance for low-income housing.

"The federal commitment to housing dates back to 1937. In Massachusetts, where we have very low vacancy rates, large numbers of housing units are in need of repair and upgrading; and for the thousands of elderly and low-income families who lack decent affordable housing, these problems are of critical importance," Senator Tsongas concluded.

Camera club hosts contest

Newton Camera Club meets Monday, Jan. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Nonantum Branch Library, 144 Bridge Street, for intra-club competition on architecture and photojournalism judging. The public is invited.

One audit almost done; others are set to begin

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Before the week is out, Mayor Theodore D. Mann said expects to receive the results of one audit and to award a contract for another.

The mayor expects to receive the final installment of an audit done in all city departments several months ago by Arthur Anderson and Co.

He also expects to contract the services of one of five of the "top companies in the country" to audit the Assessing Department and the Water and Sewer Departments.

In December, the Board of Aldermen approved the appropriation of $17,000 for an operational audit of procedures used in the Assessing Department, the machinery of which has been beseiged by criticism since the recent citywide property revaluation.

Mann said he hopes to include the Water and Sewer Department audits with the Assessing Department audit.

Time is of the essence in the audit of the assessors, as the aldermen gave the department less than a third of its request for funds to keep temporary staff for processing abatement applications. The aldermen said they would give the department just enough money to keep going until the audit was done in February.

According to Chief Budget Officer David Wilkinson, payment for the Water and Sewer Department audits might come from funds available in Executive Department accounts.

Last week, several aldermen said they were under the impression the second part of the audit of all city departments had been received by the mayor and was being edited before it was presented to the aldermen.

Michael Devlin, who conducted the citywide audit for Arthur Anderson and Co., said such an allegation was "patently invalid."

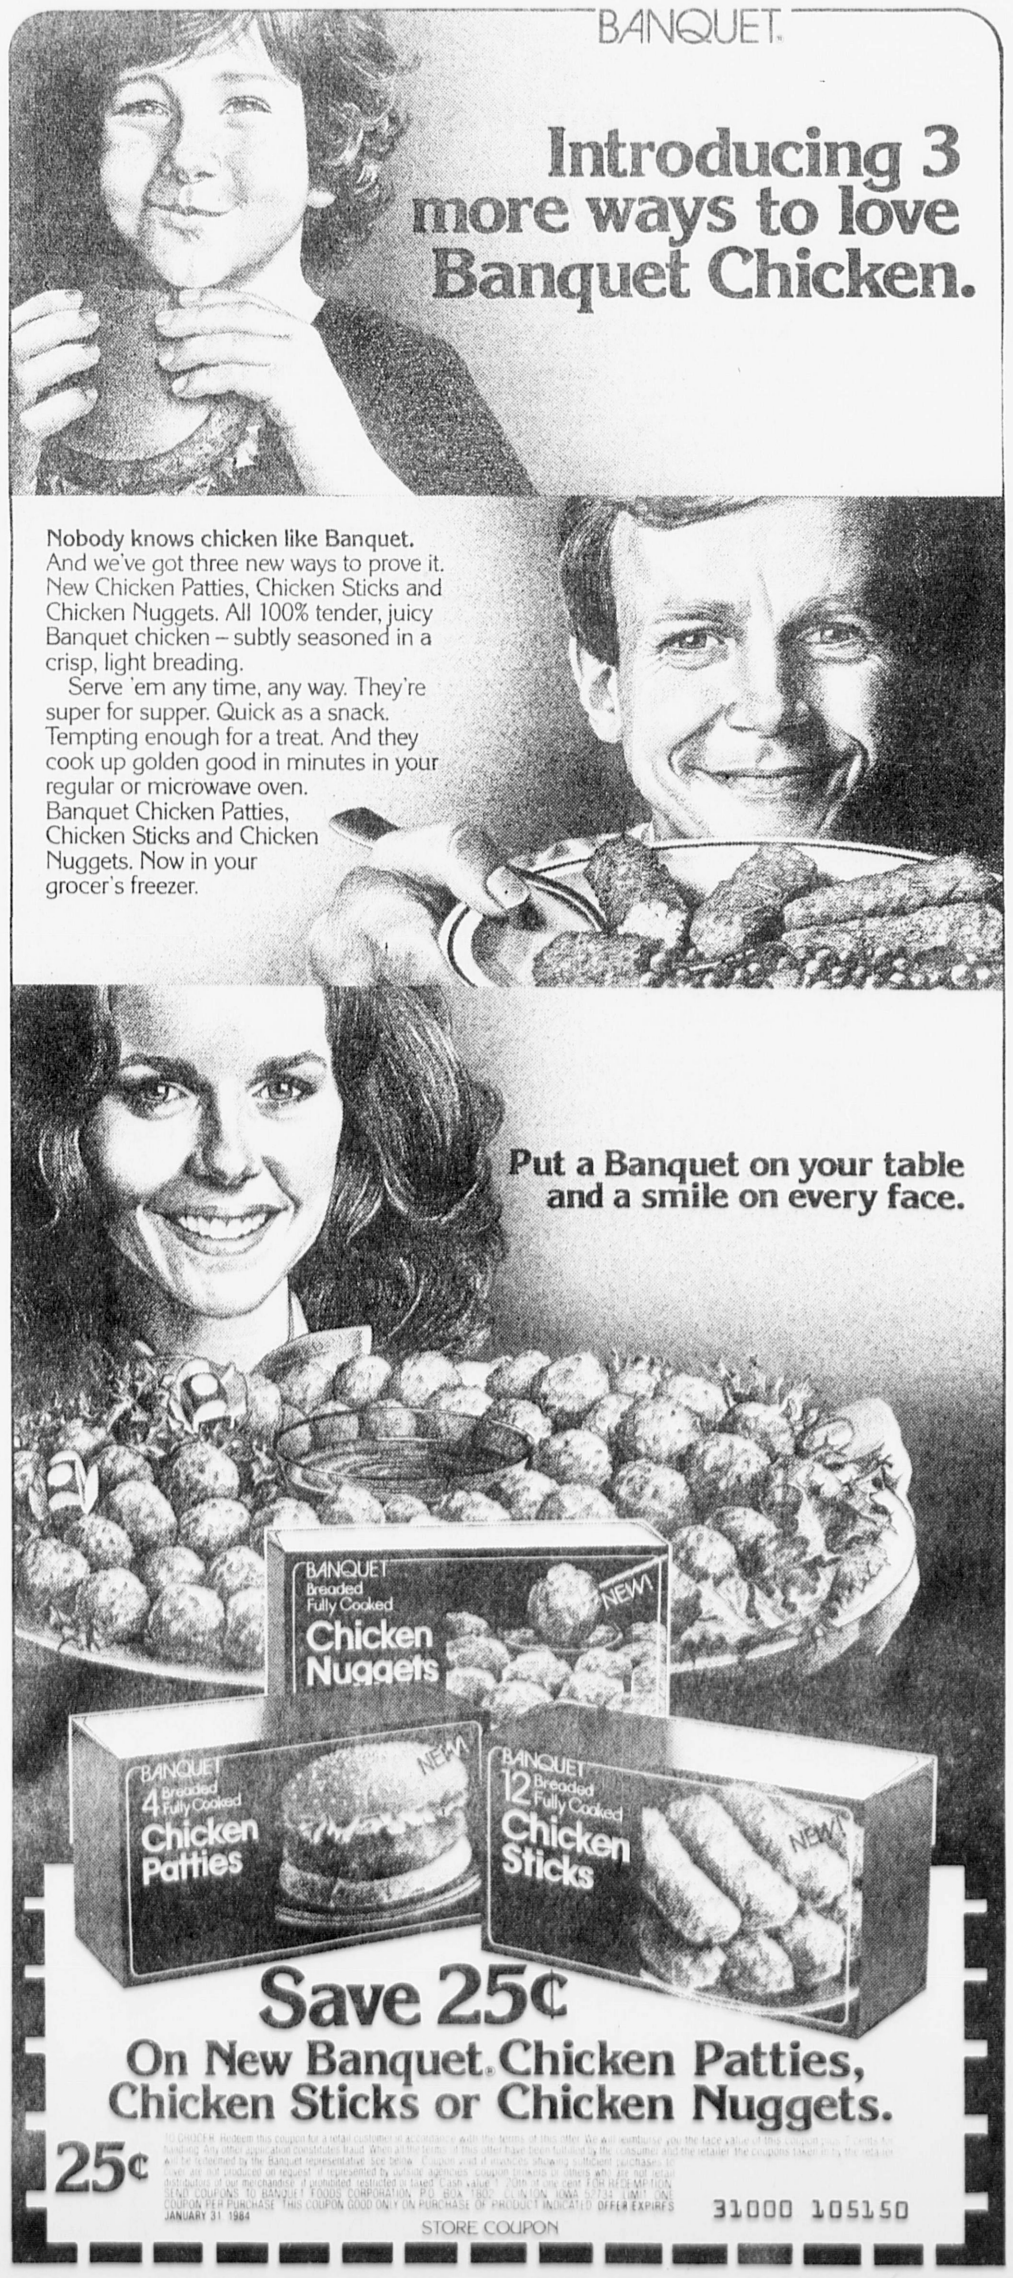

In the first place, he said, the report coming to the mayor this week is not really an audit of departmental operations or procedures. Rather, it is "a byproduct of reviewing financial controls" within departments, which was one of the aims of the financial audit, according to Devlin.

The results of that audit, described as the first phase, were sent to the city in November.

The second phase, known as a "management letter," was due a couple of weeks later, but it was held up by Devlin for revision. He said he had hoped to deliver the "management letter" by early December, but "It was a relatively sizeable document that needed to be reworked to make it more cohesive."

Devlin said a lot of the data in the final report needed to be "interrelated" to make any practical application feasible.

Officials ask for investigation

Claims city workers stealing wood

NEWTON — City officials pushed for an investigation last week after allegations city workers are stealing firewood meant for the general populace.

One resident told members of the Aldermanic Public Facilities Committee he had seen city workers steal wood cut from trees around the city and dumped for residents' use at the Rumford Avenue landfill.

The committee voted to hold up a review of the city's policy of distributing the much-wanted fuel pending a full investigation by Superintendent of Forestry Richard Metro.

"I know the problem is going on myself, but I need the resources to stop it," said Metro. "I can't follow every city truck."

A Newton resident, who asked that his name not be used because he said his wife fears retaliation by city workers, came before the committee and added more fuel to the charge of workers making off with the wood.

"We're getting ripped off," said the resident after telling the commission he's followed city trucks loaded with maple which never made it to the Rumford Avenue landfill. The city routinely piles the wood at the landfill for use by residents.

Metro touched upon the city policy of distributing wood from the more than 300 trees cut down in 1982 and said the policy came about after residents came out "like ants" to scavenge trees felled by city work crews. He said he believed it was dangerous for citizens to be near the work. He added residents darted in and out of the work site to get the logs.

Referring to the resident who said he had followed trucks, Alderman Elaine Gentile said, "The man's beef is the wood isn't getting to the Rumford Avenue site."

"I'll be the first man to discipline my men, but I need information to base a case on," said Metro, referring to the resident's statement he had the truck number and time of day regarding one incident of wood being dumped elsewhere.

"It's the city's responsibility to find out information and track down problems — not his," said Gentile, referring to the man who testified.

The scope of the investigation, as moved by Alderman Joseph DePasquale, will be to find out where the loads of wood are going, and what happens to the wood that does arrive at the landfill, but later "disappears" before residents can get it and look into the manner in which the wood is dumped at the site.

Regulations in effect concerning the free wood are as follows: "All wood resulting from tree removal will be transported to Rumford Avenue. Each week, all wood will be set aside in a designated location until the following Saturday, when it will be made available to residents..."

To be eligible to take the wood residents must come on Saturday mornings between te hours of 8 a.m. and noon and can only use automobiles or station wagons to load the wood into and they are further restricted by one load a Saturday, according to the regulations.

For further information regarding wood policy for Newton residents call 552-7120.

Court rejects officer's case

By Kevin C. Kennedy

NEWTON — A Newton police officer's complaint that he sustained injuries in the line of duty, prohibiting him from working for six months has been rejected by Middlesex Superior Court.

The court rejected Officer Vincent Dennis' claim that he should be reimbursed in full for the six months he was out of work because, while it was not argued he was not injured, it could not be proven the injury was caused by the incident Dennis cited, according to Newton Police Lt. Paul Robinson.

"The court never said, in the opinion, that he wasn't injured," Robinson said.

Dennis reportedly claimed he suffered neck injuries, during "a scuffle" at Garb Drug in Newton Centre, which made it impossible to perform his police duties for six months.

He went back to work right after the incident, Robinson said, and claimed later he had been injured.

According to City Solicitor Daniel Funk, witnesses at Dennis' trial, which stemmed from a complaint by Chief William F. Quinn, testified there was nothing in the incident at Garb Drug which might result in a neck injury to Dennis.

Dennis has appealed the court's decision. Addressing the appeal, Funk wrote Mayor Theodore D. Mann: "Although Officer Dennis has appealed the judgment, the decision was made on the facts, the judge having disbelieved that the injury was caused by the incident Dennis alleged. Thus, there is a poor chance that Dennis would be able to prevail on appeal."

Funk received the approval of the aldermen last week to pay an additional $5,748 to attorney Howard Kowal for representing Chief Quinn in the Dennis case. With this amount added to a prior appropriation of $2,500, it cost the city a total of $8,248 to argue against Dennis being reimbursed for six months worth of wages.

Asked if the cost of settling the case might not be higher than the amount Dennis requested, Funk guaranteed the Fincom the city would have lost more than the legal fees.

Dennis, meanwhile, is "back on a foot route", according to Robinson.

Dialogue with the mayor set

A public dialogue with Mayor Theodore Mann on citywide issues which affect the future of Newton schools, sponsored by PTAs of Bowen, Countryside and Hyde, is on Wednesday, Jan. 19 and starts at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Newotn Centre. Call 244-8858.

Chiropractic for Health
by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
OVERACTIVE CHILDREN
The hyperkinetic or overactive child usually owes his behavior to his physiology rather than his upbringing. There is rarely more than one hyperkinetic child in any one family and the ratio of overactive boys to overactive girls is 8 to 1. Constant arm and leg motion, compulsive aggression toward peers and parents, unpredictable reactions, impatience, short attention span, very poor coordination and/or poor sleeping habits are characteristics which distinguish a hyperactive child from one who simply lacks parental guidance. Tranquilizers or stimulants are often prescribed, however, a chiropractor's understanding of this problem as a neurological disorganization, or the body's inability to maintain a proper blood sugar level, can frequently get to the cause of the problem.
Chiropractic can often address problems other than those solely associated with pain and discomfort. Chiropractic attention deals with proper body communication and thus with body action and reaction. Every organ and extremity is affected by instructions from the brain. Should interference occur, normal activity and health can be disrupted. For the chiropractic attention you deserve call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale, today. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.
CHIRO TIP:
Hyperkinetic children sometimes display an extreme sensitivity to certain food additives.

Brotherhood names its 'Man of Year'

CHESTNUT HILL — The Brotherhood of Congregation Mishkan Tefila will hold its Annual Jack Wilson Memorial Breakfast at 9 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 16. At the event, which memorializes Past President Jack Wilson, the Brotherhood will honor as its Man of the Year, Jacob Birnbaum.

Birnbaum, of Newton, is past president of Mishkan Tefila Brotherhood and immediate past president of the New England Region of the National Federation of Jewish Men's Clubs.

Birnbaum founded the award winning annual Eternal Flame Holocaust Memorial Program. Presently he serves as coordinator of Holocaust Memorial Programming of the National Federation of Jewish Men's Clubs.

Birnbaum has further served Congregation Mishkan Tefila as president of the PTA and as a member of the Board of Directors and the Religious and the School Committees.

He has served a number of philanthropic endeavors, including the Facing History and Ourselves Foundation and the Combined Jewish Philanthropies. His professional activities have included serving as president of the Dental Laboratory Association of Massachusetts. He is currently on the board of the Jewish Community Council of Greater Boston.

JACOB BIRNBAUM

DR. BERNARD LOWN

The featured speaker, Dr. Bernard Lown, will deliver an address on the topic, "The Jewish Physician and the Threat of Nuclear War."

Dr. Lown, noted Boston physician, professor of cardiology in the Department of Nutrition at the Harvard School of Public Health, is president of International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War. An outstanding proponent of nuclear disarmament, Dr. Lown has gained national prominence; he recently participated in the historic Moscow television broadcast, which was observed by 200 million Soviet citizens.

Committee chairman for this event include: Dr. Nathan Birnbaum and Maxwell Rosenbaum, program; George Marshall and Herbert Lerman, reservations; Martin Hoffman, arrangements; Dr. David Honick and Brent Dribner, publicity; Leo Shufrin, Jason Burack, Morton Gondelman, William Silberstein, and Charles Weinfeld, food service; Henry Altman, printing and mailing; Herbert Lerman and Maurice Perlman, award; Mitchell Selig, poster; Dr. Phillip Bern, photography; Dr. Milton Glickstein, hospitality; Dr. Barry Benjamin, Dr. Herbert Birnbaum, and Fred Gliksman, advisory.

Mayor Theodore Mann and Louis Kaitz, both past Men of the Year honorees, will serve as honorary chairmen.

For ticket and reservation information, call George Marshall, 965-0141.

Local couple endow film, lecture series

BROOKLINE — A new film/lecture series entitled "Myth and Reality: Jewish Life in Eastern Europe Before the Holocaust" has recently been endowed at Hebrew College in Brookline, courtesy of Frances and Abraham Katz of Newton.

The Katzes, who say they have always been interested in Jewish education, established the series in response to the question "What would the Greater Boston Jewish community want and need?"

They said they became especially interested in this period of European history thanks to Hebrew College's current 10-part series, "Living with History: Fifty Years After Hitler Came to Power in Germany."

The series wil run for seven consecutive Wednesday evenings at the college, opening Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. and concluding March 23.

Mr. Katz, who is in the wholesale shoe business, said he attributed his entire business success to "the fact that my wife worked with me most of my career. I did the business and she ran the office."

Married 45 years, the Katzes have been Newton residents for the past 30 years.

As further testimony to their interest in education, they recently set up an educational trust fun for their eight neices and nephews, five of whom are currently going to college. "I didn't go to college myself, so I'm quite eager to send them," the pleased benefactor said.

First Unitarian Society Sunday School starts

WEST NEWTON — The Sunday School at the First Unitarian Society in West Newton began its second semester on Sunday, Jan. 9.

The church has a Religious Education Committee that decides what is to be taught before each semester begins. With the help of Jacalyn Shepherd, the religious education coordinator, the committee examines a number of curricula that have been prepared by the education specialists at Unitarian Universalist headquarters in Boston.

In a colorful, well-equipped classroom, pre-school children will be led through activities including songs and stories to help them feel good about themselves and others. They will discuss what friendship means and share in worship with "candle time."

A look at biblical and American folk heroes will be offered to first through third graders. Through the use of stories, games and song, children will learn of the wisdom and courage of such folks as the Israelite prophet Elijah, Sacajawea and Harriet Tubman.

The course "I Am Me" will be offered to fourth and fifth graders. The goal of this course is to help children value themselves as individuals and to enhance their respect for differences in others. Children will be encouraged to become more aware of and sensitive to the needs, experiences and feelings of others. Differences that will be explored are in the areas of learning, culture, sex, race and religion.

"Riders on the Earth" is the course that will be offered to sixth through ninth graders. This course aims to help them discover the role of freedom and responsibility. Part of this course will be a creative project centered around the theme of preservation of the earth.

The senior high class, tenth gade up to and including college age, will look at creativity. Through the use of theater games, modern dance, poetry games and experimental exercises, the class will actively examine creativity. Musicians, actors, poets, potters, painters, sculptors, novelists, architects, photographers and playwrights will participate in our discussion.

Members of the Society teach the courses, and teaching is not restricted to parents. Single members, older members who have no children or whose children are grown, are all participants in the process of educating the church's children.

The thrust of the Religious Education Program is to nuture each child's sense of self-worth and to help him or her develop his or her own set of values and beliefs.

Teachers for this semester are: Clare Kastner, Mary Schneider, Bruce Holbein for the pre-school and kindergarten group; Patsy Leibensperger, Kath Horne, Beth Nichols, Donna Caroll, Elinor Hernon for the first through third grade group; Virginia Fruhan and Linda Rinearson for the fourth and fifth grade group; Christine Samuelson and Jeff Nueman for the sixth and seventh grade group; Janet and Peter Norstrand for the eighth and ninth grade group; Cleone Graham, Michele Olem and Heidi Haudenschild supervising the creative project for sixth through ninth graders; Paul Hadley and Don Buell for the senior high groups.

Sunday morning in enhanced by a junior choir, open to all children, led by Hetty Proietti, and a children's chapel time for grades one through five. Babies and toddlers are cared for in a fully equipped nursery classroom during the church service. Sunday school classes run from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. For further information, call Jacalyn Shepherd at 527-3203.

EUROPEAN TRAIN VACATION
May 28, 1982 was a date that all travelers who long for the amenities and class of a bygone era will long remember. It marked the rebirth of the legendary Orient Express train once sped passengers through Europe to Istanbul. Although the route has been changed (London-Paris-Milan-Venice), the original cars have been restored to their glittering splendor. The 26-hour trip is packed with pomp and ceremony that the traveler is not likely to forget. The train leaves London twice weekly and Paris three times per week. Passengers can get on and off at will to take later trains.
Whether your next trip will take you on the Orient Express to Venice or by plane to another part of the world it makes sense to work with our professionals at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham. Travel today is a very complicated business best attended to by professionals in the field. There is no charge for our services so call 899-5658 today. We will take your PASSPORT PHOTO for overseas travel. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. 'til 8.

School plans scholarship exam

CHESTNUT HILL — Brimmer and May School in Chestnut Hill will hold its third annual Centennial Merit Scholarship examination on Saturday, Feb. 5, starting at 9:45 a.m. at the school.

Qualified students applying to grades 7 through 10 are eligible to take the competitive exam. Each applicant must have demonstrated qualities of "outstanding academic achievement, intellectual curiosity and personal integrity."

The Centennial Scholar will receive an annual merit award of $2,000 without regard to financial need. Should the recipient have a demonstrated need in excess of the grant, financial aid will be available.

The scholarship will be renewable annually, provided the student maintains a B or better average.

Interested applicants should contact Anne Reenstierna, director of admissions, at 566-7462 for an application. The form should be submitted by Feb. 1.

All information will be evaluated by the centennial scholarship selection committee, which will announce the winner on March 10.

Brimmer and May is an independent day school offering a program from pre-primary nursery and kindergarten through grade 12.

The student body includes pupils from 25 greater Boston communities, including Newton.

Contract control measure advanced

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A resolution which would require the mayor to keep the Board of Aldermen informed of any changes he makes in city contracts passed by a narrow margin in the aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee Wednesday night.

Board President Matthew Jefferson, who originally docketed the item last June after Mayor Theodore D. Mann upset some aldermen by changing parts of a contract with the firm which conducted the citywide revaluation, said he would ask that the resolution be changed to an ordinance when it comes before the full board.

Jefferson said he wanted to send a strong message to the mayor. "I want this to be binding. I don't mean that the mayor is less than honorable," he said. Anything less than an ordinance "would be meaningless," he added.

President Emeritus Wendell Bauckman said he had trouble with the propriety of Jefferson's proposal. "We don't want to tell the mayor what to do. I would prefer a resolution to an ordinance," Bauckman said.

He asked Jefferson, "Why don't you make it easy to get this through?"

"I have the courage of my convictions," Jefferson responded.

Asked if the proposed ordinance would "hamstring" the mayor in negotiating contracts, Jefferson said, "He can negotiate all he wants, but he has to come back to us and take the heat and show us why he changed a contract." He strongly denied that his proposed legislation would infringe on the mayor's right to make contracts.

Jefferson's proposal came out of committee as a resolution, but he admitted his only concern was to get it out of committee and before the full board.

Library plans MUSE concert Jan. 27

NEWTONVILLE — The Newton Free Library presents a MUSE concert, (Music Serving the Elderly), on Thursday, Jan. 27 at 1 p.m. at the Newtonville Branch of the Newton Free Library, 345 Walnut Street. Tom Atwood will be performing.

The concert is one of many of the library's Outreach Programs which include book reviews, free film showings and a local book delivery service for those unable to come to the library.

The free concerts are made possible by a grant from the Read-Eliot Fund. Transportation will be provided from the city apartments for the elderly.

Contact Judy Dore at the recreation departent 552-7120 if you want a ride. For more information, call Anna Hartogh, the Newton Free Library's Social Services Librarian, at 552-7145.

Rev. McLennan speaks Jan. 16 in city

WEST NEWTON — Reverend Scotty McLennan - an inspiration of the Doonesbury comic strip character Rev. Scott Sloan - will speak at the First Unitarian Society, West Newton Square, at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, Jan. 16.

"The Law and the Prophets: From Sinai to Dorchester" will be the topic of Rev. McLennan's sermon.

McLennan attended Yale University with Gary Trudeau, the creator of the "Doonesbury" comic strip. He remains a good friend of Trudeau, having officiated the marriage of Trudeau and "Today" show host Jane Pauley.

Rev. McLennan, a Unitarian Universalist minister and a lawyer, is director of the Unitarian Universalist Legal Ministry, located in the Uphams Corner neighborhood of Boston.

In his sermon, Rev. McLennan will examine what a law practice and the ministry have to do with each other, tracing the historic relations of law and religion up to today's crisis in the provision of legal services to the poor.

Rev. McLennan will also discuss the work of the Legal Ministry. The program is not a law office, but a referral and counseling center of the Uphams Corner community. It looks at a person's legal problems from the perspective of their whole life. As such, his work is both pastoral and legal.

The Legal ministry needs volunteer help, not only from lawyers, but also from counselors, social workers, mediators and translators. McLennan will be available after the service to answer questions about the Legal Ministry.

Center offers info and services

NONANTUM — The Nonantum Multi-service Center offers information and referral services to Newton residents. If you need assistance contacting resources in Newton, call 965-6390 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday for help. All calls will be handled confidentially.

The center is an intake agency for the low income energy assistance program. If you need assistance with fuel bills this winter and are living on a low income, call to see if you qualify.

The Nonantum Multi-service Center and West Suburban Elder Services offer hot lunches to senior adults at the center Monday through Saturday at noon. Call Bernadette at 965-6390 for a luncheon reservation or call Dorothy at 552-7170 for a transportation reservation.

Newton Community Schools and the Center will co-sponsor exercise for seniors at the center on Monday mornings at 8:45 a.m. Call for more information. Other recreational activities at the center include dancing ceramincs, crocheting, chess, bingo, table games, films and more. All seniors are welcome.

Newton Health Department registered Nurse Peg Weizel is resuming her popular diet class for the new year at the Center on Thursday mornings. Regularly scheduled health and blood pressure screening clinics continue on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings and Monday and Thursday afternoons.

Bella Norton won the color television set and Christine Cedrone the Christmas afgan at the drawing of the center holiday raffle.

Emanuel singles host wine, cheese party Sun.

NEWTON CENTRE — The Adult Singles Group of Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, will have a wine and cheese party to be held on Sunday evening, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Hall of the Temple, 385 Ward St., Newton Centre.

A musical program, featguring Norman Brody, a nationally famous singer formerly with the Winged Victory Singers, will follow the wine and cheese party.

A social hour will conclude the program and coffee and pastry will be served. All adult singles in the Greater Boston community are invited to attend. Admission is $4 per person.

Serving on the committee are the following: Natalie Kosow, Shirley Shapiro, Thelma Milla, Jean Moss, Alissa Sallet, Phyllis Kirschner, Jack Halperin, Mel Jacobs, Abe Koocher and Selig Yanes. Chester Rubin, Youth and Adult Activities Director of Temple Emanuel is advisor to the group.

Decline in science and math was top '82 education story

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

The wobbly state of science and math education in the nation's schools was the top education story for 1982 — and will continue to be of crisis proportions for several years.

The point was made throughout the year in numerous reports from science and math associations, technical schools and industries, the National Science Association and federal legislative bodies.

All noted the emergent high technology era is no time for math and science education to be falling down. America will lose out in the global education race, and even national defense will suffer if the deteriorating system isn't patched up and then rebuilt, numerous authorities warned.

The clearest definition of the danger came at year's end in the first of a series of reports from the National Science Board Commission on Precollege Education in Mathematics, Science and Technology.

The commission, operating under sponsorship of the National Science Foundation, is composed of 20 leaders from technology industries, colleges and universities, and grade and high school education.

"The problems summarized in our report — if left unresolved — will escalate in the years ahead," the commission said in turning over its report to Dr. Lewis M. Branscomb, chairman of the NSF commission.

"Thus, all Americans need to recognize the broad importance of mathematics, science and technology in the education of our youth.

"The seriousness of the current situation underscores the commission's resolve to develop ... an agenda for action for all sectors of society."

The letter accompanying the report was signed by co-chairmen William T.Coleman Jr., an attorney with a Washington, D.C., law firm, and Dr. Cecily Canaan Selby, chairman of the board of advisors, North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics, Durham.

The report cited data from a number of sources to document the decline in mathematics and science:

—Science achievement scores of 17-year-olds as measured in three national assessments of science (1969, 1973, 1977).

—Mathematics scores of 17-year-olds as measured in two national assessments of mathematics (1973, 1978); the decline was especially severe in areas of problem solving and applications of mathematics.

—Mathematical and verbal Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores of students over an 18-year period.

—Remedial mathematics enrollments at four-year institutions of higher education increased 72 percent between 1975 and 1980, while total student enrollments increased only 7 percent. At public four-year colleges, 25 percent of math courses are remedial. At community colleges, 42 percent are.

Teaching is the other side of the crisis cited in the report.

There is a severe and growing shortage of qualified teachers of mathematics and science. Some indications:

—In 1981, 43 states out of 45 in a survey reported a shortage of math teachers. For physics teachers, 42 states reported shortages.

—In the same year, 50 percent of the teachers newly hired nationwide to teach high school science and math were not certified to teach those subjects.

—From 1971 to 1980, student teachers in science and math decreased — threefold in science and fourfold in mathematics — and only half have actually entered the teaching profession.

—25 percent of those teaching now have stated they expect to leave the profession in the near future.

The commission found many students tuned out the subjects of science and math by the end of the third grade, due in part to the way information is presented.

Kids do like the science and technology they see on television, the report said. And they turn on to what they encounter at science and technology museums, planetariums, nature centers and national parks.

"Because these programs apparently are more appealing than school science offerings, the innovative instructional approaches used in them should be examined and, where possible, applied to the classroom setting," the report said.

"In general, precollege mathematics, science and technology instruction has yet to take advantage of the advances in technology and behavioral science of the past 20 years."

Exercise is a must for students

By JAMES H. LUDWIN

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — For many college students, physical exercise adds up to little more than some elbow-bending on the weekend, and that's a mistake, says John Reeves of the University of Rochester.

Exercise helps the brain work better, he says.

Reeves, director of sports and recreation at UR, says the lack of attention to physical fitness makes the academic aspect of college life that much harder to deal with and he insists it doesn't have to be that way.

Not only do most students pay too little attention to physical fitness, they "do a miserable job" at budgeting time to include periods of recreation, physical activity, and other extra-curricular activites, Reeves says.

Part of the problem, he adds, is a lifestyle inadvertently encouraged by colleges and universities.

Reeves says students generally keep odd hours, academic pressure is great and the emphasis on organized varsity sports often excludes the general student population from the use of various fields and facilities.

For the student, Reeves says fitness should not be a fad. He says a little attention to the body makes for a more alert mind, less fatigue and a greater ability to relax, all essentials to academic success.

"I don't think one time is particularly better then the other," for exercise, he says. What is important is consistency.

"Once we adopt a recreation schedule, there seems to be evidence that indicates that it's good to keep that schedule throughout."

"I'm for individual creativity. I think any intelligent student in college, especially with counsel from a staff member in sports and recreation, can choose an activity which is very appropriate to the needs and interests of the individual.

Area artists featured in sculpture show

NEWTONVILLE — The Newton Arts Center will hold a public reception on Friday, Jan. 14 from 6-9 p.m. to open an exhibition of sculptures by five Boston-area artists. This unusual collection of works will be showing at the Arts Center, 61 Washington Park, Newtonville, from Jan. 14 to Feb. 6.

The artists featured include Barbara Ward, who creates human forms from stuffed fabric; Catherine Holohan, who uses plaster, clay and found objects in her representational art; Linda Clement, fabric sculptor, whose "replicas" resemble 3-dimensional cartoons; William Fulbrecht, woodworker, who incorporates additional materials in sculptures made primarily of shaped and joined wood; and Linda Miller, who makes colorful structures from gridworks of paper and hand-woven fabric.

Gallery hours are Monday to Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sundays, Jan. 23 and Feb. 6, 2-4 p.m.

For more information call the Newton Arts Center at 964-3424.

Pine Manor receives $10,000 Mobil grant

CHESTNUT HILL — Pine Manor College, the four year liberal arts college for women, has been awarded a $10,000 grant from the Mobil Foundation. The grant has been designated for the purchase of hardware and software for use in the College's writing programs.

In announcing the receipt of the Mobil Foundation grant, Pine Manor College President Rosemary Ashby said, "We are grateful to the Mobil Foundation for its generous grant for the purchase of computer software and hardware for writing and editing. The gift will expand our word processing capabilities and further strengthen our writing programs, particularly in the Business Management B.A. sequence, and be well utilized in our advanced writing classes."

At Pine Manor College, where writing courses emphasize the development of skills in thinking and communicating clearly and consisely, word processors have become a key tool for students who develop the fundamental discipline of writing business letters, editorials, analyses, proposals and public addresses.

"The goal," President Ashby said, "is to integrate today's technology into our contemporary liberal arts program and to provide our students and graduates with a fluency in the technical resources which have become today's essential tools of commerce. Pine Manor College has always been committed to preparing its graduates with the skills and knowledge necessary to compete effectively in the marketplace."

The computer equipment, which will be provided for by the Mobil Foundation grant, is earmarked for eventual use in Pine Manor College's proposed new Library and Communications Center.

The Pine Manor College Library and Communications Center project - a $2.8 million undertaking designed to expand the College's current Library facility and to create a multi-media Communications Center - was launched in October, with the announcement of a $1 million anonymous Challenge Grant received by Pine Manor College. The grant requires that Pine Manor College raise $1.8 million by Dec. 30, 1983.

Health Dept. slates weight reduction and CPR programs

NEWTON — The Newton Health Department is offering several education programs to help residents start off a healthy new year.

Begining Jan. 10, a free 10 week weight reduction program is offered. The sessions are held in the evenings from 6:30-8 p.m. at the Newton City Hall Cafeteria, 1000 Commonwealth Ave., Newton Centre.

A special eight hour "Stop Smoking Clinic", sanctioned by both the Lung Association and the American Cancer Soceity, will be held at the Newton Community Srvice Center, 492 Waltham Street, West Newton, from 7-9 p.m. on the following dates: Jan. 17, 20, 24 and 27. At the class, participants will learn techniques to quit as well as receive support.

In addition to the above courses, the Department is continuing to offer monthly CPR classes. This is an eight hour Basic Life Support Class held in the evenings.

For information and registraion in any of the above programs, contact the Health Department at 552-7058.

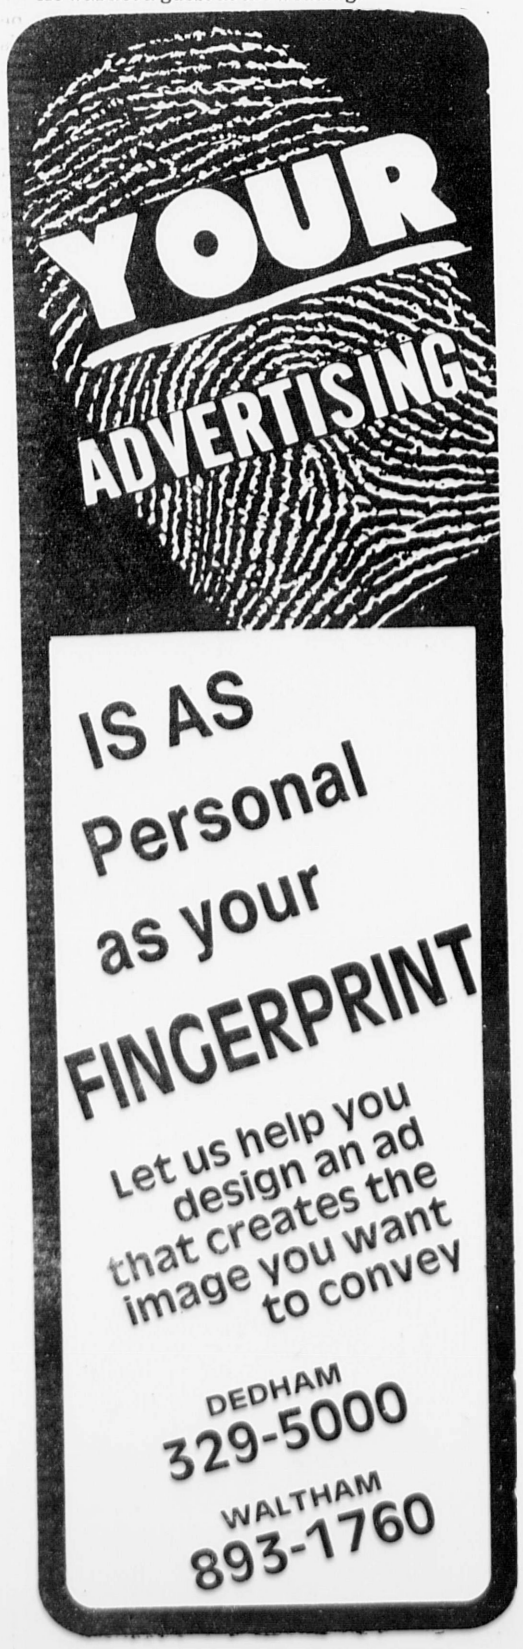

Women's group hosts Dr. Luccock Jan. 12

NEWTONVILLE — The Women's Association Central Congregational Church, 215 Walnut St., Newtonville, will meet Wednesday, Jan. 12 at the Second Congregational Church, Highland Ave., West Newton, at 12:15.

Dr. Robert Luccock will be the guest speaker. He came from a Methodist background to the United Church of Christ and was minister of the Church of the Redeemer in New Haven from 1949 to 1962.

Dr. Luccock's topic is "England in Slides and Stories." He will show some slides of Princess Diana and Prince Charles' wedding.

He was not a guest at the wedding.

Agreed to amendment

Cohen glad pension reform bill approved

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTON — A pension-reform bill spearheaded by Newton Rep. David Cohen was almost lost in the flurry of last minutes King administration finagling last week. In the end, the liberal Newton Democrat came out of the fray with the bill in hand, but had to go along with a final Edward King demand.

Cohen baffled a few fellow supporters of Michael Dukakis when, just before Dukakis' inauguration, Cohen agreed to an amendment to the pension bill which allowed outgoing Gov. King to name the first commissioner of public employee retirement.

Cohen, long known as a Dukakis backer, had specifically pushed for the bill's passage but with a provision that the commissioner be named at least a week after King left office. The bill won approval from the legislature and was sent to King for a signature.

The governor, however, sent the bill back to the House with proposed amendments including one which would give him power to make the appointment.

Cohen, who said last week he did not want to scuttle the reform package for the sake of barring another King appointment, accepted the amendment and pushed for the final passage of the bill.

The bill was approved and, as one of his last acts in office, King named his chief secretary John J. McGlynn to a five-year term as the first commissioner.

Cohen, in an interview Friday, said such a move which appeared to favor the last-minute flurry of appointments by King was questioned by both colleagues and voters in Newton.

Rep. David Cohen

"As it turns out," Cohen said, "this bill is really the only piece of significant reform legislation that has come out of this lame duck sessin.

"It was essentially King who made it clear that the amendment would go in by his actions," the Newton Democrat said. "He had an absolute veto here. He could pocket veto the entire bill with only 36 hours left in the sessin."

The pension reform bill, which, Cohen said, can be adopted at the option of local governments, "gives greater credibility to the disability pension process."

Before the bill was approved, Cohen said, the system in Massachusetts for granting disability pensions "was weighted in favor of the claimant." Now the system, if employed by municipalities, would create a regional medical panel from which retirement boards could seek opinions.

The bill would also lay the groundwork for changing the choices boards have when giving disability pensions, Cohen said. At present retirement boards cannot find a worker only partially disabled and capable of being retrained or rehabilitated.

"Right now you are either totally disabled or you are fit to work," Cohen said. "That simply does not work out in the real world.

"My feeling is that most people want to work," he said. "I think most people would take advantage of a program of rehabilitation which would help them get back to work.

"Then it wouldn't be a matter of coercing people to work."

Noting the pressure put on to get the bill approved before the legislative session ended — and the lawmakers had to begin anew with the bill — Cohen said he was happy the reform bill was signed by Gov. King.

"Now, for the first time, the legislature has said 'yes, we are making serious moves in terms of reform'," he said.

"The bill was, from the beginning, an attempt to clean up an area that does have abuses and even inequities."

Cohen said that after initial press reports of the bill by Boston newspapers, and reporting of his agreement to go along with King's amendment to the bill, his change in stance could have raised a few eyebrows.

"I really looked like my hands were in the old cookie jar," he quipped.

City joins others against work of revaluation firm

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Some cities and towns which hired the Acton-based Finnegan Associates firm for revaluation of property are withholding as much as $65,000 to show dissatisfaction with the company's work.

Newton assessors have banded with their colleagues in Randolph and Billerica, to name two communities, in holding back final payment to the revaluation firm.

The amounts being witheld vary from around $65,000 in Newton to $42,000 in Billerica, and $15,000 in Randolph.

Mike Blatus, chief assessor in Dracut, said last Thursday he wishes he had withheld some money from Finnegan. Complaining that the representatives of the evaluation firm "make my stomach turn," Blatus said, "We were too lenient with them" in making payments on the contract.

"We had too much faith in them," he said. Referring to Newton's decision to withold final payment, Blatus said, "If I had $60,000 of their money, they'd have to whip it out of me. They'd have to take me to court every day."

Blatus complained that the Finnegan firm's work was "very sloppy" — so "sloppy" that another firm had to be brought in, at the additional cost of some $5,000, "to straighten things out."

Blatus said tax bills have yet to be sent out, and that the Dracut Town Council has yet to determine just what kind of a suit will be pressed against Finnegan.

Newton's Chief Assessor Robert Palmer appears as the master of gentlemanly conduct, compared to some of his colleagues, when he speaks of Finnegan Assoc., the problems they left behind for his department to solve and his decision to withold the final 10 percent payment on the contract.

He said the money is being withheld because Finnegan never delivered certain materials, like assessors' maps, to the city. Finnegan also failed to meet certain deadlines which were written into the contract with Newton, according to Palmer.

His department has had to process more than 6,700 abatement applications from property owners who thought Finnegan put too high a value on their property. A total of six months extension of the deadline for processing these abatement applications and more than $110,000 in additional appropriations for temporary staff, are only part of Finnegan's legacy in Newton.

The city's chief assessor said the $65,000 being withheld from Finnegan is not available for use in his department. The funds will remain "encumbered" until negotiations between the city and Finnegan have been resolved. "Contracts are made to be negotiated," Palmer said calmly.

In Billerica, Finnegan has threatened to destroy computer tapes containing valuable property value information if the town does not pay the final $42,000 owed on its $280,000 contract. Assessors estimated that it would cost "tens of thousands of dollars to recreate the information."

According to published reports, the town's Board of Assessors fired Finnegan on Sept. 1 after a dispute over the final payment. Only around-the-clock shifts and seven temporary staffers reportedly allewed for the completion of the revaluation in Billerica. Money borrowed against the delayed revenues will reportedly cost the town some $70,000 in interest charges.

Howard Ralston, an associate assessor in Billerica, told the Lowell Sun of Finnegan's threats, "That's called playing hardball. It's an act of desperation. They want us to yell, 'Please don't do it. Take anything. Take our watches. Take our jewelry.'"

Newton owns the computer tapes which Finnegan assembled, so its position is considerably less vulnerable to intimidation than Billerica's.

Randolph's Chief Assessor Edward Daly said he is withholding approximately $15,000 from Finnegan Assoc. because of "some tail ends" that have to be finished up and because the firm missed so many of its deadlines.

Dealines were missed, according to Daly, because the firm sent most of its personnel to Newton after that contract was awarded. Newton's contract was for more than $600,000, while Randolph's was only for $130,000.

"They took on Newton, and it was, 'See you later, Daly,'" he said. "They could send two people to Newton for $2,000 a week, where the same two people would only get $300 a week in Randolph.

"There were a lot of broken promises," he added. "They told me, 'Next Friday.... Next Friday,' and when I yelled, they'd send me a lollypop."

A "lollypop," according to Daly, was a neophyte to revaluation who would sit in the assessors' office and read a newspaper for two weeks. Daly confided that he it was just as well the man Finnegan sent down to Randolph did nothing to compound the firm's errors.

After all, Daly had to admit his town was not in the bad shape some other municipalities were after Finnegan. "We're riding along pretty well now, but I wouldn't give them a 'Class A' rating," he said.

Daly attributes his relative success with Finnegan to his ceaseless oversight of their operation and to a contract he drew up that he said was unlike any other he has seen. Finnegan agreed to revalue Randolph, to conduct the necessary public hearings and, after certification, to handle all abatement applications, making recommendations on them and giving specific reasons for those recommendations.

Daly said that making Finnegan responsible for abatements acted as "a little bit of incentive to do it all correctly."

As to his own diligence in overseeing Finnegan's methods, Daly said, "I was on top of them continually...continually. I lived with them full time, even weekends. I almost slept with them.

"I withheld money right straight through the contract. I walked around with $6,000 checks in my pocket for months," until Finnegan did things right, he said.

Daly added that, as far as he could tell, Newton badly needed more personnel in its Assessing Department to accomplish the mammoth task of revaluation.

The Board of Aldermen recently gave the department an additional $20,000 to keep temporary staff working until an independent audit was done on departmental procedures.

Pact pleases administrators

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Newton school administrators voiced no opposition Thursday in voting unanimously to ratify a two-year contract with a 5.5 percent yearly pay raise, the same increase accepted by teachers in November.

The only evidence of discontent was possibly in the low turnout – 36 percent of the 85 administrators, principals and coordinators eligible to vote. Union officials, however, ruled out this interpretation.

"This is not unusual," Newton Teachers' Association President Rosetta Johnson said of the turnout to vote on the administrators or "Unit B" contract.

"I don't find any significance in the number of persons that did not vote at this time," the union head said.

In past votes on Unit B contracts, the turnout has been somewhere between 25 and 50 percent, according to Johnson. Only a simple majority of those who vote is required to ratify a contract.

Johnson said people she had talked with about the terms seemed to have "positive feelings" about the contract.

Administrators, who bargain separately from teachers, were presented on Dec. 20 with the terms of a package recommended by a state mediator to bargaining teams from the Newton Teachers' Association (NTA) and the School Committee.

"At that meeting we did not read any signifcant opposition," she said.

In reaching agreement on the package, NTA officials, school officials and the mediator held two sessions.

The NTA is the bargaining representative for both the teachers (Unit A) and administrators (Unit B) contracts.

The Unit B two-year contract came up for negotiation this summer and fall because it contained a one-year wage reopener provision. The teachers two-year contract expired in September.

The two-year contract agreement ratified by administrators Thursday means that both the teachers and administrators contracts will expire at the same time – when school starts in 1984. There is no wage reopener clause in the new administrators contract.

Salary increases for both Units A and B are retroactive to the beginning of this school year.

A major gain for administrators, Johnson said, was the addition of a new pay step for people hired after 1973 who have more than eight years of service.

Salary schedules for administrators hired before 1972 and after 1973 contained an inequity in terms of pay, according to Johnson, with people hired before 1972 being paid more at the higher end of the scale than people hired after 1973.

A ninth step added to the post-1973 salary schedule "begins to solve the problem of the inequity," Johnson said. The step means a $750 increase in salary for those who have nine years of service.

"We feel that this step to correct this inequity has been far overdue," Johnson said.

The new contract also contains for the first time an agency fee for non-union members. An agency fee was also introduced into the teachers' contract this year.

The fee will require non-union members to support the cost of the NTA's negotiating for them. Johnson said payment of the fee will be a condition for all new people hired by the Newton schools.

The amount of the payment will be "the full membership dues" of $240 a year, she said.

Of that sum, $53 goes to the National Educators Association (NEA), $147 goes to the Massachusetts Teachers Association and $40 goes to the NTA, Johnson said.

Members of the union's negotiating team for the Unit B contract were Johnson, Dick Adams, chairperson of Unit B, Herb Callahan, Scott Guild, Pat Kelley, Dan Malia, Warren Moore, Sam Turner, Burt Weiner as liason from Unit A, and Elaine O'Brien, the NTA field respresentative.

The NTA's immediate past president, Janet Goldrick, also participated until she began her appointment as the new Burr Elementary principal in September.

MacKay's goaltending sparks Tiger ice win

By Steve Tiberi, Staff Writer

WATERTOWN — After it was all over and each coach had a chance to take a moment to disect what had just happened, the verdict was unanimous.

The difference in Newton North's 4-3 hockey victory over rival Waltham Saturday night at the Watertown Skating Arena was Tiger goaltender Steve MacKay. The junior netminder made 28 saves including several big stops in the final minutes to preserve the victory.

"This was a team victory in every sense of the word," said Newton North coach Don Crowley. "We had quite a few players turn in tremendous efforts. Steve was a big key for us against Waltham. He really had a good night and played well. When a goalie plays well it can give the entire team a big lift."

Waltham outshot Newton North, 31-26, in the contest. The Hawk forwards played their usual strong forechecking game, but they couldn't get one past MacKay in the final period to tie the game.

"Their goaltender played a real fine game," said Waltham coach Peter Yetten. "He frustrated us in the first period when we were getting the better chances and in the third period he came up with the big save when it was needed."

The score was knotted at 3-3 entering the final frame. Waltham's goaltender Jay Allen played a strong game and he made two quality stops in the opening minutes of the third period. Allen made a fine glove save on a slap shot from North defenseman Paul Boudreau at the point.

Newton North kept the pressure on, however, and the Waltham defense couldn't clear the puck out of the zone. North captain Tom Whiting was at the right point and he slid a pass over to David Buckley (who already had two goals to his credit). The junior defensemen was open and he drilled a shot that appeared headed wide of the net.

Tiger winger Mike Burns was stationed in front of the net and he deflected the shot into the Waltham goal for what turned out to be the game winner. Allen didn't have a chance to make the save as the puck was deflected too quickly.

"The bounces just didn't go our way tonight," said Yetten. "They scored a couple of quick goals on us early in the game and the last goal is a tip-in. The team did play its best game of the season, but a couple of mistakes hurt us."

Frantic efforts to tie the contest by Waltham went by the boards as MacKay and the Newton North defense kept all scoring opportunities to a minimum. The Hawk line of Bob St. Cyr, Tom Pascal and Bernie Murphy had the best scoring chance in the third period.

The Hawks were buoyed by a pair of successful penalty killing efforts. Waltham's penalty killers allowed North just one shot on goal in two power play attempts.

Waltham's forwards attacked the North zone in search of the equalizer. The best chance came with seven minutes to go. St. Cyr drilled a shot from the right side and MacKay made the save. The rebound skidded in front of the net. Alertly, Pascal backhanded the loose puck on the net, but MacKay slid over and blocked the shot with the right pad and he tied it up.

Pascal was in front for another try at netting the tying goal just three minutes later. The sophomore center's low shot was caught by MacKay. Waltham pulled its goalie with 40 seconds left, but couldn't get a shot on goal.

North's Chris Pachus and Tom Ryan did a fine job of forechecking and keeping the Waltham attackers bottled up in their own end. Ryan helped North get on the board first with an assist on the opening goal.

Waltham outshot North in the first period, 14-11, but the Tigers scored twice. Buckley opened the scoring for Newton with 4:40 played. A little more than two minutes later, Tom Grady took a John Hickey pass and scored. The period ended with Newton ahead, 2-0.

Waltham assumed control of the contest in the second period scoring three straight goals and getting a fourth called back. After Allen made pair of saves to hold the lead at two goals, Waltham scored when center Bill Manion scooped up a loose puck in front and backhanded the puck under a sprawling MacKay.

The goal, which came at 3:44 of the period, boosted the Hawks. The game was tied three minutes later on a blistering slap shot by senior defenseman John Giardina on a power play. Forward Bob St. Cyr did a good job of stopping the puck before it went over the blue line and Giardina did the rest by whacking a shot about wast high that caught MacKay's shoulder and trickled into the goal.

The lead went to Waltham later in the period. The Hawks were in a four-on-three situation when Pascal got the puck in alone to the right of MacKay. Pascal's back was to the goal, but he surprised MacKay by slipping a backhander through his legs and under MacKay's pads for the go-ahead goal at the 6:39 mark of the period.

Less than three minutes later, Newton North tied the contest. Newton North capitalized on a power play. Buckley made a brilliant end-to-end rush. He split the Waltham defense and snapped a shot that picked the corner to Allen's stick side.

"David played a tremendous game for us," said Crowley. "His goal was a big lift. This win is a big one for us."

Newton North is 5-1 overall and 3-0 in the Suburban League. Waltham dropped to 1-1 in the league and 4-2-1 overall.

The Waltham junior varsity defeated Newton North, 2-0, Saturday night at the Veterans MDC Rink on Totten Pond Road. Keith Vanderlinden put the Hawks ahead with a second period goal. John Studley and Brian Corcoran each picked up an assist on the play.

Pat Kavey added an insurance goal in the third period. Mark Bourgeois assisted on the goal. Goaltender Dan Archibald had 17 saves, including two big stops on breakaways. The win improved Waltham's record to 3-2.

North girl hoopsters win 49-47

NEWTON — The Newton North girls' basketball team started well, finished well and survived a letdown in between, conquering Quincy 49-47 Friday night in Newton.

The Tigers had led for much of the game, when an 18-point Quincy outburst in the third quarter boosted the Presidents to a 41-37 lead going into the final frame.

Newton, according to Coach Allyson Toney, "regained their composure," and led by veterans Beth Kelley, Kathy Maguire and Stephanie Stoyanoff, took command again in the final period.

With the Tigers trailing by one, 47-46, Stoyanoff scored her only bucket of the game, a soft 10-footer, to give Newton the lead they did not surrender. Maguire, who finished with a game-high 18 points, hit her tenth free throw of the game with one second left for the final point.

Kelley, who scored all 10 of Newton North's thrid-quarter points, finished with 14.

The Tigers, now 2-3, will travel to Cambridge Rindge and Latin on Tuesday.

Poor 2nd period costs Lion skaters

BRIGHTON — The Newton South hockey team battled a strong Bedford team to a 3-3 stalemate–for two periods, that is. In the crucial middle frame, however, the Buccaneers erupted for three goals to seal a 6-3 victory Monday afternoon at the Cleveland Circle Rink.

The Lions, who now stand at 1-4 after the Dual County League setback, got off to a fine start, as John Cohen's blueline blast got by Bedford's freshman netminder, John Gagan only 1:11 into the game. Peter Kline and John Jewett picked up the assists on the play.

The Newton lead lasted slightly more than six minutes, as a Bedford tally at 7:13 knotted the score. The crusher came with only 36 seconds remaining in the opening stanza, as Bedford's Chris Birch got the first of his hat trick to give the Buccaneers a 2-1 lead going into the first intermission.

Things went sour for the Lions in the second period, as the line of Birch, Jim O'Shaughnessy and Kevin St. Onge teamed up to terrorize Newton goalie Rich Wenning. The trio combined for the third Bedford goal, with Birch notching his second off a scramble in front at 4:48.

Two minutes later, it was O'Shaughnessy's turn, and Bedford led 4-1. Another Buccaneer tally at 10:14 spelled doom for the Lions.

To their credit, Newton played the final stanza as though it were the first, with John Jewett netting the second Lion tally of the game at 5:52, as he streaked up the right side before firing a shot into the left corner of the net. Cohen and John Stephens assisted on the play.

After Birch picked up his third of the contest for Bedford, Cohen got his second goal (and third point), as he manuevered his way across the ice, before hitting the left corner of the net with a low drive. The goal, the last of the afternoon, was assisted by defenseman Mark Paglia.

Lion Coach Charlie Rezzuti said his team might have been somewhat tired out after their 7-4 loss to Boston Latin only two days before, but added that he was pleased with the way his troops rebounded in the final period.

Rezzuti also targeted his team's ineffective power play, which was shut out in six attempts, for some heavy practice work before the Lions hit the ice again next weekend.

Senior goalie Rich Wenning, who stopped 27 shots, including 12 in the second period, continued to look sharp between the pipes for the Lions.

On Saturday, Newton will travel to Concord to face Lincoln-Sudbury in a DCL battle at the Assabet Rink.

Backcourt mates

The Newton North boys' basketball team derives much of its offensive production from the senior backcourt combination of Mark Coppola (R) and John Humphrey (L).

Ryan leads North skaters

QUINCY — Tom Ryan poked in a loose puck with eight seconds left to propel the Newton North hockey team to a 3-2 triumph over North Quincy Wednesday night in a Suburban League contest at the Quincy Youth Arena.

North Quincy had tied the Tigers with a little more than six minutes to play in the contest. Newton North pressed the North Quincy zone for the remainder of the final frame, but to no avail until Ryan leaped over a pile of bodies to backhand the puck into the goal for the winning margin.

"It was very big win for us," said Newton North coach Don Crowley, whose team is 2-0 in the league and 4-1 overall. "We pressed them quite well in the third period, but they managed to get off a couple of good chances themselves. We were without some key personnel, but the team was able to get together."

Newton North was without the services of forward John Hickey. The slack was taken up by Dave Buckley, who played solid all-around game. Sophomore Tim Marchand also did some solid work on the boards and he started two of the goals, including the game winner.

Tiger goalie Steve MacKay was solid. In the late stages of the third period, he made two great stops to keep the score tied. "Steve was outstanding in goal," said Crowley. "He made a couple of good stops in the late going."

The Tigers got out to a 2-0 lead midway through the second period. Ryan picked up his first goal of the night just a minute into the period. Linemates Chris Pachus and Marchand assisted on the play.

Pachus then scored the second Newton North goal in the middle frame. Ryan and John Healey assisted on the play. North Quincy scored twice to tie it.

Marchand started the winning goal with some solid work in the corners. He passed to Buckley, who drilled a shot in front. Ryan was there to pick up the rebound. The summary:

North matmen 3rd in tourney

BELMONT — Newton North finished third in the Belmont Holiday Tournament held Saturday. The Tigers compiled a 104 point total, which was behind Triton (145) and Belmont (125½).

Mark Fabian was the lone Newton North champion at 107. The top-seeded Fabian won three straight matches to gain the title. John Bresnahan, who was the defending champ at 140, was defeated in the finals. Liam Griffin (100), Foster Lin (114), Jimmy Walker (169) and Leo Butera (187) were all third place finishers for the Tigers. Steve Hartman copped as fourth place at 140.

Weston defeated both Lincoln-Sudbury and Newton South in a triangular meet. The Wildcats defeated Lincoln, 33-19, and topped Newton South, 38-21. Weston heavyweight Joe Tagliente copped wins in each match. Chuck Peeters was a big winner against Lincoln.

Eric Karchmer's victory at 157 stopped a Newton South rally for Weston. The Lions received back-to-back wins by Rob Shone and Mike Newmark to attempt a comeback.

Mites avenge Tri-Valley loss

NEWTON — The Newton Mite travel team won two games while losing three during the long holiday vacation. One of the victories was a 3-1 triumph over Tri-Valley that avenged an earlier defeat, but they also dropped a 7-1 contest to Belmont in their annual Christmas game.

In the 11th annual Cranberry Tournament in Pembroke, Newton beat Duxbury, 4-2, in an exciting battle. Duxbury moved ahead 2-0 before Billy Kerrisey scored for Newton near the end of the first period.

In the second period, Dennis Burke scored the first of his hattrick off a magnificent feed from Andy Stocklan. Burke's second goal came near the end of the second stanza on a great individual effort, while he completed his hat trick in the final frame by putting in a rebound of a Stocklan shot.

Although Newton outplayed Duxbury, outshooting them 28-11, Duxbury had nine breakaways on goalie Jonathan Weiner. On all but two occasions, however, he was equal to the task.

Newton did not fare as well against either Neponset or Bridgewater-Taunton, losing 5-2 and 7-1, respectively. Against Neponset, Newton was outshot 20-6 and faced seven separate shorthanded occasions. Newton goals were by Paul DeMaio and Dennis Burke.

In the game with Bridgewater-Taunton, Newton was outshot 24-8, and only Stocklan's third period backhanded tally prevented a shutout.

The Newton PeeWee AA had a successful weekend, winning on Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday in Burlington, Newton jumped out to a 5-0 lead and was never headed, trouncing Lexington 8-2.

Steven Silk, Michael Olson, David O'Connor, Willy Bachner and David Frechette all tallied in the opening period to get the winners started, with Olson and Silk scoring again in the second frame.

After Lexington scored in the early stages of the third period, Peter Menges picked up the final Newton goal late in the game.

On Sunday, the PeeWee AA squad disposed of Framingham, a team they had tied twice previously, by a 4-1 verdict at the Loring Arena in Framingham.

Goalie Doug Michals backstopped the victory, receiving defensive help from David O'Connor, Tom Tocci, Robbie Misasi and Fred Mitchell.

Peter Menges got the first Newton tally, after stealing a pass at the blue line, and three minutes later, Steven Silk did the same for a 2-0 Newton lead.

Only 17 seconds after his goal, Silk set up linemate Michael Dezotell, who jammed the puck under the Framingham netminder. Three minutes later, David Frechette got Newton's final goal, converting a feed from Will Bachner.

Michals lost his shutout bid with only three and a half minutes left in the game.

The double-win weekend left Newton with an 18-7-4 log, with their next game in Burlington next Saturday, when they take on Melrose.

Newton North five routs Quincy

QUINCY — Newton North wasted little time in getting the jump on Quincy Friday night. The Tigers opened up a 19-2 lead in the first quarter and cruised to a 78-28 victory over the weak Presidents.

It was the first Suburban League win of the campaign for the Tigers against one loss. North was led by the solid backcourt tandem of John Humphrey and Mark Coppola. The confident senior guards took turns controlling the contest and setting up the offense.

Coppola, more of a scorer, filled the bucket with 15 points to lead all scorers. Humphrey, who is more of playmaker, tossed in 10 points. Forwards Bruce Corwin and Eric Fortune each netted 10 points for the Tigers, while teammates Duffy Plunkett and John Coppola scored eight points apiece.

Newton North's defense held Quincy to just four points in the first quarter and three points in the fourth quarter. Sophomore Greg Lee didn't score, but he contributed with eight rebounds.

NEWTON NORTH(78)-M. Coppola 5-5-15; Humphrey 3-4-10; Lee 0-0-0; Fortune 5-0-10; Plunkett 3-2-8; Morreale 0-0-0; Corwin 3-4-10; Gallant 1-0-2; Berrigan 2-1-5; J. Coppola 4-0-8; Daniels 2-0-4; Maye 1-0-2; Zalkind 2-0-4. Tot. 31-16-78.

QUINCY(28)-B. Mudge 4-5-13; Gilbody 4-0-8; Flynn 1-0-2; Britt 1-0-2; Draicchio 1-0-2; Stasio 0-0-0. Tot. 11-6-28.

Mishkan Tefila drops 1st game

BROOKLINE — The basketball team of Temple Mishkan Tefila was unable to overcome 40 turnovers and 12 for 28 shooting from the foul line, as they dropped a 65-64 decision to Maimonades Monday night in United Synagogue Youth League basketball at the Runkle School in Brookline.

In the first period, a series of errant passes and turnovers enabled Maimonades to take a 15-13 lead into the second quarter.

In the second stanza, Steve D'Angelo and Oliver Ruby tallied six points apiece as Mishkan Tefila closed the gap to one, 34-33, at the half.

In the third quarter things went from bad to worse for Mishkan Tefila, as they committed 15 turnovers and scored only seven points, to trail 52-43 going into the final frame.

A full-court press, however, began to take effect for Mishkan Tefila, and with Teddy Rubin scoring 10 of his game high 22 points in the quarter, Mishkan Tefila began to creep back into the contest, finally achieving a 60-60 tie with one minute to play.

Following a Maimonades hoop for a 62-60 lead, Ruby connected on a twisting layup to knot the score again. With only five seconds left, however, Maiminades' Josh Singer laid in an offensive rebound and converted the ensuing free throw to complete the three-point play. Although Ruby hit another bucket to narrow the gap, there was not enough time for Mishkan Tefila to get another.

Newton South quintet posts seventh victory

WESTON — Like a hot knife through butter, the Newton South basketball team continued to cut through the Dual County League, with the Lions' latest victory coming at the expense of Weston, 84-51, Friday on the losers' court.

For Newton South, the win was the fifth without a loss in DCL play (7-0 overall), while the Wildcats (1-7 overall) are still after their first league victory against four losses.

The Lions set the tempo early, jumping out to a 20-8 lead in the first quarter. The initial attack, as is usually the case, was led by center Scott Anglin (7 for 7 shooting) and point guard Meatchie Russell (five assists), who combined to give the Lions a 23-11 lead at the quarter mark.

The Wildcats, however, weren't ready to go down without a fight, bouncing back in the second period to narrow the gap to as little as five, 34-29, with just over one minute left before halftime. Jamie Turner's eight points in the second stanza led the way for comeback-minded Weston.

After scoring the last three points of the first half, the Lions ended any faint hopes for an upset by exploding for 23 third quarter points, while Weston was held to 12.

As it was in the opening frame, Russell and Anglin led the way for Newton after intermission. By the time the second half was three minutes old, the Lions had built an 18-point margin, 51-33, and Coach Joe Killilea had inserted the reserves.

For the game, the senior Anglin scored 26 points (12 for 13 shooting), picked up eight rebounds and blocked four Wildcat attempts. Runningmate Russell checked in with 17 points, eight rebounds and 10 assists.

The Lions' subs didn't let up any, continuing to up the lead, with the 33-point margin of victory the largest gap of the night.

The Newton South junior varsity won in less routine style, as a dramatic rally brought them back from a 14-point fourth quarter deficit to a 50-46 victory.

Kevin Houlihan, with seven points in the final quarter, led the way for the Lions. He and Steve Shapiro tied for Newton scoring honors with 11 apiece.

The victory pushes the jayvees' record to 5-2.

Next up for the South hoopsters is a Tuesday afternoon journey to Boston Latin.

Despite a 15-point performance from 6-3 center Rod Green, St. Patrick's was defeated by North Cambridge Catholic, 57-43. The Knights trailed, 10-7, after the first period and never could catch up as North Cambridge opened up a 22-13 lead at the half.

Senior forward Kevin Ryan paved the way for North Cambridge with 15 points, while Bill Cochran tossed in 10 points for the winners. Led by Scott Hough's 20 points, the Rivers School basketball team blasted the Brooks School 69-42 Friday afternoon on the winners' court.

Hough, a sophomore forward, came out blazing, gettting 14 points of his game-high total in the first half, helping Rivers to a 37-10 halftime advantage.

Kevin Sims also tossed in 17 points for the Redmen.

Rivers, now 2-0 in Independent School League action (4-2 overall) will play host to the Rhode Island-based Moses Brown School on Wednesday afternoon. The summaries:

North trackmen roll

NEWTON — The Newton North track team won eight of 10 events Friday afternoon en route to a decisive 63-23 over Waltham in a Suburban League battle.

Leading the way for the winners was hurdler and co-captain John Drew, whose winning effort of seven seconds was the best time of the day at the Newton gym, which featured meets among six the other Suburban League teams.

Also performing strongly for the Tigers was the mile relay team of Matt Milner, Tim Feeney, Robert Gheewalla and David Vento, whose time of 3:52.5 tied with North Quincy for the day's best in that event.

In addition to his hurdling efforts, Drew also won the high jump with a leap of 5-4.

Winning for the Tigers on the track were junior Peter Weitzman, whose time of six seconds flat was quick enough to win the dash, junior Finn Yonkers, who captured the 600-yard race in 1:24.1, Paul Wessel, a senior who ran the 300 in a first place time of 36.4 seconds and Gerard McHugh, who broke the tape in the two-mile in 10:24.6.

In addition to Drew's effort in the high jump, junior Dennis Fai helped the Tigers sweep the field by tossing the shotput just over 41 feet.

Both of Waltham's winners were in distance events, as Kevin Milligan won the mile in 4:52.8 and Bob McKenzie grabbed the 1000-yard run in 2:36.7.

For Newton North, the victory evens their record at 1-1, while Waltham drops to 0-2. Both squads will be traveling to Cambridge Tuesday, with the Tigers to meet Quincy, and the hawks to battle host Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

Trackmen from Newton South outshone rival Weston in all distance races in Saturday's action at Wayland High, but fell to the Widlcats' depth in the others, dropping a 59-27 decision in the Dual County League meet.

Sophomore Phil Levinson copped the 2-mile run in 10:17.11, while junior Mark Woodlief ran away from the field in the 1000-yard contest in a personal best time of 2:31.2.

While senior Tom Vancour rounded out the trio by winning the mile, the race was not without controversy, as an official's error caused the runners to stop one lap short of the actual finish. Therefore, while Vancour was declared the victor, no official time was listed.

All three Lion victors are undefeated on the season, with Levinson's time a new best for him.

Among those starring for Weston in the field events were Rick Hall, whose toss of 52-7 was good enough to win the shotput, and Tim MacDonnell, who captured the high jump with a leap of six feet.

The Wildcats also came out on top in the shorter runs, as Mark Segel won the 40-yard dash in 5 seconds flat and Rowan Welch grabbed the 300-yard run (:35.7).

Other Wildcat winners were Chris Noble in the 600-yard run (1:23.8) and Mark Kilayko in the hurdles (6.8 seconds).

St. Mary's out runs Lancers, 64-43

NEWTON — Utilizing its notorious fastbreak to its advantage in the getaway period, undefeated St. Mary's High of Lynn got the jump on Newton Catholic Wednesday night at the Newton Catholic Gym and chalked up a 64-43 Catholic Suburban League victory. It was the visitors' third straight win.

Newton Catholic anticipated that St. Mary's would be running, but couldn't adjust to it defensively and was outscored by a 16-6 margin in the first period. The Lancers were able to cope with the Lynn team's speed in the second period and made a run at the visitors in the third stanza. Although Newton Catholic closed to within six points twice it never was able to catch up.

Coach Joe Dabenigno felt that St. Mary's running hurt the Lancers rather than their offensive rebounding. Frequent turnovers hurt the home team, too, the result of inexperience at the guard positions.

Scott McAdam, 6-0 senior forward, and Tom DeRosa, 6-4 junior center, were outstanding in a losing cause. McAdam threw in 15 points and cleared 11 rebounds. DeRosa tallied 13 markers and hauled down 11 caroms.

The winning attack was paced by 6-1 forward Paul Ryan, who chalked up 16 points. Jim Ludwig added 14 and Bob Delaney scored 12.

Newton Catholic, currently 3-2 on the season, will play again Friday night, hosting St. Columbkille's of Brighton, with an 8 p.m. tapoff.

St. Patrick's of Watertown sagged defensively in the third quarter, managing to score only eight points, and eventually dropped a 50-43 league decision to Hudson Catholic Wednesday night at the East Junior High Gym.

The Knights held a 25-22 lead at the halftime intermission. When senior captain Rod Greene drew his third personal foul during the third quarter he sat out the remainder of the quarter and the home team lost its punch.

Hudson Catholic took a 34-33 lead into the final period and forged ahead further on foul line shooting. St. Patrick's dropped to 1-3 and Hudson Catholic boosted its record to 3-2.

John Hopkins, who had six points in the crucial third quarter, was high scorer for the visitors with 16 points. Rod Greene topped the Knights with 16 and his brother Brian, a 6-1 sophomore, added 14.

St. Patrick's faces North Cambridge Catholic Friday night at the Fitzgerald School Gym, Cambridge. The summary:

Kushner foul flips nip Acton

NEWTON — It was playoff-style basketball in January.

After four quarters and 2:59 of a three-minute overtime period, Acton-Boxboro and Newton South were tied at 71, but the referee had whistled the ball dead and was moving toward the scorer's table, having called a foul–on someone–after A-B guard Ed Flannery's miss created a 10-man scramble for the ball.

The words "foul, blue" told the story. Acton's Jim Von der Linden had fouled Lion Evan Kushner, setting up the senior for the crucial one-and-one.

The 6-2 Kushner, who finished with a career high 18 points, was equal to the task, and the Newton South had dropped another Dual County League power by a 73-71 score.

Kushner, however, was only one of several Newton stars in Tuesday evening's drama that boosted the Lions to 4-0 in DCL play (6-0 overall).

As usual, senior forward Scott Anglin, with 22 points (seven for seven from the floor), nine rebounds and three blocked shots, and junior guard Meatchie Russell, with 17 points and eight assists excelled. Anglin, however, fouled out midway through the fourth quarter, allowing members of the supporting cast to move into the spotlight.

There was Tracy Hairston, the senior guard who hit four of five field goals and dished out six assists. There was Tim Gaines, the junior forward who stripped the ball from a Colonial dribbler with two minutes left in regulation play, setting up a key jump-ball that was controlled by another hero, Gene Lindsey, who dove on the Gaines-created loose ball.

It was during the final 11 minutes of play--fourth quarter plus overtime–that a tight game got tighter, hot shooters got hotter and the heroes emerged.

After trailing by a few points most of the game, the Colonials pulled even at 59 one minute into the fourth quarter as Von der Linden (17 points) and Tim Coleman (22 points) got free inside. The Lions bounced right back with four straight points, to lead 63-59 with just under five minutes left.

On the ensuing possession, Anglin fouled out, and Lion Coach Joe Killiliea, who was none-too-pleased with the officiating anyway, drew a two-shot technical foul. Coleman hit on both of the Anglin-foul shots and one of the two technicals to bring A-B back to 63-62.

On their next possession, the Colonials went ahead–for the first time–on a Von der Linden hoop. After an Newton miss, Kushner stripped the ball from an Acton ballhandler and passed to Russell who hit the bucket, was fouled, and made the three-point play for a 66-64 South lead. One more free throws by Coleman and two by Russell gave Acton the ball with two minuites left, trailing 68-65.

After killing off one minute, the Colonials were vicitmized by the Gaines-Lindsey combination. With 49 seconds left, Russell missed a short jumper, but Lindsey cleared the carom and called time. 17 seconds later, Russell, trapped in the corner, called time.

On the ensuing possession, A-B's Steve Grappi picked off an errant Lion pass, calling time as he crossed half-court. When play resumed, Coleman canned a clutch 20-footer. As the ball passed through the twine, Acton called for time, even though they had none remaining, resulting in a techinical foul. With 11 seconds left, Russell hit one of the pair of free throws, with Newton retaining possession. Lindsey's inbounds pass, however, was picked off and Von der Linden's hoop with two seconds left knotted the score. Mike Oglesby's half-court prayer was off the mark, and the game moved into the frantic overtime.

After one scoreless minute, Colonial Dave Dugan intercepted a pass and scored to put Acton-Boxboro up 71-69. With 1:47, Kushner hit a 15-footer off of an Oglesby pass to knot the game again and set the stage for the heart-stopping finish.

The Lions will go for another DCL victory on Friday, when they travel to Weston.

North girls bow to Brockton hoopsters

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — One thing is for certain, the Newton North girls' basketball team will remember what happened last Tuesday afternoon at the Reggie Smith Gym for quite a long time.

It won't be a fond memory though. The Tigers were soundly defeated by a quick, experienced Brockton team, 68-30, in the intial Suburban League game of the season for each team. The Boxers were in control of this one from the start.

Brockton leaped out to a 20-10 lead in the first period and increased the margin to 34-14 at the half. Led by the passing of point guard Kim Kelley, Brockton was able to get inside North's zone defense and get the ball to center Lynda Kent.

Kent responded by having a big game. She was a dominant force down low and led the game in scoring with 26 points. Kent scored 14 points in the first half and she also controlled the boards.

Newton North's center Beth Kelley was a bright spot for the Tigers. She led the team with 16 points and fought hard for rebounds. The Tigers were having trouble handling the Brockton zone throughout the contest and that led to defensive breakdowns. The Tigers are far from finished, however.

"The players will remember this loss for a long time to come," said Newton North coach Allyson Toney. "I know these girls and this type of defeat will only make them work harder and try to improve on their weaknesses.

"We have a very young team this season and even are experienced players haven't been around that long," Toney continued. "We have a lot to learn and the team learned tonight how tough it's going to be to win in this league. We've been playing well in non-league games."

The quickness of Brockton's guards did the most damage to the Newton North offense. Kelley and Heidi Schuberth formed a hard-to-beat duo. Newton was having trouble establishing the offense on the top of the key and the Brockton guards were stealing the ball regularly.

"The quickness of their guards definitely hurt us," said Toney. "We were a little intimidated and that comes with an inexperienced team. When we stayed within our game plan things went well, but we weren't consistent enough."

The Tigers could never get closer than 19 points in the second half. Newton North's Kathy Maguire played inspire basketball the entire evening, but her shots just weren't falling. Newton closed to 36-17 with 6:41 left in the third period, but Brockton quickly got the lead over 20 again with a fast break spurt.

Kelley was in the middle of the Brockton run. The speedy senior specializes in look-away passes and she was consistently getting the ball down low. Kent capitilized with 12 more points in the second half.

Kelley was hot in the third quarter. She scored eight of her 16 points in the quarter and also stole the ball four times in the quarter. She was a main factor for Newton's offensive consistency.

Behind Kelley's scoring prowess, Brockton moved the lead out to 53-19 at the half. The Tigers were held scoreless for the last three minutes of the third quarter.

"The biggest problem was we just got away from the fundamentals," said Toney. "We knew they were quick and they would press us, but we just didn't execute. We have to get back to work on the fundamentals and eliminate the mental mistakes. We don't have many experienced players, but this team is willing to work at it and I think we'll be heard of before the season's over."

Newton North will host Quincy Friday night, 8 p.m., at the Reggie Smith Gym. Quincy eliminated the Tigers from last year's EMass State Tourney. North is 2-2 overall.

The Watertown High girls' basketball team is beginning to make its move under first-year coach Charlie Vento.

The Red Raiders chalked up their second straight victory after three losses Tuesday at the Watertown Gym by downing Reading, 42-36, in a Middlesex League game.

"The girls are starting to settle down now after having had the jitters in their first three games," acknowledged Vento. "We had only one holdover starter in Suzie Orchanian and a part-time player in Elaine McCarthy at the outset of the season."

Eileen Lee, junior center, was the game's high scorer with 16 points, garnered via six floor baskets and four free throws. Julie Joyce and Wendy Jones contributed eight markers apiece, while Orchanian cleared the boards.

The Weston High girls' basketball team dropped a heartbreaker to Boston Latin in overtime, 46-44.The summary:

Calabro's 16 boosts Paolini

NEWTON — Joey Calabro's 16 points paced a balanced Paolini club attack that led them to a 66-47 victory over the Off-the-Wall club Monday in Newton recreation A league basketball at Bigelow Junior High School.

Also scoring in double figures for Paolini, which led all the way, were Ronny Wilson and Jimmy Quinlan with 14 points apiece, and Mario Lucchetti with 12.

The game was the first of the season for both squads.

South swimmers splashed by Weston

Sophomore Cathy Kohn was the only double winner of the day as Weston High splashed to a lopsided 112-56 triumph over Newton South Tuesday at the Newton North Pool.

Kohn, crashing the win column for the first time, captured the 200 individual medley in the creditable time of 2:30.3. She also finished first in the 100 backstroke with a clocking of 1:15.2.

Other first-time winners were freshman Leslie Davidson in diving and freshman Scott Rockart in the 100 breaststroke. Tom Valle, sneior co-captain, and Susan Sandler, a junior, shared in both relay victories.

The only Newton South winner was Ron in the 100 freestyle.

Weston brought its record to 6-1 on the season, losing only Bishop Hendrikin of Warwick, R.I.

The Newton North swim team started off its 1983 season on a sour note Tuesday, dropping a tight 89-82 decision to North Quincy in Newton.

Despite the loss, the Tigers received some shining performances from senior co-captains Ricky Dore and Michael Chao.

Dore captured the 200-yard freestyle in 2:02.22, while Chao finished third in the event. Chao won the top honors in the 100-yard backstroke, coming in at 1:17.94.

Sophomore Michael Clark also was a Tiger winner, winning the 100-yard butterfly in 1:16.01, while junior Sam Heespelink grabbed the 200-yard individual medley in 2:36 and was part of, along with Igor Plotkin, Ed Rubin and Todd Bader, the victorious (2:06.05) 200-yard medley relay team.

Also winning for the Tigers was junior Craig Turner, who copped first spot in the 1-meter diving competition.

Newton will try again for their first victory of the season next Tuesday evening, when they travel to Quincy.

Gymnastics roundup

South wins. North bows

FRAMINGHAM — The Newton South boys' gymnastics team began its season in fine style Tuesday night, as they eked out a 66.7-66.3 victory over Framingham North on the losers' floor.

The Lions, who were expected to be one of the top teams in the area, won despite the absence of top all around gymnast Mark Nicoletti, who injured an ankle during practice two weeks ago while vaulting.

Seniors Joe Kaufman, Mike Castle and Rick Lipof picked up the slack, placing high in several events.

Lipof took top honors on the parallel bars and finished third in teh rings, while Kaufman captured the pommel horse. Castle did well in several events, winning on both the high bar and the rings, and tying fot third in both the pommel horse and the parallel bars.

The Lions will look for continued success on Friday, when they travel to Lexington.

The gymnasts of Newton North received excellent performances from junior Ken Haller and sophomore Joel Gorn, but it wasn't enough to stop Braintree from topping the Tigers, 91.45 to 83.79, Tuesday night on the winners' floor.

Haller won the rings and the high bar for Newton, and took second in the vault, while Gorn captured the parallel bars while taking second in the high bar and the rings and third in both the vault and floor exercises.

The loss dropped the Tigers to 0-2 on the season, with their next meet in Burlington on Friday.

Residents named to chair CJP effort

NEWTON — The appointment of a chairman, two co-chairmen and nine associated chairmen to lead the Newton effort in the 1983 campaign of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston and Special Israel Fund, was announced by Richard Saivetz, chairman of CJP's Metropolitan Division.

Named to direct the volunteers in the annual drive were Robert L. Riemer, chairman; Susan H. Kopelman and Mary Ellen Goldberg, co-chairmen; and the following associate chairmen, George Berbeco, Alan Bernon, Ralph Gilbert, James Gould, Stewart Lassner, Neil Levitan, Michael D. Lezberg, Barbara Resnek and Norton Sherman.

Newton has the largest Jewish population in Greater Boston, according to CJP officials, and a veritable army of volunteers will swing into action to help obtain gifts to support some 75 local, national and overseas human care agencies that provide quality programs and services in Jewish education, health and welfare and community relations.

The necessity of more and larger gifts to meet the increased needs of the agencies was emphasized by Saivetz, who also said that over the years the Newton community has responded generously to these philantrhopic needs.

Riemer is vice-president of the Jewish Big Brother/Sister Association, a member of CJP's "Acharai" program of young leadership development, and was recruitment chairman in last year's Super Sunday program. He is a member of Temple Emanuel, Newton, the Charles River Yacht Club and Pine Brook Country Club.

Kopelman was co-chairman of the Newton fund-raising team in last year's campaign and co-chairman of Pacesetters in the Women's Division. For the current campaign, she is co-chairman of "Grand Gifts" for the Women's Division.

Goldbert, a member of Temple Emanuel, was co-chairperson of Pacesetters last year, chairperson of the CJP Walkathon in 1980 and 1981 and a participant in "Acharai," the program for development of young leadership, in 1979 and 1980.

She is a past vice-president of the Parent Counseling Association in New England, is a member of the board of trustees of Brimmer and May Schol and is a member of the Alumni Board of Shady Hill School.

Bernon was co-chairman of Newton Upgrade in last year's campaign and a member of "Acharai" last year. He is a trustee of Worcester Academy and a member of Hofstra University Financial Assistance Committee. Levitan, an attorney and real estate broker, is a member of the Massachusetts and American Bar Associations.

Gould, in the real estate business, is a member of Temple Mishkan Tefila and served as a volunteer in past campaigns. Lassner, a vice-chairman in last year's campaign, is a member of Temple Emanuel in Newton. Resnek, an attorney, is a member of Temple Emanuel and was a member of "Acharai" in 1980.

She served as Newton Chairman for the American Cancer Society.

Lezberg, a member of Temple Mishkan Tefila and its brotherhood, is a member of Home Furnishings Lodge, B'nai B'rith, and the Big Brother Association. Sherman, a member of Temple Israel, Boston, is a former member of CJP's Endowments and Bequests Committee, Social Planning and Allocations Committee and the Jewish Community Center Board. He was honored in 1981 by the Jewish National Fund for efforts on behalf of Mitzpeh Harduf.

Berbeco is a member of Temple Sharon in Newton and had been a member of the Newton Cabinet of CJP and CJP Young Leadership Development Group. He is a member of the board of the American Technion Society, the Society of Sigma XI and is in "Who's Who in Business and Finance in the East," "Who's Who in Massachusetts Science and Technology" and the "International Who's Who in Science and Technology."

Gilbert, a member of Temple Emanuel, Newton, is a former vice-chairman in the Newton campaign and is on the board of directors of Jewish Vocational Service.

Andover Newton gives boost to water woes

NEWTON — A plan to boost the ater pressure near Andover ewton Theological School got a ot in the arm last week when hool officials said they would nate an existing pumping station the city.

Andover Newton officials told dermen they would donate use of e 24-year-old pumping station to e city in return for city-funded aintenance and retrofitting the te, with funds from the Communi- Development office.

The low water pressure in the rea, a chronic problem, was elated by Water Commissioner erne Porter, who told aldermen, It took me one minute to draw two allons of water from a tap in that rea."

Porter said that would translate nto water pressure of 20 pounds per quare inch, when the pressure hould be about 60 p.s.i.

Public Facilities Chairman tichard McGrath called the move a 'unique proposal" by the school.

"This offer meets everyone's needs and will save us the cost of building one of our own in the area," said McGrath.

Deputy Community Development Director Juris Alksnitis said $90,000 s available to upgrade the facility for city use. This compares to a cost of well over $200,000 to build a new pumping station from city funds, according to Porter. Community development funds come from the federal government.

"The water pressure was identified by citizens of the area as a number one concern during public hearings," said Alksnitis. He added people in the area known as Thompsonville have low to moderate incomes.

Upon transfer of ownership and completion of the necessary modifications, the city will assume full operational and maintenance cost of the station, according to a community development memorandum.

Porter says the pumping station is in surprisingly "great shape".

Most of the development funds will go to purchasing a new generator and modifying the station's pumps, said Porter.

In 1980 an engineering study confirmed what residents knew all along, that the water pressure in the area is poor. Part of the recommendation of the study included the cleaning and relining of the water pipes, which has been done for $132,000 from community development funds, according to Alksnitis.

Alderman Joseph DePasquale objected to the idea of community development funds being put toward a project he felt should be covered by city water rates.

"The money should come from the water rates. Community development funds were not intended to supplement city operations," said DePasquale.

McGrath, Alksnitis and Public Works Commissioner John Sulik disagreed with Depasquale saying the funding is intended for exactly this type of project.

"As I recall a certain percentage of community development funds must be spent on this kind of project," said Sulik.

Older cities are the aim of the grant money, because they have trouble bridging the gap between old equipment and the cost for new systems, stated Alksnitis.

The committee voted 5 to 1, with DePasquale against, to encourage Alksnitis to take further steps to bring the pumping station under city control.

Other action taken by the Public Facilities Committee included:

• A unaminous vote to grant a sewer extension to Dr. H. Richard Sonis' medical buildig at 1180 Beacon St. at a cost of $172,000, according to City Engineer Paul Giunta.

• A unaminious approval of a petition by Robert Baurle of Fair Oaks Avenue to extend the sewer 80 feet at a cost of $5,000, according to Giunta.

Gallery hosts oil exhibit by Dale Emmart

WEST NEWTON — The Chapel Gallery will exhibit Dale Emmart's work in oil paint on paper and canvas from Jan. 16 through Feb. 13. The opening reception will be held on Sunday, Jan. 16 from 3-6 p.m.

Emmart's abstract figure-ground images suggest monumentality. They are derived from an emotive response to architecture, landscape and found objects. Emmart's use of paint is explorative with surfaces ranging from thickly brushed to highly modelled with a palatte knife.

The Chapel Gallery, a non-profit organization sponsored by The Second Church in Newton, opened last May.

One persons shows of large scale work are featured in the spacious gallery.

The Gallery is at 60 Highland Street, parking space is available at no charge.

It is open Thursday through Sunday 1-4 p.m., in conjunction with church events or by appointment. Admission is free.

A witch? If so, she's a good one

NEWTON CORNER — While women in this country are trying to break into the Santa Claus act, one might wonder whether men will seek the part of the Italian version of Santa Claus, a woman named La Befana.

Children in Lincoln-Eliot Elementary School's bilingual program were introduced last week to the mythical elderly woman who bestows presents upon good children much in the way the man in the red velvet suit does in the Christian tradition.

One major difference is that Befana comes on the night of Ephiphany, which is Jan. 6.

Befana paid her visit on Thursday at Lincoln-Eliot at a gathering of several parents and some 30 children in the school's programs for both elementary students and pre-schoolers whose first language is not English.

Children in the program come from a variety of countries and learning about traditions is critical to their education and development, according to the school's English as a Second Language (ESL) teacher, Elsa Barbi.

The group of children sang Italian songs about Befana and a handful of children read a poem in Italian on the tradition. Bilingual aide Irene Prosser, a Newton resident, read children a story which explained why Befana began bring children gifts.

And, then the star of the show, "Befana," stopped in briefly with her basket of gifts. Shirley Dewing, an aide for the class, donned black robes and some heavy makeup in order to play this elderly woman.

La Befana also paid a visit Monday morning to children in Franklin Elementary's Italian Language and Culture class.

Unlike Santa Claus, Befana visits children on the night of Epiphany and her visit coincides with the three kings giving gifts to the infant Jesus. The tradition "has a very high religious conotation," Barbi says.

Befana is thought of as an elderly woman dressed in black who is a sort of fairy-witch. She is often believed to fly on a broomstick as she travels to place gifts in the stockings of sleeping children.

There are many versions of the story about how Befana travels, Barbi says, but the reason she brings gifts is that she lost her way when she set out for Bethlehem to take gifts to Jesus.

She is still searching for the infant Jesus, so, just in case, she leaves a gift for every child.

But, Barbi explains, children still have to be good or they get a lump of coal from Befana.

Barbi, a Newton resident who is from Italy, says a large number of children in the program at Lincoln-Eliot are from Italian families. Italian traditions and holidays are taught along with traditions of many other countries.

Children in the school's ESL programs come from countries as different as Austria and Laos.

The French tradition which is celebrated on Epiphany was also told to the children on Thursday by a mother of a child in the ESL program. Odile Poirier and her family moved to this country from France and her daughter, Nadege, is in the ESL program.

According to Poirier, an old French tradition, which continues to be celebrated on Ephiphany, is for families to bake a type of flat cake, called La galette des rois, and place a bean inside the cake. The cake is then shared by children and whoever gets the piece with the bean is the king or queen for a day and wears a crown.

Trash contract talks open up in surprise session

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The doors have been opened on the closed door negotiations between the city and sanitation workers.

According to Dan McLaren, spokesman for the city's sanitation workers throughout the recent negotiations, Chief Administrative Officer James Hickey "took the wraps off it tonight," at a meeting of the aldermanic Finance Committee.

Members of Local 800, which represents the sanitation workers, have been trying for weeks to come up with a contract which will compete with a bid from SCA, Inc., a private firm seeking a contract for the city's curbside rubbish collection.

As Fincom members worried out loud about interfering with the collective bargaining process, Hickey gave Chairman Edward Richmond a detailed account of negotiations, instead of the "progress report" he requested.

Fincom members voted to hold the appropriation for $541,414 to pay for a private contractor, saying that the progress the union had made in its proposal warranted more negotiations. Mayor Mann had declared on Dec. 27 that talks with sanitation workers had reached an impasse.

Union Vice-president Robert Caruso said he dispaired of reaching any agreement with the city. His picture of the long negotiation sessions:

"We'd come in with a proposal. They'd tear it apart. When we got so we were about to embrace each other on an item, they'd call a caucus and come out and make the item unacceptable."

He complained, "If we proposed 27 men, they'd want 26. I believe that, if they came up with a plan and we approved it, they'd renege on it."

According to Hickey, McLaren and several other sources at the Monday night meeting, the city and the sanitation workers' union differ on the number of men needed in the division, the level of salaries, holiday pay and the number of supervisors required.

With "the wraps off," it became apparent that the differences between the city and union positions are very slight.

According to McLaren, the city and the union differ on the number of men the sanitation division needs by one man. The city says only 27 men are required. The union says 28.

There are presently some 50 men assigned to the division.

As for salary, the city cites the figure of $370 a week. The union wants $375.

The city would absolutely require sanitation workers to work the day before and the day after a holiday, or they would not receive pay for that holiday. City officials have been repeatedly frustrated in their attempts to eliminate absenteeism in the division.

Union sources said the city's original position was that workers would be required to work the entire week before and after a holiday in order to be paid for it.

McLaren pointed out that no other workers in the city have to live under such a rule. He also said there was no "escape clause" in the rule.

"If you have an auto accident on the way to work, you don't get paid for the holiday," McLaren said.

As for the number of supervisors required, the city is advocating keeping the present number, while McLaren contends that so many supervisors would no longer be necessary with the work force cut in half.

He complained that the city's requirement unnecessarily adds $135,000 in administrative costs to his division's budget.

Fincom Chairman Richmond said he was not planning on a dialogue during Monday night's meeting, but he felt he owed it to the union to give McLaren the floor after Hickey's "lengthy discourse."

Asked if he should go through the negotiations "blow by blow," as Hickey did, McLaren was told a "progress report" would suffice.

McLaren went straight to "the bottom line," and guaranteed his union's proposal for six months of trash collection, from January to July, 1984, would cost the city $40,000 less than the SCA proposal. He included in his proposal "a six month review process on the 28th man."

After the meeting, union representatives explained how further savings could be expected if their proposal is accepted.

McLaren said that pension costs, which have been added to the union's proposal by the city, should also be added to the SCA proposal. Mayor Theodore D. Mann has promised no sanitation workers would be laid off if the contract were awarded to SCA. McLaren contended that, if no one was laid off, there would still be $327,000 in pension costs to the city over the next four years.

McLaren also pointed out that the Executive Department's original prediction of some $4 million to be saved over the course of a four year contract with SCA has now been reduced to $1.2 million.

The president of Local 800 explained further that the SCA proposal does not include four men for recycling as the union proposal does.

Union Vice-President Robert Caruso said that the in-house proposal uses several city figures which are unrealistic on the high side and still comes in under SCA.

He pointed out the union's figures for gas, oil and vehicle maintenance are actually the city's figures, and that they are based on a fleet of 25 vehicles instead of the ten-vehicle fleet which the union is aiming at.

Public Facilities Chairman Richard McGrath, who disturbed the Finance Committee by insisting his was the substantive committee on the trash contract and should, therefore, be the first one to deal with it, said he was extremely upset by the Monday night meeting.

First off, he accused the Executive Department of some "dirty tricks" in not informing him that the Fincom would be dealing with the trash contract on Monday night.

McGrath said he spoke with James Hickey on the phone at 5:10 Monday night. Hickey never mentioned the planned meeting, according to McGrath. The alderman said Hickey told him, "I guess there's nothing for us to do right now."

McGrath pointed to the presence of representatives of SCA, a labor lawyer Hickey brought in and the Commissioner of Public Works John Sulik and said, "This was totally organized, and Hickey never said anything about it."

He added, "I'm sick and tired of the Fincom being a rubber stamp for issues from the mayor's office."

Union representatives, who were involved in negotiations in City Hall since early Monday afternoon, said they were also notified of the Fincom meeting after 5 p.m.

McGrath said that, if the city were to approve of the union's proposal today, more than $300,000 would be saved before the end of the fiscal year in July.

He advocated an 18-month trial of the union's proposal, saying that $900,000 would be the "minimum savings" during that period. He added that, after such a trial period, "We'd still have the option to go with a private contractor. But once we go private, we've given up all our options."

School lunch program may stay 'in house'

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — If the School Committee takes the advice of the consulting firm it hired to reduce the cost of the school lunch program, the committee will keep the program "in-house."

The committee's main objective for the coming school year is to eliminate any further subsidy of the lunch and breakfast program. According to a report from York Management Systems which was released at a School Committee meeting Monday, the committee could best achieve its goal by not dismantling the current program.

The firm had been asked to consider the impact of reducing the labor force at the secondary schools, but York representative Bob Underwood recommended against that move. The current program in the high schools is "quite strong" and the junior highs are "collectivey doing an excellent job both at cost control and production," the report states.

The consultant's specific proposal calls for increasing the elementary lunch program's participation, which dropped dramatically with the switch to serving cold lunches, by bring back hot lunches.

This news was well-received by the cafeteria workers in the secondary schools whose jobs have been threatened by the possibility of the schools going to an outside private vendor.

Several cafeteria workers and managers attended the committee meeting as York Management made its recommendation.

The unionized secondary school cafeteria workers, members of Local 454, were joined at the meeting by about 20 custodians. Both the custodians and the secondary school cafeteria workers are members of Local 454.

The union is the last school group without a contract. Negotiations are currently at a standstill and custodial workers began refusal of overtime on Friday. In response, the School Committee filed a complaint with the state Labor Commission of a possible violation of the state's strike laws.

While cafeteria workers were glad to get the news from York Management representative Bob Underwood, the School Committee has not yet decided on its response to the recommendations.

York recommends bringing back hot lunches at a cost of 80-85 cents to the elementary schools. This would require slightly increasing the labor force at the elementary schools and would also hinge upon a one-time expenditure of $100,000 to provide heating equipment for the proposed program.

In order to make the plan work, Underwood said participation in the elementary schools would need to increase to the level it was at before cold lunches became the order of the day.

Prior to the introduction of cold, bagged lunches at the elementary schools, about 32-34 percent of the students bought lunch. Participation is currently at 8.2 percent, according to the consultant's report.

The committee will consider the issue again in February when Superintendent John Strand has reviewed the consultant's report.

But, whatever route the committee decides to go, the consultants stress that success will depend "on bringing students back into the cafeteria."

York contends that the financial picture for the lunch program "appears to have made a dramatic turnaround" in the last 12 months. This is backed up by the school's Support Services Director, Roy Cornelius, who said the anticipated $150,000 deficit for the year did not occur. It is instead a subsidy of about $60,000 for the current year.

A large part of this improved financial picture is the result of the school's bringing back previously restricted foods, such as potato chips and hot dogs, and a variety of a la carte items.

Newton man named to cabinet

BOSTON — Manuel Carballo says he wants to help the homeless and victims of child abuse, and he'll figure how to pay for it somehow.

Carballo, 41, of Newton, last week was named Secretary of Human Services by Gov.-elect Michael Dukakis, and said he wants to run an agency with compassion as well as management skills.

Carballo is a lecturer in public policy at Harvard University and a former deputy assistant secretary for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

He joined fellow Newton resident Richard Rowland in Dukakis' cabinet. Rowland was named Secretary of Elder Affairs for the commonwealth last week.

In Carballo's appointment, Dukakis set a tone markedly different from King's selection of Charles Mahoney four years ago. Mahoney implemented many of the cuts in King's administration and instituted more conservative policies.

Under King, welfare recipient rolls were reduced drastically and he was frequently attacked by welfare and elderly groups for cutbacks.

Dukakis said he selected Carballo because "he is not only capable and a good manager, but a sensitive human being who cares deeply about the less privileged in our society."

Carballo, whose first job out of Princeton 16 years ago was to set up a legal agency for the poor, said his vision of government is to help the disadvantaged with dwindling resources.

"I thought poverty was the major blight on this society," he said of that job, "and I don't think that's changed very much. I see my job as caring about the people the agency serves."

"I never thought compassion was inconsistent with managing well," he said.

He said his first priorities would be to help the homeless and help prevent child abuse.

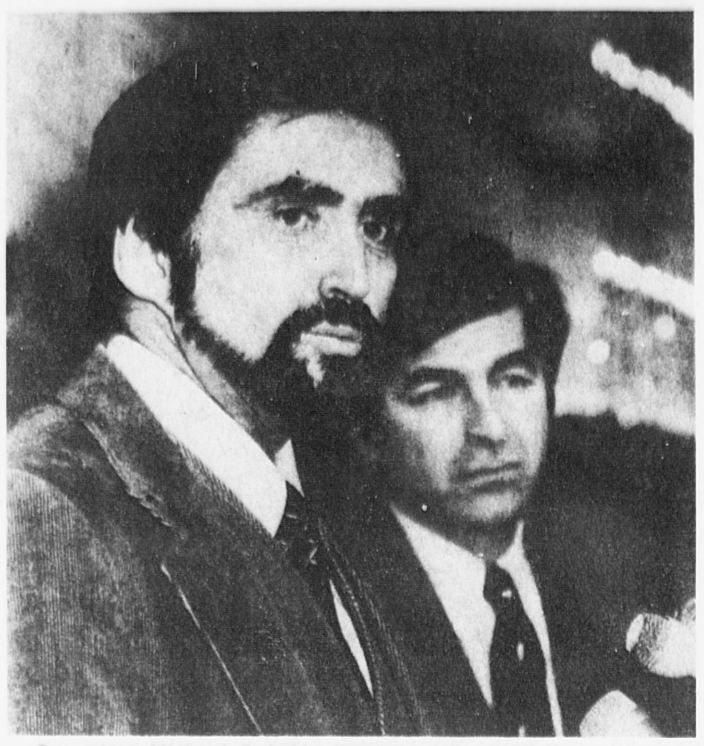

Carballo said he wants to run the agency with compassion and rebuild programs. He said there have been "years of neglect of the social infrastructure of society."

Dukakis went to teach at Harvard after losing the 1978 Democratic primary to Gov. Edward J. King and there met Carballo, whom he said was his mentor.

Carballo though said Dukakis "was overly generous in terms of who was the learner and who was the instructor. I learned a lot about government that could be compassionate as well as efficient ... from Mike Dukakis."

Carballo will be responsible for perhaps the most important cabinet position in Dukakis' administration, which will begin Thursday.

The nearly $3 billion human services agency is responsible for programs in welfare, medicaid, elderly services, the blind, rehabilitation, children, veterans, youth services, mental health, corrections, and public health.

Board approves motion aimed at meeting speed up

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A proposal to shorten aldermanic meetings by allowing committee reports to be approved without individual items being explained or even read off was approved Wednesday night by the Legislation and Rules Committee.

Presently, committee chairman report on all the items which they have considered since the previous meeting of the board. Individual items are discussed nominally in this round of reports, known as "first call," and those which seem to merit debate are put on "second call."

The proposal made by aldermen Baker, Sheehan and Vance is designed to speed up the process, but committee members expressed their concern that democracy might possibly fall victim to efficiency.

"It's a question of value judgment for the aldermen," co-sponsor Verne Vance said. "Is saving time more important than what they get from an oral reading of the items?" He said the proposal was made "more to provoke debate. Our feeling was that all that reading was unecessary, but there might other opinions."

President Matthew Jefferson said he leaned more toward the traditional approach. He added that his first meeting as an alderman, which took place quite a while ago, lasted until 2 a.m. Meetings used to be "infinitely longer" than they are now, according to Jefferson.

It was suggested that some aldermen who come in late might not get a fair chance at discussing an item that was passed without being read.

Committee Chairman Ethel Sheehan commented, "If they come in late, that's their problem."

Jefferson said more flexibility needed to be included in the aldermanic process. "Let's keep them in the ballgame," he said of his tardy or inattentive colleagues.

Vance explained that the proposed rules change was aimed at the aldermen and also at citizens who have come to speak on some matter later in the evening and wonder about the "strictly ceremonial" business at the beginning of each meeting.

Committee member Lane Sofman said he feared it might be more inconsiderate to the public to be "stuffing through" committee reports without explaining what they were about.

President Emeritus Wendell Bauckman said he might approve of the proposal as a trial, but the committee voted to send it on to the full board intact.

Alderman Richard McGrath, adhering to the proposed requirement that items to be put on "second call" be pointed out to the city clerk before the full board meeting begins, told the committee he would definitely want the item they had just approved to be put on "second call."

Synagogue Council boasts wide affiliation

NEWTON — In 1981 a new agency was created by the Jewish community to speak as the voice of a united religious Jewry. Today, the Synagogue Council of Massachusetts boasts a membership of over 50 affiliated congregations and hundreds of individual members. The Synagogue Council represents the unified conservative, orthodox, and reform congregations of Massachusetts, developing projects and activities for the benefit of local synagogues.

Many local community leaders are involved in leadership positions in the Executive Council of The Synagogue Council of Massachusetts. These individuals are among the founders of the Synagogue Council and have been instrumental in the development of this new agency.

Robert Kahn, a member of Congregation Beth El Atereth Israel, serves as president of the Synagogue Council and Alan Teperow of Temple Emanuel is its executive director. Other officers include Dr. James Feldman, Congregation Mishkan Tefila who serves as a vice-president of the council and Alan Edelstein, presidnet of Temple Emanuel who is the Synagogue Council's treasurer.

In addition, the following Newton and Chestnut Hill residents sit on the Executive Council: Rabbi Richard M. Yellin of Congregation Mishkan Tefila, Rabbi Murray I. Rothman of Temple Shalom, Rabbi Paul Menitoff, Director, Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and Alan Tichnor who is a past president of Congregation Mishkan Tefila and serves as president of the United Synagogue of America.

In addition, The Synagogue Council forms committees dealing with issues that affect the synagogue community. Clothes fire fogs courthouse

WEST NEWTON — A district court judge ordered a psychological evaluation on a 51-year-old Boston man who removed some of his clothes and set them on fire while inside the court house prison cell Friday.

No one was injured as a result of the incident which occurred about noon, fire officials said.

Edward T. Yagel, who told officials he lived at the Pine Street Inn, in Boston, is charged with breaking and entering in the night, malicious damage to personal property and disorderly person.

While Yagel was in the Newton District Court cell waiting for appearance at a hearing, he reportedly started the fire with matches.

Firefighters quickly extinguished the fire, though smoke poured from the vents up to the courtroom and sessions were temporarily postponed until firefighters cleared the smoke.

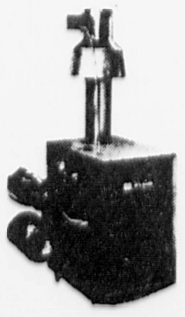

Judge Monte Basbas continued Yagel's case until February and ordered him evaluated for 30 days at Medfield State Hospital.

IMPACT 2000: WE THINK IT'S THE SOLUTION TO YOUR FUTURE ENERGY NEEDS.

BUT THE LAST WORD ON THE SUBJECT IS YOURS.

IMPACT 2000 is a fancy name for a simple idea: that a public utility must be responsive to its public to be useful and successful. Both of which we want to be.

The IMPACT 2000 Goal: Energy for Tomorrow.

IMPACT 2000 is our commitment to be responsive and to prepare for our customers' energy needs— to the year 2000 and beyond.

How?

By talking; by listening. We provide information; you let us know what you think and out of the dialogue comes action.

Action by you to conserve and help control consumption. Action by the company and by legislators and regulators—based on your input—on steps to reduce dependence on a single fuel, foreign oil.

In this age of unpredictable foreign oil sources, unwelcome foreign oil prices and an unhealthy reliance on both, one of our biggest challenges is preparing for future energy needs.

So, we hope you'll be involved in the process of managing energy needs and selecting the options to meet those needs.

IMPACT 2000 Energy Conservation: Efficiency not Sacrifice.

Particularly important are energy conservation and load management. Load management means controlling when and how we use the most energy and then making sure we have it.

Conservation is more specific, but just as painless. We're planning several programs this winter that will help prove that conservation and sacrifice are not synonyms after all. And now's the time—not if and when the next crisis hits.

One suggestion? Take advantage of our Wrap-It Cap-It program. Under which we'll help pay for 22 home improvements. For example, for only $5.00 we'll wrap your water heater for you. Call 1-800-442-4061 for information or send us the coupon.

And that's just the beginning. Boston Edison has lots of ideas on energy conservation for residential, commercial, industrial and governmental customers. But the final word on the subject is yours. You make the decision to participate.

The IMPACT 2000 Process: Together we can make a difference.

Our long-range job is to find new alternative energy sources to replace imported oil. But here too we want your help.

All of us need to know more about our energy supply options and the tradeoffs that go with selecting one option over another. How do coal, hydropower, imports of electricity from Canada, nuclear power and, of course, solar, wind and refuse fit together in our energy mix? We want your input as we explore the options.

We'll give you our thoughts, and recommendations. But the final word? Yours. You pay the bills.

Enlighten us with your opinions. We'll enlighten you with ours. And together we can create an atmosphere in which decison-making works best. So, ask us for information and tell us, what do you think?

Use this coupon to send us the word.

HERE'S WHAT I THINK:

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI insured loans • FHA, HUD insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban homestead loans • house-to-house loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

EXPERIENCE THE GRACIOUSNESS— Of yesteryear in this elegant Victorian located on 3/4 of an acre of flowering landscape and pine grove in an excellent Walpole neighborhood. Enter the lovely and inviting foyer, amble through the large formal dining room and the butler's pantry. Ascend the staircase leading to the 6 bedrooms, one with its own bath and fireplace. Enjoy the convenience of another bath and a half and the luxury of 2 porches. OFFERED AT $115,000

IMAGINE YOURSELF SITTING BY A COZY FIRE— Blazing in one of 3 fireplaces in this beautiful Garrison Colonial located on a cul-de-sac in one of Walpole's prime areas. In summer, open the sliders to the deck and enjoy the view of over 1/2 acre of wooded land. Move in right now! You won't need to do a thing. Just enjoy the 3 spacious bedrooms and the large closets. Relax in the family room just off the kitchen in the playroom. Add to this the finishing touch of a 2 car garage. $159,900

No more kid stardom

Patty's grown up

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Over the years, most of us have watched Patty Duke grow up. We marveled at her acting skills as a child, took pride in the fact that she made the transition from kid to adult with reasonable smoothness, never for once doubted her ability as an actress.

But what we may have overlooked — and what she would like all of us, especially, the Hollywood establishment, to notice — is that she has matured into a very beautiful woman.

That is one of the reasons why Patty Duke Astin has elected to make her TV series bow as an adult this year. You can see her each week, opposite Richard Crenna, in the ABC sit-com, "It Takes Two," which is probably the best of this year's slender sit-com crop.

"Actually," she says, "there were four reasons why I decided to do a series at this particular time in my life."

Reason No. 1, however, is the aforementioned desire to show people that she isn't a grown-up kid anymore.

"I know I have a good reputation in Hollywood," she says, "as a serious dramatic actress, as a kind of character actress. But I want to be considered for leading lady roles now, and I think playing this part on 'It Takes Two' will help with that goal."

Another reason is one she shares with other young mothers around town — a TV series enables her to live a more normal maternal life, and be home with the children more than if she did movies and had long location trips.

"Third," she says, "is money. I have to be honest about that and, yes, the money was a consideration."

Fourth, of course, was the particular project offered to her. She liked the premise of "It Takes Two" and the people who would be involved in it with her.

> 'I want to be considered for leading lady roles'

Patty Duke Astin

With all those reasons out of the way, she adds that she would have even liked it better if her husband, actor John Astin, could have been a part of the program, too.

"He would have been a good leading man for me," she says. "I have a great deal of respect and admiration for Richard Crenna, of course, but John and I love working together. But there was no way it was going to happen on this show."

She suggested they hire him, but they said, "No." Period.

"There was no way they would let a married couple be co-stars of a TV sit-com," Patty says. "They worry about what would happen if that married couple split up, or had a fight and refused to work together.

"I told them that John and I are professional actors and, even if we had a fight or got a divorce, we are sufficiently professional to work together anyhow. But they wouldn't hear of it."

Patty Duke Astin, who won an Oscar (for "The Miracle Worker") in 1963, at 17, says she has changed her views about child actors in the past decade. Earlier, she was militantly opposed to the idea of child actors, feeling that, no matter how well-intentioned the people involved, acting as a child is inherently harmful.

She thinks differently today (obviously, because she permits both her sons — Sean, 11, and Mackenzie, 9 — to act).

"The main reason I changed my thinking," she says, "is because from what I can see, child actors today are treated much better than they were in my era."

However, she still keeps a tight rein on their acting activities. Sean, who co-starred with Elizabeth Montgomery and Elliott Gould in the TV movie "Rules of Marriage," has done very little since then, and is doing nothing at the moment.

"We felt," Patty says, "that a little time off so he could do regular-boy things, like playing football, would be a good thing. But he keeps clamoring to do more. He would have liked to have done that part with me in 'Something So Right' that Ricky Schroder did, for example."

He has lots of time, however. So has his brother. Patty has been there, so she knows. And she knows, too, that there comes a point in an ex-child star's life and career when she wants to be thought of as a grown-up.

For her, that time is now. Meet Patty Duke Astin, leading lady. And looking every inch the leading lady, too.

Ford was cut from E.T.'s movie

Hollywood

Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I have a question relating to the movie "E.T." I read somewhere that both George Lucas and Harrison Ford were in "E.T." If so, what roles did they have? G.T., Saginaw, Mich.

Lucas was never in it. Ford was, originally, but his part was cut so you don't see him in the current version.

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me if Sally Struthers and her husband, Dr. William Rader, are separated. I read something the other day that implied they were and I sure hope it is not so. MRS. O.E.P., Powell, Mo.

Unfortunately, it is so. A divorce is now in the works. Sally is keeping a low profile about it, which is why that story you read only "implied" a separation, and why there has been no publicity about the breakup of the marriage.

DEAR DICK: I want desperately to know more about Sam Elliott and don't know where to go for it. I want to know about his personal life. Is he married? Children? And anything else you can tell me about him. E.H., Conroe, Texas

Elliott has long lived with Katharine Ross. They share a love of horses. Elliott has always been an outdoorsman — his father was with the Fish and Wildlife Service — and an athlete. At the moment, Sam's big project is to build a house on some land Katharine owns in the Malibu area.

DEAR DICK: Could you please give me some information on Richard Thomas. Where was he born and how many in his family? Have heard that he might be related to my husband's family and I'm just curious. MRS. S.T., Naples, Fla.

Thomas hails from New York, although his parents had come originally from Kentucky. He has a sister, Bronwyn, and a brother, Robert. Thomas' parents are dancers (so is Bronwyn) and during much of Richard's youth they danced in Cuba.

DEAR DICK: Would you please tell me who does the talking on "The Dukes of Hazzard." It sounds like Andy Griffith but my husband and my son both say no. MRS. F.R., Vancouver, Wash.

The no's have it. It's Waylon Jennings, the country singer.

DEAR DICK: Did the movie star Forrest Tucker ever go to school in Highland Park, Mich., when a boy? MRS. D.J. Albuquerque, N.M.

No, he spent all his childhood years in Plainfield, Ind.

DEAR DICK: Weren't there three Beery brothers? There was Wallace, who died, and Noah, of "The Rockford Files" and I thought there was one other. E.K.D., Trenton, N.J.

You are right that there were three Beerys — William was the third — but you are wrong about one thing. Noah Beery of "The Rockford Files" is the son of the first Noah, who was Wally and William's brother.

DEAR DICK: Whatever became of the movie "Jonathan Livingston Seagull"? I saw it in 1974 but haven't heard of it since. What are my chances of seeing it again? M.L., Quincy, Ill.

Not too good, unless you are on some cable+spay-TV system. It shows on cable from time to time, but probably won't be shown on network TV again.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if Alice Faye is still alive and if she was ever married to Tony Martin, the singer. P.B., Stuart, Fla.

Yes to both questions.

DEAR DICK: Two friends made a bet on the rating of the movie "Endless Love." Could you tell us its rating, please? G.S., Copperas Cove, Texas

It was an R.

Consumer Reports

Be careful when choosing typewriter

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

If a portable typewriter sees lots of action in your home, a new model that works electronically rather than with mechanical levers, and that prints with "daisy wheels" — like those in high-speed computer printers — would certainly be the one to have. Unfortunately, such a machine is usually quite expensive.

Four electronic models, as well as portables with ball-type printing elements, and those with the conventional typebars, were tested by Consumer Reports engineers. All were evaluated for "keyboard feel," quality of printing, ability to make corrections easily and overall convenience.

How a typewriter feels is important, so be sure you try one before you buy it. The engineers had a panel of experienced typists check each machine for keyboard slope, the shape of key tops, the distance between keys, and for how heavy a touch it takes to trigger the keys. Some models were judged uncomfortable to use, even though they worked well. Two of the four electronic models were among those that received the highest marks for their keyboard feel.

Most electric portables have correction-making systems. On three of the electronic models, making a correction can be as easy as pressing a button.

The two preferred electronic typewriters — the Brother Correctronic 8300 and the Smith-Corona Ultrasonic, with suggested retail prices of about $600 apiece — were top-rated.

Some "typebar" machines — electrified versions of conventional manual typewriters — scored as high as the electronics in some areas, including "keyboard feel." The panelists gave good marks to four models made by Smith-Corona — the Smith-Corona Coronamatic 2200, the Wards Cartridge Mark XII, the Coronet Super 12, and the J.C. Penney 9329. (Suggested retail prices range from $270 plus shipping, to nearly $400.)

The correction system on those four models is their biggest drawback. Each time you make a correction, you have to remove the ribbon cartridge, put in the correction cartridge, make the correction, and then re-insert the ribbon cartridge. Most other machines have built-in correction tapes or ribbons.

Like the electronic models, the typewriters with the ball-shaped printing elements have fewer levers than typebar machines, and changing typefaces is easy; but they weren't quite up to the top-rated electronic models. The Brother Correct-O-Ball XL-1 and its lookalike, the Sears Correct-O-Sphere, Catalog No. 5310, were about equal in quality to the highest rated "typebar" machines. They were nearly as expensive as electronic models, ranging from $445 to $500. (Except for mail-order models, all electric portable typewriters are typically sold at big discounts.)

While the "keyboard feel" of the ball-type machines was not liked as much as that of the high-rated typebar typewriters tested, their correcting ability was superior to that of all the typebar models tested.

Film ribbon cassettes or cartridges usually cost $4 or $5. They produce a very black, crisp letter — but you can only use the film once. Nylon fabric black and white ribbons on spools cost $3 to $4; fabric cassettes, about $3. While the fabric ribbons make slightly grayer letters than a film ribbon, they last longer and are reusable. Replacement correction tapes cost $3 to $4. Replacement "daisy wheel" or ball elements cost about $20.

(For a special reprint of Consumers Union's evaluation of whether you can write your own will send $1 for each copy to CONSUMERS, P.O. Box 461, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for the reprint on wills.)

Comedy show set

Silverman gunning for Carson

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD — Former NBC President Fred Silverman, Johnny Carson's boss when he was head of the network, said Monday he plans to knock the comedian off his late-night catbird seat on "Tonight" with a new nightly show.

Carson

Silverman, now president of InterMedia Entertainment Co., will launch "Thicke of the Night," a 90-minute, nightly comedy series next fall starring Alan Thicke, host of Canada's leading daytime series.

He said the new show could cut into Carson's huge audience. The "Tonight Show," the longest running late-night program on TV, is the most financially successful show in NBC history — and was Silverman's pride and joy during his tenure at the network.

"Late-night programming is soft and vulnerable," Silverman said. "This show could turn the situation upside-down. Independent stations have been crying for years to fill this time area with good stuff."

Silverman's InterMedia outfit will produce "Thicke of the Night" in association with MGM-United Artists and Metromedia Television with plans to spot it directly opposite Carson at 11 or 11:30 p.m. around the country.

"So far we've signed enough stations to cover 25 percent of the country," Silverman said. "We think it will be seen in over 70 percent of the country by the time we go on the air."

The television executive said his new show would be aimed at a young audience, 18 to 49.

"Carson's audience is very old," he said. "Our show is structured to reach the young adult. It's counter-programming — counter to ABC's 'Night Line,' the movie and TV-reruns on CBS and, of course, Carson."

> 'We won't be doing another talk show. The talk show cycle is over.'
> Fred Silverman

Silverman said he doubted if his new show would be compared with "Saturday Night Live," saying "Thicke of the Night" would be less structured. He added that Thicke would be more inventive and unprecictable.

"We've created our show around a star," he said. "'Saturday Night Live' is an ensemble without focus. We'll be using big stars, but not to plug their movies. Viewers will see them in different settings doing different things.

"We won't be doing another talk show. The talk show cycle is over."

Dogs ready to sniff out drugs in student lockers

SPENCER, Mass. (UPI) — High School students' lockers should be subject to sniff-searches by police dogs, the local school committee decided Monday.

The Spencer-East Brookfield School Committee gave preliminary approval to the dog policy as part of an ongoing effort to rid the high school of drug abuse. The question, which passed 3-2, comes up for a second and final vote next month.

"Shadow," a state police trained dog, would be used in the searches at the request of school officials, said Trooper Philip McDougall, explaining the program.

McDougall, assigned to the nearby Sturbridge barracks, said state police would not actually search lockers, just bring the dogs. He said opening lockers and what actions to take against students would be left to school officials.

Past court decisions in other states have ruled school officials can search lockers when it might not be constitutional for police to do so, he said.

Carl H. Wilson, who voted against sniff searches, said he opposed the policy because drug abuse should be dealt with with education, not searches.

"I feel very strongly that we have eliminated the human element in this solution," he said.

Lawmakers open door to TV

BOSTON (UPI) — Formal sessions of the Massachusetts House would be televised if a bipartisan coalition is successful in its drive for a rules reform package.

After more than two hours of debate, lawmakers gave preliminary approval Monday on a 78-75 roll call vote to television and radio coverage.

The proposal, in the form of an amendment offered by Rep. Nicholas Paleologos, D-Woburn, was the first major issue to be tackled since members of the 173rd Legislature were sworn in last Wednesday.

Under the provision, the speaker of the House could prohibit broadcasting of any session with approval of the membership, and could limit what the cameras would be allowed to shoot.

Pension fight of eight years

Morse, a paramedic in Vietnam, had been with the fire department for six months at the time of the incident.

Doctors told Morse he could no longer perform the duties of a firefighter. In 1976, the first of three medical panels selected by the retirement board determined that Morse was disabled as a result of the accident and unable to perform the duties of a firefighter.

But the panel said the condition "probably" was not permanent.

So then-Fire Chief Frederick Perkins ordered Morse back to work in July, 1976. Morse told the chief he was still experiencing vertigo and pain and was unable to perform the duties of a firefighter.

Perkins fired him two months later. Morse appealed the firing, but Perkins' action was upheld in Middlesex County Superior Court.

Morse appealed the retirement board's decision that his disability was not permanent. The second medical panel determined the condition was "psychoneurotic dizziness" and recommended psychiatrists.

Finally a doctor from the third panel said Morses's illness was unrelated to the accident, though Dr. William Gray wrote in the report that further evaluation was recommended.

"He's been stuck in a bureacratic nightmare," Chefitz said. "Someone at City Hall feels he is malingering. That can be proven or disproven."

Chefitz also said "It appears that the disability had to be traumatic in nature and it is my opinion that the trauma occurred at the time of the accident."

Morse has been unemployed since the accident and lives on welfare and food stamps. He took courses in radio broadcasting and last year interned briefly for a radio station.

However Morse said he is unable to work regular full time hours because of his disability.

Morse said he maintains his health, which doctors reports affirmed, through a vegitarian diet, and exercise, including yoga.

Morse said he someday hopes to be working part time, perhaps at home, "doing something creative" in the broadcasting field.

Meanwhile Morse's case will continue for another year at least. Chefitz said it will almost a year before a judge sees the attorney's request.

Morse said, "I just want to go back to day one and look over the evidence. I want someone in the state to see what's gone wrong."

City faces taxing issues, property problems

The ultimate fate of the Murray Road School in Auburndale will have to be settled in 1983 or there may not be anything left to settle. The building has suffered after four years of disuse and vandalism.

The old West Newton Library or the Auburndale city yard have also been gathering dust. Abutters will probably be clamoring for an official decision on the future use of those structures during 1983.

The exact amount of funds available to the city has been vague throughout 1982 because of the reluctance of more than 6,000 property owners to pay the property taxes which came out of a painful and prolonged revaluation.

That problem promises to carry into the coming year, as the Assessing Department continues to process tax abatement applications from 1982 and 1983. An independent audit of the department's procedures, the results of which are due sometime in February, has given officials hope the lingering problems of securing property tax revenues might be over soon.

Traffic problems will tax officials' problem-solving abilities more than their coffers, especially in Chestnut Hill, where there is almost universal despair over finding an easy solution to problems building up for years.

A $96,000 grant from the state promises to unravel the knot of traffic in West Newton Square, if and when the aldermen decide on just what kind of a parking lot they want to build there. Planning for the project is in its fourth year.

An on-street sticker parking plan, in the works for five years, will come before the Board of Aldermen in January. It is aimed at alleviating the suffering of homeowners who do not have enough room on their own property to park all their cars.

Other major issues which city officials will be facing in the new year include the lack of low-income housing in the city. New housing developments, like the one at St. Jean's School which has been stalled in the aldermanic chamber, promise to add a few units to the city's low-income housing stock.

But as many as 3,000 new units of housing could be added to the city's rolls if a proposal by the Human Rights Commission is developed and approved. The commission has suggested that the city might allow for the development of accessory apartments in some of the city's larger homes.

Denizens of some of the city's watering holes have already seen the results of a new ordinance which went into effect at 8 a.m., Jan. 1. As a result of the Licensing Commissioners' concern for the proliferation of alcohol abuse and drunk driving in the city, they rolled back the 2 a.m. closing times of 17 establishments in the city to 1 a.m.

Schools face problem-solving on budgets will increase again this year. If that is so, school officials may be in for a very tough battle with Mayor Theodore Mann and the Board of Aldermen.

"I foresee serious political discussion," said Nancy Mann. "I think this is a year when Newton is going to have to say to itself 'How do we set priorities?'"

Committee member Katherine Jones said she hopes the new year will bring "some confidence (on the part of the mayor and aldermen) in the sense of responsibility and commitment that the School Committee has to providing good education...and doing that with the most stringent kinds of fiscal concerns."

"I think of it like a shadow boxing kind of thing and I hope that we're through with that," she said.

Mayor Mann has already presented school officials with a "target budget" which allows an increase of about $250,000 – not much for a $39.1 million budget which contained a 3.7 percent increase for the current fiscal year.

The school budget has passed through the Board of Aldermen in tact for the past two years since the schools lost fiscal autonomy. This year, there is potentially a new player in Mayor Mann.

A court decision last spring gives him power to cut the school budget en route to the board. Although aldermen can reject or cut the school budget, they can't increase it.

Jones said she had no idea whether the school budget submitted in coming weeks by Strand will contain an increase. Berwick, on the other hand, expects an increase.

"I certainly do (expect an increase)," Berwick said emphatically.

"We have a new superintendent who I think is doing a terrific job and he has a lot of great ideas. I think it is important to let him have his first opportunity to react in a budgetary way to the school system," she said.

"In a sense we have a golden opportunity to have somebody as capable as he is coming in and looking afresh at the school system. I think we should take advantage of that," Berwick stressed.

Like many of her colleagues, Berwick is concerned about holding the line on class size and with stemming the increase in private school enrollment.

These three committeewomen view the coming year positively -- or with "cautious optimism" because of money worries, Mann says – largely because of their perception of the new superintendent.

"I think that the whole School Committee thinks he is wonderful," Mann said, and noted she had heard that response to Strand from constituents as well.

Mann said she sees the School Committee and Strand leading the system toward more structure and discipline. "I'm positive about the fact that students and teachers and parents all seem to be heading for and believing in somewhat more structure."

For Jones, the emphasis on greater accountability is one of the exciting trends the new year will bring.

"One of the things that I think is really a hallmark of this administration is increased accountability for what is going on in the educational process. I see that as a very healthy thing to do," Jones said.

Jones is pleased by the stress on greater involvement of the community in assessing where the school are.

Youth group plans dinner theatre Jan. 21

WABAN — The opening performance of "A Place for Dreaming," presented by the youth theatre group of the Newton Presbyterian Church, will hit the footlights at the Union Church in Waban Men's Club dinner-theatre night, Friday, Jan. 21 at the Union Church, 14 Collins Rd., at 6 p.m.

"This evening is open to the entire community and we are expecting an excellent turnout," states James McDonald, president of the Union Church Men's Club." The buffet dinner promises to be of gourmet caliber and the musical will be inspirational and entertaining. We have had to limit dinner reservations to 150."

"A Place for Dreaming," written by Ken Medema, is a musical dealing with urban justice and a concern for the poor in the city.

This fully staged production, the ninth musical presented by the group, is directed by Kathryn Thomas, who is assisted by Jean Casterline.

Reservations are required and may be made by calling 527-6221 before Jan. 18.

Panel votes street block in Auburndale

NEWTON — In one of the shortest aldermanic committee meetings in many months, the Public Safety Committee Monday night voted to block off the intersection of Bourne, Woodbine and Philips Sts. where they meet Commonwealth Ave. in Auburndale.

According to committee member Richard Bullwinkle, the city's Traffic Commissioner and 18 neighbors approved of the action.

In other action, the committee approved the renewal of taxi licenses for four different companies.

The committee also voted to reappoint Police Chief William F. Quinn as keeper of the lockup until Dec. 31, 1983.

Surface mail to Puerto Rico?

Alex Brigham shows off original note and letter he received.

CHESTNUT HILL — Alex Brigham was living out the storybook dreams of childhood when, five years ago he scribbled a note, stuffed it inside a wine bottle and tossed it adventurously into the Atlantic Ocean.

The fourteen-year-old Newton South freshman had until, recently forgotten about the bottle, which he slipped into the water while vacationing with his family in Penobscot, Maine.

But last week Brigham received a letter postmarked Puerto Rico. Not knowing anyone there, he opened the letter curiously.

"I totally flipped out. I was expecting junk mail or something," said Brigham, when he learned the bottle had been found.

From the letter he learned a young Puerto Rican girl surfing near the Indian caves in Islorte, Arecibo, found the bottle on the beach.

The girl gave the bottle to Ruben Dario Cruz, who mailed Brigham a note stating where and when the bottle had been found. As proof of the find, he enclosed Brigham's original note.

"I didn't think the bottle would be found," said Brigham, who had written the note years ago asking the finder to notify him in Newton if the bottle washed up on some lonely beach.

"I was only 10 and couldn't write very well then," said Brigham, a

North/South side distinctions rapped

NEWTON — The final report of a special commission studying prejudice in the city recommends changing the names of North and South High Schools in an effort to soften distinctions seen by some between areas of Newton.

The report, by the Mayor's Special Commission on Community Affairs, cited concerns by city workers over perceived "north" and "south" side distinctions and stereotypes.

According to the report, made to the Human Rights Commission last week, revaluation added to tensions in Newton because, as city workers told the special commission, the revaluation process was seen as unfair to owners of older north-side homes.

The report on three commission-sponsored seminars on prejudice held in Newton said the city's south side is seen by many city workers as being more affluent and politically influential. Many of the more than 200 city workers who met with commission members said they felt the south side received better city services as a result.

Workers also said they felt others "looked down on them" because of their jobs. Others expressed concern about Italian and Jewish bigotry.

Since May the commission has met with hundreds of representatives from various city departments. Its report includes several recommendations to Mayor Theodore Mann, who requested the special sessions, for dealing with the issue of prejudice.

The recommendations include renaming Newton North and South High Schools; exchanges among religious clergy; increased culture sharing in the schools; representation from each village on the Human Rights Commission; and increased communication among the villages.

Leonard Zakim, a commission member, said the issue of renaming the schools is not a priority, but "was mentioned in the report because it was frequently brought up."

Mayor Mann said renaming North and South High Schools is the School Committee's responsibility. The commission should continue the special sessions and work out its suggestions to bring "all the villages and ethnic groups together," he said.

Mann said statements that the south side receives preferred treatment are a "misconception."

"It's hard to say what north and south mean," Mann said. "Most of the money spent on new school construction in the last 15 years has been on the north. Most of the city resources have gone there. The school closing have been on the south."

Mann said "it would be wrong" for him to interpret why some workers felt they were treated poorly, but remarked that, "I am certain that there is in the minds of some a kind of snobbish attitude about people who work for a living - do mannual work."

About 75 percent of the Department of Public Works workforce lives in Newton and some 60 percent live in the north section of the city, according to Daniel McClaren.

Zakim said it was not the commission's responsibility to decide whether the workers' remarks are accurate, but to recognize the perception and try to deal with it.

A reporter from The Newton Graphic and News Tribune was present during the commission's first meeting at Newton Police Headquarters. The commission refused to admit reporters during subsequent meetings, because, officials said, participants would talk more freely without press coverage.

The meetings were facilitated by

Snow falls; aldermen dissatisfied on clean-up

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Snow finally fell in the Garden City causing power outages and snapped phone lines while prompting some aldermen to voice concern about the "awful" job of snow plowing the Department of Public Works handed residents and commuters.

"The roads are awful," said Aldermanic Public Safety and Transportation Chairman Joseph DePasquale. "The (DPW) didn't plow near the curbs nor scrape the roads clean."

DePasquale said Monday he plans to probe the DPW's snow removal policy to find out why, "this unconscionable snow job was allowed to happen."

Many drivers in the city were faced with road "moguls," packed lumps of snow and ice on the street that cause your car to bounce along the surface.

"There's no excuse for it with a three day warning to prepare for the storm, the city doesn't look much better than Boston," said Alderman Matthew Jefferson, speaking about the poor snow removal job.

DePasquale recalled some years ago Newton was the only city around to hold school after a snow storm, because of the job street crews did on scraping the roads clean.

"Snow plows aren't getting their plows (plow blades) to the pavement," he said.

"We've never had better equipment and we've never been better prepared, but there are still roads that are barely passable," said Alderman Richard McGrath.

The city had its full force out to combat the effects of the snow storm and crews worked from noon on Saturday until 6 p.m. on Sunday, stated Superintendent of Streets Frederick Arata. Some snow crews worked even longer hours, he added.

Schmidt quick to tackle tasks on commission

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

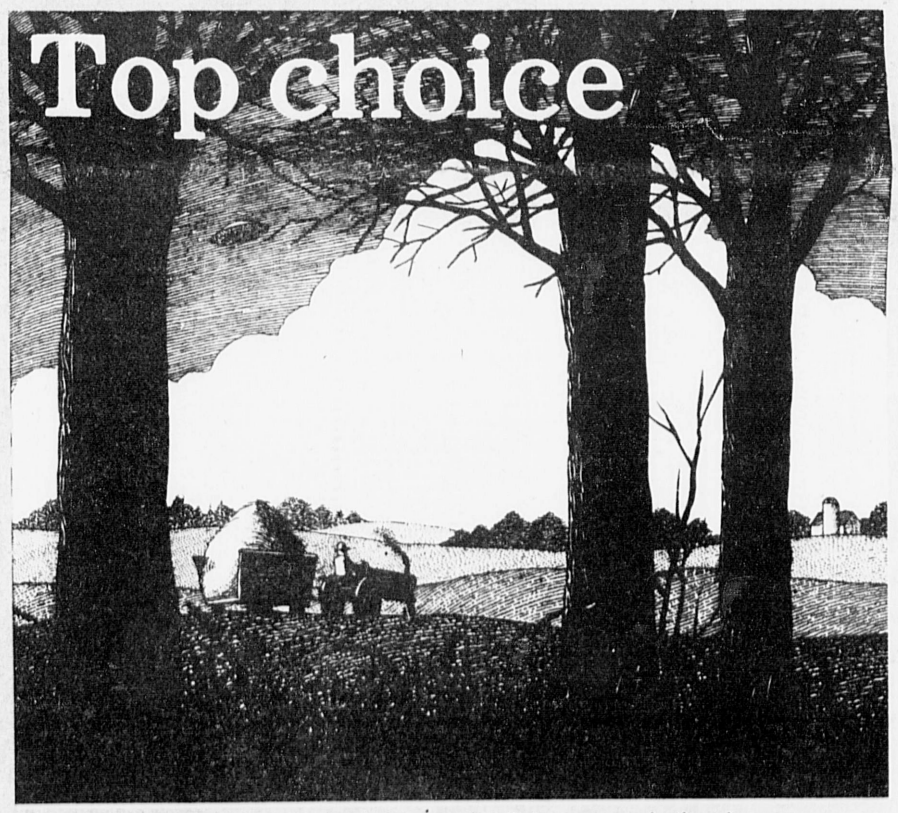

CAMBRIDGE — Bill Schmidt of Newton made his debut as Middlesex County Commissioner last week with a flurry of proposals aimed at making county government more efficient.

All Schmidt's initial plans, including a chief administrator for the commissioners, met with approval from his two colleagues.

Schmidt was sworn in two weeks ago. He sat at his first regular commission meeting last week, insisting on strict adherence to public bid procedures and requesting more information on agendas and department heads' financial requests.

On Schmidt's impetus, commissioners will start in February to hold evening meetings instead of daytime Tuesday sessions. One meeting

Monthly guide offers kids, parents a literary overview

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WABAN — Busy parents do not always have the time to sift through all the available books and toys in search of the best quality learning tools for their children.

Dianne Green, of Waban, once had the same problem of finding good books for her now grown children and as a result created Parent's Choice, a monthly guide for parents.

Parents' Choice, which since its birth in 1978 has been published from the basement of Green's home, features the best among books, toys, films and magazines for children.

Parents' Choice recently made its choice of the best childrens's products which are featured in the annual awards issue. Parents nation-wide made nominations and a select group of judges chose the best of books, magazines, toys and films.

Parents' Choice has a paid circulation of 15,000 subsricribers worldwide. The awards issue is available for $1 to anyone by writing Parents' Choice.

Praised by critics and educators, Parents' Choice focuses on the positive rather than the negative in childrens' books and other products. The newsletter, which receives educational grants and accepts some advertizing, is not connected with any social or political group so articles are free of any ideological viewpoints, Green said.

Green, 51, realized about 10 years ago that there was no one publication dedicated only to providing useful information about childrens' books.

"I did a lot of walking and talking," said Green, who was teaching a literature course at Radcliffe College when she began thinking about creating the publication.

"I had students who were busy parents and were concerned about their childrens' learning," Green recalled. "By talking with other parents I learned that they wanted to become more involved with their childrens' education."

Green said her convictions were strengthened by results of a national poll, which concluded that parents thought they lacked information to make intelligent choices about books and other learning tools.

"Parents need the skills and confidence to become involved in their childrens' education," said Green, who thinks the mystique about teaching children often makes parents shy away from becoming involved.

Once parents develope skills and acquire information, they become confident about choosing learning tools, Green said.

Parents' Choice is successful as it provides packaged information "that is easy to digest," Green said.

When choosing books and toys, Green advises parents to treat children as individuals.

"Know your child. Don't assume your child is anyone but the individual he or she is," Green said.

Parents should explore their childrens' strengths, weaknesses and interests, Green advised.

"Play it by ear. Go back and take a look at books that you liked when you were little."

Parents' Choice carefully chooses reading materials for specific age groups and advises parents to do the same.

"We walk a very careful and dangerous wire. We want the child to be challenged. But we don't want to turn off the child from

City remembers King in service

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — There is ample cause for concern over the legacy of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., but there was little of it evident during memorial services for the slain civil rights leader at Myrtle Baptist Church Saturday.

While the Reagan administration makes severe cutbacks in services which most directly affect the late leader's followers, Dr. King's legacy took shape on his birthday.

Some of that legacy was evident by the assortment of city officials who joined with clergy and parishioners in the annual service to give thanks for King's work and speak with hope of a day when his dream of unity and harmony might be realized.

The small, jewelbox of a church on Curve Street was filled with the strains of "We Shall Overcome" as police and fire officials locked hands with aldermen and church members, to sway to the rythmns of the hymn.

Myrtle Baptist pastor, Rev. Robert L. Littlejohn, Jr. told the congregation any ceremony celebrating the life of Dr. King should be filled with "hope, joy and happiness," rather than sadness.

"Be happy Martin Luther King was sent our way," he said. "Let the Lord know you love him for sending us a servant like Martin Luther King."

The church choir and the vocal ensemble of Newton South High School joined in hymns of praise. Florence Turner played the piano and sang "Precious Lord," at Rev.

A church's role mirrors King legacy

WEST NEWTON — The history of Myrtle Baptist Church made it an especially appropriate place to celebrate the birthday of Martin Luther King, America's best known defender of human rights.

In its dedication to steadfastness, respect for tradition and willingness to change, the church has run a course that closely parallels the life of Dr. King.

Dead man's family files $18M lawsuit

By Alberta Cook
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — The family of a Newton construction worker killed on an MBTA construction site in Cambridge in 1981 has filed an $18 million law suit against a Cambridge construction company.

Slattery-McClean-Grove, of 815 Somerville Ave., Cambridge, a contracting firm, is named as a defendant in the suit filed in Middlesex Superior Court. The firm is the general contractor for construction of the Porter Square Red Line station, according to John Saunders, a company spokesman.

Pompeo Leone, 55, was killed during a trench cave-in at the Porter Square construction site on August 31, 1981, according to the attorney for the family, Francis Leone of Boston.

The suit was filed by Leone's widow Fiorita Leone, administratrix of his estate, and on behalf of his daughters, Pasqualina Leone of Newton and Columba DeNino of Ontario, Canada.

The plaintiffs alleged the Cambridge firm was negligent in the design maintenance, testing and construction of pilings and trenches at the construction site.

A total of $12 million in damages is being sought for the daughters on grounds of emotional distress and loss of the parental society of their father, according to court documents. An additional $6 million is being sought in punitive damages on the daughters' behalf.

Slattery spokesman Saunders had no comment on the filing of the lawsuit against the contracting firm.

families had lived in the city since the 1600s and some of whom came here via the "Underground Railway" in the mid-1800s, Myrtle Baptist was dedicated to steadfastness.

The myrtle, chosen as the church's symbol in 1874, is an evergreen, flourishing throughout the changing seasons. When fire destroyed the church on Oct. 22, 1897, it was rebuilt on the same site. In 1976, the church underwent a major renovation.

Such steadiness was the distinguishing characteristic of Dr. King's career, as he set his course early and stuck with it to bring his dream of unity to all Americans.

Respect for tradition surrounds the church, quite literally, as the neighborhood streets are named after some of the founding fathers of Myrtle Baptist. There is Hicks Street, named after Lymms Hicks, and Simms Court, named after Charles Simms, another founder.

Douglass Street is named after Frederick Douglass, the 18th century champion of civil rights who first read of the Emancipation Proclamation in Boston, New Year's Day, 1863. Douglass later married the grandaughter of Charles Morris, another founder of Myrtle Baptist.

The church's respect for tradition reflects that of Dr. King, who constantly fell back on the traditional tenants of his Baptist faith for strength during his long crusade. But Dr. King was no more a slave to the past than is the little church on Curve Street.

King had to break with some of his supporters when he escalated the civil rights movement and called on fellow activists to throw their bodies into the fight and insist on equal treatment under the law.

The founders of Myrtle Baptist Church broke with some of their supporters at the old Lincoln Park Church when they decided, in 1874, to break away and form their own church.

President of the Board of Alderman Matthew Jefferson explained that the break was made at that time, "not for any philosophical reasons, but because they had a different way of worshipping."

King's long, hard fight for equal employment opportunity for blacks throughout the nation is reflected in the title of the sermon given at the first dedication ceremony of Myrtle Baptist Church: "The People Had a Mind to Work."

Actually, King's connection with the church was more solid than mere philosophical agreement. According to Samuel Turner, Oak Hill Elementary principal and head of Black Citizens of Newton, Dr. King used to frequent the church while he was studying at Boston University.

"This is a place that was dear to the heart of Martin Luther King," Turner said, adding that the late leader used to preach there.

Turner, who grew up in the house next door to the church, said King was often a dinner guest at his house. "The fact that there were eight daughters in the house made the invitation particularly attractive to him," Turner quipped.

Pay hike talk delayed; hearing slated

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Delaying until midnight debate on aldermanic pay hikes a pay boost for the position of mayor, the full Board of Aldermen early Tuesday voted to hold a public hearing on the issue.

With only 16 of 24 aldermen present when the item came up, talk came fast and furious as everyone wanted to go home. A voice vote showed the aldermen wished to hold a public hearing at a future date rather than risk further discussion concerning the recommendations of the Finance Committee.

Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond told Monday's board meeting his committee recommends a $3,000 annual salary for the aldermen, up from $1,800, and a $58,000 mayoral salary to take effect in 1986, after the present term of Mayor Theodore Mann expires.

Aldermen Michael Malec and Elaine Gentile both asked, "What's the point of a public hearing if the increases are already set?"

Richmond wanted the board to vote on the salaries approved by his committee and then hold a public hearing to get "input" on the figures, but Gentile thought the action was like "telling the public what we wanted before asking them for suggestions."

"We're not establishing numbers, but just recommending them to the public and after the hearing the full board will decide," said Alderman Lisle Baker. The Finance Committee recommendation is not "binding" on the public, he suggested.

A number of aldermen from the committee expressed fear that when the hearing is held, debate will be "totally wild" if salary guidelines are absent.

"We wanted to set guidelines so there wouldn't be a totally wild public discussion," said Alderman Harold Levinsky.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan asked the board members what made them think the public would offer a guideline of their own.

"The public will tell us if it's too much or too little, without any guidelines they'll have nothing," said President Matthew Jefferson.

Aldermen Robert Tennant and Wendell Bauckman are both against any pay hike for either themselves or the mayor, stating "serving the public" is enough compensation.

"There are plenty of people who will work as aldermen for nothing," said Bauckman during a Finance Committee meeting.

Bauckman said the mayor's raise was so far in the future it didn't make sense to discuss it now. For both the mayor and the aldermen, the city charter bars pay hikes from taking effect during their current terms of office.

Baker suggested and won the approval of the Finance Committee to link the proposed $58,000 mayoral salary to 50 percent of the cost-of-living index. Mayor Theodore Mann receives $37,500 annually and recently admitted he's made some personal "sacrfices" because of his salary level.

More than a handfull of city department heads, such as the new $42,000 Commissioner of Public Works, earn more than the mayor.

The item for pay raises for the mayor and the aldermen was filed by President Matthew Jefferson. He suggested a Blue Ribbon Citizen's Committee study the matter. It was pointed out the last committee ended in a deadlock and reported no recommendation.

dedicated to Dr. King. Mann said it was a day "to reflect on the relationship between ourselves and our neighbors, to see if we've made any progress in the past year in fulfilling the dream of Martin Luther King."

Complaining of the persistence of racism and anti-Semitism, Mann told the crowd, "If any one of God's children is attacked, we are all attacked."

Mann's words drew a hearty "amen" from the congregation.

Board of Aldermen President Matthew Jefferson told the gathering, "Leaders rarely get to enjoy the fruits of their labor. The task is ours."

Jefferson's wife, Lillie, told of King's devotion to guide America toward the principles of brotherhood on which she was based "despite herself."

Superintendent of Schools John Strand told of meeting King during a voter registration drive in Mississippi in 1964. Praising him for his work, Strand said the responsibility for quality education stemmed largely from the possibility that "there might be another visionary like him in the classroom."

Samuel Turner, principal of the Oak Hill Elementary School, spoke for the Black Citizens of Newton, vowing that as long as there is discrimination in educational and employment opportunities, "Dr. King's work here is unfinished."

Aldermen in attendance included President Emeritus Wendell Bauckman, Ethel Sheehan, Verne Vance, Michael Malec, Richard McGrath, Richard Bullwinkle, Rodney Barker and Terry Morris.

Nonantum hosts tunes

NEWTON — The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will present soprano Eleanora Goolkasian and piano accompianist Ann Pashall in "A Happy Hour of Song" on Friday, Jan. 21 at 12:30. All Newton senior citizens are invited to come to 48 Silver Lake Avenue to enjoy the performance.

Regularly scheduled health and blood pressure clinics will continue on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings and Monday and Thursday afternoons.

A message in a bottle found far from Newton

South varsity hockey team player and president of a local youth church group.

Brigham said he was imitating his older brother when he tossed the bottle into the Atlantic.

"My brother had done a few of them. I was jealous of him," Brigham recalled.

Brigham said he will write to Cruz and tell him how long the bottle has been drifting, since he never dated the original note.

"The bottle must be in pretty bad shape after all those years in the ocean," Brigham added.

Brigham does not know where the bottle floated before landing 1,500 miles away from his Maine summer home. But a South teacher speculates that it may have become caught in a 6,000 mile circular current, which extends from the Maine coastline, northeast toward Europe and back down toward the West Indies. It may have circled this route twice before arriving on the Puerto Rican beach, according to Brigham's calculations.

Brigham's classmates were excited to hear his tale.

"They said they were all excited and how they're going to do it," said Brigham, who said he may try it again soon.

AG, aldermen push speedier Cousens Fund distribution

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The attorney general and an aldermanic subcommittee have recommended the expedite distribution of some $300,000 from the Horace Cousens Industrial Fund, set up to help "deserving poor."

"Assistant Attorney General Dana Mason feels the trustees should distribute as much money as possible or the balance should be turned over to hospitals for their worthy poor," said Assistant City Solicitor Quida Young at last week's Aldermanic Finance Committee meeting.

The subcommittee investigating practices of the Cousens Fund trustees delivered its report to the Aldermanic Finance Committee at that meeting.

According to Cousens' will, interest income from his $1 million trust fund must be distributed to the "deserving poor" or the "needy sick" in Newton or Boston hospitals.

Mason is also asking for a certified audit of the fund covering the last three years. City Comptroller Larry Marino is expected to complete the audit by February, according to the subcommittee report.

Mason's primary area of concern is distribution of the income from the fund, which has accumulated over the last 25 years, according to the report.

Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond formed the subcommittee after concerns arose about accumulation of $300,000 in income and grants given by the trustees to city human services programs, according to Subcomittee Chairman Sondra Schick. Richmond commended the subcommittee for its work.

Horace Cousens

"(Asst. Atty. Gen.) Mason is emphatic the trustees come up with a plan for the distribution of the $300,000 within 15 months or so," said Schick. Annual income for the fund is said to be $130,000 and comes from U.S. Treasury Notes, according to the report.

The will failed to dictate when interest money is to be distributed, but the subcommittee will recommend earnings be distributed every two years, according to the report.

Trustee Jane Pitt has resigned and the trust's administrative assistant Donna Rosenberg has also decided to leave.

To help bridge the staffing gap, a senior citizen outreach worker, who is funded by the Cousen's trust, will fill in for Rosenberg.

"That money must be distributed, it's a responsibility that must be fulfilled," said Richmond, suggesting the aldermen who are ultimately responsible for the trust fund get involved in its distribution.

"We have not decided to abolish the trustees and we (the aldermen) don't want to get into the business (of distributing funds)," Schick countered.

Other recommendations approved by the Finance Committee include: seven-year trustee terms instead of life tenure; encourage indirect proportional program grants to organizations serving poor residents; a yearly audit by the city comptroller; an annual performance report by trustees; an outline of appropriate administrative expenses; authorization of outside counsel by the city solicitor only; and distribution of interest income every 24 months.

The subcommittee will continue to study mortgage disbursements for qualified residents.

State backs custodial union

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The state Labor Relations Commission Friday upheld the right of school custodians to refuse overtime work.

Commissioners in executive session dismissed a petition for strike investigation by the Newton School Committee in response to custodians' refusal of overtime.

School officials filed the petition Jan. 7, claiming the job action was a possible violation of laws prohibiting strikes by civil service employees.

The labor commissioners based their ruling in part on a clause in the most recent contract which says "overtime work is voluntary except in emergency cases."

Custodians began refusal of overtime Jan. 7 because of stalled contract talks between the city and their union, Local 454 of the Service Employees International Union.

Custodians and secondary school cafeteria workers, both represented by Local 454, make up the last school bargaining group without a new contract.

The job action by custodians prompted school officials to require that heat be left on the previous weekend at the daytime setting of 65 degrees rather than the weekend or nightime setting of 55 degrees. School officials repeated the policy this past weekend as well.

To prevent vandalism and illuminate weekend activities, custodians also had orders to leave more lights than normal burning in buildings before leaving their job Friday.

The School Department's Director of Support Services, Roy Cornelius, says the weekend policy is to insure that Newton's 23 school buildings and Education Center are protected should a boiler trip up. The higher heat setting would mean that it would take longer for a building to cool down.

Cornelius maintains the cost of this policy for the two weekends has not been significant "compared to a million dollar fuel budget."

"We certainly have tried over the years to save every bit of the fuel that we can," he said. "We are now having to balance that with the safety of the equipment."

Cornelius said the "biggest single cost in running heat is just maintaining the boilers" in the winter at the 55 degree setting at night and on weekends to prevent freeze ups. The 10 degree difference of running the heat at 65 degrees for a weekend is a very small addition to the normal heating season, he said.

But Robert Robards, a spokesman for Local 454, claims the weekend policy is a "tremendous waste" of taxpayers' money.

According to Robards, custodians were required until this year to check building on weekends from September to March. Robards says school officials never started that practice this year and the union has filed a complaint of an unfair labor practice.

Since custodians have not been making building checks this year and have been working weekends only in buildings where activities were scheduled, Robards argues that the change in policy for the past two weekends is "absurd."

"Most of our people are (Newton) taxpayers," Robards said. "We see this kind of thing and we know damn right well there is no need for the waste.

"They don't want to see the money just blown up the chimney," he stressed.

According to Robards, Brown Junior High burned about 700 gallons of fuel oil over the three-day New Year's weekend compared to 2,000 gallons over the first weekend of the new policy.

Tom Ryan, acting senior cuotodian at Newton South High, says a normal two-day weekend can require as little as 700 gallons or as much as 2,000 gallons at South, dependimg on temperatures outside.

Two weekends ago, Ryan says, the school used 2,900 gallons of oil.

School officials declined comment on the issue of building checks, saying the matter was in collective bargaining.

Thomas O'Conor, chief negotiator for the schools, said the weekend policy was to "maintain community access to school facilities.

"We are in collective bargaining and have not reached impasse," O'Conor said, "and I have to respect the confidentiality of collective bargaining, which is normal.

"The place to bargain is at the table," he said.

The next negotiation session between the union and school officials is set for Jan. 21. Until that time, Robards says custodians will continue to refuse overtime.

O'Conor said he had asked for a meeting with the union every day of last week "but had no response."

In ruling on the overtime refusal, the state labor commissioners said the School Department had never ordered custodians to come to work and had "simply asked whether (custodians) would volunteer to work."

"Anyone is free to decline volunteer work," the commissioners said.

According to the commissioners' statement, the current contract says that when "qualified volunteers on a system-wide basis are not available...the administration will assign overtime work to employees."

Plugging the leak

Members of the Hyde School community showed off the big check for a temporary roof.

Hyde group raises roof

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Hyde School supporters put a temporary roof on the burned-out portion of the school just in time for last weekend's snowstorm.

Dozens of Highlands area residents, parents and city officials gathered at the school Saturday morning to admire the $13,000 construction of plastic sheeting and sandbags and to reaffirm their goal of rehabilitating the old building for school, housing and community use before the end of this year.

HIGH SEAT - This tyke had a balloon and a good seat for Saturday's roof-raising at the burned-out Hyde School, in Newton Highlands.

The building was gutted in a fire two years ago, and members of the Hyde School Reuse Committee have devoted countless hours to formulating a plan for rebuilding the structure. Recent questions about the future need for the additional school space at Hyde have stalled the plan in its final stages.

Residents of the Highlands expressed concern that there might be nothing left to rehabilitate by the time their plan gets through all the bureaucratic channels. Jeffrey Swope, an officer of the Hyde School Fund, which paid for the temporary roof, said his group paid to raise the roof so the reuse question "can be determined by the political process rather than the weather."

City Building Department officials said the temporary roof would do little to protect the building from winter weather.

Paul Croce, chairman of the Hyde School Reuse Committee, said a structural architect was called in to determine how to avoid further damage to the building while the city determines the Highlands' future educational needs. He said the architect told him the roof would be good for up to two years. "We're only looking for this winter," Croce said optimistically.

A public hearing on the future of the building is scheduled Jan. 20.

"We would hope that whatever happens will happens as expeditiously as possible," Croce said. "It's been two years now."

All the city officials at the Saturday roof raising echoed Croce's sentiments.

Highlands Alderman Rodney Barker said, "This crowd demonstrates that the Highlands is very anxious for this plan to go ahead as fast as possible. If the rebuilding began in March, the building could be used in December."

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris said the Hyde School "has always been a symbol of the Highlands. It is one of a few true community schools in the city, located right in the village."

Alderman Michael Malec said his son attends sixth grade in "not an ideal space" in the basement of one of the two existing buildings. He contended that the school desperately needs more space.

"The mixed-use (school, housing and community uses) proposal and the neighborhood are ideally suited to each other," Malec said.

MATTHEW — A BOOK OF THE KINGDOM

The genealogy in Matthew begins with Abraham (Matt. 1:1), but the genealogy in Luke goes back to Adam. Matthew does not cover Adam and his descendants, but Luke does. What is the meaning of this difference? Luke is a book of God's salvation, whereas Matthew is a book of the kingdom. God's salvation is for the created and fallen race represented by Adam, but the kingdom of the heavens is only for God's chosen people, the called race, represented by Abraham. Therefore, Matthew starts from Abraham, but Luke traces the genealogy back to Adam.

In the first ten and a half chapters of Genesis, God tried to work with the created race, but He did not get through. The created race failed Him. Man fell to such an extent that all mankind rebelled against God to the uttermost, and built the tower and city of Babel to express their rebellion (Gen. 11:1-9). So God gave up the created and fallen race, and He called one, Abraham, out of that race to be the father of another race. Out of a place filled with rebellion and idolatry, a place where everyone was one with Satan, God called a man named Abraham (Gen. 12:1-2; Heb. 11:8). From the time God called him out of Babel into Canaan, God gave up the Adamic race and invested all His interest in this new race, with Abraham as its head. This is the called race; the transformed race. It is not a race according to nature, but a race according to faith.

God's kingdom is for this race. It could never be with the fallen race. Thus, Matthew, dealing with the kingdom of the heavens, begins with Abraham. Because the book of Luke concerns God's salvation, his genealogy goes back to Adam (Luke 3:38). After being saved in Luke, we are spontaneously transferred from the fallen race to the called race. We used to be descendants of Adam; now we are descendants of Abraham. Galatians 3:7 and 29 tell us that whoever believes in Jesus Christ is a son of Abraham. if we were not descendants of Abraham, then we would have no share in the book of Matthew. Praise the Lord that we are the sons of Abraham!

Join together; stop disharmony

A report last week by the Mayor's Special Commission on Community Affairs represents a major step forward in pinpointing ways to come to grips with racial, ethnic and religious prejudice in this city.

The commission, part of the Newton Human Rights Commission, recommended six main points for consideration by city officials, civic leaders and other taxpayers.

After three meetings with some 200 members of the city's workforce, the commission found a need to integrate the so-called north and south sides of the city and to pound away at the rifts which, at times, are unknowingly perpetuated.

The first recommendation suggests renaming the two city high schools "with no reference to compass or location." This hits at the heart of a simple matter, when location denotes some greater meaning.

The recommendation would take North and South Highs, which in some minds serve as flagships for presumed differences in philosophies, economic standings or traditions, and name them something else.

Other recommendations which should also be given serious discussion in City Hall and civic circles include: greater interaction among ethnic and religious groups in the city; inclusion of representatives from each village on the Human Rights Commission; and planning joint meetings of neighborhood associations.

The special commission recommended teachers be better trained in handling ethnic, racial and religious conflicts in the classroom and that "top city officials" should seek forums to show "even-handed treatment of all sections of the city."

The village environments and unique village characters around Newton should be preserved, because — as shown by the community spirit at the Hyde School "roof-raising" Saturday — many people want it that way. Those identities should not be homogenized in a giant blender of collective guilty conscience. But at times it would appear those same village identities perpetuate stereotypes and prejudices toward other parts of the city.

The commission addressed such problems and cited concerns by city workers over periodic anti-Italian bigotry, anti-Semitism and perceptions by some of greater political influence grounded in some areas of the city due to greater wealth.

The commission has done a good job in starting people talking — something which is vital to unify the Garden City.

However, such an important step forward must not be ignored or shelved until "a better time."

For, as members of the special commission concluded: "The frank and open comments of (Newton's) workforce provide the opportunity to examine and eradicate elements of prejudice, which are not now monumental but which if allowed to fester, could provide the seeds of serious disharmony in Newton."

Letters

Taxpayers' Assoc. to unions: be accurate if seeking support

To the editor;

During the week of Nov. 1, 1982, a letter from our Newton Taxpayers' Association appeared in the local press to the effect that (school and other municipal) "workers should view options" (alternatives) or, perhaps, "Solid Reality for Solidarity."

In that letter we called the union's two speeches to the aldermen "heartfelt and well-composed" as well as "capably delivered." We also called attention to some seeming inconsistencies in their general arguments, but we did not support or oppose any particular figure or any significant particular point in any negotiations.

During the week of Dec. 6, a purported response from the Newton Labor Council appeared in the local press headed by the title: "Labor Council Blasts Charges." Again we compliment the council - this time on your abilities at letter writing. But we are sorry to say that most of our points and questions have not been answered. Others have been addressed erroneously or fallacously.

If the media saw fit to reprint both letters at the same time on the same page, we are sure that most careful readers would agree with our contention.

Alternatively, let us cite a few examples:

We hardly think that we deserve to be "blasted" or even reproached for raising honest questions, some of which are commented on below.

I signed the letter as executive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association and was, therefore, speaking for the Association following a formal vote of the board.

The supposed response was addressed only to me, personally, which I hope you will agree was not quite appropriate.

You implied I was surprised at your eloquence. Yet no surprise was either mentioned or implied in our letter nor was any surprise felt by me in any way. If there is any surprise, it is that you would somehow contrive to charge me gratuitosly with such an emotion and then reproach me for it.

You do not enhance your credibility when you say you are not "merchandising" your positions. You seek to prove that unions have not been generally legally favored in the United States by citing one adverse case. Even a few cases would not disprove the generality.

The case you mention is one in which the organization crassly, deliberately voilated and blatantly defaulted on its own contract - a contract whose other provisions it was committed to vigorously enforcing on its employer.

We never mentioned Reagan's policies - preferring that local issues be addressed on their own merits, but frankly, your partisanship is showing. "Trickle-down" was O.K. with you when Kennedy did it and apparently not O.K. when Reagan does it.

The term itself is inappropriate and the present context complicated by other factors including initially, the presence of high interest rates which temporarily opposed its benefits. But that is another story.

Incidentally, we are well aware of the context you plead including previous contract settlements. You, on the other hand, have given no recognition to the contexts we mention, such as the effect of your demands on the other taxpayers, other workers, and inflation.

You have also ignored the context of your employer's increasing cost of your fringe benefits when you compare only your stated dollar pay and pay raises to be Consumer Price Index and its increments.

I sincerely complimented you on your presentations and yet at one point in your letter you said, "You asked the voices of labor to be silent when it suits your advantage." I never said it, never implied it, and never even felt that way. Do you?

Please remember that with rights, including free speech, you also have the responsibility to refrain from charges that are completely untrue, unfair and irrelevant.

You dare me to support your requests and yet you have completely ignored, or at least failed to answer our proposed considerations in formulating and pressing your requests.

Sorry, but until we get some properly reasoned and civil, direct answers to the points we have raised, we must hold certain tentative positions.

1. We, and other taxpayers who are not municipal employees, do care about you (see below) but there are many indications that you do not care about us - at least from a financial/tax point of view.

2. You give us no credit at all for trying, at our own extra one-time expense, to see to it that no one will be out of a job because of the City's private contracting or trash removal. In fact, trumpeting its cost and not the nature of it, you have tried to use it as an argument against us.

3. You have piled civil service on top of union power and now you are trying to put political power on top of that. Also, through the DeNucci bill, you are trying to pre-empt our option to provide City services by private contract. ("Say it ain't so, Joe.") That, in itself, would be reason enough for the rest of us to insist on prevailing in this matter.

4. You should try, more, to avoid errors of fact and logic if you want more credibility. You should not require infinite permissiveness or unreasoning 100 percent concurrence if you want willing sympathy to your cause.

5. You scold and petition your employers who did not cut your pay, but keep electing the purported big "heroes" who continue to cut your pay by taking away your money and inflating away your purchasing power.

Now here is a tentative prophecy to think about.

Those who are now asking you to rethink your viewpoints are likely to be better for you than those who pose as helpers of your cause.

Question of pay raises for board should be decided before Nov.

To the editor;

To address the issue of salary raises for the mayor of Newton and the Board of Aldermen, I find it unconscionable that a high school principal (Ernest Van Seasholes of Newton South High) would be receiving nearly $8,000 a year more than our chief executive ($37,500).

It is ludicrous given the responsibility incumbent upon the office that the mayor should be the twelfth highest paid position in the city of Newton.

By the same token (no pun intended) the aldermanic stipend is just that ($1800 a year) — a stipend! I applaud the idea of this issue being decided upon prior to the election and not being devious about it by waiting until after November.

Alderman Edward Richmond is insulting our intelligence by saying "the only people who will come forward will be those who can't separate the personality from the office."

We do not yet even know who the personalities will be next November.

We do know that the office is and will continue to be. The days of volunteerism for public officials are passe. Incentive brings out the best in us.

These men and women are dedicated and on call seven days a week for their constituents. They are, for the most part, professional people who spend many long evenings away from their families to try and make the right decision for the taxpayer to get the most for his or her tax dollar. We may not always agree with these decisions, but the effort is one of great magnitude for many issues brought before them.

Last April, Alderman Ethel Sheehan proposed an aldermanic salary reduction. This proposal was defeated the previous year by the full board.

Her fiscal conservatism does not do much to enhance a fair shake for her successor or present colleagues, should they choose to run again. Alderman Sheehan recently asked, "How can someone decide on a pay raise for 24 people?" With 24 people involved in the decision making process, it shouldn't be all that difficult.

Graphically speaking

Momma said there'd be days like this

Smoke gets in your eyes

At a recent meeting of the full Board of Aldermen, President Matthew Jefferson started a chorus of coughing fits echoed by all the other aldermen in the chambers.

The source of his irritation? Alderman Joseph Depasquale, who is known to sneak a cigarette in the smokeless chamber.

Casting the first stone

To all those aldermen and other city officials who might, at times, have mixed emotions about press coverage of the peregrinations of city government, a word from former Newton Mayor Henry E. Cobb.

In his inaugural speech, in 1898, Mayor Cobb warned his aldermen:

"Press, pen and speech will criticize, misrepresent and misjudge you. Your good deeds will be passed over in silence, and your mistakes or failures to please will be magnified into misdemeanors!"

T'was ever thus....

He's on the panel

Richard D. Glovsky, the city's chairman of the Human Rights Commission, was appointed by Scott Harshbarger to his Transition Advisory Committee for the Middlesex County district attorney's office.

Glovsky served as chairman of a panel interviewing candidates for the DA's office — with scores interviewed for positions on DA Harshbarger's staff.

Harshbarger also named Glovsky, a lifelong Newton resident, to his Civil Rights Advisory Committee.

Glovsky practices law in Boston with Hanify, King & Glovsky, in his spare time of course.

One for the record

The singing group with the unusual name (but then, there are a lot of those around, aren't there?) called Voice of the Turtle, boasts three of its four members as Newton residents.

The group, which performs periodically in the Garden City and environs, recently released its "long-awaited second record" of Sephardic music, entitled "A Coat of Many Colors."

The record is a collection of songs taken from the Voice of the Turtle's concert repertoire over the last two years, and contains both Ladino secular songs and Hebrew and Ladino religious songs from the holiday rituals of Purim, Simchat Torah and Hanukkah.

A solid bidder at last

In the good news category this week, the nonprofit Learning Prep School in West Newton finally found an honest bidder for its 1937 Plymouth coupe.

Karen Jacobs of the school staff said the buyer, who asked that he not be identified, paid the asking price of $5,000 for the classic white auto, which had been fixed up as a fund-raiser by students at the school.

The car was on display at the New England Auto Show in Boston a couple months ago and at that time, sealed bids were taken. The problem came when the bids were opened and the bidders called. All either said they were not seriously bidding on the vehicle or their names had been attached to bids without their knowledge.

But now, the happy ending, the car is sold, Jacobs reports, and the school will put the money toward a new automotive shop wing.

Merit rating system?

During a recent aldermanic debate on the number of signatures required on nomination papers for candidates in the upcoming city election, several aldermen wondered if the number of signatures required might dissuade a potential candidate from taking the first step.

Lane Sofman commented, "I don't think the number of signatures has ever been the problem."

Ethel Sheehan, who said she has been besieged by prospective aldermen who hope for the seat she has said she will vacate at the end of this term, noted, "No. I think the problem is the salary."

During a discussion, two nights earlier, of a raise in the $1,800 aldermanic pay, Sheehan pointed out to her colleagues "the inequality of the work product of the 24 aldermen" and asked, "How can anyone decide on a raise for 24 people?"

The bell, for round 2

Aldermen Richard McGrath and Edward Richmond brought the usual internecine struggle which characterizes so much of the aldermanic agenda out into the open at a recent Finance Committee meeting.

McGrath, chairman of the Public Facilities Committee, thought discussion of a private trash contract for the city should be in his bailywick and not before the Fincom.

Their discussion across the length of the committee room table was heated enough that at least one city official left the table to "get out of the line of fire."

Richmond wanted McGrath to stop talking, but he could not shut him up.

"I can't believe you're acting this way tonight!" Richmond told his colleague, as if he had never seen the alderman from Ward 4 press his case before.

"Disrespect spawns disrespect, and arrogance spawns arrogance," McGrath replied in his own defense.

Carve that one in stone.

'Quality education' hinges on decision over Hyde School

To the editor;

Quality public education is our only hope for the future in Newton, Massachusetts and the nation.

The mayor and the Newton School Committee are about to case their votes for the direction of public education in Newton. Will they seal its survival or its demise?

Monday, Jan. 24 is the date set for the Newton School Committee's vote on the Hyde School mixed use or redistricting issue. Will the "powers-that-be" decide to disassemble in piecemeal fashion one of the city's two largest, most stable schools (with the lowest number of "flights" to private-parochial schools of any school district in Newton)?

Or will they decide to "hold the line" on any further disembowelment of Newton schools/villages in favor of supporting public education and Newton communities by finding creative, innovative ways of maintaining vs. closing public schools?

Such a creative solution is found in the Hyde mixed use proposal, whereby the old fire-damaged building would be renovated to house six classrooms, including much-needed space for the community's self-supporting day care program, as well as promoting a humanitarian service in shared-use housing for handicapped individuals in the remainder of the building.

Here is an oportunity for Newton to be a pioneer, a leader in the nation in demonstrating creative solutions to the dilemma of decreasing schools populations and public school closings.

Are the mayor and the Newton School Committee going to let this unparalleled opportunity slip through their fingers? Will $500,000 of insurance money for the fire-damaged building, leaving School Committee hands for the city's general coffers (as experienced with Warren Jr. High's closing), be the "trade-off" for selling one more public school in Newton down the drain, for destroying yet another school-based community, for passing by an opportunity to offer a humanitarian service (handicapped housing) and for taking a leadership role in the nation in demonstrating the viability of mixed-use in a public school building?

The eyes of the Hyde School community and the city of Newton are upon you. Show us some constructive leadership, caring and committment to public education in Newton. We won't forget.

'Straighten out the travesty'

To the editor;

The confusion over real estate revaluation in this city appears to have been replaced by consternation regarding the handling of abatements.

While awaiting the answer to my request for reassessment, I, along with many other "good" taxpayers, dutifully paid my taxes - fear of a 14 percent interest charge is a magnificent incentive.

Now the value of my property has been lowered and the appropriate abatement forms filed. But where, oh where, has my money gone?

I have seen city government in action; am I now seeing inaction in city goverment?

Yes, they'll pay 8 percent. What happened to the other 6 percent, folks? Are you classifying that as a handling charge, or have your investments been doing that poorly?

And if the answer to the last part of that questions is "yes" then perhaps you should be seeking new portfolio management?

While aldermen debate whether or not to add a surtax to the houses in Newton that are assessed over a certain amount, it would appear that the assessors are debating the length of time before their offices are stormed by irate taxpayers.

I urge Mayor Mann and the Board of Aldermen to straighten out this travesty that has been committed on the citizenry of the city.

Chief Quinn steers March of Dimes drive

NEWTON — The Mass Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation recently kicked off its coin cannister drive in Newton.

Steering their year's March of Dimes fundraiser is Chief William Quinn, of the Newton Police Department. Quinn met recently with March of Dimes Community Service Representative Patrick Huntington to plan the distribution of coin cannisters to many business in Newton.

Proceeds from the drive go to the fund birth defects research, medical services and educational program in eastern Massachusetts.

Persons interested in receiving birth defects information should call 329-1360 or write the March of Dimes, 865 Providence Highway, Dedham, 02026.

Urges push against St. Jean's purchase

To the editor;

Since only 11 aldermen were able to see their way clear to attend the open hearing on the purchase of St. Jean's School for subsidized housing, I felt I should write to each of you to express my views (which are also felt by many, many members of our community, as evidenced by the turnout last Thursday night).

It was always my understanding that you were elected to govern our city and that you represented the constituents of the various villages.

If this is so, then you have to VOTE NO on the purchase of St. Jean's School. It was extremely evident at the meeting last week that the community does not want any more subsidized housing in Nonantum.

With the addition of St. Jean's, Nonantum will have 9.7 percent of its units subsidized in some way or other. We have the largest number of subsidized units in the city, yet we have the smallest land area and we are the most crowded.

How can you possibly consider purchasing new property when we have empty building after empty building already owned by the city? Just to list a few: Murray Road School, Auburndale; City Yard, Warren Jr. High, West Newton Library, Hyde School, etc.

If you close the village libraries, even more buildings will be idle. If you want sibsidized housing so badly, sell HUD one of these buildings.

The mayor is constantly screaming for additional revenue to run the city... Why add additional tax-free property to our already overloaded list?

If a private contractor wants to purchase the property, which would bring in additional tax revenues, how can you possibly even consider voting for the purchase?

Maybe you feel you will meet with less resistance in Nonantum and it will be easier to "stick it" here. Well, "stick it" on Rumford Ave. at the old incinerator. We are filled up to here. We've had it.

We have tried to improve our community and keep up our property. We pay the same tax rate as the rest of the city.

We don't need anyomre subsidized housing. We need some high income housing in Nonantum. We want to be upgraded.

Vote no for subsidized housing in Nonantum.

reading. We don't always choose the fanciest material."

Finding books to attract "reluctant readers" is a top priority for Parents Choice. Green said humorous books often hook children who do not enjoy reading. And parents should try to hook their children just as they are beginning to read.

"You have to give them a feeling of success. They have to feel like, 'Hey, this is fun.'"

"The giggling idea worked" for one of her sons, after Green learned that he was dyslexic. Green's son, who is now working toward a doctorate degree in economics, particularly liked humorous stories written by Beverly Cleary, Green said.

Green emphasized that Parents' Choice is concerned only with finding the best materials for children and does not make selections according to personal philosophies or social-political viewpoints.

"We believe in our intuition and face each (choice) as it arises. We don't care where the toy came from. We are neither left or right or timid, middle of the road," she said. "We really work to find the positive. It's easy to find the negative."

Green said there is an ample supply of productive toys and books, many of which are inexpensive.

"Your child can be educated without a whole lot of money."

Green said one of the finest books for gifted children is Herbert Robarg, by Natalie Babbitt. "It's for a for a special, advanced kind of child," she said.

Green thinks childrens' education is "a two way street between parents and teachers." Green adds that parents should also "enjoy the experience of being a parent at the child's various stages."

Harold Goldsmith elected N-N Chamber president

NEWTON — Harold L. Goldsmith, senior vice president and treasurer of the West Newton Savings Bank, has been elected president of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce for 1983. He succeeds James A. Miller, planning and development consultant.

Other officers elected include Stanley Golembe, general manager of the Measurement Systems Division of Itek, senior vice president and vice president for economic development; Richard Gagney, regional administrator of BayBank Middlesex, vice president for organization development and treasurer; Nancy Bristol, human resources administrator of General Cinema Corporation, vice president for human resources; Peter Barber, vice president of Northland Investment Company, vice president for public policy and Verne Edmunds, vice president for administration at Andover Newton Theological School, vice president for special programs.

Goldsmith is a native of Arlington and a graduate of Bentley College and Northeastern University, where he received his bachelor's degree in business administration. He also has completed the Graduate School of Savings Banking Program at Brown University and the Executive Development Program at Fairfield University.

He has held banking positions with the Arlington Five Cents Savings Bank, the Brookline Cooperative Bank and Cambridge Savings Bank before joining West Newton Savings Bank as assistant treasurer in 1968. He was promoted to treasurer in 1974 and senior vice president and treasurer in 1978.

Goldsmith is active in banking organizations, including the Savings Bank Officers Club and is past chairman of the Savings Bank Forum of Massachusetts and a bank corporator for West Newton Savings. He is also a licensed real estate broker and has taught real estate courses.

For the past eight years he has been co-chairman of the National Cerebral Palsy Telethon for the Boston area and has been an Active Council Member of the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America and is Past Treasurer and Director of the Arlington Boys' Club, each for several years.

A veteran of U.S. Army and Coast Guard Reserves, he and his wife Ellen are parents of four children and reside in Arlington.

Active during the past several years with the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce, he is past treasurer of the Chamber, past membership chairman and vice president for organization development.

Commission to study traffic overview

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — To stop commuters from using residential streets in Chestnut Hill as short cuts, the Traffic Commission voted last week to study traffic as whole and end the city's piecemeal approach.

"There is no easy way to go from north to south in Newton," said Director of Planning Barry Canner.

Drawing applause from Chestnut Hill residents during the meeting, the commission also recommended the aldermen remove traffic barriers and signs preventing entrance from Commonwealth Avenue to Crosby, Manet, Hammondswood, Old Colony, and Priscilla Roads, which are all residential streets.

The restrictions were sought by different groups of residents needing traffic relief and often shifted traffic from one street to another in what City Engineer Paul Giunta called a "domino effect."

The traffic shifts instituted by the aldermen also resulted in residents of one street fighting with those of another street over traffic patterns.

"We need to request a major traffic study be done, an origin and destination study, to determine exactly where and when traffic is coming from," said Giunta.

The study is called an origin and destination study, because cars will be randomly stopped and their drivers will be asked where they're going and where they came from, according to Giunta. Canner said he believed money for the study is available.

The commission also responded to citizens' call for the reopening of Reservoir Road bridge at the Newton, Brookline and Boston border. The bridge was closed in 1974 causing an estimated 5,000 cars daily to find an alternate route.

"We need to correspond with the appropriate people to request immediate action be taken to reopen Reservoir Road bridge," said Giunta, who received applause from residents seated in the chamber.

Canner emphasized the need for the bridge saying, "There's no question other communities have to share the traffic burden which Newton has been shouldering, afterall we do provide joint services to these communities."

City Solicitor Daniel Funk said he is looking into the legality of Brookline closing its side of the bridge soon after the Department of Public Works (DPW) closed the span for safety reasons in 1974.

According to DPW spokesman Bill Pizzano, money to repair the bridge is available and the specifications to make the repairs are all drawn up.

"All we're need is to have the towns settle their differences," said Pizzano.

On the removal of all traffic restrictions from Commonwealth Avenue to residential streets near Boston College, the commission wants aldermanic votes on placing traffic restrictions rescinded and the commission will remove similiar traffic restrictions on Wachusetts Avenue.

In other action concerning Chestnut Hill, the commission approved plans presented by Giunta to put granite curbing on both sides of Hammond Street, a 5-foot sidewalk on the east side and a 24-foot width. Initial plans called for a 26-foot width.

"We can live with a 24-foot width, the removal of a few trees, a foot path onthe westerly side of the street, granite curbing on both sides and a five foot sidewalk on the easterly side," said Giunta speaking about Hammond Street.

The commission held off on any action regarding College Road and its possibility of becoming a two way street.

"The community has given a lot to Boston College (which owns most of the land along College Road) and they should work with Newton to alleviate some of the traffic problems," said Canner.

Social workers picket DSS

WEST NEWTON — Social workers Thurday picketed their own Cherry Street office, protesting that the state Department of Social Services (DSS) makes them "scapegoats" in child-abuse cases.

As part of a state-wide demonstration, 14 Newton social workers braved chill noon air to carry signs specifying their complaints.

"We are the scapegoats of the system," said local 509 office steward Maryanne Forgy.

Forgy said social workers are unjustly blamed by managers of DSS whenever a child-abuse tragedy surfaces in the press. "You never hear about the children we protect," she said.

"Pay is not an issue, our people put in a lot of time beyond the 37.5 hours we work to catch up on our caseloads," said Forgy. "The uncompensated overtime leads to worker burn-out."

Demands include caseload limits, paperwork reductions, more time for client contact, liability protection and aggressive affirmative action.

Casey added her union will continue to monitor the situation until workers have their demands met.

Average caseloads in Newton run between 17 and 20, said Forgy, while Boston caseloads average 25 to 35, stated Casey.

A BRILLIANT DEDUCTION.

Together, you and your spouse can take up to a $4,000 Federal income tax deduction with West Newton Savings Bank's Individual Retirement Account (IRA) right now. That's $2,000 apiece for each working spouse or $2,250 if only one spouse works. If you're self employed, you can take even greater deductions with our Keogh Plan—up to $15,000 worth.

What's more, the healthy interest you'll earn is tax exempt until you withdraw funds after retirement. And of course, your principal and interest are fully insured.

Stop by any West Newton Savings Bank for the complete details. Remember: an IRA or Keogh Plan is more than a smart move for the future. Considering the tax benefits you'll get, it's absolutely brilliant.

Retired Men's Club hosted mayor

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Last week's meeting of the Newton Retired Men's Club included installation of new officers and a look at the state of the city, from Mayor Theodore Mann.

More than 150 members attended the meeting, held in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church.

New officers for 1983 include: Abraham Maltz of Wellesley, president; Henry J. McDade of Waban, vice-president; Russell Clark of Waban, secretary; and Bernard Shore of Newton Highlands, treasurer.

Also installed were: R. Graves, assistant secretary, J. Hawkes, assistant treasurer and A.J. Gascon also assistant treasurer.

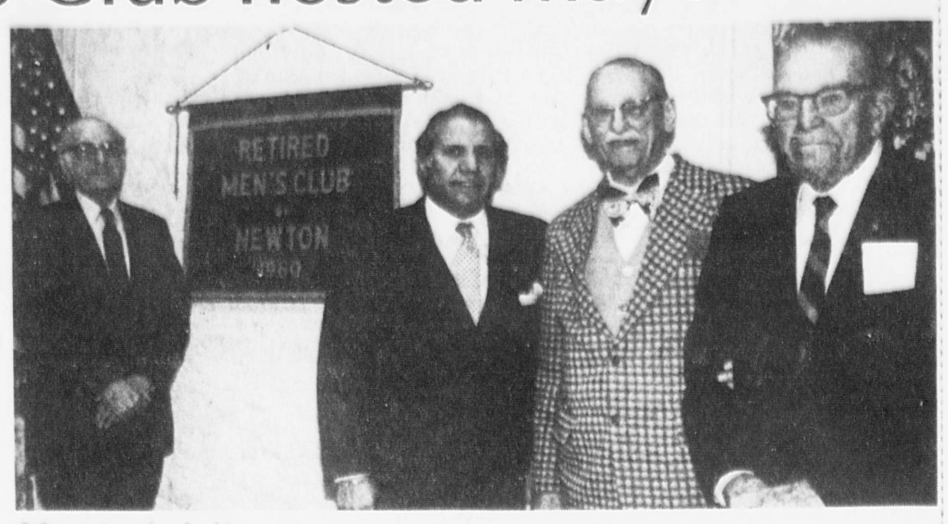

Outgoing President William E. Nast of Newton Highlands was presented a plaque in appreciation of his work during his two years in office.

The first president of the club, John Learmonth, also one of the founders, spoke briefly on how the club was started in 1960.

Mayor Mann was speaker of the day and addressed "The Affairs of the City of Newton."

Ten-year membership awards were presented by the new president to 10 members.

The next meeting, open to all retired men from Newton and surrounding towns, starts at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Jan. 20.

Round Table to study changes in junior highs

NEWTON — The structure of what residents know as the junior high is changing as the Newton system moves from a three to a two-year school. By fall, 1983, all three junior highs in Newton will be two-year schools.

On Jan. 18 and 27, the Round Table, a committee of the city wide Newton Council of PTAs, will look again at the 7-8 school, with curriculum coordinators and central administration staff outlining changes expected in the various disciplines.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 18, coordinators will discuss program plans in the areas of foreign languages, science, fine and applied arts and social studies. Entitled "Curricula Proposals for the 7-8 School," this meeting will be held at the Peirce School, 170 Temple St., West Newton, at 8 p.m. It is a repeat of the Oct. 21 Round Table for those parents unable to attend.

On Thursday, Jan. 27, 8 p.m. Bigelow Jr. High Library, Mary Kaye Tornrose (Math) and Mr. Robert Zeeb (English) will make presenttions on math, computer, and English offerings planned for the two year junior high.

In addition to specific course content, both meetings will deal with such general questions as: "Does becoming a two year school substantively change the charge of the school? Is this a more cohesive group of kids? What new opportunities have developed in the curriculum and in scheduling?

Questions and discussion will follow the presentations. All parents and staff are invited to attend. Call 965-0678 for more information.

Beethoven Center hosts hearing tests

WABAN — On Jan. 25 at 1 p.m., the Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center is offering free hearing screening to Newton seniors. If you think you are having a problem with your hearing and would like to have it checked out, join us on the 25th.

The screening will be conducted by Judy Arick of Needham Associated Hearing Aids. Arick is certified audiologist and will give expert advice on how to handle particular problems. Persons will be seen on a first come, first serve basis.

The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center is located at the Zervas School, 30 Beethoven Avenue in Waban.

The Center is sponsored by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging. For more information, call Mary Stuart-Hillman, the center's coordinator, at 527-6749.

Soup and sandwich set

NEWTON CORNER — Come to the Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center at noon and have hot homemade soup and a sandwich for $1.25. After lunch you can participate in a game of cards or bingo.

Call the center at 969-8030 and make a reservation. The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center is located in the Lincoln-Eliot School, 191 Pearl St.

Classroom dedication

With more than 100 friends, relatives and community leaders present, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sherman of Newton and Mrs. Sara Sherman dedicated a classroom at the Solomon Schechter Day School in memory of their father and husband, the late Abe Sherman. Active in the Jewish community, Joel Sherman spoke of his family's special connection to the school. Pictured at the dedication are (seated, from left) Daniel Sherman, entering Schechter kindergarten in the fall, Sue Sherman, Mrs. Sara Sherman, Joel and Abigail Sherman, a first-grader at the school. (Back row) Rabbi Samuel Chiel of Temple Emmanuel; Rabbi Joshua Elkin, headmaster, Stanley and Therese Sherman and Jay Orlin, president of the school.

Club helps restore garden landmark

CHESTNUT HILL — The Chestnut Hill Garden Club, a member of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, and the Garden Club of America, has been restoring the city-owned Houghton Gardens.

Working with the Newton Conservation Commission, many improvements within the 10-acre forest and gardens have been made possible.

The Houghton Garden was purchased by the city of Newton in 1968 after several years of neglect. Mr. and Mrs. Clement Houghton, original owners of the gardens, spent 50 years developing and landscaping the sheltered forest areas unti their deaths in 1946.

The Chestnut Hill Garden Club and the community have maintained the gardens as a restoration project since 1974. Trees have been identified, tagged and pruned. Wildflowers have been planted, azaleas and shrubs donated and the historic small dam repaired so that the pond contains water all summer.

Waterfowl are abundant in the gardens and bird watching along the many cleared paths is possible.

This year, The Chestnut Hill Garden Club has been developing an educational program for students in neighboring schools. Members of the garden club, experienced in horticulture, have taken students from two local schools through The Houghton Garden and given them the opportunity to learn about the living plants, trees, shrubs and wild-life found in this sheltered oasis.

These students incorporate this valuable experience into Science projects and school activities. The Chestnut Hill Garden Club hopes to continue these classes in the spring.

Garden tour

Mrs. David F. Dahon, a member of the Chestnut Hill Garden Club, shows students through the Houghton Gardens.

The Houghton Garden has been maintained as an historic woodland area thanks to the work of The Chestnut Hill Garden Club, and the support of the Newton Conservation Commission. It is ten acres of secluded forest in a natural setting.

Club notes

Charles River Simmons Club

NEEDHAM — The Charles River Valley Simmons Club holds its winter meeting Thursday, Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in Linden Hall of the Congregational Church in Needham.

Special guest, Karl Schanz of Tewksbury, will give a multimedia presentation on "Our amazing world of nature."

Greeter for this meeting is Mrs. Arnold Glashow of Waban.

Supporting members of the club are Mrs. F. Roy Carlson of Newton Centre and Mrs. Michael Ecker of Waban.

B'nai B'rith Chestnut Hill

CHESTNUT HILL — The regular meeting of the Chestnut Hill Chapter of B'nai B'rith women will be Wednesday, Jan. 19 at the American Jewish Historical Society Building on the Brandeis University campus.

There will be a tour of the building and an interesting film and speaker. For more information call 332-3062.

Dick Flavin, noted television personality, will be the guest speaker. Past presidents will be honored and all proceeds from the brunch will further the work of the Children's Home in Israel.

For information and reservations call Florence Backer at 969-6097 or Shirley Brody, at 332-4071.

Around campus

NEWTON — A number of students from Newton attending Mount Alvernia High School have received academic honors recently.

Inducted into the National Honor Society was Donna Mason while senior members of the student council, including Newton resident Maria Mercuri, were introduced and congratulated for their rolls in the school and community.

Students earning first honors at Mt. Alvernia included: Suzanne Souder, Tracey Barrett, Dina DiCarlo, Donna Mason and Maria Mercuri, all of Newton.

Earning second honors: Diana Sibley, Sandy Woo, Deborah D'Angela and Shauna Gallagher, all of Newton.

Earning effort honors: Julie Songer of Waban, Suzanne Souder, Tracey Barrett, Dina DiCarlo, Donna Mason, Diane LaCamera and Maria Mercuri, all of Newton.

Michael R. Simches, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Simches of Waban, has been elected to the Beta Alpha Psi National Honorary Accounting Fraternity and is on the dean's list at Syracuse University.

Simches, a graduate of the Rivers Country Day School, is a junior at Syracuse.

Mary Ann Werbinski of Langley Road, Newton Centre, is attending Northeastern University's newly formed College of Computer Science as a member of the class of 1987.

Ms. Werbinski is a 1982 graduate of Newton North High School.

Two Newton residents have been named University of Rochester Drama Center Residents.

Jeremy Grodberg of Hyde Street, Newton, a sophomore at the University of Rochester, and junior Lauren Inker of Leonard Avenue, Newton, are both residents.

Presbyterian theatre group opens January 21

WABAN — The opening performance of "A Place for Dreaming," presented by the youth theatre group of the Newton Presbyterian Church, will hit the footlights at the Union Church in Waban Men's Club dinner-theatre night, Friday, Jan. 21 at the Union Church, 14 Collins Rd., at 6 p.m.

"This evening is open to the entire community and we are expecting an excellent turnout," states James McDonald, president of the Union Church Men's Club." The buffet dinner promises to be of gourmet caliber and the musical will be inspirational and entertaining. We have had to limit dinner reservations to 150."

"A Place for Dreaming," written by Ken Medema, is a musical dealing with urban justice and a concern for the poor in the city.

This fully staged production, the ninth musical presented by the group, is directed by Kathryn Thomas, who is assisted by Jean Casterline.

Reservations are required and may be made by calling 527-6221 before Jan. 18.

Dinner-theatre cost is $5 per adult, $2 per child. Theatre performance only cost is $2 per adult, $1 per child.

After the performance, dessert will be served and theatre-goers will have an opportunity to meet the cast.

Center seeks artists and craftspeople

NEWTON — The Festival of the Arts, scheduled for April-May 1983, will celebrate all of the arts in Newton. The Newton Arts Center will focus on professional Newton artists and craftspeople by hosting an invitational show and sale on Saturday, April 30 and Sunday, May 1.

Any professional artists and craftspeople living and/or working in Newton, who would like to be considered for this show, should sent five to ten slides or photographs, resume and self-addressed stamped envelope to "Festival of the Arts", Newton Arts Center, 61 Washington Park, Newtonville, 02160, as soon as possible.

Deadline in Jan. 23.

2 North seniors named Swartz Soloists

NEWTON — Peter May and Charlton Wilson, two outstanding musicians and seniors at Newton North High School, have been named winners of this year's Jacob Swartz Young Soloist Award.

They each will perform with the Newton Symphony Orchestra at the free Young People's Concert this Saturday, Jan. 22, at 2 p.m. at Brown Junior High, under the direction of NSO Music Director Ronald Knudsen. Peter May will perform the first movement of Mozart's Flute Concerto in D, and Charlton Wilson will play the first movement of the Weber Concerto for Bassoon.

Both of the young musicians will receive the $100 as part of the honor of winning this award.

May, a life-long resident of Newton and a product of the public school system, began his flute studies in 1976 with Marcia Mulroney. He has been a student of Contance Boykan at The All Newton Music School for the past four years.

In 1981 and 1982, he was a member of the New England Conservatory's Massachusetts Youth Wind Ensemble, with which he toured Italy and England. He also has been a member of the New England's Youth Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Benjamin Zander, and toured Roumania and the Soviet Union with this group in June of 1982.

He is presently on full scholarship at the New England Conservatory's Prepatory School and performs with their Scholarship Woodwind Quintet.

Charlton Wilson, also a life-long resident of Newton, is the sixth of seven children, and follows in the footsteps of three of them who have already performed with the Newton Symphony Orchestra. However, unlike his brothers Evan and Gabriel, or his sister Elizabeth, Charlton has played the bassoon since the third grade, when he was first introduced to this instrument by Helen Tassone, a music teacher with the Newton Public Schools.

Wilson later studied with Louise Cavaliere, Bernadette Zirkuli at Julliard, Dr. Robert C. Reinert at New England Music Camp, and presently with Philip Long at the All Newton Music School.

Peter May

Charlton Wilson

This past summer, he was elected a member of the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Honor Society at the New England Music Camp. Wilson is also a member of the Youth Chamber Orchestra, the Massachusetts Youth Wind Ensemble, and the Scholarship Woodwind Quintet at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Both May and Wilson are recipients of the second annual Young Soloist Award, presented in memory of Dr. Jacob Swartz, a founding member and violinist with the Newton Symphony Orchestra until his death two years ago. Dr. Swartz was an ardent supporter of the concept of community/training orchestra, and especially interested in stimulating the musical education and advancement of young musicians.

Young people and their parents and grandparents are invited to attend this annual free concert by the Newton Symphony Orchestra.

Supported by a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund, this concert will also include musical excerpts from Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony and Schumann's "Rhenish" Symphony, accompanied by a slide presentation of scenes suggested by the music.

Newton Catholic open house set Feb. 2

NEWTON — Registration and open house will take place at Newton Catholic Elementary School on Feb. 2, 9, and 16 at 9:30 a.m.

At that time, the principal, Sister Martina Marie Kelly, will explain the school philosophy, curriculum, academic and social activities and answer questions. Following this presentation the parent may visit the school and classrooms.

Requirements for registration are a $25 registration fee and academic records from the previous year.

Newton Catholic Elementary School reports its goal is to strive to foster a fuller and more productive life by providing the students with a meaningful and realistic education according to their ability.

The school describes its program as designed to give the students a deeper appreciation and realization of their own self-worth and dignity, and also an awareness of Christian values so that the students will freely choose to live according to the teaching of the Gospel.

Teachers try to maintain a climate that is affirming, accepting and wholesome, where the students' self-concept is strengthened and their uniqueness recognized, which hopefully will enable them to become active leaders in a community.

Newton Catholic Elementary School received its accreditation from quality programs and its contributions to the improvement and excellence of Catholic elementary school education from the Archdiocese of Boston.

NEWTON — As Israeli President Yitzhak Navon toured this country, with a visit to Newton, a delegation including a local couple and Senator Paul Tsongas spent 10 days sampling public opinion in the Middle East.

Leonard and Joyce Zakim, of Newton, both officials in the trip-sponsoring Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, called the trip a "fact-finding" venture aimed, in part, at presenting the views of average Israelis to the senator.

Last spring, Tsongas voiced criticism of the Israeli invasion into Lebanon and called for international recognition of the Palestinians.

Zakim, the ADL's East Coast civil rights director, said, "The senator has to, and I think he did, become more aware of the concerns and fears and needs of the Israeli people."

"I think he came away from this trip with a great deal of respect for the Israelis," Zakim said following the 10-day trip. Joyce Zakim is director of Medicall Mobilization for Soviet Jewry and the couple joined other ADL officials with Tsongas and his wife, Nikki, on the trip.

Tsongas raised some hackles in the Jewish community in this country last summer when he journeyed to the Middle East and spoke out strongly against the invasion of Lebanon by Israeli troops.

But during the recent trip ADL members attempted to allow Tsongas to interact on the local level with Israelis to gain possible insights into the concerns of residents in that country.

Although Tsongas did meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Begin, the tour group also stayed overnight at Afikim Kibbutz and visited Kibbutz Menara, a border settlement only 500 feet from Lebanon.

Zakim said that at Kibbutz Menara, "the children spent about three weeks last summer in a bomb shelter."

The closeness of war, however, has not embittered those Israelis which the group met.

"The outstanding part of that (kibbutz) visit," Zakim said, "was that the people were not bitter. They were really looking for peace and were really hopeful King Hussein (of Syria) would come forward to negotiate with Israel to settle the conflict."

Through such visits with Israelis, Zakim said, ADL officials hoped Tsongas could gain a clearer picture of events on the local level.

"While he may not agree with Israel on every action he takes," Zakim said, "Neither does he agree with the Reagan administration in everything it does."

Tsongas, in staying overnight with a family at Afikim Kibbutz, Zakim said, heard much criticism of Israeli government policies from the people in the community. "There is a great deal of criticism in Israel about Israel," Zakim noted. "I think the senator saw that as a healthy thing.

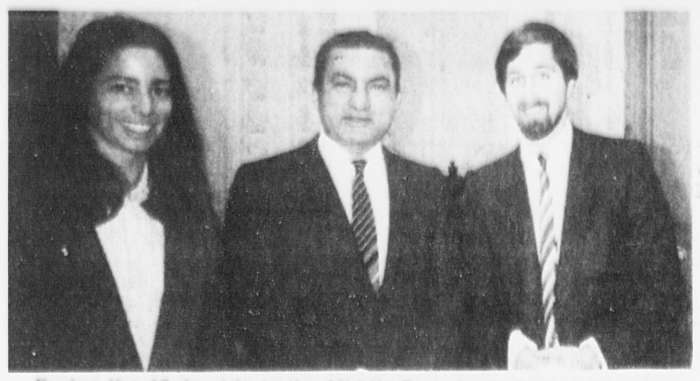

"There is also, though, a consensus of the people on certain key issues," he said. "Israel is not a simple country and it is not a simple problem of peace they are dealing with.

"There is a complex issue here and there are many countries around Israel, aside from Egypt, which are not really interested in peace."

Zakim said he felt the group "came out of the whole trip with a sense that there is a strong desire for peace by the Israelis and a recognition of the urgency of that peace."

Tsongas appeared to benefit from the trip, Zakim said, in that "he came out of this trip with a much greater awareness of the complexity of the situation and the deep reservoir of the morality and strength of committment the Israeli people have for peace.

"From my point of view," Zakim added, "It doesn't mean Paul Tsongas will support Israel in everything it does, but he may understand it better."

Gaynor cites 'victory' at deportation hearing for convicted doctor

BOSTON — The attorney for one of three doctors convicted of raping a nurse and facing deportation earlier this week called it "a great victory" when a judge ruled the doctor could leave this country by his own choice.

Attorney Robert Gaynor, a former Newton alderman-at-large from Ward 1, represented Dr. Eugene Sherry, 29, of New Zealand at Monday's deportation hearing before Judge Thomas Ragno of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

Sherry finished a six-month prison sentence Monday for the rape and said he was "fed up" with the U.S. and didn't want to become an American citizen after all.

At Monday's hearing, the former anesthesiologist at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston withdrew is request for U.S. citizenship.

Gaynor, a specialist in immigration law, said the INS had sought to deport Sherry and prohibit him from again entering this country "because he was convicted of a rape, a crime they wanted to bury him for, I guess.

"In my estimation it was overkill, what they were trying to do," Gaynor said Tuesday morning. "He was completely humiliated, his whole life had been ruined."

Acting at the doctor's request, Suffolk Superior Court Judge Walter E. Steele had recommended Friday in a letter to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service that Sherry not be deported.

Saying he wanted to leave the U.S. anyway, Sherry described his prison stay as "humiliating and degrading." He served the required six months of his 3- to 5-year sentence at Concord State Prison. The remainer of the term was suspended.

"I've had enough and I'm fed up," Sherry said of his experience in the U.S., where he came in 1978 to practice medicine.

By withdrawing his request for citizenship, Sherry will not be allowed back in the U.S. for at least a year under any circumstances. Gaynor said, however, that had he been deported his reentry to this country would have been prohibited without a special ruling from the US attorney general's office.

Sherry, Dr. Arif Hussan, 31, of Brookline, and Dr. Alan Lefkowitz, 31, of Waterbury, Conn., were convicted on June 10, 1981, in Suffolk Superior Court on charges of raping a 28-year-old Brigham and Women's Hospital nurse in Rockport three years ago.

Reports raps prejudices

Zakim, Richard Glovsky, commission chairman, and representatives of the various city departments. Glovsky is vacationing and unavailable for comment.

During the initial meeting with workers from the public works, police, fire and school departments, some workers said it "is drilled into their heads" that the south side should receive preferential treatment treatment. A firefighter commented that because city workers are paid by the city, they are "the object of the taxpayers wrath."

An Upper Falls mother said angrily that her son is the object of class segregation in school. A school department worker said it is difficult for some to "grow up in the face of affluence (and) the image of affluence in Newton is there."

Zakim, who is also the Anti-Defamation League regional civil rights director, said the commission is seeking substantive ways to deal with prejudice in the city.

"This isn't just another report about brotherhood. What we're looking for is a serious attempt by various leaders and citizens to tackle a very complex issue," Zakim said. "Anything can be considered.

"Newton," Zakim added, "is in much better shape religiously and ethnically than other cities and towns in the Commonwealth."

Schmidt takes on new county duties per month will be at Middlesex County Hospital in Waltham; one will be at a city or town hall in one of county's communities, and two per month will occur at the Cambridge Courthouse, where commissioners traditionally meet.

Newly re-appointed Chairman Thomas Larkin and Commissioner Michael McLaughlin supported Schmidt's motion to appoint the chairman's executive assistant, in this case William Gustus, as the chief administrative assistant to the commission.

Each commissioner now has one executive assistant, and the new move is not expected to create any vacancies.

McLaughlin said he would like to see the proposal for a chief administrative assistant implemented on a six-month trial basis. According to Schmidt, having a central person handle the affairs of the office will eliminate confusion. It will provide a "clearer direction for the public and employees to perceive."

It is uncertain if the upgrade in Gustus's position will entail a pay raise.

"I don't think this is all that unique, and we shouldn't be afraid to try it," said McLaughlin, adding that he does not find the proposal "distasteful" either.

"It will make for a much better organization," McLaughlin said.

McLaughlin is seen by county observers as being in a minority position now that Schmidt has arrived to replace former McLaughlin ally John Danehy.

However, a former Somerville Housing Authority member noted that, while it appears Larkin and Schmidt have formed a majority, "in politics anything can change overnight."

Administrator Gustus will coordinate all county department heads and the commission's general office staff. He will coordinate budget preparation, advise commissioners of county financial conditions, consult them on proposed administrative actions and administer all insurance contracts, the workmen's compensation program and the unemployment security program.

Last week Larkin and Schmidt indicated they will not give their executive aides proxy voting power, a measure used typically by McLaughlin and Danehy in the past when they were absent from meetings. State law allows the executive aides to represent and vote for the commissioners, however.

In other developments, commissioners acknowledged the appointment of acting County Assistant Treasurer Dorothy Noyes, who is filling in for Assistant Treasure James L. Ferretti, who will undergo surgery for a gall bladder ailment in the near future.

In other action, the commissioners voted 2-1 to tape record all future commissioners' meetings as well to have a stenographer take down the minutes in longhand.

Clown around

"Squeeny the Clown" (Ellie Friedland) dabs a bit of face paint onto a student's face as she readies for a "Clwowning for Kids" course, one of several offered by the new non-profit Moving Arts group. Courses in clowning, sports, dance, theatre, music and art will be held in St. John's Episcopal Church, Newtonville, and the Church of the Good Shephaerd, Waban. Call 739-7884 for details.

Snow removal crews labored

"We have 20 sidewalk tractors, 33 snow plows, 20 sanders and 100 hired pieces of equipment working on streets and schools with the help of the Forestry Department," said Arata.

According to Deputy Public Works Commissioner Nunzio Piselli, the city allocated $461,000 for snow removal. The figure does not include labor costs, he added.

Arata said sanitation workers dug out trash barrels from the sidewalks and were a big help to the clean up effort.

Hampering the snow removal job and children's safety are residents who pile snow from their driveways on the sidewalks, said Arata.

New England Telephone had 300 reports of telephone troubles in Newton, but expects to complete connections today, according to public information manager Roberta Clement.

Heavy snow and falling tree limbs caused numerous power failures around the city, according to Mike Monahan, spokesman for Boston Edison.

"We have no figures on how many people are without power, but Newton was one of the hardest hit," said Monahan.

Most roads in the city were still "bumpy" early Tuesday morning, with the possible exception of Needham Street, which was bare.

Middle East night

Newton teens Jimmy Blankstein and Henry Grossman recently participlapted in an evening of Middle Eastern food, music and dance at a Cambridge restaurant as part of the "Let's Go Israel" program of the Israel Program Center in Boston. For information on this summer program call 542-3973.

4 complete hospice program

NEWTON — Four Newton residents have recently completed a 12-week training program offered by the Hospice of the Good Shepherd, Inc., in Waban. The four are: Diane Antczak, Frances Baldessarini, William Moody, and Guitelle Sandman.

The course trains volunteers to provide emotional support and respite care for terminally ill patients and their families in Newton and Wellesley.

The hospice, serving families in this area for three years, provides comprehensive 24-hour, 7-day-a-week care by a team of nurses, social workers, home health aides and volunteers.

A spring training program will begin in March. Men and women interested in becoming volunteers may call Pat Kelleher at 969-6130.

Girl Scouts plan 'Cookie Kick-off'

NEWTON — Girl Scouts representing Newton, including top Garden City cookie seller, Kirsten Karegosian, will join over 300 Girl Scouts from the 65 cities and towns which make up Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council for the 3rd annual Cookie Kick-Off. This year's Kick-Off will be held at Fanuel Hall Market Place in Boston on Friday, Jan. 21.

The theme for the 1983 cookie sale is "Girl Scouting - Rising to Greater Heights." The day's events promise to do justice to the mounting excitement of opening day and are planned around the 1983 theme. Council is working with the Ninety-Nines (an international women's pilot organization).

The program will include a movie entitled, "To Fly," games, and special guests, who will talk about aeronautics and hot air ballooning.

The goal of the 1983 G.S. Cookie Sale is to sell 1,077,000 boxes of cookies in the Patriots' Trail Council area, an increase of 7 percent over last year's sale. Girl Scouts will be taking orders Jan. 21.

Pumpkin Fair Results: About 200 Girl Scouts enjoyed new games, singing, and face painting at the Fair while the judges enjoyed tasting, comparing dozens of entries in the baked goods contest. Also, ribbons were awarded for pumpkin carving and pumpkin growing.

The Boston Five Classic: This year, Patriots' Trail participation in L.P.G.A.'s Boston Five Classic last summer was rewarded with an $18,000 check; thanks to all scouts who helped make this success possible. The girls who worked as standard bearers can apply their experience towards earning the golf patch, now available.

Daisy Troops Springing Up: "Daisy" was the fond nickname of U.S. Girls' Scouts founder. To merit being a Daisy Troop, the group must register by a September deadline, retain 80 percent of past members plus new girls and get 2 parent committee members.

Now Newton has five such troops: Brownie Troop 2334, Linda Vereker, Leader; Junior Troop 2620, Linda Wurm; Junior Troop 2600, Carolyn Leith; Junior Troop 2819, Frances Ditelburg and Laurel Dew; Cadette and Senior Troop 2395, Barbara Gassett.

Kaleidoscope Events for January: Both teen Girl Scouts and non-Scouts have a variety of program activities to choose from. Even busy 12-17 year olds will want to plan time for one of these.

On the subject of possible careers one opportunity is at hand to go on location with a cable T.V. crew, work behind the scenes, help with filming, and help with equipment.

On Tuesday, Jan. 18, a group of 10 or 20 girls were slated to go behind the scenes at Boston's Eastern Airlines terminal, Logan Airport.

At Mirror, Mirror, each teen discovers her most flattering look at Wellesley, Boston or other Filene's Stores on Jan. 22. On Jan. 25, a panel of expert will discuss ways to finance a college education. This is open to girls and parents/guardians. Call 482-1078 for details, catalog and sign-up.

Troop News: Paula Carey is the new leader of Junior Girl Scout Troop 2621 at Zervas School, Waban. It is made up of 4th and 5th graders, including her daughter. The girls had fun in the kitchen baking cookies together, which launched them on earning requirements for their Cooking Badges. Also, now they are starting to earn Wildlife Badges and plan to sell G.S. Cookies.

Juniors Troop 2620 is composed of 4th, 5th, and 6th graders, mostly from Newton Upper Falls area, with Carolyn Leith and Louise Tagliente as dedicated G.S. leaders. The troop went to Camp Favorite, Brewster, on a Council Ponds and Paddle Weekend, where they learned about canoeing and participated in other activities, in spite of it being the one cold, rainy weekend in October.

Adult assistant Carol McPherson, with her white-water canoeing experience was indespensible. At a troop meeting, golf pro Jack Neville came to tech everyone the basics of golf, which each looks forward to continuing to play in the Spring. The girls are busy earning such Junior badges as Group Sports Badge, which they have completed and now guided by Joan Weiss, are starting requirements on Healthy Eating Badges.

Another group working to earn the First Aide badge is led by Mary-Anne Benedict, active parent; the Chaulk Ambulance and team came to one meeting demonstrating life-saving techniques to the girls. For their recent community service project, the Junior troop made felt Christmas stockings with appliqued designs and fur cuffs and gave them to Protestant Guild for the Blind.

Newton Catholic School Troop 2329, led by Joan Sheehy, is a rather unusual troop, as it is made up of Brownies, starting at age 5 1/2 and Junior Girl Scouts up to 12 years old. Sometimes they meet together for more important projects, like recently when they made "Christmas Candles" with candy inside and delivered them to the Swedish Home for the Aged.

The next meeting they returned to serenade the people there with Christmas carols and were invited in for ginger ale and cookies. Leader Joan Sheehy commented on the great parental support. Now, the girls are at work finishing up requirements on the Dancing Badge.

The Horace Mann School Brownies, Troop 2334 is proud to have earned the right to be named as one of the five Newton "Daisy Troops." Linda Vereker, their leader and Sari Rosman, assistant, took the group on a tour of the Newton Police Department and explored scenic Cedar Hill with its great view of Boston, among the other activities the Juniors have been doing.

Opera scenes slated

Winter performances of opera scenes by the Newton Opera Workshop, held at the All Newton Music School, 321 Chestnut Street, will be Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 29 and 30. The Saturday performance is at 8 p.m.; Sunday, at 2:30 and 8 p.m. A $3 donation is suggested. Performances includes scenes from Tosca, Magic Flute, Marriage of Figaro, Ballo in Maschera, Susannah and Regina. Call 527-4553

Assessing, water-sewer audits are underway

NEWTON — Representatives of Touche Ross, a Boston auditing firm, have begun work on a comprehensive "operational audit" of the city's Assessing Department, according to Mayor Theodore D. Mann.

The mayor said last week he has yet to sign a contract with the auditors because he wants to make sure the department will be monitored for several months after the audit to see if recommended changes have been made.

Aldermen recently authorized $17,000 to pay for an audit, independent of the assessors. Mann said he has obtained a bid of $18,500 from Touche Ross which includes an audit of the city's Water and Sewer Department.

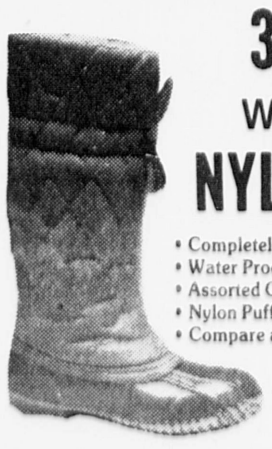

A representative of Arthur Anderson and Co., the firm which recently conducted an audit of all city operations, estimated in December the assessing audit alone would cost $17,000.

Mann insisted the bid submitted by Touche Ross satisfied the same specifications as the original Anderson proposal. He said the operation will be overseen by a "blue ribbon committee" of two Boston College professors, two Honeywell Corp. systems analysts, and a Chamber of Commerce representative.

Chief Budget Officer David Wilkinson said he "searched the records" of recent aldermanic meetings to find out what specific criticisms were being made of the departments being audited. The bid specifications he drew up were specially aimed at those criticisms, he said.

Newton Police log

Jewelry, silver stolen in housebreak

LOWER FALLS - Jewelry and silverware were reported stolen Monday during a break into a Lafayette Road house, police said.

The theives entered the home by breaking a rear window, according to police.

Stereo, television taken by burglar

NEWTON — Burglars entered a Crescent Street home through an unlocked door and stole a television and stereo unit, poice said Monday.

The home was entered sometime between 8 and 11 a.m., police said.

Shop intrusion unsuccessful

WEST NEWTON — Intruders tried unsuccessfully Sunday to break into a West Newton Square shop, police said.

Police responded about 8 p.m. to a burglar alarm at the Bit Bucket, 1292 Washington St., and found plywood over a rear window removed and a burglar's tool on the ground, police said.

Nothing was reported stolen, police said.

Silverware stolen on Mill Street

NEWTON — A burglar took a silverware set from Mill Street man while the man showered last week.

The victim was on the second floor when about 2 p.m. he heard noises downstairs, police said. He walked downstairs and saw a while male removing the silverware from a cabinet.

Police said the resident chased the burglar as he ran from the house, but the suspect escaped.

Police said that a woman waiting at a Walnut Street bus stop saw a man drop the bag and run from the scene.

The suspect is described as about 5-feet-8-inches tall, 150 pounds or heavier, dark blond hair, long mustache and is his 20's or early 30's. Police added that the suspect was wearing an army jacket.

Youths damage car in Chestnut Hill

CHESTNUT HILL — A man saw a group of youths attempting to steal his car and grabbed on of the suspects who later escaped police said.

The owner of the a 1973 Chevrolet told police that as he approached his car in the Chestnut Hill Mall parking garage, he saw five Hispanic youths around the vehicle. Two of the youths were inside the car, he told police.

Four of the youths fled from the scene of the incident in a 1971 Monte Carlo. The man grabbed another youth, who escaped and ran in the direction of Hammond Pond Parkway, police said.

The man's car was damaged as a result of the break, police said.

Mink, jewels, rug gone in Waban

WABAN — Several Oriental rugs, jewelry and a mink coat were among the items stolen during a break last week into a Nashobe Road home, police reported.

The theives entered the house sometime between 5:30 and 7 p.m. by forcing a rear door, police said.

Siverware was also reported stolen with the full length mink coat, five Oriental rugs and womens' jewelry, including a pearl-and-emerald necklace.

Local Arts Council earns grant

NEWTON — Thanks to a grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, Pilgrims and Indians from Plimoth Plantation will visit elementary schools in Newton to teach about the life and culture in early Plymouth Colony.

Through its cultural resources program, the Council awarded $10,000 to Plimoth Plantation to work with the Newton Creative Arts Council, a parent organization, to provide a cultural studies program to one grade level in each elementary school in the town.

"Residents" of the 1627 Pilgrim Village at Plimoth Plantation will conduct classes in "Family Life In New Plimoth," while Native Americans from the Wampanoag Program at the Plantation will teach "Our Place in Nature." Sixteen schools will be visited.

Following the classroom sessions, the students will visit Plimoth Plantation to participate in "hands-on" workshops in the Pilgrim Village where they will grind corn and make bannocks and eat them, bake bread, churn butter, dry foods, salt fish, gather eggs, haul and split firewood, and practice 17th century pernmanship with a quill.

MHA Safe Deposit sets grand opening

NEWTON CENTRE — MHA Safe Deposit, Ltd., a new private safe depository, will hold its grand opening ceremony on Tuesday, Jan. 25, at 11 a.m. This new facility, located at 10 Langley Road in Newton Centre, offers residents and businesses of the area an advanced concept in protection and safety for valuables.

Not since the turn of the century, when over 7,500 private safe depositories existed, has the need been greater for the security of personal possessions and vital business records, according to MHA officials. Most financial institutions in the area have only very small safe deposit boxes for rent, if any at all, leaving the responsibility of providing a safe keeping to private enterprise.

From 1865, when the first private depository opened in New York, until the end of the first world war, most safe deposit firms remained under private ownership. Now MHA Safe Deposit is reviving that concept. It is dedicated to the protection and preservation of the wealth and possessions of the community.

Within its walls, MHA has designated a security environment which surpasses the Federal Bank Standards Act. To dramatize this security, the dedication ceremony will include the cutting of four different ribbons, one at each of the various security check-points.

Present at these ceremonies will be State Senator Jack Backman, Representative David Cohen, Representative Joseph DeNucci and Newton Mayor Theodore Mann.

Perhaps the most unique facet of the depository is that it does not keep bankers hours. It is open seven days a week, 365 days a year.

Its hours range from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. during the week and 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Sunday hours are noon to 4 p.m.

City will buy St. Jean's School for housing

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — It is final and official: the city will buy St. Jean's School in Nonantum as a site for 46 units of housing for the elderly, the handicapped and families.

The Board of Aldermen voted 17 to 4 Monday night in favor of the city's purchasing the property on Watertown Street for $250,000. They did so after three public hearings and several committee meetings made it evident that the neighborhood was vehemently opposed to the sale.

President Emeritus Bauckman voted against the proposal, along with aldermen Bullwinkle, Coletti and Gentile.

Aldermanic control over the project is now finished, except for the Land Use Committee's review of the site plans.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle led the final debate against the proposal Monday night, informing 13 of his colleagues who missed the last public hearing what testimony it elicited.

Bullwinkle said the new information that came out of last Thursday's hearing included some documentation of the city's "being a lousy landlord." He said an informal committee of neighbors opposed to the city's buying St. Jean's toured other city-owned projects and described some of them as "terrible."

He said the feeling toward the city's proposal from the majority of the neighbors was, "Don't do us any favors. We don't need it."

Bullwinkle complained that the aldermen had given their full attention to neighbors of a planned housing development on the city's Southside last week, and wondered why such attention was not being given to the St. Jean's proposal.

The St. Jean's proposal enjoyed an unprecedented three public hearings before it was acted on by the full board.

Bullwinkle suggested a sort of conspiracy was responsible for dumping 10 percent of the city's subsidized housing in Nonantum, when there were other villages that did not have any. He characterized the official reaction to such mistreatment of the area as: "They'll squawk a bit, but they'll live with it."

Alderman Elaine Gentile bolstered Bullwinkle's complaints saying she was sick of the Board of Aldermen's "We-know-what-is-good-for-you" attitude.

She said she has yet to get answers to questions she raised when the proposal first came up in September. Those questions relate to what other sites in the city were considered for the housing proposal, and what guidleines the Planning Department used to determine an appropriate site.

Gentile pointed to a petition of more than 360 neighbors of St. Jean's, who came out strongly opposed to the proposal, and said, "I don't know how, in all conscience, this can be ignored.

President Emeritus Wendell Bauckman added, "I hear decent people–good Newtonians–crying to be heard on this matter. If we are supposed to be representing the will of the people, I can't see anything but to vote against the proposal."

Alderman Verne Vance, the final speaker before the vote was taken, argued that the formulation of public policy amounted to "more than just responding to petitions." He pointed out that many of the persons most directly involved in the proposal, namely the handicapped and elderly persons who might finally find a place to live, never spoke at any of the public hearings.

"The fact is, only the opposition has presented itself," Vance said.

Diane Donnellan, the former head of St. Jean's School Board, said she thought the rift which the proposal caused in the parish was already beginning to mend. She said she thought the parish would be whole again "once the project is built and there are good people in there."

Donnellan is also the real estate agent handling the sale of the school for Lookner Real Estate. She said she cut her six percent commission in half when she recently sold the convent at St. Jean's to the Stigmatine Fathers. She added that the sale of the school was so filled with problems that she would be asking the full commission of $15,000.

Margaret Cormier, who led the neighborhood fight against the city's housing proposal admitted Monday night that she might have contradicted her own prophecy concerning the proposal. Cormier, during one of several eloquent speeches she made in the fall, said that low-income housing was like the electric chair, "Those who can't afford to fight it, get it."

Cormier admitted she had fought it long and hard. She still got it.

Mann, Clark say Heckler is okay

NEWTON — Mayors from Newton and Waltham said they were pleased that former Republican Congresswoman Margaret Heckler was named last week to head the powerful U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Newton Mayor Theodore Mann said, "This is a great appointment. Peg Heckler displays understanding, leadership and awareness of the needs of her constituents."

"She's an outstanding woman, with outstanding talents," said Waltham Mayor Arthur Clark. The mayor added he has worked with Heckler on legislative matters and found her very supportive of cities and towns.

Heckler ended 16 years of service in Congress after she was defeated by U.S. Representative Barney Frank last November. As a supporter of President Ronald Reagan, she established a reputation for backing his controversial economic policy, a policy which lost her votes in her fight against Frank.

Heckler's loyal support of Reagan's policies apparently paid off however, in her appointment to the $275 billion department, with an $80,000 annual salary and 145,000 employees.

Frank's press secretary, Jim Dorsey, said Heckler's appointment is "good news for the area."

"Congressman Frank feels her appointment is good news for our area, because she is familiar with our problems," said Dorsey.

In comparison, outgoing Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker showed a lack of understanding about human services and made "slashing cuts," stated Dorsey.

"I would welcome the opportunity to discuss concerns debated by the latest U.S. Conference of Mayors meeting dealing with health and human services," said Mann. The mayor chaired the conference's subcommittee on health.

Clark believes Heckler will be very sensitive to the needs of veterans and pointed to her proven record of supporting them.

Mann said Heckler's congressional experience will be a plus in her new role and give her quite an advantage.

"I hope she will address the needs of the unemployed which must be addressed immediately and with compassion," said Mann.

Anglin nets 32 in 9th Lion win

NEWTON — The opponents keep coming and the Newton South basketball team keeps sending them home disappointed and in awe of the ability of Scott Anglin and Meatchie Russell.

For it was another dynamic performance by the talented pair that enabled Newton South to cruise by previously unbeaten Concord-Carlisle, 69-53, Friday night in a Dual County League match up at the South gym.

The victory lifted Newton South's record to 9-0 overall and 7-0 for first place in the DCL. Concord dropped to 9-1 overall and 6-1 in the league for second place. Newton South has gone through the entire league once and, with the exception of an overtime win against Acton, has won convincingly.

Scott Anglin scored 32 points for the second straight game and he also pulled down 21 rebounds and blocked three shots. Russell pumped in 13 points had seven steals and 10 assists. The duo also sparked a second-quarter Newton South surge, which put the Lions in control for the rest of the contest.

This one started with the look of a classic. Concord and Newton South went at it and the Patriots came out of the quarter with a 19-13 lead. Forward Chris Swindell (12 points) tossed in eight points in the first period to pilot the attack. Concord held a 19-13 advantage with 30 seconds left.

The Lions closed to 19-17 with a pair of quick hoops culminated by a Scott Anglin layup off a feed by Russell. The Lions picked right up in the second quarter as Russell stole the ball and hit Anglin, who slammed the ball home for the tie, 19-19.

The Lions outscored Concord, 19-10, in the second period to take a 36-29 lead at the half. Scott Anglin ended the first half with 22 points and 13 rebounds. The Lions still had to withstand one more Concord surge before settling the issue.

Jack Dolan, who was Concord's leading scorer with 16 points, guided a comeback bid. He connected for a jumper to put the Patriots back to within two, 40-38. The Lions ended the threat when a Russell connected with Anglin underneath and the result was layup.

Russell took control in the second half. He stole the ball on three seperate occasions and moved in for fast breaks hoops to increase the South lead.

Starting in his first game of the season, Mike Oglesby helped the Lions cause by tossing in 11 points and blocking five shots. Melvin Murphy pulled down 13 boards for Concord. Newton South hosts Bedford Tuesday afternoon.

NEWTON SOUTH(69)-Scott Anglin 14-4-32; Russell 5-3-13; Oglesby 5-1-11; Sullivan 2-0-4; Lindsey 1-1-3; Kushner 0-2-2; Hairston 1-0-2; Vayle 1-0-2; Gaines 0-0-0; Steve Anglin 0-0-0; Goldberg 0-0-0. Tot. 29-11-69.

CONCORD-CARLISLE(53)-Dolan 7-2-16; Swindell 6-0-12; Murphy 4-2-10; Pina 2-0-4; Moreau 2-1-5; McLaughlin 2-0-4; Stubblebine 1-0-2; Cain 0-0-0. Tot. 24-5-53.

Marchand propels North skaters

BROOKLINE — The Newton North hockey team took full advantage of an open date in its Suburban League schedule to get its game back together against a non-league opponent.

The Tigers were handed their first league defeat of the season Wednesday night by Brookline and coach Don Crowley wasn't happy with the overall play of his team. He was pleased with the way they rebounded, however.

Newton North came out charged up and scored three goals in the first period en route to a 4-1 victory over Xaverian Saturday afternoon at Dexter Arena. The Tigers are 6-2 overall and 3-1 in the league.

The solid victory over a quality Xaverian team sets up the Tigers for a big game against league-leading Brockton. The Boxers are 3-0-1 in the league for a one-point lead over Newton North.

"That'll be a big one against Brockton," said Crowley. "We got knocked off by Brookline, but we came back very strong against Xaverian. The team moved the puck well and I felt we could have scored a few more goals if we finished off a little better. We were a different team against Xaverian."

True, the Tigers were all over the Hawks in the first 15 minutes of play. Sophomore Tim Marchand, who scored twice, put in the first Newton North goal just three minutes into the contest. Marchand also assisted on the third Newton North goal of the period.

John Hickey scored the Tigers' second goal six minutes later and Tom Ryan popped in the final goal of the period. Marchand scored his second goal of the contest in the second period.

Junior goaltender Steve MacKay lost his shutout bid later in the second period. MacKay played a strong game in the nets for the Tigers.

"We had a tremendous team effort against Xaverian," said Crowley. "But, we're going to need that same type of performance against Brockton on Wednesday. They are a strong team in the league, but it looks like anybody can beat anybody this season. Brookline knocked us off and we just have to be wary of all oppoisition." The summary:

Jewett leads Lion ice win over Wayland

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

BRIGHTON — Newton South hockey coach Charlie Rezzuti felt he was witnessing a familiar scene when he saw his Lions lose a three-goal lead in the second period against Wayland Monday afternoon in a Dual County League contest at the Cleveland Circle Rink.

For the entire first half of the season the Newton South has been plagued by a series of poor performances in the second period. The Lions were constantly falling behind in the blasted middle frame.

Newton South, however, behind the goal scoring prowess of John Jewett and the solid goaltending of Rich Wenning managed to hang on to the lead en route to a 7-4 victory over the Warriors.

It was Jewett, who finished the game with four goals, scoring with 1:12 left in the second period that gave the Lions a two-goal advantage, 6-4, going into the final frame. Then Wenning, a seasoned senior, stopped everything Wayland fired at him in the third period to insure the victory.

The triumph raised Newton South's record to 2-4 on the season. Jewett's performance was the first time a Lion had scored four goals since Howie Campbell did it in 1977 against Weston. The Lions won the game 6-2 to end a 28-game losing streak. Jewett, a sophomore, also had an assist for a five-point game.

"This was a game we had to win," said Rezzuti. "Wayland is a team much like us and we felt we needed a win over them. The players battled all the way and we managed to get through the rough times in the second period.

"We got big performances from Jewett and Wenning," said Rezzuti. "John is just a natural goal scorer. He's simply got the knack of putting the puck in the net. Rich (Wenning), meanwhile, has been showing a knack for keeping the puck out of the net. He played a strong game and he really played tough in the third period when we needed him."

Despite leading, 6-4, Newton South still had not established total control of the contest. Wayland's offense was getting many chances and it outshot Newton South, 37-26, for the game. Wenning was more than equal to the task. He made two solid stops on a Wayland power play, including a picture-perfect glove save on a slap shot from the point.

Jewett pumped in his fourth of the game to insure the Lion lead with 5:20 gone in the third period. He took a pass from Will Roesner and flew in alone down the right side. He deked right, but drilled a shot to the top corner that beat Wayland's Mike Wareham to the stick side.

The Lions held on to the lead by checking Wayland constantly. Jon Cohen, who plays on a line with Jewett, had a tremendous game on both ends of the ice. Cohen had three assists in the contest. "I can't say enough about Jon Cohen," said Rezzuti. "He was all over the place today. He played a classic two-way game."

Newton South broke ahead of Wayland with a pair of first period goals. Peter Kline scored first when he took a pass from Jewett and slipped it past the fallen Wayland goalie. Jewett followed with his first goal of the game off a scramble in front.

Wayland answered later in the period when Tim Lahey scored. South extended the 2-1 lead in the beginning of the second period. Senior defenseman Mark Paglia rifled a slap shot from the point that beat the Wayland goalie to the upper right corner. Chris Stephans made it 4-1 Newton South when he slammed the puck home off a scramble in front.

Wayland cut the lead to 4-2 on an unassisted goal by Tim Schuler.

Jewett got that goal right back with Paglia assisting on the play. Then Wayland creeped to within one goal. Joe Nolan scored the third Wayland goal and freshman Brian Hayward closed the gap to just one with a score three minutes later.

Jewett came to the rescue whern he took a Roesner pass in front and flipped a backhander into the top right corner of the goal. Newton South meets Concord-Carlisle Saturday. The summary:

South boys lose in gym

NEWTON — The Newton South boys' gymnastics team dropped a mighty close, 78.9-78.6 decision to Bridgewater-Raynham Friday afternoon in a non-league meet.

The Lions were just three tenths of a point behind Bridgewater in one of the closer matches of the season. Newton South picked up first place performances from three different people.

Joe Kaufman earned top spot in the pommel horse. Marc Nicoletti, who was performing with a heavy cast on his ankle, won top spot in the parallel bars. The Lions swept the parallel bars. Mike Castle was second and Rick Lipof finished third.

Castle placed first in the rings, while also capturing second place finishes in the vaulting and the high bar. Andy Kohn placed third in the pommel horse for the Lions. The summary:

South wrestlers blast Medford

NEWTON — The Newton South wrestling team won 11 of 12 matches Thursday night, as they trounced visiting Medford 57-6.

100-pounder got the ball rolling for the Lions, as he won the first match of the night by pinning his opponent, and Steve Bennett kept the string alive with a disqualification.

At 114 pounds, Mark Colling pinned his man in 1:06, followed by Steve Arduino's forfeit victory at 121. John Rosenson, at 128 pounds, pinned his man in only 1:42. At 134 pounds, Jamie Klingsburg picked up another Lion victory with an 11-5 decision.

147-pounder Mike Newmark gained six for the Lions with a pin at 4:45, while 157-pounder Chris Kiah picked up a forfeit victory.

In the 169-pound class, Charles Smith fought to a draw, while 187-pounder Mike Welche closed out the Lion victory parade with a 12-7 decision.

The victory was the second in a row for Newton South, coming on the heels of a 39-24 triumph over Lincoln-Sudbury Saturday, the Lions first Dual County League victory of the season.

The Lions will try for DCL win number two (against one loss) Saturday, when they travel to Wayland.

Brookline detours Tigers, 5-3

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

WATERTOWN — It was just one of those nights for the Newton North hockey team. As Tiger Coach Don Crowley put it, "We clacked when we should of clicked."

The clacking noise heard around the Watertown Skating Arena Wednesday night was Brookline scoring an open net goal in the final seconds to insure a 5-3 triumph over Newton North in a Suburban League clash.

North was the lone unbeaten, undfeated squad in the circuit, but after the loss is 3-1 in the league and 4-2 overall. Brookline improved its record to 2-1. North is now in second place behind Brockton (2-0-1).

The 5-3 loss to Brookline was a frustrating one for the Tigers, who are missing some key people. Senior center John Hickey missed this game due to the death of his father. Hickey has been one of the stronger North performers in the young season. Newton North defenseman Jeff Cutter is out with an injury he sustained two games ago.

"Losing some key personnel definitely hurt us," said Crowley. "But, we just were a little flat tonight. Our team can't play flat and win. We must be at the top of our game in all aspects to win. We didn't play our game against Brookline and they took advantage of it."

The Wealthy Towners got the jump on Newton North in the first period with two goals. Jim Friedman scored both the goals for Brookline with the first one coming just 2:26 into the period. He scored the second goal with 3:54 left to play.

Newtn North's offense couldn't seem to get itself started in the opening frame and that continued into the early portion of the second period. Brookline was checking well and North was having trouble moving the puck out of the zone. The Tigers did start to get some opportunities as the period wore on and that's when the zigging and zagging came in to play.

North's line of center Tom Grady with wingers Bill Chisholm and Mike Burns kept the puck in Brookline's end for most of their shifts. They just couldn't get the puck to go into the net, however. Brookline goalie Jim Shea made several stops from point blank range and twice Newton was unable to get to a puck sitting in front of an open net.

"We had our opportunities, but we just didn't click," said Crowley. "We didn't shoot enough and we weren't moving well as a team. We had pressure in the Brookline end."

The Tigers went on a power play with less than five minutes remaining in the second period. The puck was in the Brockton zone for most of the power play and Newton had the puck, but no goals. Shea made two outstanding saves. He stopped Grady, who was standing 10 feet in front and then he deflected a Larry Tafe that seemed destined for the top corner.

Killing the power play was a lift for Brookline. The Wealthy Towners came down and stormed Newton's end. Goaltender Steve MacKay made two good stops, but the puck went back to the point were Craig Ward rifled a slap shot through a screen and MacKay's legs for the third Brookline goal with 1:35 left to play.

Newton North could of folded its tent right there, but it didn't. North's line of Tom Ryan, Chris Pachus and Tim Marchand charged into the Brookline end. Their persistence paid off with a hustle goal.

Sophomore Marchand came out from behind the net with the puck and he stuffed it between Shea's pad and the post for the score with just 18 seconds remaining in the period.

The score gave the Tigers life, but they couldn't score a second goal until eight minutes had past in the third period. A good bit of forechecking by Ryan and Pachus got the puck to Marchand in front, who blasted a shot under the stick arm of Shea and into the goal for the second goal.

Brookline wouldn't allow a comeback, however. The Wealthy Towners pressed the Newton defense. Goalie MacKay made two good stops, but the fourth score came on a breakaway by Steve Mudge, who beat MacKay to the stick side high. It was 4-2 with four minutes to go and North could have played out the clock.

The Tigers weren't about to concede this contest. Senior Glenn LeGault swung out from behind the Brookline goal and passed the puck. The disc hit a Brookline defenseman and went into the net for the third goal.

Brookline iced the game with 23 seconds left on a Dave O'Brien open-net goal. "We have get things back together for our next game," said Crowley.

Newton North will face Xaverian in a non-league tilt on Saturday.

Hartman, McGrath key Tiger wrestling win

NATICK — Things were just a might closer than coach Pat Coleman had anticipated, but his Newton North wrestling team picked up key victories from Steve Hartman and Chris McGrath to roll to a 35-23 triumph over Natick Friday afternoon in a non-league meet.

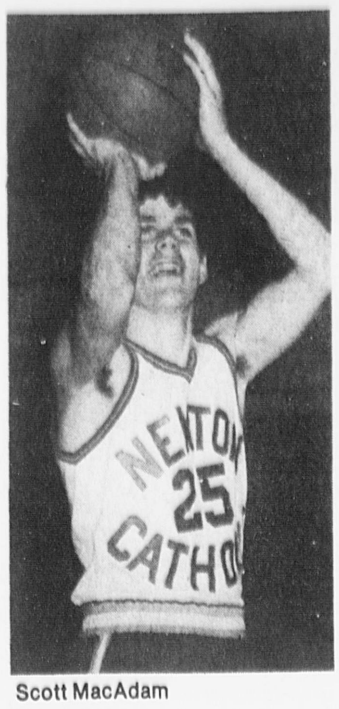

The Redmen gave the Tigers all they could handle. Newton North moved out to a 12-0 lead. Liam Griffin pinned his opponent at 100 and Mark Fabian was a winner by forfeit at 107. All of sudden, however, Natick captured a 17-14 lead on the strength of a pin and two decision victories and one tie. Steve Madoff surged out to a 5-0 lead in his match at 128, but Natick's Paul Paulson tied the match, 5-5, to keep the Natick momentum.

North capt. Paul Bresnahan was upset at 134 and Will Caldicott lost a tough, 2-1, decision at 140. Natick was on a hot streak leading 17-14. Steve Hartman cooled off the Natick surge when he won a crucial 5-4 victory at 147 to tie the meet for Newton North. 17-17.

Chris McGrath put Newton North back in control of the proceedings when he pinned his opponent at 157. McGrath was selected outstanding wrestler for his big pin. Jimmy Walker continued his strong wrestling by pinning his foe at 169 to cement the Newton North victory. Leo Butera was a winner by forfeit.

Newton North 35, Natick 23

St. Pat's stuns Lancers

WATERTOWN — After scoring only 16 points in the first half, the St. Patrick's of Watertown basketball team turned on the offense after intermission, edging Newton Catholic 46-43 in a Catholic Suburban League battle at East Junior High.

The Lancers had the edge in the early going, as they combined tough defense with a patient offense. On the offensive end, Newton Catholic was led by junior forward Tom DeRosa, who scored 12 of his game high 18 points in the opening half. While the 6-4 DeRosa was scoring from the inside, senior Scott MacAdam was hitting from the outside, with his jumpers accounting for eight points in the first half.

The offense from that duo, paired with a tough defense that prevented St. Pat's from getting the ball inside to their big man, Rod Greene, helped the Lancers take 24-16 lead into the locker room.

In the second half, however, the Knights came out pressing, causing problems for Newton Catholic.

Lancer Coach Don Dabenigno said his troops were too impatient on offense, as they took shots too quickly on those occasions that they broke the St. Pat's press.

But the biggest second half failure for the Lancers, according to Dabenigno, was the inability to stop the Knights from getting the ball to the 6-3 Greene, who finished with 15 points and a game-high 15 rebounds. "We let them go to their strength–inside," Dabenigno said after the game.

In addition to Greene, the Knights got some scoring punch from sophomore point guard Tim O'Connell, who scored six of his 10 points in the pivotal third period, when St. Pat's chopped a Lancer lead that was as large as 12 points, 32-20, to only three, by scoring the final nine points of the period.

Greene, who was forced to sit down for much a the second period with foul trouble collected 11 of his points in the second half, seven of them in the final period, as the Knights rallied to score 17 points and secure the victory.

The loss dropped Newton Catholic below .500, at 2-3, in Catholic Suburban League play (4-3 overall), and tied with St. Patrick's, which is also 2-3 in league play (2-4 overall).

On Friday, the Lancers will host North Cambridge Catholic in another league clash, while St. Pat's will travel to Somerville Sunday night and take on league rival St. Clement's.

The summary:

ST. PATRICK'S(46)-O'Connell 4-2-10; Fahey 2-5-9; Lawn 1-0-2; R.Greene 7-1-15; Morrison 2-0-4; B.Greene 1-0-2; Brady 2-0-4; Tot. 19-8-46.

North and Catholic hoopsters are nipped

The Newton North basketball team got off to a slow start and never really recovered, as they dropped a 55-46 decision to Suburban League rival Brookline Friday night at the Reggie Smith Gym.

The Indians jumped off to a 21-12 lead in the first quarter, as they cleaned the offensive boards for many of their points.

After a low-scoring second quarter for both sides, Brookline took a 29-22 lead into the halftime locker room.

The Tigers made their only serious rally in the third quarter, as they narrowed the gap to five, 31-26. They were able to get no closer, however, as they were hampered by 38 percent shooting. Neither Mark Coppola (six for 16) nor John Humphrey (five for 14) who led the Tigers with 14 points apiece, ever picked up the hot hand for Newton, which fell to 2-2 in league play after the defeat.

League scoring leaders Fred Hill, who was first, and Coppola, second, battled to a standoff with 14 points each. The two were guarding each other for much of the game.

The Tigers will look to get back on the winning track Tuesday, when they travel to North Quincy.

Catholic nipped

A shot with just two seconds to go slid off the side of the rim to end a valiant comeback try by the Newton Catholic basketball team in a 42-40 loss to North Cambridge Catholic Friday night in a Catholic Suburban League contest.

After scoring a total of 13 points in the second and third quarters combined, the Lancers managed to get their inside game going again. Tom DeRosa and Gerry Franchi were forced to sit out most of the middle two periods with foul trouble, but they returned in the fourth quarter to fuel the Newton Catholic rally.

Franchi, who finished with a game-high 16 points, teamed up with the 6-4 DeRosa to control the boards in the fourth quarter. DeRosa tossed in 11 points to spur the Newton Catholic offense. North Cambridge held a 31-28 lead going into the final frame, but the Lancers managed to tie the contest, but could never hit the bucket for the lead.

Newton Catholic had several opportunities, but could never click. The Lancers were six of 16 from the free throw line and that really hurt. "We had the chances," said Newton Catholic coach Don Dabenigno. "We just didn't take advantage of them."

The Lancers started out fired up. They outscored North Cambridge, 15-7, in the first quarter. North Cambridge came back to gain a 22-21 lead at the half. The loss dropped Newton Catholic's record to 2-4 in the league and 4-4 overall. The Lancers will travel to Hudson Tuesday night.

Re-use model

Mayor Theodore Mann (center) was recently honored by Pioneer Financial Bank and its real estate development subsidiary, Newton Resources, Inc. for the city's cooperation in the building and reuse of the former Claflin School. The project recently received national acclaim in Builder Magazine (shown being held by the mayor) which selected the school for its November cover and included a four-page feature on the project as a model adaptive re-use project.

College posts

Mini-grant promotes Italo-American series

NONANTUM — The Newton Free Library has received a mini-grant from the Mass. Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy for a series of talks and films focusing on the Italian-American's memories and experiences of his mother country. The series will also include a discussion of the changes in Italian society since World War II.

The series, "Italy Then and Italy Now - The Italian-Americans' Concept," begins March 7 and will take place at the Centro di Cultura Italiana at Nonantum Librayr, 144 Bridge St., Nonantum.

Marian Bremer, the Nonantum Branch librarian, will coordinate the programs. Forthcoming details will include lists of speakers and programs. For more information call 552-7163.

Silverstein, St. James Gate at Arts Center Coffeehouse

NEWTONVILLE — Co-sponsored by the Folk Song Society of Greater Boston, January's Newton Arts Center Coffeehouse presents an evening of contemporary folk music, ballads and traditional dance music by Deborah Silverstein and St. James Gate, Friday, Jan. 21 at 8:30 p.m. Donation for the evening of music is $3.

Deborah Silverstein has performed at Passim's, the Idler, Richard's Pub, the Oasis Coffee House and the Modern Times Cafe, Brandeis, B.U., Emerson College and UMass.

As a singer, songwriter, and accomplished guitarist, she combines traditional styles, contemporary topics, and universal sentiments in her highly effective and sensitive concepts.

St James Gate, a group of four American musicians, perform the music of the British Isles. Paul Harty, Ron Lister, Rose Sheehan, and Carl Purdy play the instruments and sing the songs that come mainly from Irish tradition, but they mix in the flavor of merry old England. The musicians perform on such instruments as a bodhran, a mandolin, melodeon, concertina, and pennywhistle.

All Newton hosts Baroque Chamber show

WEST NEWTON — An evening of Baroque Chamber Music will be presented at All Newton Music School on Friday, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m.

The aritsts, Larry Zukof, recorder; Janet Packer, violin; Adrienne Hartzell, cello and Gisela Krause, harpsichord are all members of the All Newton Music School faculty and active chamber music performers in the New England area.

The program will include works by Purcell, Corelli, Telemann and Bach. This concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

For information and additional concert listings, call the All Newton Music School: 527-4553. The school is located at 321 Chestnut St., West Newton.

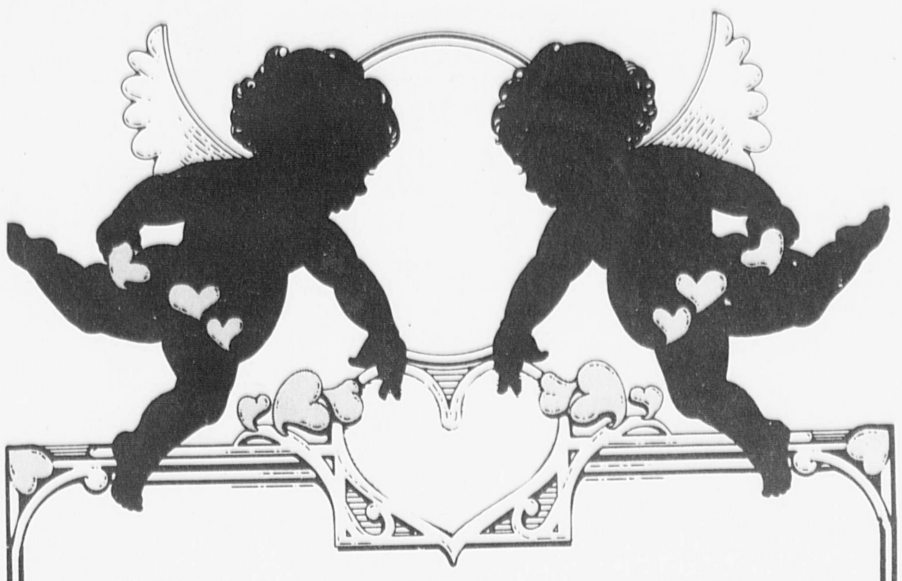

The All Newton Music School's programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

IF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE MADE MORE PEOPLE FEEL SICK, THEY MIGHT BE ALIVE TODAY.

Feeling good doesn't mean you're safe from the dangers of High Blood Pressure. It strikes all ages without warning in many ways—including stroke, heart attack, kidney failure. And it kills thousands of men and women each year.

So check your blood pressure. If you have High Blood Pressure, stay on your medication. Don't think that just because you feel great, the Silent Killer won't strike.

WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT IT CAN KILL YOU.
HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE
Check your pressure. Stay on your medication.

Interface offers 'Way of awareness' courses

NEWTON — "The Way of Awareness: An Introduction to Insight Meditation" is a 10-session class with Larry Rosenberg, Ph.D., at Interface starting Jan. 20.

Through the practice of "insight meditation," participants will develop calmness and clarity, and will use sustained moment-to-moment attention to gain insight into themselves.

Simply seeing things as they are, not as we wish them to be, is accompanied by the dropping away of mental burdens, according to Rosenberg. There are no ideological prerequisites for this course; all that is required is a willingness to look at our lives with alert interest, and the intention to understand rather than to judge, he said.

The course will be held Thursdays, Jan. 20, through March 31, 6-8 p.m., at Interface, 230 Central St., Newton, 02177.

Call 964-0500 for registraiton and more information.

"Hatha Yoga" is a 10-session class with Jon Kabat-Zinn, Ph.D., starting Jan. 20 at Interface. Both beginners and old-timers are welcome, and all of the basic as well as many advanced yoga positions will be covered.

The workout will be substantial, but people are encouraged to regulate their efforts to their own situation at any given time.

The method is non-competitive and non-striving, directed toward the development of mindfulness.

The course will be held Thursdays, Jan. 20 through march 31, 8-10 p.m., $60 at Interface.

"Healing As An Empowering Process" is a two-day workshop with Dawna Markova, Ph.D.

Workshop topics will include understanding the unique language of one's intuitive system and learning to use it as a diagnostic and therapeutic tool; and expanding the understanding of body symbology to include transformation of negative experiences in the healing process.

The workshop will be held Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 22 and 23, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m., $80 at Interface.

"A Course In Miracles" is a two-day workshop at Interface, Jan. 22 and 23, led by Kenneth Wapnick, Ph.D.

The workshop will focus on the principles of the Course which is a metaphysical system of spiritual psychotherapy. Dr. Wapnick will provide an in-depth summary of some of the course's major principles including the dynamic structure of the ego; forgiveness and love as the means of undoing projected guilt; and dealing with anger, injustice, ahd special relationships.

The workshop will be held from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m., $80, at Interface.

Wedding gifts

Alan S. Goldberg (center), vice-president of Jewish Family and Children's Services, received a $1500 contribution to the agency recently from Temple Mishkan Tefila Rabbi Richard Yellin (left) and Temple President Albert S. Frager. Last spring the temple conducted a Jewish "mass wedding" for 60 Soviet immigrant couples unable to have a religious ceremony in Russia. Revenue wedding gifts representing the Grater Boston Jewish community's good will toward the Russian immigrants were presented to JF&CS to support resettlement programs.

Wait til the night

Finalizing plans for the upcoming "Norumbega Nostalgia Night," slated as a fund-raiser and night of memories for the old Totem Pole dance hall, are (from left) Louise Makrauer, vice-president of the Newton Historical Society, Colin Diver, NHS president and Janet Wanderstock, catering sales manager for the Marriott Hotel, where the Jan. 29 affair is being held. A highlight of the evening will be auctioning of a hat owned by actress Greta Garbo.

Local man files $10M libel-slander suit

By Gary Dorion
Middlesex County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — The nephew of theatre-chain owner E.M. Loew has filed a $10 million libel-slander suit against two individuals connected with the movie and horse racing corporations controlled by Loew.

Named as defendants in the action are Sonja Loew, 435 Brush Hill Rd., Milton and Sascha Blank who lives in Middlesex County, according to the suit.

Kenneth F. Loew, of 804 Chestnut St., Newton, a 1938 emigre from Austria, claims that he enjoyed "amicable" and "affectionate" relations with his uncle, Elias M. Loew from the time he emigrated until October 1981. At that time, the suit says, Kenneth Loew "inexplicably" was terminated from his employment and relationship with E.M. Loew and his corporations.

Kenneth Loew, according to the suit, held various positions within several corporations controlled by Loew including director and clerk of E.M. Loew's Theatres, Inc. and Bay State Horse Racing and Breeding Association, Inc. The nephew also served as admission, parking and program manager at the Foxboro race track operated by the Loew corporations.

In the suit, Kenneth Loew alleges that defendants Sonja Loew and Sascha Blank "knowingly communicated false information to E.M. Loew" in an effort to "discredit" Loew's nephew and to induce the uncle to terminate his nephew's employment.

Attys. Edward J. Barshak and Tina M. Traficanti, who represent Kenneth Loew, could not be reached for comment, despite several phone calls.

According to the complaint, Blank allegedly told Loew his nephew was engaging in "improper business activities, knowing in fact that such was not true, for the purpose of inducing E.M. Loew to fire the palintiff and sever all relations with him."

The suit also says Sonja Loew and Sascha Blank became "significantly" involved in the business affairs of the Loew corporations in recent years.

The suit alleges that as a result of libel and slander on the part of the defendants, the nephew was deprived of his uncle's "comfort, society, aid, assistance and affection." It alleges the nephew experienced "severe emotional trauma and distress" and that the defendant "maliciously, wanton and willfully spoke, utterred and published certain false, slanderous and defamatory words" in Loew's presence and the presence of others.

Thompsonville seniors like Mondays

THOMPSONVILLE — Monday morning is a time when not much happens, right? Wrong. For a group of 40 seniors in Thompsonville, Monday mornings come alive with fellowship and fun.

For two years, seniors in the Thompsonville Senior Forum have been meeting quietly, planning programs, taking trips and having guest speakers give demonstrations and lectures. After a short holiday break, the group resumed its activities Jan. 10. Sponsored by Newton Community Schools, the group meets at the Filippo Corsi Club and newcomers are welcome.

In January, programs will include a talk on nuclear disarmament, a presentation by a member of the Israeli consulate and a discussion on part time-jobs for seniors in the Newton area.

On Feb. 14, State Representative Joseph DeNucci will join the forum, answering questions and addressing concerns regarding local government. The group will also hear from the Newton-Wellesley Visiting Nurses Association, representatives from the Boston Gas Company and the Museum of Fine Arts.

In March, the group will learn holiday crafts and will also travel to the MFA. Transportation for this trip will be provided to and from the Filippo Corsi Club.

For more information, please call Newton community Schools at 552-7118.

A little giving from you means a lot of living for them.

Nancy Morgan (Mrs. John Ritter), shares a happy moment with the "Real Stars" on the "Weekend with the Stars Telethon" for Cerebral Palsy.

Where does your money go, when you give to United Cerebral Palsy?
To children. Who need braces to help them walk. Therapy so they can strengthen. Recreational programs, so they can enjoy normal childhood activities.
To adults. Who need educational and vocational training, so they can achieve some measure of independence.
To research. To help find ways to prevent brain damage at birth.
There is no cure for Cerebral Palsy, but it can be treated. And that takes money. A little giving from you, will mean a lot to all of us.

Human Rights Commission to meet Feb. 9

NEWTON CORNER — In an attempt to increase community involvement, the Newton Human Rights Commission will hold its February 9 meeting at the Eliot Church, 474 Centre Street, Newton Corner, at 8 p.m.

The Commission and its Advisory Council meet monthly, usually at Newton City Hall. The commission and council are comprised of local residents who voluteer their time in order to bring about solutions to various human rights issues affecting the city.

In the past, the Human Rights Commission has proposed condominium legislation and heard discrimination complaints. Currently, the commission is working on developing an Adapted Housing policy for the city.

At the February meeting the commission's agenda will include time for a discussion of concerns and interests of the Newton Corner community.

Health weekend

Cong. Frank pushes oil overcharge rebate

NEWTON — Congrssman Barney Frank, D-Mass., joined other Massachusetts members of the New England Congressional Caucus last week in urging Energy Secretary Donald P. Hodel to distribute oil overcharge funds to the states as quickly as possible so they may be used during the current heating season.

Distribution of the funds, collected by the federal government from oil companies which had overcharged consumers, was ordered by Congress in the recently passed continuing resolution.

"These funds, to be used for energy programs of critical importance to our region, could be made available during the current heating season," Frank and his colleagues said in their letter urging Hodel to act expeditiously on the distribution.

The continuing resolution gave the Energy Department the authority to proceed in identifying those funds held in escrow accounts which are not likely to be returned to specific overcharge claimants.

Those funds not returned to customers are to be returned to the states based on an allocation formula of national and state refined oil product consumption data between 1973 and 1981.

"As you know," the lawmarkers wrote Hodel, "the new England states have placed the highest priority on the needs of low income energy consumers and on energy conservation. Receipt of the funds during the current heating season would be of enormous benefit to New Englanders."

St. Paul's 100th anniversary begins

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Newton Highlands is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year and as an opening event for the year-long celebration, will host a luncheon for members on Sunday, Jan. 23 at noon.

The Vestry of St. Paul's has called the Rev. Thomas W. Bauer of Washington, D.C. as its new rector and members will welcome him at this gathering for the first time.

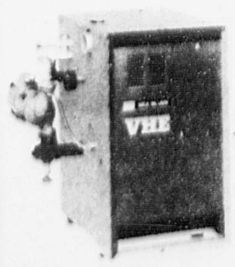

Rev. Bauer will begin his ministry at St. Paul's on Sunday, Feb. 6 at the 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. services.

There are as many reasons to get The Globe as there are days of the week.

Yes it's Sunday and you've laughed through the comics. Enjoyed Boston's best sportswriting. Pored through our magazine. Caught up on the complete regional and national stories.

Now what will you do the rest of the week? For openers, we'd suggest putting The Globe in your hands Monday so you'll know how the rest of the world spent their day of rest.

Come Tuesday, you can open a bigger business with "Business Extra." A special section devoted to the people, industries, facts and figures that make New England's business world turn.

Wednesday, you'll get a golden opportunity to cut corners with pages of money saving coupons, budget hints, recipes and all you need to serve it up right, in the Food pages.

Thursday, there's every reason to check our Calendar. With The Boston Globe's leisure magazine you'll have the complete goings on in and around Boston for the week.

You'll find "At Home" the place to be on Friday, with ideas for decorating, improving, repairing and enjoying.

Saturday has a plus all its own. "Sports Plus." The official word on the winners and the losers. Plus in-depth stories on the action on and off the field.

Ahhhhh Sunday. It wouldn't be the same without The Boston Sunday Globe.

See, just like the world, The Boston Globe doesn't stop between Sundays. Every day, The Globe provides quality, comprehensive coverage of the happenings from around the world. As well as timely features and the entertaining and informative columnists you've come to know.

We'll bring it all to you fresh each day. And that makes one more good reason to get The Globe all the days of the week.

NEWTON — Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, Inc., Engineers, Boston, announces that Max D. Sorota, of West Newton, has been elected president of the corporation.

Sorota was graduated from Tufts University in 1949, received an M.S. degree in civil engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1950, and has been employed by Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, Inc., since 1951.

He has had experience in the supervision of design and construction of port and industrial facilities and was recently project manager responsible for the design of the drydock for Trident-class submarines at the Naval Submarine Base, Bangor, Washington.

The project design received the 1980 First Honor Award by the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, the 1981 Honor Award of the American Consulting Engineers Council, and the Grand Conceptor Award of the American Consulting Engineers Council of New England.

Sorota is a fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a past president of the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, vice chairman of the American Society of Civil Engineers Committee on Standards of Practice, and a member of the Society of Value Engineers, the Tau Beta Pi Association, the Society of Sigma Xi, and the American Society of Civil Engineers Drydock Design Criteria Committee.

Jim Byrne of Newtonville, former media information manager for Boston's WNEV-TV, has joined WCVB-TV, Channel 5, as public relations representative.

In his new position, Byrne will publicize WCVB's locally produced programs and specials, as well as public affairs projects, and Newscenter 5. He will also coordinate the local publicity for ABC-TV's made-for-TV movies, regularly scheduled programs, and news.

Byrne joined WNEV (then WNAC) in April, 1980. Before that, he worked nearly four years at WCYB-TV in Bristol, Va. as a producer, reporter, and anchor. He also co-hosted that station's daily morning talk show, "Today on 5."

Byrne was graduated from Marietta College in 1976 with a B.A. degree in journalism and American history.

Ruth Smith of Newton, director of Social Work Services at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital for Children, Boston, has been named "Social Worker of the Year" for the Massachusetts Chapter of the Society for Hospital Social Work Directors.

According to Alan Bloom, president of the Massachusetts Chapter, Smith has been an extremely active and valuable member of the society.

"She has chaired the Continuing Care Committee, which has looked at many serious problems related to Medicare, Medicaid, AND's (Administratively Necessary Days) and many of the issues facing the patients at risk in our hospitals in Massachusetts," Bloom wrote in a letter to Sister Mary Ann Loughlin, executive director of Kennedy.

Before accepting the position of director of Social Work Services at Kennedy, Smith was social work supervisor at the Lesley School for Children in Cambridge, an affiliate of Lesley College in Boston. She has also held faculty positions at Lesley.

She received her masters in social work services from Adelphi University in New York and her liberal arts degree from Boston University.

Smith is a member of numerous professional affiliations that include her Board Membership for the Massachusetts Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, her membership with the National Association of Social Workers and the Massachusetts Hospital Association Long Term Care Committee. She is presently continuing care chairperson for the Society of Social Work Directors, Massachusetts Chapter.

Paula F. Corman of West Newton has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Suffolk University MBA/MPA Alumni Association.

She received a master in business administration degree from Suffolk University.

Corman is a member of the American Society of Information Sciences.

She is branch financial administrator for Raytheon Data Systems.

Corman and her husband Joel have one child.

Leonard J. Gentile of the Newton School Committee has been appointed to serve as a member of the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association's (MIAA) Game Officials Committee for 1982-83.

Gentile will represent the Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC) on this committee, which negotiates with game officials.

Gentile is a one-year member of the Newton School Committee.

MASC is an organization that serves school committees throughout the Commonwealth.

Alan D. Solomont of Newton has been elected a second vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes. The federation is a membership organization of approximately 350 long term care facilities in Massachusetts.

Solomont is associated with five family-owned long term care facilities in the Merrimack Valley and is the administrator of Prescott House Nursing Home in Andover. He is a graduate of Tufts University and the University of Lowell.

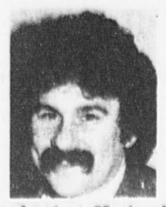

Craig R. Hill of Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, has recently been promoted to director of Fiscal Affairs for Auxiliaries and Operations at Boston University.

Hill's responsibilities will include preparing and implementing the University's budget. He will also serve as assistant to the associate vice president for operations.

Hill came to Boston University in June 1980 as a budget analyst. In August 1981 he was made manager of Fiscal Affairs for Auxiliaries and Operations. Before coming to the University he was an accounting systems analyst at the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston.

Hill holds a bachelor of science degree with honors in business administration from Northeastern University. He is enrolled in Northeastern's master of business administration program.

Peter Gordon of West Newton was elected a second vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes.

Gordon is the administrator of the Ashmont Manor and Neponset Manor Nursing Homes in Dorchester. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the West End House Boys Club.

Private John W.J. Ryan, brother of Mary A. Ryan of Newton and a 1982 graduate of Newton South High School, recently completed station unit training at the US Army Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

The Alpha Omega Fraternity recently bestowed honorary membership to Dr. Ralph R. Lobene of Newton, dean of the School for Dental Hygienists at Forsyth Dental Center, Boston.

The membership was made in recognition of his services in the field of dentisty.

Dr. Lobene is also a professor of dentistry and allied health and a lecturer in periodontology at Harvard School of Dental Medicine.

He is a diplomate in the American Board of Periodontology.

Affiliated with Forsyth since 1963, Dr. Lobene is the author of two books, "The Forsyth Experiment: An alternative system for dental care" and "Dental Care in Society."

Since 1980 he has been serving as a regent in the United States Section of the International College of Dentists. He is also a past president of Boston Section of the American Association of Dental Research and has authored more than 70 scientific articles.

'The Bags' will go on

NEWTON — Two performances by the New York-based theatre group The Paper Bag Players, slated for Sunday, Jan. 23, will go on as planned but the performance location may be changed.

Officials of the sponsoring Newton Recreation Department Arts in the Parks program said a final decision on the performance site for the 1 and 3 p.m. shows will be made Thursday or Friday.

Ticket holders can call either the Newton Arts Center at 964-3424 or Arts in the Parks, at 552-7120 to confirm the performance location.

The "Bags," tentatively slated to perform at Newton North High auditorium, have been praised throughout New England for entertaining shows for kids.

The Bags use a variety of paper product props for their new show, "Reasons to be Cheerful," a 25th anniversary gala show.

Candidates may pick up nomination papers May 1

NEWTON — Election Commissioner Alan Licarie has announced May 1 will be the first day for candidates aiming at the Preliminary City Election on Sept. 20 to pick up their nomination papers. July 19 is the deadline for taking out the nomination papers.

August 2 at 5 p.m. will be the deadline for filing those papers. There are 50 signatures required on nomination papers for ward aldermen and 150 required for aldermen at large.

May 3 is the date set for the Newton Highlands Area Council Election. November 8 is the date of the General Election.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor

MERIDIAN THERAPY

One of the benefits of our relatively new diplomatic ties with China is a greater understanding of Oriental medical techniques. Acupuncture has been a system of treatment which Chinese doctors have used for thousands of years to maintain normal, healthy energy patterns in the body. However, needles and skin puncture are not necessary to achieve the benefit of acupuncture. Because the life-giving force, which the Chinese call "Chi," travel down 12 meridians (pathways) of the body, we refer to the system as "meridian therapy." Each meridian is associated with an organ or body function. By applying digital pressure to certain points along the meridian, the chiropractor can stimulate or sedate body activity until balance is achieved.

The "pathways" allowing one to achieve a total state of well-being have effectively been addressed by the science of chiropractic. Such is a knifeless, drugless and natural approach to addressing the source of the problem and allowing Mother Nature to heal "naturally." For the pathway to better health call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale, today for a chiropractic exam. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.

CHIRO TIP:
Chiropractors stimulate meridian points along the spine long before acupuncture became popular.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA, HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban homestead loans • house-to-house loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®, before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

In 'Airplane II'

Chad Everett leaves doctoring

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD — Who looks and sounds like Clark Gable, rates among Hollywood's best tennis players and is constantly mistaken for Dr. Joe Gannon?

No, not Bette Midler.

It's not James Brolin either, but only because no one mistakes him for Joe Gannon.

Brolin comes close, however. He played Gable in the disastrous movie, "Gable and Lombard," and is sometimes mistaken for Dr. Steven Kiley whom he played in the defunct "Marcus Welby, M.D." series.

The description fits only Chad Everett, who starred for seven seasons in "Medical Center" as Dr. Gannon, a flashy young surgeon who mended broken hearts as well as broken bones.

Gannon was such an attractive cuss, resembling Gable as he did, that actor Everett still is indentified as the sawbones, even without surgical mask, forceps and rubber gloves.

Not to worry. Since 1976, when "Medical Center" left the air, Everett has gradually put distance between himself and the dashing doctor, although his advice occasionally is sought on bursitis and gastric disomfort.

Very soon, moviegoers and TV viewers will be able to see just how far Everett has come since last he wielded scalpel and sutures.

He stars in "Airplane II, The Sequal" playing a dotty engineer who builds the first commercial space shuttle to the moon, a spacecraft so flimsy its terrified passengers are doomed.

This January he will be seen in the four-hour ABC-TV miniseries, "Malibu," playing a fading tennis professional.

> 'I'm 45 years old and I have things I want to do yet, and most of them involve movies, miniseries and TV movies.'
> Chad Everett

Clearly, Dr. Gannon would administer a lobotomy on the squirrely engineer and perhaps treat the aging jock for tennis elbow.

In any case, both roles represent giant steps away from Everett's identity as Gannon, which, of course, pleases the actor who was also approached to play Gable on the screen a few years back.

"Progress has been slow because the series is still in syndication," Everett said good-naturedly. "As I travel around the country people are beginning to think of me as an actor rather than as Gannon.

"I'm gratified I've had no problems doing other work, although it has taken four or five years to break away from the image.

"'Airplane' is my first picture since 'The Fire Chasers' back in 1970 and my first comedy role since 'The Impossible Years,' which goes back to 1966."

In the years since "Medical Center" Everett has starred in five TV movies, two miniseries, "Hagen" and "Centennial," the James Michener cavalcade. He's also played a lot of tennis.

Everett is reluctant to try another weekly dramatic series for obvious reasons. During his tenure as Gannon he was sutured to the series 40 weeks a year, leaving little opportunity for other projects.

That is not to say, however, that Everett is looking to ditch TV altogether.

"Television is the biggest billboard in history," he said. "'Medical Center' is running all over Europe and Asia where it is a tremendous hit. TV keeps you alive with the public.

"But I can't learn or contribute anything by returning to weekly drama. TV movies and feature films offer opportunities for me to be better than I've been.

"I'd have done 'Airplane II' for nothing. It's a cult movie with a built-in audience. It will give audiences an opportunity to see me in an altogether different light.

"If I had been starring in another weekly series, I wouldn't have been able to accept the part. When you're in a series, all kinds of good roles come along that you can't take because you're committed.

"As a result, I don't think I've really been tapped creatively. No one has asked me to do more than I've done before. An actor has to go out on a limb and try new things. It's the only way to grow.

"I'd hate to think I'd reached the limits of my acting career by starring in another TV series. It would mean I've alrady reached my professional goals in life.

"I'm 45 years old and I have things I want to do yet, and most of them involve movies, minseries and TV movies."

Legislature to have limited coverage?

By Andy Dabilis
UPI Statehouse Reporter

BOSTON — It may be months before the television cameras begin to whirl in the Legislature, and the action could be limited to shots of legislators talking in front of a podium.

The sponsor of a new House rule that will eventually allow cameras to be used filed an order Monday to set up a committee that would make recommendations on how it should work.

But some television stations are wary they won't be allowed to operate cameras the way they want, or that coverage could be snapped off at decisive moments.

Rep. Nicholas Paleologos, D-Woburn, said he expects television and radio coverage of the House could begin this fall. "The important thing is to get it on no matter how restrictive it is," Paleologos said

He said the study committee will make recommendations, but that House Speaker Thomas McGee, who opposed the rule, will have final authority on camera placement and operation.

Paleologos said he expects the cameras will be limited to just the podium where legislators speak.

"We hope it will be placed in a position where we can get not only the podium but where we can pan and get pictures where we want," said WBZ-TV News Director Jeff Rosser. "I hope it's not where it can be turned off at the hand of the speaker when it's something he personally feels the public should not see."

Rosser, however, said he thought any coverage would be an initial breakthrough.

When the House passed coverage last week, Paleologos said a similar system has worked well in Congress, but that system is run by the leadership and not television stations.

Rosser said television stations have already proved in their courtroom coverage cameras can be unobtrusive and allow the public an inside glimpse.

Paleologos also said newspaper photographers were not included in the rule because many legislators felt "they could be in there and take pictures of empty sets where the television cameras wouldn't be able to."

WCVB-TV News Director Phil Balboni said, like Rosser, he is excited about the prospect of getting cameras into the House to illustrate stories, but he was cautious, too.

"You'd like to be able to have unfettered coverage but they do this in Washington and it's what we have to do in the courtrooms," he said.

Balboni said legislators apparently wonder "whether we are going to use this opportunity to embarrass members."

He recounted stories "of people sleeping and throwing spitballs. They feel it would be a blow to their prestige and it might be."

Ironically, while supporters have hailed the rule, Balboni said television would probably only use snippets. "We're not going to use this to any large extent," he added.

City asks for lower Route 9 speed limit

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON— The Traffic Commission is sending a message to the state regarding Route 9: "Speed kills."

The letter, discussed at Tuesday's Traffic Commission meeting, asks the state to reduce speed limits on Route 9 from a high of 50 miles per hour to 40 because of the number of traffic accidents, according to its chairman Jay Moscow.

"We sent a letter to the state at request of Alderman Michael Malec asking them to conduct speed tallies to determine if a lower speed can be posted," said city traffic engineer David Tannozzini.

Police traffic bureau commander Captain John Bartinelli said Rte 9 has a high number of accidents, but his department does not keep accident counts since the road is state controlled.

Malec said he believes Rte 9 from Speen Street in Natick to Brookline, is one of the most dangerous highways in the Commonwealth. The alderman pointed out the intersection at Elliot Street and Rtee 9 was once listed among te ten most dangerous by the American Automobile Association.

The intersection has since been redesigned and a pedestrian walkway installed making that area much safer, stated Malec. The city pushed the state into action, he added.

"I'm still concerned about running redlights and excessive speed on this state road and that's why a letter went to the state," said Malec.

Malec uses the route daily and said he observes people travelling at speeds faster than 55 m.p.h. and running red lights at Woodcliff and Langley Roads.

"The excessive speeds are totally inappropriate on a highway that allows a lot of access from residential streets," said Malec.

Malec admits reducing the speed limit may take time, but he plans to keep "pressure on the state until they are responsive."

Police Chief William F. Quinn said he would be very "surprised" if the state approved a lower speed limit.

Springer earns Eagle Scout Award

NEWTON CENTRE — Jonathan F. Springer of Troop 225, Newton, was presented the Eagle Scout Award, the highest rank in Boy Scouting, in a Court of Honor held recently in Temple Emanuel, the troop sponsor.

Adolf Andersen, scouting executive for Norumbega Council Boy Scouts, made the presentation in ceremonies attended by council representatives, scout leaders, other eagle scouts and members and friends from Troop 225.

As his community service project necessary for eagle rank, Springer led a group of scouts in assisting the Newton Historical Commission on the restoration of Newton's historic burial ground.

Letters of congratulations were also read from national and state officials, including President Ronald Reagan, Vice-president George Bush, former Pres. Gerald Ford, Senators Edward Kennedy, Paul Tsongas, and Howard Baker, Jr., Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, Rep. Barney Frank and others. Citations from the Massachusetts Senate and the city of Newton were also presented to Springer.

Former Pres. Ford, an Eagle Scout, offered Springer, "my best wishes for success in your future endeavors."

Springer, recipient of the troop's "Philip Ginsburg Outstanding Scout of the Year" award last year, has been a scout for the past three years. The holder of 23 merit badges and all 12 skill awards, he currently serves as one of the troop's patrol leaders.

In addition he is a member of the Muskataquid Lodge, Order of the Arrow, honorary camping society for Boy Scouts. He also has earned scouting's World Conservation Award.

Springer, 17, and a senior at Newton South High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Springer of Alexander Road, Newton.

Also assisting in the presentation were scoutmaster Dennis Ditelberg, assistant scoutmaster Michael Katin, institutional representative C. Benjamin Lofchie, and scout committee members Morris Danovitch, Harry Weiner, Joseph Winer and Steve Goldberg.

A reception was held in the temple vestry after the Court of Honor.

NHCDC hosts seminar on computer literacy

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Students will observe the workings of a computer as they assume the roles of input, statements and variables when the first Newton Highlands "computer literacy seminar" is given later this month.

Paul Shiman, chairman of the Newton Highlands Community Development Corporations' Computer Access Committee, announced this week a free three-hour computer literacy seminar will be given Sunday, Jan. 30 at 2 p.m. in the Highlands Congregational Church, 54 Lincoln Street.

This will be the first in a series of seminars and courses which will be offered under the educational auspices of teh Newton Community Schools, Shiman said.

According to David Kahn, seminar instructor, participants will be introduced to the basic concept of how a computer works. The seminar will also include sections on hardware, software and programming, as well as consumer education.

The emphasis will be on personal and home use of computers, with hands-on instruction with the Timex-Sinclair 1000 computer planned. The instruction is designed to give students an idea of what can be done on home computers which are on the market.

Students who own a Timex-Sinclair are encouraged to bring them to the seminar.

Shiman said a follow-up offering of the Computer Access Committee will be a 10-week course with a $150 fee which includes the cost Timex-Sinclair which the student will keep at the end of the course. The fee for the course will be less for those already owning the computer.

Will the real Ms. Ross stand up?

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — There may never have been so many famous people gathered in a Newton classroom.

For an audience of parents and students at the Burr Elementary School in Auburndale, the opportunity last week to hear firsthand about the lives of Ferdinand Magellan, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Edison was a thrill.

The event was even more fun for the students in Anne Schneider's third grade class who donned costumes and wrote first-person biographies of any person, living or dead, who was well-known or revered.

Two performances were given last week by the 21 students in the class and each child spoke for a few minutes as they portrayed their selected character.

The founding father of our nation, George Washington (student Sean Schofield), took the opportunity to set straight a few misconceptions about him.

"I did not cut down the cherry tree. I did not throw a silver dollar across the Potomac," George confessed, unable to tell a lie.

Having wooden teeth was no fun either, the first president said.

Soccer great Pele (played by Gabe Stuart) said he became one of the most popular and highest scoring soccer players despite being told he was "too small" to ever be any good.

Tiny Russian gymnast Olga Korbut (Malinda Tam) addressed the audience wearing tights and a leotard. When she is not testing herself on the uneven parallel bars, Olga said her favorite pastime is watching auto racing.

Schneider, who has taught at Burr for 13 years, assigns the project on biographies each year. About three weeks of classtime are spent researching and organizing the highlights of a person's life into a three or four minute presentation.

Students rehearsed their performance and Schneider says the project provides an excellent opportunity to try expressive public speaking.

"Some of the students had a lot of anxiety about getting up and speaking," she says, but after the rehearsals, all the students seemed to be over their fears.

One student, Marianne Gonzales (who was Betsy Ross) even memorized her presentation and delivered it perfectly.

Schneider says the project also allows students to think about how a person might have looked in his day and to create a costume.

While Schneider praises the skills students learn from the project, "Pocahontas" simply thought it was fun.

"I think it's fun," Lorie Flaherty said of the chance to portray the Indian girl who saved the life of the early Virginia settler, Captain John Smith, when he was captured by her father.

Bedabrata Sarkar said he picked Thomas Edison because "the costume was easy" since his nother had a white lab coat on hand.

And "Edison's" friend, Abraham Gore, chose Marco Polo because Sarkar gave him a book on the early traveler to the Far East.

Other people picked by students were John Kennedy (Jeffrey Wardenaar), Florence Nightingale (Julie Hathaway), Christopher Columbus (Micah Fairweather), George Washington Carver (Thomas McClure), Johnny Appleseed (Joseph Barberio) and Helen Keller (Beth Piro).

Students also portrayed several Sports figures, such as Roberto Clemente (Jeffrey Kofoed), Joe Namath (Scott Maruccio), Peggy Fleming (Brenda LeBlanc), Dorothy Hamill (Michelle Clarke), and Bobby Orr (Kevin Capello).

Jennifer DiFoggio selected writer Laura Ingalls Wilder and Lincoln was portrayed by Tony Minasidis. Vincent Antonellis was Magellan.

Schneider says the next special project for the class will be to write and perform their own fables.

Y's Junior Chess Club picks officers

NEWTON - Members of the Newton YMCA Junior Chess Club,which meets each Thursday from 3 to 5:30 p.m., recently held election of officers.

Chosen as president was 13-year-old Daniel Leschier, a seventh grader at Day Junior High who lives on Lindberg Avenue, Newton. Assisting as vice-president will be 10-year-old Khozema Oamruddin of Lexington Street, a Newton Catholic fifth grader.

Other officers elected include: Recording Secretary David Ricardo, Louise Road, Newton, age 8, Grade 3, Bowen School; Corresponding Secretary Odessa Franks, Hamlet Street, Newton; age 10, grade 5, Bowen; Treasurer Ross Eldridge, Wedgewood Road, Newton, age 8, grade 3 Horace Mann; and Assistant Treasurer Salidin Franks, Hamlet Street, Newton, age 8, grade 3 at the Bowen School.

The club, which runs for 34 weeks of the year, allows boys and girls between 6 and 16 to join at any time, any Thursday. The club is open to all who want to learn how to play, or for those who know how to play and want to enjoy it.

Besides chess members participate in elections, parties, tropy trophy tournaments and game room activities.

'Freeze' backers keep plugging

NEWTON — John Loretz of Newton sees community interest in a nuclear arms freeze a little like a roller coaster, with its peaks and valleys.

Yet Loretz and Beverly Droz, also of Newton, have been working behind the scenes with other local volunteers since Massachusetts voters passed a ballot question backing a freeze on nuclear arms production and deployment in November.

As members of the all-volunteer Newton Action for Nuclear Disarmament, the pair is part of some 70 affiliates of the Women's Action for Nuclear Disarmament, based in Arlington.

In 1982, Loretz says, the issue for local AND members was lobbying for passage of the freeze question. That effort was successful as Massachusetts became one of eight states to approve such a receommendation for Capitol Hill's consideraton. Only one state which had such a question on the ballot turned it down.

Now the Newton AND group is gearing up for a meeting of the national freeze lobby in Washington early in March.

The national organizers hope to have representatives from every Congressional district in the country at the two-day rally, with those attending heading for the Hill to lobby members of Congress individually.

"You can make a difference by getting to these individual, important people," Loretz said last week, "and letting them know that their minds need to be changed."

Following the successful campaign to pass the nuclear arms production and deployment freeze question in Massachusetts, Beverly Droz said local AND members joined a nationwide network in lobbying members of Congress on the MX missile funding proposal.

A letter-writing camapign was launched and extensive telephone lobbying of "swing votes" in Congress took place.

Now with such educational activities as the Feb. 2 screening of the film "Controlling interest" at the Unitarian Church in West Newton, the group is continuing its move to educate local voters.

"When the political work is at a low point," Loretz said, "that's when you need to fill in with the educational work."

Hyde saved; mixed use backed

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Hyde School community can throw away its "Save Our Hyde" banners and tee-shirts following a 5-4 School Committee vote Monday night.

The vote put an end to the threat of redistricting Hyde and signalled support for rebuilding the fire-damaged school building for six classrooms, a self-supporting day care center and handicapped housing.

Hyde PTA co-president Jeffrey Swope was "delighted" by the vote. "We always had confidence the School Committee would do the right thing," an elated Swope said.

Redistricting or shifting parts of the Hyde district to nearby elementary schools was voted down by the committee in September 1981, but was brought up for review one month ago when enrollments dropped sharply again citywide.

> 'We always had confidence the School Committee would do the right thing.'
> Hyde PTA co-president Jeffrey Swope

The income to the city of $508,000 in fire insurance money was another impetus.

Committee members who supported redistricting said they saw little justification for building more classrooms, even if covered by the fire insurance money for Hyde, when it appeared school consolidation was again a possibility.

More than 200 Newton Highlands residents gathered at the meeting at Brown Junior High and tensely waited for the vote. When committee Chairperson Nancy Mann cast the decisive vote, Hyde parents cheered.

School Committee members Robert Ricles, Ann Berwick, Lenny Gentile and James Mnookin had already voiced support for keeping the Hyde community together at a December meeting, but Nancy Mann had given no hint of her vote.

Mayor Theodore Mann, an ex-officio member of the committee, was in the minority which voted for redistricting. He was joined by Susan Silbey, Katherine Jones and Marcia Mitchell.

Explaining her vote, Silbey said she did not see redistricting of Hyde students as "such a disaster."

"I can't see building six more classrooms," she said, when 44 are empty.

The notion of building space "over and above what we need" also prompted Jones to support redistricting.

Wide (wild) world of music

Last weekend was a bonus for music fans as members of the New England Chapter of the US Imperial Society of Teachers of Dance competed at the Marriott Hotel in such steps as ballroom dancing (above), for a blur of motion, and fox trot, jitterbug and jive.

Rock and roll fans let their hair down at the American Legion Post 440 in Nonantum in a benefit with eight bands to raise money for the Norman Levielle Trust Fund, to aid the injured Boston Bruin.

But the beat of the band 'Sin City' at Post 440 kept the dance floor hopping. More photos, page 2.

Students balk at changing school names

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Some high school students here disagree with a recent special commission recommendation to change the names of Newton North and South High Schools in an effort to soften distinctions between the "north" and "south" sides of Newton.

"They're still two different schools," said Jennifer Worzel, a junior at North, "That wouldn't change."

Most Newton North and South High School students questioned last week by The Newton Graphic said a "friendly" and "healthy" rivalry exists between the two schools. Competition, they said, is not based on the schools' locations. And, they frequently stressed, the rivalry would exist regardless of the schools' names.

A final report by the Mayor's Special Commission on Community Affairs, which suggest renaming the schools, states that city workers perceive distinctions between the two areas of Newton. According to the report, made to the Human Rights Commission, workers perceive the south side of Newton as more affluent and politically influencial and thus receives better city services.

The report, based on three meetings with city workers to discuss prejudice in Newton, cites concerns about Italian and Jewish bigotry. Workers also said they felt others "looked down on them" because of their jobs.

Transcript Newspapers tally 25 regional awards

BOSTON — The Newton Graphic's editorial page was picked as an award winner at last weekend's annual convention of the New England Press Association at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

The Graphic's editorial page, designed by managing editor Richard Lodge, was selected for honorable mention in the best editorial page category for weekly newspapers of up to 10,000 circulation.

The Newton Graphic is a publication of Transcript Newspapers, Inc. Transcript won a total of 25 awards for its daily and weekly newspapers at the press association banquet. Transcript's other winners included 11 awards for its daily newspaper the News Tribune. Its other daily, the Daily Transcript, took 12 awards.

The Transcript's advertising department placed first in the "bright idea" category for the newspaper's anti-recession campaign in the News Tribune. Advertising Director Robert Katz, a resident of Newton, accepted the accolade.

More time on meters

NEWTON — The aldermanic Public Facilities Committee Monday night approved the change of a total of 71 parking meters on Washington Street in Newtonville Square to better accommodate shoppers and the employees of the shops in the area.

The committee differed with Traffic Commissioner David Tannonzini and Newtonville Square businessman Richard Bram as to the exact changes that should be made in the arrangement of meters in the square.

Both Tannonzini and Bram said they thought more long-term meters were warranted in the area to accommodate employees of neighboring businesses. Bram told the committee tenants of his commercial properties around the square had no place to park during the day.

Gov. Sununu to attend Lincoln Day

NEWTON — Newton's 23rd annual Lincoln Day dinner and dance will host newly elected New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu as guest speaker on Friday, Feb. 11, in the main ballroom of the American Legion Post 440.

"We are proud to announce that Gov. Sununu has accepted our invitation to address Newton's twenty-third annual Lincoln Day dinner and dance," said Newton Republican Club President Kenneth Hartford Monday.

Hartford noted Sununu's years of experience as an educator, engineer and business and community leader.

"We are very fortunate that he has consented to come to our community to share his experience and ideas with us," Hartford said. "A hearty welcome awaits him."

Several committees are already in full swing completing arrangements for the appearance by Sununu, who defeated the late Gov. Hugh Gallen in November.

City trash jobs held 'hostage'

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Private trash collection has won a 4 to 3 endorsement from the Finance Committee.

Deputy Mayor James Hickey warned the city may rescind its guarantee to keep the sanitation workers on the city payroll unless the full Board of Aldermen follows the Finance Committee recommendation.

At Monday's meeting of the committee, Hickey said that if the board fails to approve the trash contract now, the mayor would not be in position to guarantee the sanitation workers' jobs and will only budget enough money for private trash collection.

Mayor Theodore Mann has stated he would "seriously consider the option of disfunding" the sanitation department if aldermen fail to approve the private contract.

Representing the trash workers, local 800 union president Daniel MacLaren said the vote disappointed him and felt the city is holding the 42 workers "hostage."

"I don't like the threat of 42 employees' blood being on my conscience on July 1, 1983, (the date they could be disfunded) if we don't approve this," said Alderman Ethel Sheehan.

Hickey said the mayor is not playing "games" and feels very strongly about the trash issue.

> 'I don't like the threat of 42 employees' blood being on my conscience...' Alderman Ethel Sheehan

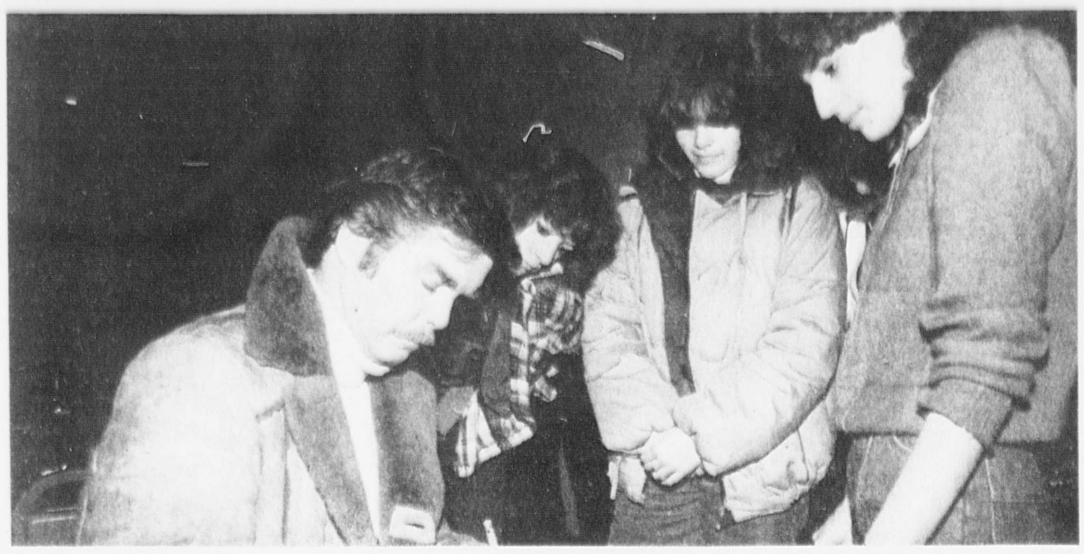

"If the board turns this down now — and I can visualize them turning it down at budget time — then the city would have no trash pickup," said Alderman Wendell Bauckman.

President Matthew Jefferson stated the board and the mayor are engaging in "brinkmanship," but he is confident there will be trash pickup come July.

Voting for private trash collection by SCA Services, Inc. were: Aldermen Lisle Baker, Wendell Bauckman, Sondra Schick and Robert Tennant. Aldermen against were: Harold Levinsky, committee chairman Edward Richmond and Lane Sofman.

"Why is it so essential we go to private trash pickup now, can't we wait a year and see how the union plan works out?" asked Alderman Levisnky, referring to the union's alternative collection proposals.

Trash jobs 'hostage'

Hickey told Levinsky the administration figured out all of the costs and private trash collection is more economical "no matter how long we put it off."

All during the meeting City Comptroller Lawrence Marino was asked to state the administration's latest figures regarding private trash collection.

Figures comparing the union's plan to SCA's bid were very close, but Hickey pointed out city trash collection had costs other than labor, such as pensions, vehicle maintenance and liability insurance charges.

From Dec. 9 to 27, union negotiators and the city bargained for over 30 hours, but came to an "impasse" over the number of men needed to pick up trash, wages and holiday pay.

The city's position called for 27 workers, $370 a week and no holiday pay unless a worker came in the day before and after the holiday.

The union wanted 28 workers, $375 a week and an escape clause concerning holidays to allow a worker who is really sick to be paid.

Final savings for the taxpayer, if the aldermen approve the private trash collection plan this month, was calculated at $600,000 spanning the four years of the contract. This includes the cost of transferring 42 sanitation workers to other city departments rather than firing them.

Original cost saving estimates by the administration, when the issue first came up in October, were nearly $3 million over four years.

Alderman Richard McGrath pointed out if the city failed to go out to private trash contract and instead allowed a private recycling firm lease the Rumford Avenue landfill site, in place of SCA, the city would be paid an additional $500,000. Hickey disputed the figure.

Last week the Public Facilities Committee voted unaminously against private trash collection.

First baby for Graphic editor

NEWTON — Newton Graphic editor Richard Lodge and his wife Marcia Boundy are the proud parents of a new baby boy.

The seven-pound, 20-inch baby was born at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

The blue-eyed boy is their first child.

Businesses must shovel walks

NEWTON — The police chief has issued a reminder to Newton business owners about their responsibility for removing snow from walkways.

Police Chief William Quinn is also urging residents to help make Newton a safer place for schoolchildren and pedestrians during dangerous winter conditions.

Chief Quinn has ordered traffic officers and meter maids to visit all retail and commercial establishments and explain the city ordinance regarding snow removal from business districts.

Businesses are also responsible for making parking meters accessible, the chief said. Quinn said business district meters that are not accessible will not be tagged for violations and thus encourage all-day parkers.

Quinn also expressed concern for schoolchildren and pedestrian, saying sidewalks are blocked to them by snow being piled on the walksways. This creates a dangerous situations as people are forced to walk on the street, the chief said.

The Newton Postal Office manager is also notifying households that dangerous conditions exist for mail carriers because of blocked sidewalks and icy steps. According to police many mail carriers have been hurt as a result of the snow and ice conditions.

Quinn is urging everyone, including business owners and residents, to cooperate in public safety during the winter season.

Boy hurt in hit-run accident

NEWTON — Police are seeking a late-model car that hit a Newton Upper Falls boy and left without stopping last Friday.

Robert Jaffney, 14, of 11 Pennsylvania Ave. suffered a hip injury when he out 1:45 p.m. he was hit in the parking lot behind the Boston Fish House, 233 Needham St. possibly by a silver 1979 Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

Jaffney was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by Chaulk ambulance. He was treated and released Sunday, a hospital spokesperson said.

GOP hosts Sununu at annual Lincoln fete

The event sponsored by the Newton Republican Club usually attracts a turnout of several hundred people. The list of speakers who have appeared before the group includes current vice-president George Bush in 1974 and former Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, who was recently nominated as Secretary of Health and Human Services.

The presentation of special citation awards to local Republicans in recognition of long-term service to the GOP and the community will again be a feature of the event.

Hartford will head the overall committee on arrangements. The Newton Republican Club is the chief sponsor of the dinner in cooperation with the Newton Republican City Committee.

Frances E. Shaer, vice-president of both groups, is dinner and program chairperson. She sounded a nostalgic note in pointing out that the Lincoln Day Dinners have been sponsored by the club for 23 years with the first two dinners (in 1960 and 1961) being held in the Normandie Room of the old Norumbega Park.

Gov. Sununu is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology,

Reservations must be made by Feb. 9, by calling Vivian Graham, ticket chairperson, at 332-6463 or other local GOP officers.

Parking meters will last longer

Tannonzini recommended a total of 41 12-hour meters be included in the revision. The Public Safety Committee recommended a total of 31 12-hour meters to provide all-day parking for employees, stressing the needs of shoppers in the area for more short term parking.

A restriction put on those meters by the committee, which prohibits parking from 7 to 9 a.m., is aimed at keeping Boston commuters from taking all the spaces in the early morning hours and tying them up until late in the afternoon, according to committee Chairman Joseph DePasquale.

Chiropractic for Health
by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor
KNEE STABILITY
Chiropractic recognizes that muscles do more than simply help move the knee hinge-joint through its range of motion. Along with ligaments, they also lend stability to the joint, and limit its range of motion. Muscles support the knee in the middle and outside of its structure as well as at the front and back. Weakness in one part of this group of muscles can result in loss of stability. By testing individual muscles surrounding the knee, a chiropractor can find the areas of limited strength. This evaluation can lead to a strengthening program and often, correction of such problems as "trick knee."
Analysis of muscle function can help in the analysis of one's problem. Based upon such information a decision can be made and proper chiropractic techniques applied that will address the problem. The science of chiropractic is concerned with a total state of well-being not merely the absence of symptoms. For the attention you require, call DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington St., Roslindale, today. Tel. 323-5022. Hours by appt. including 3 eves. a week. VISA & MasterCard accepted.
CHIRO TIP:
Because the knee is a major weight-bearing structure, it needs to have excellent stability.

They think they have bottle bill battle in can

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — It's been a hectic first week for liquor stores across the state since the bottle bill became law, but a local store seems to have contained the nightmare of sorting out hundreds of customer's empties returned for a refund.

"The bottle law presented some problems for us at first, but we believe we have created an efficient system to cope with it," said Forrest Cioppa, customer relations manager at Auburndale Liquors.

In the back of the store is the "redemption center" where customers bring their empties for a refund. Bobby Kinahan is in charge of this new section and has the title of "redemption manager."

"It's a new title with new responsibilities," says Kinahan modestly, who previously was in charge of the stock room.

Customer Richard Civetti of Newton brought his empties in and collected $3.25, a refund he calls "forced savings."

"I don't really like the idea of a deposit, but it's the law," said Civetti.

The system set up by the management of Auburndale Liquors separates each container by color and by wholesaler. The empties are deposited in different boxes at the rear of the store and are later collected by carriers contracted by the distributors. The store has 12 distributors and each has its own numbered deposit stamp.

When a customer brings in clean bottles free of any chips, undented cans and plastic bottles, Kinahan adds up their value and writes out a receipt for the returns and initials it. The customer brings the initialed receipt to the cashier for a refund.

Robert Recco the store's general manager explained to one customer how to curb the desire to crush a beer can after it is emptied.

"Just remember every can you crush costs you a nickel," said Recco. Case cartons for bottles are worth 30 cents, he added.

Ken Anderson of Wellesley explained, he would have a hard time remembering the advice because he enjoys crushing the can between his two fingers.

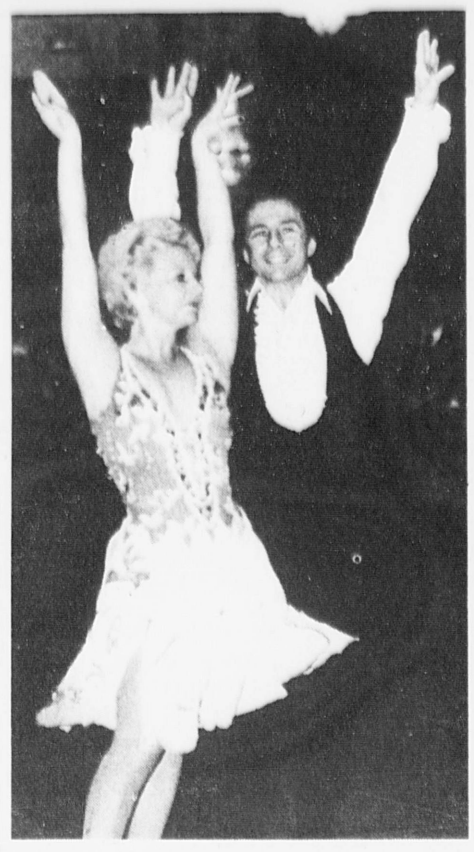

Numerous signs hang from the store's ceiling and walls comparing the total price of a beverage, including the deposit, to the actual cost.

Cioppa said the week before the bottle bill became law, the store did a booming business.

"It was better than Christmas with people stocking up on beer before the price went up," said Cioppa. Business is back to normal now, he added.

Cioppa said the new law puts some burden on the cashiers, because they have to pay out refunds and it causes some delay. Also the redemption center must always be manned during store hours.

The bottle law requires that customer's deposits are refunded in the form of cash or a credit slip, redeemable for cash or merchandise, when they return containers to a store or redemption center.

Vote saves Hyde School

Robert Ricles, in voting to keep the district together, said redistricting would create a "less educationally desirable setting." Another of Ricles' arguments was that the major consideration in past consolidations were educational rather than financial.

Ann Berwick seconded Ricles. No consolidation decision while she has been on the committee has been approved "where it was even arguable that school closing would result in less adequate education."

The one-time saving of $508,000 in insurance did not tempt Berwick. "I would never have considered supporting a consolidation for a savings of that maginitude," she said.

One Hyde parent, Thomas Mangione, said he "was gratified" by the vote. Mangione said he agreed with Gentile's remarks during the meeting that rebuilding was "a positive statement" for the school system.

Hyde Principal Arthur Laughland was happy over the vote, but hopes the mixed-use plan will move expeditiously as a result.

"I think they (the committee) made a responsible and correct vote," said Alderman Rodney Barker, who represents the Hyde district. "I am now looking forward to proceeding with mixed use as soon as possible." Barker said Barry Canner of the city's community development authority told him reconstruction could begin this spring.

Under the mixed-use plan, the project will be managed by the city's development authority. The Boston Center for Independent Living, a group which manages housing and programs for the handicapped, is expected to secure $945,000 in state money for its share of the rebuilding.

The city carried a policy which allows either $845,000 (less a $100,000 deductible) for restoring the 1895 Hyde building or a cash settlement.

According to Swope, the city can reverse an early decision made by the mayor to accept the $508,000 cash settlement.

Swope said a Jan. 3 memo to the mayor from Larry Marino, city comptroller, read 'we are covered' even if the repair and replacement cost exceeds $845,000.

Shortly after voting to leave the Hyde district intact, the committee voted 7-1 to "recommend that mixed use be considered by the mayor." Mitchell opposed that motion. Mayor Mann voted present.

Although it is up to the mayor to determine how the needed classrooms will be built, support for the mixed-use plan has already garnered unanimous support in a vote by the full Board of Aldermen. It is also the overwhelming choice of the Hyde community.

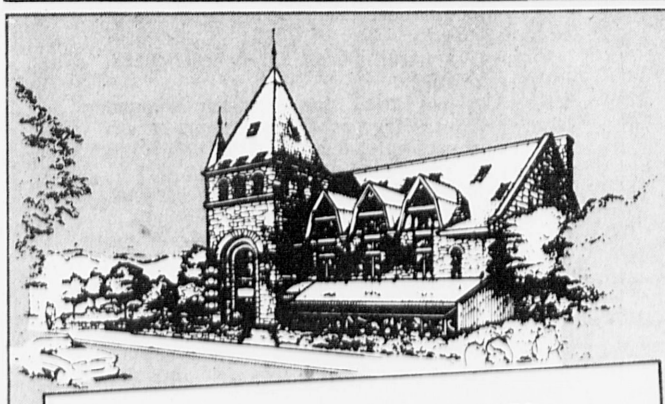

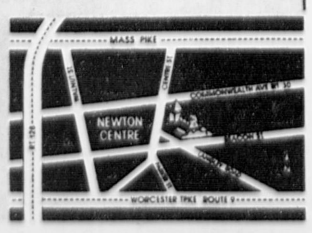

A recent survey by the Newton Highlands Area Council revealed residents support the plan even if it means a delay of a few more months before the needed classrooms were provided.

Keep board's amateur status

Anyone who would set forth the belief that school boards aren't political bodies would be indulging fantasy. Indeed they are just that.

Now comes a question as to whether these local agencies which set policy and make rules would become more politicized if members were paid annual stipends.

A law which permitted cities and towns to do so was enacted in the past year. Its adoption ought to be discouraged. There is no doubt whatever here that putting a compensation inducement along with the opportunity to serve on a school board is no guarantee the public interest will be better served.

Perhaps we're being just a bit on the naive side, but it seems to us the candidate quality would not be enhanced and might even be diminished with a monetary consideration involved.

Men or women now attracted to the responsibility do so largely because it offers them a chance to render a public service on a strictly voluntary basis.

There's something refreshing about the amateur standing of a school board member. It gives the individual not only a lot of personal satisfaction, but a measure of independence which over the long haul contributes much to the quality of education in a community.

While the boards play political hard ball, to be sure, they do so with a certain amount of detachment that can be inhibited by a stipend.

Some months ago in the city of Newton, a drive for school committee compensation was talked about and died without moving to a serious stage. But over in Medford the mayor of that city, no less, Paul Donato, is the initiator of an effort to pay members. It is not a self-interest effort, evidently.

The Medford chief executive simply believes "the day of volunteerism is over; people should be compensated for their devotion to public office."

Watertown School Supt. Daniel O'Connor is suggesting a $100 monthly allocation to board members for what he terms "expenses." But this is really an open door to ultimate salary status.

It is true enough few public jobs are now handled without pay, even to the extent of per meeting emoluments to those who serve on a whole variety of municipal boards. This has been the trend since World War II. It could well be difficult to get persons with skills or interest to be willing to give their time for tasks that can be tedious.

Public school education is something special in the parent-pupil area that is so sensitive, however. It is also a system which has worked well without payment, so why change?

Mayor Donato is wrong about volunteerism being dead, of course. Every community has hundreds of persons who offer a disclaimer as they work for nothing to help hospitals, the Red Cross, YMCAs, Boys' Clubs, church projects and all manner of enterprises in the public interest. School committees ought to keep their amateur standing.

Did MassPort switch jeopardize relations?

By Andy Dabilis
UPI Statehouse Reporter

Is this any way to run a port authority?

The firing of Massachusetts Port Authority Director David Davis, the hiring of successor Lou Nickinello, the firing of Nickinello, and the rehiring of Davis reinforced public opinion politicians take care of themselves and their allies.

But the rapid rehiring of Davis has some politicians wondering whether new Gov. Michael Dukakis played a political trump card too early.

Once Dukakis discovered a loophole in the law that let him wrest control of the Massport board by ousting two appointees of former Gov. Edward J. King, he could have let Nickinello dangle for months.

Nickinello was a hand-picked favorite not only of King, but of the legislative leadership because he was House chairman of the transportation committe.

Although rated "completely unacceptable" by an advisory committee, he was selected by King appointees after another farcical nationwide search costing more than $30,000, in what some critics felt was a political payoff.

Like King, he was pro-development and Davis supporters were incensed at his appointment. They thought bulldozers would be revving up again as they were in the days when King himself headed the authority.

Dukakis though has been wooing the Legislature avidly this time around, unlike in his first term from 1975-79. Even his cordiality has been mostly spurned though, with House Speaker Thomas McGee, D-Lynn, especially wary.

When Nickinello was appointed, McGee jumped into the air near his podium, clenched his fist and said "all right!"

The firing of Nickinello then may signal a new cold war between Dukakis and the Legislature.

Dukakis doesn't like the political side of government and had two choices in the Massport fiasco: fire Nickinello right away or make him wait until the governor got what he wanted from the Legislature.

That would let McGee save face.

That Dukakis didn't wait showed too that he intends to establish a tough tone of integrity and refusal to compromise on what he believes are issues essential to the public, and not to politicians.

> Rep. Royall Switzler praised Dukakis for moving quickly to replace Lou Nickinello without considering the political fallout. But he noted Dukakis "is going to get nothing out of the Legislature for the next four years."

Rep. Royall Switzler, R-Wellesley, applauded Dukakis for moving swiftly and not considering the political fallout. But, he noted, Dukakis "is going to get nothing out of the Legislature for the next four years."

Switzler said that another legislator, Rep. John Cusack, D-Arlington, had given Dukakis a warning when he said "when one of us gets cut, we all bleed."

The Legislature is a self preservation society where those who play the game almost never have to worry about finding work again.

If they don't give up the job to be a judge, they can always be an underassistant something or other in a state agency. Already Nickinello has sent out feelers he'd be interested in that type of sinecure.

"If I can play a meaningful role in the public sector as it relates to transportation, I'll consider it," he said. "If there's not, I'm not looking for a job."

Marking time

Plowing into snow show

By Mark White

Let's see. Helmet? Check. Crash suit? check. Harness? check.

Fireproof apparel? Check. Safety seat? check. I'm all ready to go.

No, I'm not going to the New England Dragway. Not going parachute jumping either. And I'm not even going to a demolition derby. I'm taking a ride down Centre Street.

Remember in the Batman comic books when the police commissioner used to shine a light in the sky with a picture of a bat whenever the police wanted to summon the caped crusader?

Perhaps the city should have a similar light with a picture of a snow plow whenever it snows to summon former Public Works Commissioner Charlie Thomas. Charlie, did you burn all your snow removal plans when you left the city payroll?

If you think about it, this current "snow job" couldn't be accidental. Nobody could do this rotten job without planning it.

After some serious investigative work Marking time has determined why the streets were in such bad shape.

First, we have it on good authority that the city is receiving donations from Midas Muffler. Each time you scrape the bottom of your car you may be contributing to the school budget.

And, of course, every wheel alignment shop has a piece of the action too.

Secondly, I understand that all personal injury lawyers are giving a referral fee to the city for each accident case they receive due to the snow removal job.

So you can see that this is a calculated plan to provide more income for city services.

Although the streets are dangerous, if you use your imagination they can be fun. As a matter of fact, riding around Newton is like riding the roller coaster. Any side street qualifies as a slide.

Do you remember "The Whip" where the car spins around in circles and then changes direction? Head down Heartbreak Hill and slam on your brakes.!

How about the Dodge EM? You know, the bumper cars. Take a ride down any major artery at ruch hour to enjoy the same thrills as you crash into fenders and demolish bumpers.

Of course, the whole city is one big Fun House! A surprise awaits you around every corner.

I tell you there's a conspiracy against our city and even the state is in on it. All the other surrounding cities are in fine shape. It must be the conspiracy.!

I drove back from Cape Cod on Sunday and Routes 3 and 128 were down to the pavement until you hit Newton. Then, at the ROute 9 exit, it was hang on for your life.

Furthermore, have you ever analyzed the actions of the city plows?

Ever wonder why the only time you ever see a plow with its blade down is after you've spent two hours shoveling your driveway and lo and behold, here comes a plow to drop a six-ffot mound of snow at the end of it.

Another question. Why do the plows drive around the city with the blades up? Is it such a problem when they are driving from Point A to Point B, to put the plow down on the street during their travel time?

You know, they might accidentally pick up some snow.

Nonantum voters should look to Nov. 8

To the editor;

Government of the people, by the people and for the people died in the Aldermanic Chambers at Newton City Hall, Monday, Jan. 17, 1983.

Self interest and personal opinion took precedent over the mandate of the voters in Nonantum.

Citizens of Newton - take heed. Can aldermanic decisions affecting your villages, against the wishes of the community be far behind?

On Jan. 13 only 11 aldermen could see their way clear to attend an open meeting to hear what the Nonantum community had to say regarding the purchase of St. Jean's School for the purpose of adding more subsidized housing units to our village.

A standing room only crowd jammed the chambers to be heard. Speaker after speaker spoke against the purchase of St. Jean's School. Only four people spoke in favor of the purchase, one of whom was a Watertown resident.

Last week the vote was taken - 21 aldermen managed to brave the elements in the poorest of weather conditions to "stand and be counted" at City Hall.

The results: 4 opposed the purchase; 17 voted in favor of the purchase.

Voters in Nonantum take notice: The aldermen opposed to the purchase were Richard Bullwinkle, Ward 3, "we have to listen to the people we represent - I vote no."

Elaine Gentile, Ward 2, "If you came to the open hearing you would know what the majority wants - I vote no."

Wendell Bauckman, Ward 8, "I am at the other end of the city , but I hear the residents of Nonantum. I vote no."

Paul Coletti, Ward 5, "I vote no."

Joseph DePasquale, Ward 1, "You have known my opinion from the start and it stands. I vote yes in favor of the purchase."

Sondra Shick, Ward 1, "I vote yes in favor of the purchase, but I'll oversee the planning so you get a good shake."

Bruce Carmichael, Ward 1, recuperating from an illness, not in attendance.

Fifteen other aldermen voted yes for the purchase: Edward Richmond, Matthew Jefferson, Robert Tennant, Lane Sofman, Richard McGrath, Carol Ann Shea, Paul Daley, Michael Malec, Ethel Sheehan, Rodney Barker, Harold Levinsky, Verne Vance, Lisle Baker, Cynthia Creem and Marcy Richmond.

What can we do? Our voices were not heard! Our mandate was ignored! For the people? What people??

In November of 1983 we will again hear the political cries and promises: Whatever you want I will do. Vote for me. I will listen. Vote for me. I have the power. Vote for me...

On Nov. 8 we will vote for one ward alderman and 16 aldermen at large. With the flick of 17 buttons maybe our voices will be heard.

They didn't hear us last week. Let's see if they hear us on Nov. 8.

Computeritis may be next

To the editor;

The deep and pervasive effects of computers on our society have caused many concerned doctors to be very apprehensive with regard to growing personality disorders.

The following scenario may indeed by prophetic:

Computeritis - A recognized syndrome marked by five common symptoms, one or more of which may be present.

1) A fixed stare directed straight ahead accompanied by a continual spasmodic vertical or horizontal movement of the head.

2) A reluctance or inability to carry on normal conversation by word of mouth, defending this aberration with the explanation, "If the matter hasn't been programmed it's of no significance."

3) Abnormal stiffness in limbs and circulatory sluggishness due to long sustained periods of slumped squatting.

4) Hallucinating by the patient when away from the computer in which he sees most things in his view as framed in rectangles with numbers and letters dancing all over, obscuring the actual scene.

5) Reluctance to seek medical help if such is not listed in any available memory bank.

Medical authorities would be well advised to anticipate this national malaise and thus avoid widespread social disruption.

Community Schools' sign-up set February 14

NEWTON — Telephones are busy. Classrooms are being reserved. Buses are being chartered and committees throughout Newton are holding late-night and early morning meetings.

The reason? As the deadline nears for the mailing date of the Newton Community Schools Spring Catalogue, 17 community schools city-wide are busy making last minute arrangements for over 600 activities slated to begin March 7.

"I'm going crazy!" says Sue Schofield, Auburndale Community School coordinator. "I'm trying to get Burr School open at night to maximize computer usage. All the paperwork comes over to my house tomorrow and the phone is ringing off the hook."

Suzanne Rocklin, Mason-Rice coordinator, agrees, "I've been like a maniac making phone calls. We're thinking of a family outing to to Stoneham Zoo and tours to the Museum of Fine Arts and Bunker Hill. We're planning a kite workshop, classes in chess, backgammon and dungeons and dragons."

"I'm at the point now where I can get everything done if I can just sit down and work uninterrupted," added Terri Kasper, co-coordinator at Mason-Rice. "The last 48 hours are the worst."

In Newtonville, program planning appears relatively calm. "We're in pretty good shape," notes Horace Mann coordinator Linda Vereker. "As a result of a survey we sent out last fall, we picked up five new instructors. We'll offer three new courses for adults, includng a drama/theatrer class, a skin care course for teens and adults and a parent-child awareness course."

"These coordinators and their counterparts across Newton make up the backbone of Community Schools," notes NCS Executive Director Joseph S. Baron. "Without them and their commitment, there just wouldn't be any community school programs. We hope Newton residents recognize and appreciate the tremendous amount of work that has gone into these activities."

According to Barron, registration for spring activities will take place from Feb. 14 to March 2. The city-wide catalogue, which announces all events, will be mailed to every home in Newton on Feb. 10. In the meantime, the wheels are turning.

At the Angier Community School, the "panic is officially here. It's this funny feeling like a storm coming up," states Coordinator Pat Cantin. A two-year veteran of NCS, she notes, "this planning is like being in college and trying to do final exams - only I didn't have three children then."

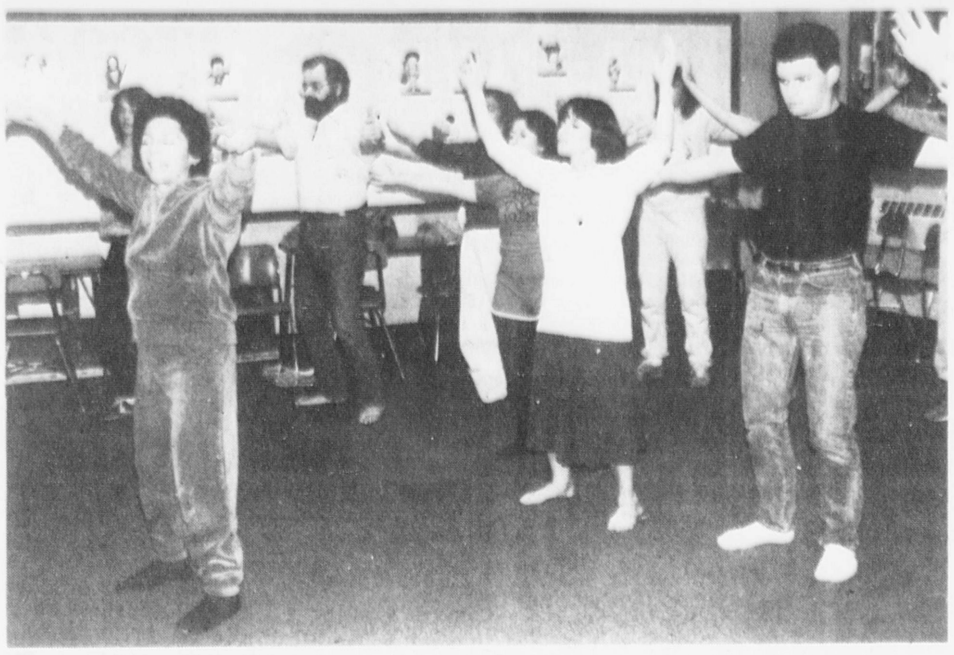

What is it, then, that makes these people volunteer to do everything from recruiting committee members to planning budgets to teaching courses?

Francine Vanora, retiring coordinator at Angier, says, "It's a tremendous experience. You really put your organizational skills to use by putting the whole thing together. You always think maybe you could have done something like this, but you don't know until you try."

Linda Vereker agrees. "It's a lot of fun and it's a way to get into the school system."

Sue Schoefield puts it simply. "It kind of rolls along and it's kind of neat."

Residents who are interested in joining their neighborhood committee and being part of this process are encouraged to call Newton Community Schools at 552-7117.

James Cameron named building commissioner

NEWTON — James Cameron has been appointed as the city's building commissioner by Mayor Theodore D. Mann.

Cameron has been acting building commissioner since his predecessor, Alan Frasier, resigned late last summer.

Aldermen first learned of the appointment last week when they saw an announcement of the appointment on the Monday evening agenda.

Public Facilities Chairman Richard McGrath, who works intimately with the city's Building Commissioner, said Monday night the announcement was a complete surprise to him.

Mayor Mann said Tuesday there was no special search performed for the new building commissioner, as there was for the new commissioner of Public Works, because, "I already had somebody in the department I was satisfied was the person for the job."

Mann explained, at length, Cameron's qualifications for his new position.

"Based on the resumes and interviews I had, Jim Cameron looked qualified," Mann said. "He has the management capabilities and the resources within the department to do a good job.

"We checked him out with everybody he's been working with, and got excellent recommendations. The reports I've been getting have been upbeat," the mayor added. "I've been pleased with his performance. He has had to be responsive to some very difficult problems.

"He is intimately knowledgeable with all the buildings in the city," Mann said, adding that Cameron gained an inside knowledge of the city's school buildings during his years working in the Support Services branch of the School Depa.tment.

Mann admitted that Cameron's years of experience suited him better for the building maintenance end of the Building Department's business than its zoning and building-inspection responsibilities. "That is not his strong suit," Mann said, "but we have some well qualified individuals in the department who are in charge of that."

Turtle Lane Players hosting 'Plaza Suite' by Neil Simon

AUBURNDALE — Turtle Lane Playhouse announces a change of pace with its first non-musical, Neil Simon's hilarious blend of love, laughter, and human relations, Plaza Suite, to be presented Feb. 11 through March 12.

"A great night for a pleasure-seeking audience," John Chapman of the Daily News hailed Plaza Suite, "a triple-barreled explosion of comedy, wonderfully funny."

A comedy in three acts, Plaza Suite follows the activities of three different couples each occupying the same suite at the Plaza on three different occasions.

Directing Turtle Lane's first "straight" play is Nora Hussey. Hussey comes to Boston from New York where she was co-founder and artistic director of the Manhattan Conservatory Theatre until 1981. Since he arrival in Boston, Nora's work has received critical acclaim.

Her first production here, Uncommon Women and Others, was listed as one of Boston's 10 best theatrical productions of the year. Her most recent production, Waiting for the Parade at the Nucleo Eclettico, drew rave reviews from Boston critics and audiences.

Joining Nora Hussey for this production are set designer Eric Levensen, lighting designer Ted Bohlin and costume designer Barbara Matheson.

The talented cast of performers include: Ann Brennan, Ray Rue, Kathryn Lubar, Dave Worster, Tom Dinger, Christal Miller, Linda Bisesti, and Don Zilch, with a wide variety of acting crecits too numerous to list.

Plaza Suite will be performed Feb. 11 through March 12, Thursday through Sunday, at 8 p.m. Tickets $6-$8. Located at 283 Melrose St., Newton, Turtle Land Playhouse is off Rtes. 128, 30, and the Mass. Pike. Group rates, student and senior citizen discounts are available.

Water woes may end with audit

NEWTON — A chorus of complaints about late and bloated water bills might be stifled if an audit of the city's Water and Sewer Division can find the source of the problem.

Mayor Theodore D. Mann has contracted Touche Ross, a Boston accounting firm, to conduct a complete operational audit of the division.

Mann said the audit will study why water bills have been so late and why the amounts on the new bills are so high.

"We recognize there is a problem," Mann said.

The problem has reached such proportion that City Comptroller Larry Marino recently attached a note to his monthly financial statement to the aldermen alluding to substantial problems in the billing system of the Water Division and promised that action was forthcoming.

Concerning the high totals on the latest water bills, Mann explained that the old meters, which have recently been replaced, were inaccurate.

"The new remote meters give a better idea of the useage," he said. "It's all leading ultimately to better water conservation. Historically, cities have lost something like 25 percent of their water through leaks in the system."

Mann did not say the new remote meters were giving the readings anticipated when new water and sewer rates were calculated. Several aldermen have suggested that serious mistakes were made in those original calculations.

A thorough analysis of the division's billing system is the main target of the audit. Mann hopes the auditors will "design a step-by-step action plan for fully automating the billing system, resolving the existing billing backlog and putting billing on a current basis within the existing fiscal year."

Another aim of the audit will be to analyze the administrative structure and functions of this division of the Department of Public Works. The audit is designed to show how these functions can be merged with those of the DPW to streamline the whole department.

Along with determining what staffing is appropriate to the division, the audit will evaluate what the role of the former commissioner of water and sewer should be within a new organizational plan for the department.

Auditors are also being asked to assess the city's existing policy of providing new service connection construction with DPW staff.

Representatives of Touche Ross have agreed to monitor the implementation of their recommendations within the department for six months after the audit is completed. That monitoring is to include on-site consultation with the department staff at least once every three weeks.

Some aldermen bag Mann's trash idea

NEWTON — A 10-round shouting match ended last week with an aldermanic committee rejecting Mayor Theodore D. Mann's idea for private trash pickup.

Committee members were unanimous in rejecting the proposal after hours of sparing with the city's Chief Executive Officer James Hickey about the hang up in the city's negotiations with sanitation workers.

In the latest rounds of those negotiations, representatives of the workers whittled down their work force requirements from 50 to 28, attempting to counter a bid from a private contractor, SCA Inc. The city insists on 27 workers at most.

The sanitation workers' union wants a weekly wage of $375; the city offers $370.

Hickey was the star witness before the committee. The meeting was dedicated to hearing, and criticizing, his analysis of the mayor's proposal and the union's alternatives.

Hickey was late. Committee members sat and waited for him. When committee member Harold Levinsky came in and noted, "There's such a tremendous silence in here," he was told, "The bomb didn't go off yet."

"But the fuse is lit, and it's ready to go," Chairman Richard McGrath interjected.

The fireworks went off many times during the-3½ hour meeting. Unless those involved could listen while they were talking, very little information changed hands.

At times, McGrath was poised on the edge of his chair ready to counter Hickey's flurries of criticism. Hickey had to leave the room in the midst of one especially hot exchange "to get a drink of water."

Alderman Elaine Gentile, criticized the Executive Department - particulary the Personnel Department - for letting disciplinary problems in the Sanitation Division get so bad the only solution was private pickups.

"The problem is, everybody sits up here in their pretty suits and leather chairs and they never find out what the job is really like," Gentile said, adding that she had gone out on a trash truck just to see what the job really involved.

Between bursts, her fellow committee member Richard Bullwinkle advised her, "Stop and take a breath."

"No. I'm on a roll, and I'm not stopping," Gentile replied. It would be nice to put the trash out to contract and avoid problems that have built up over the years, she added. "But, I think that's a cop out."

Freshman Levinsky told his colleagues, "I don't see that one thing has been accomplished. I have never seen adults act like such children. I think it's unfortunate and shameful, and I've learned very little tonight."

McGrath assured him the differences in the presentations were only a matter of style.

Bullwinkle pointed out to him, "Well modulated tones can do violence too, with untruths."

Newton doctor heads NWH medical staff

LOWER FALLS — Two prominent doctors have been elected to new positions at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Newton resident Joel J. Rubenstein, M.D., associate chief of cardiology at NWH, was elected president of the medical staff in December.

Alan J. McCartney, M.D., of Wellesley, a specialist in internal medicine and gastroenterology, was elected chairman of the executive committee of the NWH medical staff.

Dr. Rubenstein graduated cum laude from Harvard College and received his M.D. degree from Harvard Medical School. He completed his residency program at the Columbia Division at Bellevue Hospital and at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York City.

As part of his military service, Dr. Rubenstein served as a clinical associate at the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md., and pursued his cardiology training at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Rubenstein is an assistant professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine and is a clinical assistant in medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital. He has served as associate chief of cardiology at NWH since 1973 and served as chairman of the Executive Committee of the Medical Staff in 1980.

As president of the medical staff, Dr. Rubenstein says he plans to encourage the medical staff to assess the unmet medical needs in our community and to take part in the planning of programs to satisfy these needs.

Dr. McCartney came to the hospital in July 1967. Prior to his appointment at NWH, Dr. McCartney completed his residency at Tufts New England Medical Center Hospital and at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He received his undergraduate degree from Yale University and his M.D. degree from Tufts University.

Since 1968 Dr. McCartney has served as a part-time clinical instructor in medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine. He is a member of the American Gastroenterology Association, the New England Society of Gastro-Intestinal Endoscopy, the Massachusetts Medical Association, the American Medical Association and the American College of Physicians.

As chairman of the executive committee of the medical staff, Dr. McCartney says his major goal is to increase the spirit of cooperation and caring among all those working and contributing to Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

"By pulling together, we can achieve new heights in patient care and teaching excellence," he said.

Freeze proponents continue activities

The organization meets every third Wednesday for such educational and general meetings at the church in West Newton Square.

In its push for "a mutual nuclear weapons freeze on all further testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons" the Newton AND chapter also co-sponsored a fund-raiser with the Brookline AND chapter for Cong. Barney Frank in which over $10,000 was raised, Droz said.

Some 200 AND-affiliated volunteers also worked on Frank's campaign against former Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, a Wellesley Republican who had often supported bills to continue MX missile research.

Loretz also contributed "a nuclear balance fact sheet" containing a point-by-point rebuttal of the Nov. 22 speech by President Reagan in which the president contended the US lags behind the Soviet Union "in virtually every measure of military power."

The fact sheet has been distributed on a nationwide basis by the Women's Action for Nuclear Disarmament Education Fund.

In his research, which attempts to refute Reagan's assertions for the need for an arms build-up by citing such references as the Congressional Record and the Department of Defense annual report for fiscal year 1982, Loretz contends "the window of vulnerability doesn't exist and never has."

"Like the 'bomber gap' of the 1950s, the 'missile gap' of the 1960s and the 'naval gap' of the 1970s it is an illusion based on selective evidence and distorted argument," Loretz writes in the fact sheet.

The fact sheet is available from WAND, 691 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington.

A meeting will be held Sunday, Feb. 13 at Sharon Junior High School, from 1 to 5 p.m., at which delegates from the Fourth Congressional District will be elected by those attending to travel to the national freeze lobby rally in Washington in March.

Students oppose idea of north, south change

The commission's report includes several recommendations, made to Mayor Theodore Mann, for greater community interaction in an effort to deal with the issue of prejudice.

Leonard Zakim, commission member, said the recommendation to change the high schools' names was not a priority. But it was included in the report because it was frequently cited during the meetings, held since last May.

Mayor Mann said renaming the high schools is the School Committee's responsibility.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann was skeptical Thursday that the names of the high schools add to tensions. But if enough evidence to the contrary were presented, Mann said she would welcome discussion on the issue.

Some students said they perceived distinctions between the individual villages in Newton but not between the north and south sides of the city. Only one student expressed perceived class differences between the the two schools. Many said they would not want their school's name changed.

"Kids wouldn't go for that," said Stacie Johnson, 17, a junior at North. "There would be no difference if the names were changed."

"Each side will still say they are better," added Kay Mann, also a junior at North, noting the school rilvalry.

Advice offered on tax appeals

NEWTON — Advice on appealing property tax abatement applications has come from a man who might know as much about the process as anyone in the city, John Rogers, president of Save Our Homes II (SOH II).

Considerable confusion has resulted from a recent decision by the city's Board of Assessors to alter its original stand on abatement procedures and dramatic changes in the fee schedule of the Appelate Tax Board (ATB), the state board to which all abatement appeals must go after the Assessing Department.

The assessors recently decided that taxpayers may now elect an informal hearing before the ATB if their properties are valued at less than $200,000.

Their previous decision to make all appeals formal meant that anyone opting to go before the ATB would have required a lawyer to see them through some more complicated legal procedures.

Informal appeals require neither a lawyer nor a court stenographer, according to Rogers. The disadvantage of an informal appeal to the ATB is that, if it is denied, there is no legal recourse to appeal to a higher authority.

Filing costs for appeals to the ATB are now $50 for properties valued between $100,000 and $500,000, according to Rogers, and $20 for properties valued below $100,000. The fee is to be included with the application.

The previous fee for ATB appeals was 30 cents per $1,000 of assessed value.

Rogers said taxpayers may sit in on hearings at the ATB "to get a feel for the hearing process." ATB hearings begin at 10 a.m., Monday through Thursday, 100 Cambridge Street, Boston.

Forms for ATB appeals are available at the Assessors' Office in City Hall, according to Rogers. He recommended that information related to the appeal, such as photographs or appraisal documents, should be brought to the ATB hearing and not included with the application.

He added that there was no need to inform the Board of Assessors of an appeal to the ATB, as the ATB will take care of notification.

About the ATB process, Rogers said there was really no need for legal counsel at an informal hearing. He quoted an ATB official as saying, "If you do your homework, you can handle yourself."

Rogers said he was also told by the ATB that most cases, "about 90 percent," are settled before a hearing by mutual agreement between the appellant property owner and the Assessing Department. He recommended that taxpayers bring their requests to that department before their ATB hearing.

The president of SOH II further advised, "If you are considering pursuing your appeal past the ATB to the Supreme Judicial Court, you should file a formal appeal. An informal filing waives your right of appeal to the SJC in all matters of fact."

Wary of the constantly shifting terrain of the revaluation process, Rogers said, "Although is is most unlikely that ATB filing costs will again be changed in the foreseeable future, some procedural changes may again be made by the Assessors' Office.

Local Democratic caucuses set Feb. 5

NEWTON — Newton Democrats will elect 50 delegates to the 1983 Democratic Issues Convention on Saturday, Feb. 5. Persons registered as Democrats as of Dec. 30 will be eligible to vote in the city's eight ward caucuses and run for delegate.

Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7 and 8 will meet at 2 p.m. at the Mason Rice School, Pleasant Street, Newton Centre. Ward 5 (Waban, Upper Falls and part of Newton Highlands) will meet at the Emerson Community Center, Pettee and High Streets, Upper Falls, also at 2 p.m.

Wards 1 and 3 will elect seven delegates, three men, three women and one of either sex. The other six wards will elect six delegates each, divided evenly by sex. In addition to every ward's elected delegation that ward's chairperson will serve as an ex officio, voting delegate, according to Democratic State Committee rules.

The convention will be held April 9 in Springfield to adopt a party platform.

Those Democrats whose registration status has changed since last April 1 should contact the Newton Election Commission to obtain proof of that they were registered as Democrats as of Dec. 30.

For more information contact Newton Democratic City Committee Chairperson Peg Hannigan at 332-0010 or the Democratic State Committee at 367-4760.

Much appreciated

Marcia Bogue of Chestnut Hill (left), president of the Friends of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, presented Linda Hopkins with a certificate of appreciation for her recent benefit performance for patients and staff at the institute.

Cong. Markey speaks on nuclear arms race

BOSTON — Congressman Edward Markey (D-7th) will speak on "Countdown to terror" The problem of Nuclear Proliferation" at Temple Israel of Boston on Sunday, Jan. 30.

According to planning committee member Dr. David Freeman of Newton, the program is sponsored joinlty by the Temple's Social Action Committee and Israel Committee.

The program will start at 9:45 a.m. with a coffee hour and short film. Cong. Markey will give particular attention to the threat of nuclear proliferation in the Middle East and what, in his view, this means for the safety of Israel and world peace.

A member of Congress since 1976, Markey is the author of a new book "Nuclear Peril: The Politics of Proliferation."

Health Dept. sets CPR class

WEST NEWTON — The Newton Health Department runs monthly classes in CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation); the act of helping someone whose heart and lungs have stopped working.

In an eight-hour course, students learn one-and-two man rescue techniques, first-aid for choking victims, and infant rescue.

All courses are held on two consecutive Wednesday evenings from 6-10 p.m. at the Newton Health Department, 492 Waltham St., West Newton.

Preregistration is required and there is an $8 materials fee. For further information contact the department at 552-7058.

Locals have theatre roles

BROOKLINE — The highways and by-ways of New England all lead to Oz, when the Boston Children's Theatre Touring Company takes to the road for its 13th season of bringing exciting and professional theatre to area youngsters. This year "The Wizard of Oz," opening the weekend of Jan. 29, promises to be an enchanting and innovative show for children of all ages. Directed by Jane Sumner, with imaginative sets by David Sumner and colorful costumes by Mary Sheldon, "The Wizard of Oz" is a truly memborable theatrical experience.

Come meet all the characters from the Baum classic: Dorothy, and her dog, Toto, The Tin Woodman, The Cowardly Lion, and The Scarecrow, The Wicked Witch, and of course, the amazing Oz, himself. The cast, chosen from the Children's Theatre's creative drama classes includes: Katie Bruell, Ariel Silbert, Chris Peneau, Jason Cottle, and Mitra Farmand, all from Brookline, Rian Brown of Boston, Jane Weintraub of Wellesley, Caitlin Clarke, Jessica Moss, and Andrew Shadrawy, all from Newton, and Kai-Ming Cha, also from Brookline. Anita Brinkley of Newton Center is stage manager, and Peter McNeff of Winthrop is Technical Director for the production.

The Touring Comapny performs on weekends from Jan. 29 through April 24. There are still some dates available for sponsors interested in bringing "The Wizard of Oz" to their communities. To arrange for a booking date, and for information on when "The Wizard of Oz" will be appearing in your community, write or call the Boston Children's Theatre, 124 Holland Rd., Brookline, MA 02146. Telephone, 277-3277.

The World of Travel
by Hank Fleming
MEXICO
Acapulco has for many years always been the premier Mexican resort. Recently, however, the Mexican Gulf resort of Cancun has challenged this exalted position. As a result, Acapulco has undergone a multi-million dollar facelift and her status has been preserved. Her mushroom-shaped bay is surrounded by tall, green mountains providing Acapulco with the single most dramatic setting on Mexico's Pacific coast. The resort provides visitors with all varieties of restaurants, hotels, nightclubs, entertainment and sports. It is a wonderland for the impulsive with most of the action at beachside. The weather is consistent and inviting year round. Why not the best this year? Acapulco!
As professionals in the travel business our staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 will always try to get you the lowest fares to Acapulco or wherever else your dreams take you. Keep in mind that we represent you, our client, first and foremost. There is never any charge to you for our services plus we will provide you with a PASSPORT PHOTO for overseas travel. Call us at 899-5658. Open: Mon.-Sat., 9-5:30; Fri. til 8.

Newton newsmakers

NEWTON — Two local women were recently elected to the Massachusetts Nurses Association's Commission on Nursing Ethics and a third woman was named to the MNA's Commission on Nursing Education.

Named to the Commission on Nursing Ethics were Sister Mary Margaret McDonnell of Newton and Katharine A. McCarthy of Newton Highlands. Newtonville resident Laurel A. Eisenhauer was elected to the MNA's Commission on Nursing Education, at the recent 75th convention of the group held in Boston.

McDonnell is a graduate of the College of Mount St. Vincent School of Nursing, she earned her BSN at the College of Mount St. Vincent; her MA in religion at Andover Newton Theological School; her adult nurse practitioner certificate at Mass. General Hospital and is a candidate for a masters in theology at Harvard Divinity School.

McCarty is a graduate of Boston University School of Nursing and she earned her BS, MS and Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study at Boston University. She was a Kennedy Fellow at Harvard School of Public Health in medical ethics, spring 1981, and serves as associate professor at Boston University School of Nursing.

Eisenhauer is a graduate of Boston College School of Nursing and earned her BS at Boston College and her MSN at the University of Pennsylvania. Eisenhauer has also earned her Ph.D. from Boston College. She serves as professor, chairperson undergraduate program, Boston College School of Nursing.

The appointment of Stephen M. Weiner of Newton as chairman of the 1983 Scholarship Fund Drive for the Solomon Schecter Day School has been announed by the school's president, Jay Orlin.

Weiner is a magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard University, was a National Defense Fellow in political science at the University of Chicago, and is a graduate of the Yale Law School.

He has served as the chairman of the Massachusetts Rate Setting Commission, and as an associate professor at the Boston University Law School. He is presently a partner in the Boston law firm of Goulston and Storrs.

In addition to his many professional experiences, Weiner has been active in a myriad of community organizations.

He is president of the Committee for Camp Ramah in New England, a director of the Mass. Rehabilitation Hospital, and serves as a vice president and director of the Schechter School at which his three eldest children are students.

In his capacity as chairman of the Scholarship Fund Drive, he will spearhead the efforts of more than 500 Schecter parents and friends to raise close to $100,000 in scholarship and operational monies.

The drive culminates in the production of an ad book, which serves also as a school yearbook, and includes pictures of each of the more than 300 Schechter children, greetings from friends and relatives, photographs of school activities and reproductions of children's work in both Hebrew and English.

Kenneth C. Cummins of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cummins of Newton, has been appointed vice president, general counsel, and secretary of Morse Shoe, Inc.

Cummins has been with the company for nine years and previously held the position of secretary and assistant general counsel.

A graduate of Colgate University, Cummins entered a doctor of laws from Boston University School of Law. He has been admitted to practice law in Massachusetts and before the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts.

Maudyea M. Campbell of Newton has been notified by the Secretary of the Commonwealth of her reappointment for another term as a notary public.

The National Association of Biology Teachers announces that Harold "Sandy" Wiper has received honorary membership in the NABT. Wiper is a teacher of biology at Newton North High School and resides in Sudbury.

The inscription on the certificate reads as follows: "This recognition is made for outstanding contributions in biology and biological science education and represents the highest honor within the power of the Association to confer."

BayBank Middlesex has named Richard A. Gagney Jr., vice president and regional administrator of BayBank Middlesex. In this capacity, he is responsible for management of 10 city of Newton branch offices, which are the bank's Region V.

Affiliated with the organization since 1971, Gagney draws his retail banking experience from his extensive service with BayBank Middlesex.

In addition to his duties at BayBank Middlesex, Gagney serves as treasurer for the Newton Centre Association of Commerce and the American Heart Association, Newton Chapter, as well as vice president and treasurer for the Newton/Needham Chamber of Commerce.

The Learning Experience of Framingham, a non-profit independent school, presents the Walnut Hill Dance Company under the artistic direction of Sydelle Gromberg of Newton and choreographed by Sam Kurkjian.

The performance will be held during school vacation week, on Tuesday, Feb. 22, at 2 p.m. at Dwight Auditorium, Framingham State College.

Peter Gordon of West Newton was elected a second vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, a membership organization of approximately 350 long term care facilities, at its recent annual meeting.

Gordon is the administrator of the Ashmont Manor and Neponset Manor Nursing Homes in Dorchester. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the West End House Boys Club.

Dr. Brian H. Miller of Newton Centre presented a lecture on "Is There Life After Childhood? Adult Orthdontics" at the Eighth Annual Yankee Dental Congress, Jan. 13-16, at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel - Hynes Auditorium complex, Boston.

An estimated 12,000 dentists, dental hygienists, dental assistants and dental technicians from throughout the Northeast were expected to attend the four-day meeting, presented by the Massachusetts Dental Society.

The Alpha Omega Fraternity bestowed honorary membership to Dr. Ralph R. Lobene of Newton, dean of the School for Dental Hygienists at Forsyth Dental Center, in recognition of his outstanding services in the field of dentistry at the 75th annual convention in New York City.

He is also a professor of dentistry and allied health and lecturer in periodontology at Harvard School of Dental Medicine. He is a diplomate in the American Board of Periodontology.

Jacob A. Canick, Ph.D., of Newton, has been named to the post of endocrine bio-chemist in the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine at Women and Infants Hospital of Rhode Island.

Effective with his appointment to the hospital, he also becomes assistant professor in the Division of Biological and Medical Sciences for the Brown University Program in Medicine.

Author of numerous papers relating to endocrinology, Dr. Canick is a former assistant professor in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Harvard Medical School.

Evelyn Grabau

Ms. Grabau competes for Miss Mass. crown

NEWTONVILLE - Evelyn Grabau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Faustino Grabau of Newtonville, has been selected to compete in March for the Miss Massachusetts title.

Grabuau, a Bentley College freshman, was chosen from thousands of applicants throughout the state to compete for the title on March 11-14 at the Sheraton-Lincoln Convention Center in Worcester. The winner goes on to the Miss USA contest.

Grabau, 18, works for American Mutual Insurance and is a model for the Wolff-Fording company.

A Newton Catholic High School graduate, where she was an English language tutor and preformed in school plays, Grabau is also a ballet dancer who has performed throughout Boston.

For years Grabau has studied ballet at numerous Boston Schools, including the Boston Ballet, Boston Repertory and Le Centre De Dance and in New York with instructors Pamela Feri and Madame Ourrosseff.

Grabau has choreographed and performed her own work and has taught ballet to children. She has performed at Newton City Hall, John Hancock and other locations as benefits for schools and hospitals.

Grabau has performed in many classic ballets with the Centre De Dance Company and Village Ballet Workshop.

Art photography, poetry and ice skating are among Grabau's other interest. She also speaks Spanish.

By Jan. 26, Grabau needs to have the necessary funds to pay expenses for the pageant.

Participants are not allowed to pay their own expenses. Local merchants and civic organizations must ' show their support. Grabau has raised half the expenses but needs further support from businesses.

Grabau has received support from the Franklin Dance Workshop, Franklin Dance Company and Kreno's Hair Salon.

Anyone who wishes to sponsor Grabau should call 332-4845.

A management major, Grabau would like to complete her education at Bentley and someday open her own dance school.

New members

WATERTOWN — The race for the top hockey spot in the Suburban League tightened considerably over the weekend. Anyone wishing to spend some five hours in the Watertown Skating Arena Saturday afternoon could have watched two of the top five contending teams improve their respective positions.

Newton North gained the most by dumping woeful Cambridge, 12-0, Saturday afternoon, while North Quincy defeated Brockton, 5-2. The victory gave the Tigers a 4-1-1 record in the league for nine points. the loss dropped Brockton to 3-1-2 for second place with eight points.

Newton North scored five times in the first period before and she was replaced in the second stanza. Terry Mitrano, a forward, was injured, but she is the other young lady performing for Cambridge.

The Tiger scoring parade marched on despite the efforts of any Cambridge netminder, despite the gender. Tom Ryan tallied twice in the opening frame for the Tigers. Chris Pachus and John Brownstein also scored twice for Newton North.

John Hickey, Dave Buckley, Tom Whiting, Paul Healey, Paul Boudreau and Glenn Legault all scored for North. Ken Castriotta and Mark Buckley shared the duties in the goal for Newton North.

South quintet routs Wayland

WAYLAND — The Newton South boys' basketball team roared out to an 8-0 lead and never gave Wayland a chance in a 86-60 victory Friday night in a Dual County League contest.

The Lions are perched atop the league with a 10-0 record and are 11-0 overall. Scott Anglin led the team by scoring more than 30 points for the third straight contest. The sensational senior poured in 34 points to go with eight rebounds and 11 blocks. Anglin blocked five shots in the first quarter as South rolled out to a 22-12 advantage. Anglin has been shooting at a torrid 75 percent clip in his last six outings.

Meatchie Russell also chipped in scoring 10 points and dishing out 11 assists. Guard Tracy Hairston had eight assists for his highest total of the season. Forward Gene Lindsey threw in 13 points for his top point total of the campaign. Mike Ogelsby tossed in 14 points for the rampaging Lions.

Wayland placed four players in double figures, but they never came close to threatening South's lead. Guard Daryl Hilliard scored 19 points to lead all Warrior scorers, but he was six for 26 from the floor. Forward Bob Airazian added 15 points shooting four for 24 from the field. Center Andy York tossed in 12 points and Kyle Lorentzen netted 10 points in a losing cause.

Penalty prone South six blanked by Concord, 7-0

By Michael Stoller
Special Correspondent

CONCORD — "We had too many untimely penalties," said Newton South hockey Coach Charlie Rezzuti after his Lions were shut out by a strong Concord-Carlisle team, 7-0, Saturday night at the Middlesex School Rink.

The Lions had six crucial penalties combined in the second and third stanzas and the Patriots capitalized for three power play goals. The Lions had their power play opportunities also, but twice when they were a man up, they were penalized seconds later, making it an even game again.

The Dual County League setback dropped the Lions to 2-6 on the season, but Rezzuti was hardly disappointed. "We were undermanned, forcing freshmen Robbie and Scott Goldberg, Tom McGary, Alex Brigham and Judd Cohen into action. They all played very well," Rezzuti said.

"We stayed with them as long as we could," he added. "I'm not disappointed. The kids went out and gave a good effort."

Newton South was knotted in a scoreless tie until late in the first period. The Lions, led by Eric Short, applied strong pressure in the Patriots' zone by forechecking well and hitting hard in the corners. When the puck was in the Lions' end, Newton goaltender Rich Wenning held the opponents at bay, making nine stops, including an acrobatic sliding save on a low drive in front early in the first period.

"Rich played another great game," said Rezzuti. "He stopped 30 shots, and Eric (Short) played his best game of the year."

Finally, Mike Moriarity's fierce slapshot from the point beat Wenning at 12:17 to put Concord on top, 1-0, after the first frame.

Things got wose for the Lions in the middle period, as Concord's Dave Witherell pumped in a pair of unassisted goals in a span of five minutes. His first tally was a shorthanded bid at 3:31, as he stole the puck in front, before backhanding a pretty shot into the lower-right corner of the goal.

A South penalty allowed Witherell to tally with Concord's first power play goal off a scramble in front at 8:45 to give the Patriots a comfortable 3-0 lead. Another Concord power play score at 13:45 spelled doom for the Lions.

Although the Lions were outshot 38-25, Rezzuti said, "They're goalie played a very good game tonight. When we put pressure on the he came up with some big saves. To attest how well he played, it was the first time in two years that we've been shut out."

The Lions were shorthanded for much of the final frame, the result was three more Concord scores and the 7-0 final.

Newton South was to meet powerful Acton-Boxboro this afternoon at the Cleveland Circle Rink.

Simon nets 14 in SBC victory

NEWTON — Mark Simon scored 14 points, including several crucial overtime free throws, to lead SBC to a 45-42 victory over Zepp's Cafe in Newton Recreation Department C League basketball Monday night at Warren Junior High.

The game was pushed into the extra session when Zepp's Richie Proia, who led his team with eight, connected on a buzzer bucket to knot the score.

David Brillant chipped in to the winning effort with 13 points.

In other action, the Porter Hounds dumped the Fools, 56-47, as Bob Sullivan tallied 25 points for the winners.

John Moller tossed in 19 for the Fools.

Powerful Acton rips South sextet

BRIGHTON — For the first five minutes of the first period, it was a hockey game. Newton South held a 1-0 lead over high-powered, NHL prospect-filled Acton-Boxboro Monday afternoon at the Clevelan Circle Rink in a Dual County League contest.

Any thoughts of a dream upset were quickly ended when the league-leading Colonials exploded for five goals en route to a 13-1 victory over the Lions. The top rated team in Division I is still unbeaten, but it was a bit of a moral victory for the Lions, who managed to score first.

Acton goalie Tom Barrasso is being watched by many NHL scouts, but it was South's Jon Jewett, who turned a few heads in the early going. Jewett broke past the Acton defense and beat Barrasso to the top corner for the first goal of the game. The Lions held the lead until the nine minute mark of the first period.

Jim Humphres, who scored three goals, and Leo Sabatato each pumped in a pair of goals in the first period for the Colonials. Alan Bourbeau scored twice in the second period for Acton-Boxboro. Pete Bedford, Ron Reeves and Mike Flanagan also scored for the winners.

South goalie Rich Wenning faced 55 Acton shots. The Lions managed just nine shots on the Acton goal. The loss left the Lions with a 2-7 mark in the DCL. The summary:

National grid honors to Bentley's Yetten

WALTHAM — Peter Yetten, who led the Bentley College football team to the National Championship of Club Football, has been selected as the Coach of the Year in the National Collegiate Football Association.

Yetten, a Waltham native, was earlier named Coach of the Year in the New England Collegiate Football Conference. He was a unanimous pick for both honors.

Bentley, in their finest season ever, finished with a 10-0-1 record (with the tie coming in the first game of the year) while capturing their conference and national titles.

Yetten, an assistant at Bentley for three years before assuming his current position, owns a career record of 30-10-1 in his four years at the helm, a .744 winning percentage.

Peter Yetten

A former three-sport athlete at Boston University, Yetten is also the varsity coach at Waltham High School.

North and Waltham matmen both split

WALTHAM — The Waltham High wrestling team can't complain about splitting a tri-meet against the likes of Quincy and Lowell. The Hawks defeated Lowell for only the second time in eight meetings, but for the sixth straight season Waltham lost to Quincy.

The mighty Presidents have won the Suburban League wrestling title for the past six seasons and in every one of those years Waltham has finished second. Quincy defeated Waltham, 38-8, in a meet closer than the score indicated. There were only two pins in the entire dual meet.

On the bright side, Waltham captured its seventh dual meet win of the season over a strong Lowell squad, 32-28. Brian Schoener's pin at 134 provided the winning points for the Hawks. Waltham is now 7-2 overall and 2-1 in the league. Lowell has won the state wrestling championship eight times.

Ciro Zottola was the lone double winner for the Hawks. The fiesty 187-pounder captured decision victories over both his Lowell and Waltham opponents. Zottola has been in a duel with teammate Ken Morreale for the 169 spot and he has been contributing to the team by wrestling up a class at 187.

Darrel Kadlec also had a big win for Waltham at 107 over Quincy. Ken O'Connor defeated his Lowell opponent and tied his Quincy opponent. Walter Comeau won by pin at 157 against his Lowell opponent.

Newton North had a similar experience over the weekend. The Tigers dropped Brookline, 53-12, but were defeated by Wayland, 45-13.

Mark Fabian was a double winner for North at 107. Chris McGrath continued his hot streak winning his fourth match in a row against his Wayland opponent. The victory over Brookline lifted North's record to 2-1 in the Suburban League. The Tigers are 7-3-1 overall.

Boys' Club wins in Pony hoop

NEWTON — Boys' Club got double-digit performances from three different players to roll by Hawthorn, 67-25, in a Newton Recreation Department Pony League contest at the Warren Junior High Gym.

Brian Mackey led the way for the Boys' Club scoring 18 points. Ron Coppola tossed in 16 points and teammate Britt Ryan chipped in with 14 points to aide the Boys' Club effort. Mike Ryan paved the way for Hawthorn with 10 points.

In other action, the Myrtle Tigers defeated Community Center I, 51-13. Shaun Lotts popped in 14 points for the winners. Community Center II topped Upper Falls, 29-13. Aaron Heesch guided the winners scoring 19 of the team's 29 points.

Newton PeeWee AA prevails

NEWTON — The Newtown PeeWee AA hockey team got a two-goal performance from Jay Cappelo in a 5-0 victory over West Roxbury Thursday night at the Fessenden School Rink in a Middlesex Youth Hockey League contest.

Mike Olson, Peter Menges and Steve Silk were the other goal scorers for Newton. Goalies Charlie Goldman and Doug Michaels shared the shutout duties.

Newton outshot West Roxbury, 35-4. David Frechette had two assists for Newton. The win lifted Newton's record to 19-8-4 overall and 9-2-3 in the league for second place behind Medford. Newton will play Melrose at Burlington Saturday night.

Barry Brothers capture 1st win

NEWTON — Scott Bolio scored nine points and Dennis Quinn added eight to lead Barry Brothers to a 0-15, 15-9, 15-9 victory over Aronson Insurance, for their first win of the Newton Men's Volleyball season.

Jeff Mann led the losers with 14.

In other action, KGB topped LAG 15-11, 13-15, 7-5, led by Larry Saris' 10 points and Wayne Husted's eight. Steve Bekier chipped in seven for the losers.

Also Monday night, the Short Sets dumped the Nets, 15-11, 15-12, 12-8. Cristos Zahopoulos led the winners with seven, while Brian Donovan paced the Nets with nine points.

Capello paces PeeWee AA

NEWTON — The Newton PeeWee AA team parlayed a pair of Jay Capello goals and a 34-4 shooting advantage into a 5-0 whitewash of West Roxbury Friday at the Fessenden Rink.

Peter Menges, Michael Olson and Steven Silk rounded out the scoring in the Newton-dominated game.

On Saturday, Newton ran into a Melrose team that needed a strong effort to advance to the top half of the Middlesex League standings.

Melrose played strong, but so did Newton, as the teams fought to a 1-1 draw.

Silk got the knotter with just over one minute to play, as he came on the ice as an extra skater, replacing goalie Doug Michals, who was pulled after a strong effort.

The split weekend left Newton at 19-8-5 on the season, and in the top half of the league standings.

Newton will travel to Lexington Thursday for a 6:30 start and on Saturday, the PeeWees will tkae on Lowell at Burlington in a 7:40 game.

Surgeons implant chemotherapy pump

NEWTON — Newton-Wellesley Hospital recently became the first community hospital in New England to surgically implant in a patient a pump that infuses chemotherapy directly into a cancerous organ.

A team of surgeons led by James Vernon, M.D., successfully implanted the device into a 32-year-old woman with cancer of the colon that had metastasized to her liver.

The pump, manufactured by Infusaid of Norwood, consists of two chambers. The outer chamber contains a liquid propellant that vaporizes at body temperature.

When the inner chamber is filled with cancer-fighting medication by an injection through the skin, it expands and compresses the propellant in the outer chamber. The pressure of the varporized propellant releases the medication through a catheter into the hepatic artery and directly into the liver at a slow and constant rate.

The pump is filled every two weeks by a registered nurse in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Outpatient Department, where a variety of comprehensive medical services are provided to oncology patients.

According to Dr. Vernon, a team of surgeons, including NWH Chief of Surgery Paul F. Gryska, M.S., and Jack S. Parker, M.D., were required to implant the pump because the patient's unusual arrangements of arteries made the insertion process very difficult. The patient was able to return home eight days after surgery.

The internal infusion pump was developed several years ago and for three years pilot studies were done to determine its effects.

Dr. Vernon reports the results of these studies "look too good to be true. It appears that in a sizeable percentage of those with carcinoma of the colon metastasized to the liver, the liver tumors do respond to the medication delivered by this type of pump. Although we don't yet know how long the response will continue, these initial studies suggest that a substantial prolongation of life is possible."

This past summer the FDA released the pump for general use, although surgeons need special training before they can implant the device.

While the success of the implant has only been demonstrated in patients with cancer in the liver which has spread from the colon and which has not traveled to any other organs of the body, the implant does have the potential to be used for cancers elsewhere in the body.

Its success in prolonging the lives of patients with cancer in the liver is due to a number of factors.

First, the liver is one of the most frequent sites that cancer spreads to. Secondly, the blood supply of the liver is such, anatomically, that it can be successfully approached, in most cases, by inserting a catheter in branch of the hepatic artery. And finally, systemic reactions and uncomfortable side effects are abated for two reasons: because the chemotherapy goes directly to its destination without passing through the rest of the body, and also because the role of the liver is to detoxify potentially toxic substances, like drugs used in chemotherapy, before they are absorbed by the body.

External pumps have been used in the past to deliver chemotherapy to the liver, but while this treatment resulted in shrinking the size of the tumors, the overall survival rate of the patient was not significantly increased.

Furthermore, with external implantation of catheters, infection can be a serious problem for patients, who also have to cope with the nuisance of an external pump.

Elderly awoke with faulty heat

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON LOWER FALLS — Elderly residents of a city housing development woke up Thursday morning to estimated 45 degree temperatures in their 42 unit apartment building.

Outside temperatures hovered in the zero-degree range and could have contributed to the "technical problem" of the building's heating controls malfunctioning, according to city housing director Frank Quinn.

Homemaker Cathy O'Connor, wearing a fisherman knit sweater, said the apartments weren't too bad, but the common rooms were cold.

"It's usually very warm here, because each apartment has its own thermostat, but it's quite different today," said O'Connor.

Access to residents' rooms was not permitted, but the baseboard heaters in the common areas were stone cold at 9:30 a.m.

One elderly woman reported she was using her kitchen oven and a portable heater to keep warm in her apartment, which she said felt about 45 degrees.

Another woman wearing a coat and a hat said she was using a portable heater too, "I used to have another one, but I gave it away. I sure wish I had it now," she said.

"It's just a technical problem, something kicked off and the automatic controls aren't working and the manual controls aren't working either," said Quinn.

The 42 units of units of elderly housing were built a year ago in the old Hamilton School on Grove Street in Newton Lower Falls. The city has 831 units of leased and city built sites available for public housing, according to Quinn.

"Probably an engineering difficulty, we called the service people and we're just waiting for them now," said Quinn, speculating on the cause of the heat loss.

The controls are made by Barbour Coleman company, said Quinn.

Hamilton Grove apartments cost roughly $1.3 million to build, according to Planning Director Barry Canner. The building has skylights on the roof. One elderly resident was perched just inside his apartment's skylight enjoying the sun's warmth in an effort to keep warm.

A spot check found no housing maintenance personnel in the apartment building's furnace room.

Many heating control systems use small amounts of air pressure to operate the automatic controls and if there not maintained properly moisture can get in the lines and cause them to freeze up, according to a local heating service company.

Other winter-related problems the authority is experiencing were aired by Quinn at a housing meeting on Thursday.

"We're having a lot of problems with broken shear pins in our snow blowers, because of all the ice, said Quinn. This is worse than the Blizzard of '78," he added.

Quinn said the authority's objective is to clear the way in the city's eight housing projects to allow emergency vehicles to enter.

Many elderly residents have been calling up the authority asking for help in shoveling off their cars, but Quinn explained he lacked the manpower to do this. He expressed dismay when residents do clean off their cars in the housing unit's driveway, making it necessary to replow the area.

"They should clear a little bit off the windshield and drive out to the street and clean the car off there," suggested Quinn.

Conservators hosting day of winter fun

NEWTON — There will be a "Winter Happening at Novitiate Park" at Nahanton Street on the Charles River on Sunday, Feb. 6, from 1 to 4 p.m.

For more information, call the Newton Parks and Recreation Department at 552-7120. In case of no snow, the event will be held Sunday, Feb. 13.

Former head of city DPW nixes state job

NORWOOD — John Carroll of Milton, Norwood town manager, and former director of the Newton DPW, said Tuesday morning that he has turned down an offer to head up the state Department of Public Works under Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Carroll served as director of the Newton DPW in the early 1970s. His career in public works began in 1953 when he joined the staff of Lexington's DPW as a civil engineer. Within three years after starting that job, he was appointed assistant superintendent and by 1967, he was named both superintendent of public works and town engineer.

New England Construction Magazine lured him away from that job in 1967. There, he served as public works editor and later as the publication's chief editor from 1970 through 1971.

While working on the magazine, Carroll also headed up the Massachusetts Association of Contractors, a job that later led to his appointment as state DPW Commissioner.

When Dukakis was turned out of office in 1978, Carroll moved into the $48,000 per year town manager's position in Norwood.

"There are a lot of reasons why I did not take the job. One of them is that there are a lot of things I want to see finished up in Norwood," said Carroll, who served as DPW commissioner during Dukakis's last term. "We have a lot of projects going on that I want to see concluded," he added, naming the downtown renovation and the University Avenue extension projects as two of his prime interests.

Carroll said he was offered the state DPW commissionership this weekend by former boss Frederick Salvucci, secretary of transportation under Dukakis. After careful consideration, Carroll turned down the offer.

"It was a very complicated decision," the 54-year-old Carroll admitted in a telephone interview this morning. "The town of Norwood has paid me well and right now, I don't see any reason to leave."

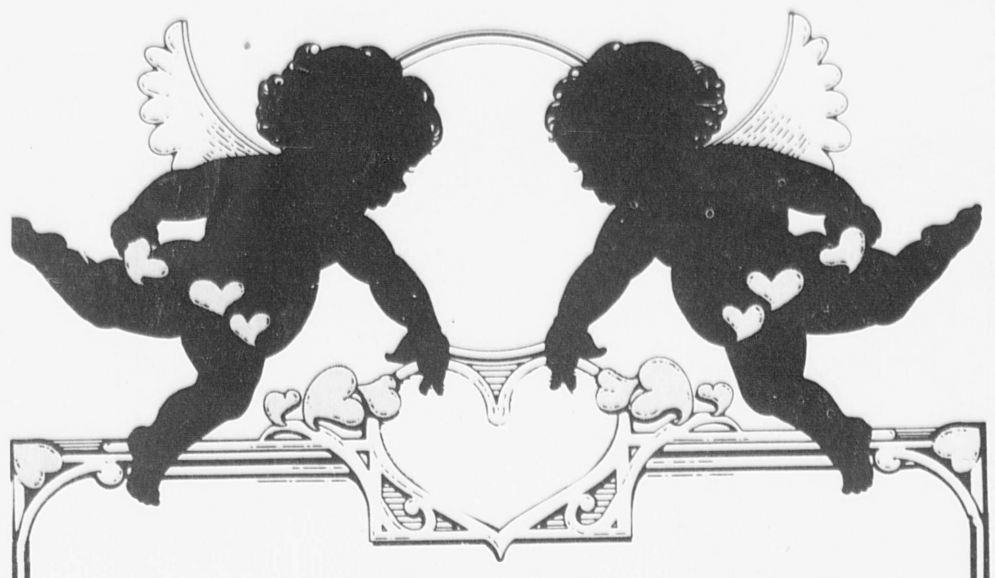

Carroll did not give any other reasons for his decision in turning down the $44,675 to $56,317 per year job. He said his decision was personal. He did not, however, rule out the possibility that he may accept another job offer with the Dukakis administration.

"For the sake of my family, I always keep my eyes open," he said, noting that he has not received any indication that he is being considered for another job under the new governor.

Known in the Dukakis camp as a "hard working and diligent" administrator, Carroll won favor with the governor and the admiration of colleagues when he headed up the state DPW in 1974.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA, HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban homestead loans • house-to-house loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Secretary

We are seeking a well organized, experienced secretary for our Engineering Department, who accurately types at least 60 WPM and has a real talent for detail.

Responsibilities include technical and correspondence typing, answering and directing telephone calls, appointment scheduling and record keeping, setting up and maintaining filing and indexing systems, plus related functions within the Department. Shorthand and dictaphone is required.

Clerk/Typist

A recent promotion has created an immediate need for a conscientious individual to assume clerical responsibilities in our Construction-Production Department.

Your duties will include typing correspondence and specifications, maintaining files, handling the telephones, and other clerical responsibilities in this fast-paced environment. Previous experience is preferred.

Pricing Assistant

Construction Estimating Department

Also, there is an immediate entry-level position available in our Estimating Department.

Duties will include updating and maintaining pricing catalogues, pricing materials and labor, operation of a computer terminal, use of a calculator, and light typing. Math accuracy and attention to detail is a necessity; knowledge of construction terminology a plus.

BALCO is a well established Mechanical Contracting firm conveniently located in Newton near 128. We offer an excellent income and benefits package. Qualified individuals should contact our Personnel Department at 964-1300 for more information.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT ON THE ENVIRONMENT NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST THE RELEASE OF FUNDS

26 January 1983
City of Newton
Community Development Program
City Hall
Newton Centre, MA. 02159
(617)552-7135

To All Interested Agencies, Groups and Persons:

On or about 11 February 1983, the above-named City will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL93-383) as amended, for the following projects:

PROJECT TITLE OR NAME:
Thompsonville Neighborhood Project (Multi-Year Project FY83-85)

PURPOSE OR NATURE OF PROJECT:
—New storm drain and replacement of drainage facilities in the Elgin Road/Langley Road/Knowles Street/Maple Park/Ripley Street area.
—New water services in Maple Park.
—New sidewalk and curbs in Ripley Street.
—Acquisition of a water pumping facility, and related easements, long-term site lease, and access rights; design and construction of improvements to this facility for upgrading and conversion to City use.
—Design and construction of traffic improvements (geometrics, signalization, etc,), and refurbishment of Veterans Park in connection with the Urban Systems Project in Thompsonville Square.

LOCATION:
Thompsonville, City of Newton, Middlesex County, Massachusetts.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above-named City has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

The purpose of these improvements is to mitigate a local flooding problem by improving storm drainage, improve domestic and fire water service, revitalize Veterans Park, improve traffic safety and signalization at the Route 9/Langley Road intersection, and to improve pedestrian and traffic safety elsewhere. Improvements will occur primarily within existing public rights-of-way or within easements and property rights to be obtained by the City. The removal of a large tree currently blocking and disrupting an existing drain line is necessary to restore drainage flow. While construction may cause certain minor intermittent impacts (occasional noise, etc.) such occurrences will be held to a minimum through enforcement of the City's construction regulations. It is anticipated that the contemplated improvements will significantly enhance the overll environmental quality of this neighborhood.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within projects has been made by the above-named City which documents the environmental review of each project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at the Office of Community Development, between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 p.m.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the above address. Such written comments should be received at the address specified on or before 10 February 1983. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

The City of Newton will undertake the projects, described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban development (HUD), under Title I of the Housing and Community Development of Act of 1974. The City of Newton is certifying to HUD that Theodore D. Mann Mayor, in his official capacity as Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to evironmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Newton may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and other provisions of law.

HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is one of the following bases:

(a) The certification was not in fact executed by the recipient's Certifying Officer.

(b) The recipient has failed to make one of the two findings pursuant to ss58.41 or to make the written determination decision required by ss58.47, 58.53 or 58.64 for the project, as applicable.

(c) The recipient has omitted one or more of the steps set forth at Subparts F and G for the preparation and completion of an EA.

(d) The recipient has omitted one or more of the steps set forth at Subparts H and I for the conduct, preparation and completion of an EIS.

(e) No opportunity was given to the Advisory Concil on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register or Historic Places, or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the interior, in accordance with 36 CFR Part 800.

(f) With respect to a project for which a recipient has decided that ss58.47, 58.53, or 58.64 apply, the recipient has failed to include in the ERR the written decision required, or its decision is not supported by facts specified by the objecting party.

(g) Another federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality.

The only bases upon which HUD or the State will disapprove the RROF and certification are set forth above.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and ay be addressed to HUD at 15 New Chardon Street, Boston, MA. 02114

No objection received after 28 February 1983 will be considered by HUD.

Obituaries

Robert E. Armstrong, 71
Newton package store mgr. 45 years

WEST NEWTON — Robert E. Armstrong of West Newton, died Jan. 19 at the Newton Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness. He was 71.

Mr. Armstrong was born in Newton and was a life-long resident. He was a manager of McHugh's Pacakage Store of Newton for 45 years and a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks No. 1327.

He leaves his wife, Elizabeth (Chiacchia), two daughters, Roberta Austin of Waltham and Rochelle Trudel of Framingham, three sons, Ronald Armstrong of Newton, Richard Armstrong of Wellesley and Roy Armstrong of Waltham.

He also leaves a sister, Edith Foster of Silver Springs, Fla., 15 grandchildren and one great grandson.

A funeral mass was held last Saturday in St. Bernard's Church. Burial followed in the family lot of Newton Cemetery.

Arrangements by Lyons and Hayes Funeral Home, West Newton.

William Aronson
President of Aronson Poultry Co.

BROOKLINE — Funeral services were held on Jan. 17 in Brookline, for William B. Aronson of Newton Centre, who died suddenly on Jan. 15 at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Mr. Aronson was a World War II veteran, having served in the U.S. Air Corps. from 1943-45. Upon being honorably discharged, he attended the Boston University School of Business Management, and was graduated Class of 1948. He was a member of the Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity.

Mr. Aronson was a former president of the Broadway Poultry Co., of Boston, and was the president of the Aronson Poultry Co. until his death.

He was also a long-time member of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Centre in Roslindale.

Mr. Aronson is survived by his wife, Jacqueline (Schuman), his mother, Rose (Michaelson) Aronson, a daughter, Shelley Aronson, a son-in-law, Scott Bragdon, and a son, Mark Aronson. He is also survived by a brother, Leonard J. Aronson, and a sister-in-law, Sara Aronson.

He was also the son of the late Charles J. Aronson.

Interment took place in Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon.

Richard A. Carroll, 67
Newton native, insurance executive

WEST NEWTON — Richard A. Carroll, of Marshfield and formerly of West Newton, died Jan. 20 at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness. He was 67.

Mr. Carroll was born in Newton and lived there for many years. He was an executive for the John Hancock Insurance Co. of Boston, a position he held for 30 years.

While a Newton resident, Mr. Carroll was a member of the St. Bernard's Holy Name Society and the Newton Lodge of Elks No. 1327. He was also an active member of the St. Anne by the Sea Church of Marshfield.

Mr. Carroll leaves his wife, Helen D. (Kennedy), three daughters, Judith A. Dore of Auburndale, Mary Lee Carroll-Brooks of Watertown, Conn. and Nancy E. Haley of West Newton, as well as nine grandchildren.

A funeral mass was celebrated on Monday in St. Bernard's Church. Interment followed in the family lot of Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Rt. Rev. Oreste P. Kerame, 87
Leader in Newton Melkite Diocese

WEST NEWTON — Rt. Rev. Oreste P. Kerame, 87, an advisor to the archbishop of the Melkite Diocese of Newton, died of leukemia in Newton-Wellesley Hospital last Friday.

A native of Beirut, Lebanon, Fr. Kerame, entered the Society of Jesus in 1913. After studies in Jesuit colleges in England, he was ordained in London in 1925.

Fr. Kerame, who was an Archimandrite--an arch abbot--taught philosophy and Greek in Jesuit colleges in France and preached missions in Catholic Churches in Algeria, France and Corsica.

In 1945, he transferred from the Jesuits to the Melkite patriarchate, and was named archimandrite and private secretary to Patriarch Cyril IX, and professor of philosophy of the Patriarchal College of Cairo.

In 1966, Fr. Kerame came to the United States to teach ecumenism at Catholic University and at Trinity College, both in Washington, D.C. In 1970, he moved to West Newton to become part of the diocesan staff there.

He leaves a sister, Clio Sioufi of Beirut, a nephew, Maurice Tabet, also of Beirut, and a niece, Jacqueline Gerard of Geneva.

Funeral services were held last Tuesday at the Cathedral in Roslindale.

Burial was held in St. Basil's Seminary in Methuen.

Harmon R. Stone, 60
W. Newton certified public accountant

WEST NEWTON — Services were held last Monday for Harmon R. Stone of West Newton, a certified public accountant and senior partner in the Chestnut Hill firm of Stone and Shulman. Mr. Stone died last Saturday at 60.

Mr. Stone was a pioneer developer of the application of data processing and founded Research Calculation Inc. of Chestnut Hill, now part of Automatic Data Processing Inc.

He served in World War II in the U.S. Army engineers and took part in the invasion of Normandy. He remained in the reserves for 25 more years, retiring with the rank of major.

Mr. Stone was born in Boston, and was graduated from Boston University in 1946. He was a member of the Congregation Mishkan Tefila in Chestnut Hill.

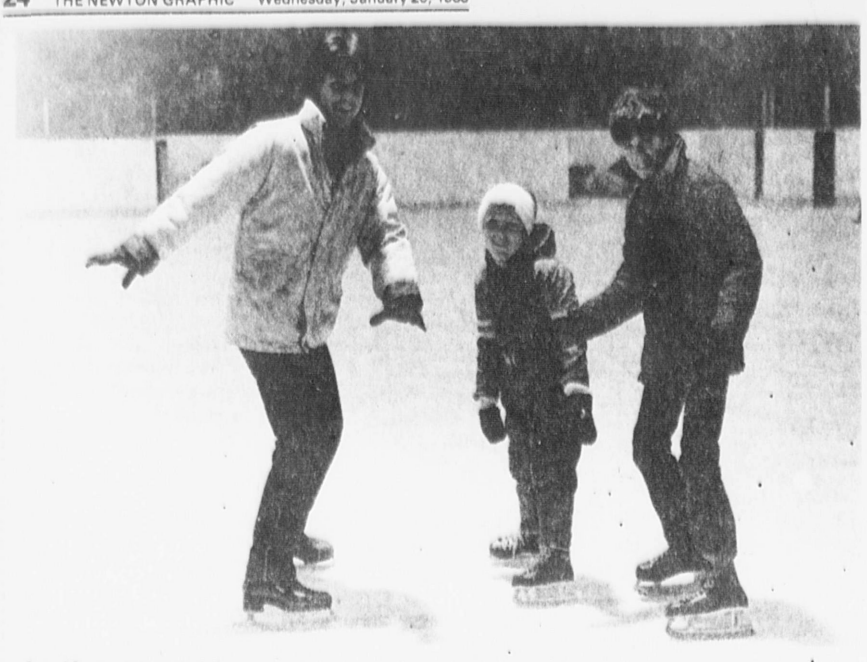

He served on the board of directors of the Leonard Silver Manufacturing Co., now a division of Towle Silversmiths. He was also a member of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Stone is survived by his wife, Shayna (Shefitz), two daughters, Toby Mandelberg of Los Angelos and Lisa Berman of New York City, two sons, Jonathan of Dallas and David of Los Angeles, two sisters, Beatrice Stone of Cambridge and Charlotte Shaw of Quincy, one brother, Irwin M. Stone of Newton and one granddaughter.

Burial took place in Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon.

Church tackles ethics in series slated Feb. 15

WEST NEWTON - The Second Church in West Newton will continue its adult forum series on ethics Sunday with speaker Paul Deats, who will tackled "Ethics in War and Peace," starting at 11:30 a.m.

The series, which runs each Sunday through Feb. 15, began Jan. 23 with a talk on "Ethics and the Christian Investment" with Amy Domini.

Deats of West Newton teachers social ethics at Boston Univesrsity's School of Theology. An activist in the peace movement, he plans to base his discussion in part on the recent bishop's statement on nuclear war.

Former editor of The Real Paper Martin Linsky will speak on Feb. 6 on the topic of "Ethics and the Mass Media." Linsky is a former state representative and editorial writer for The Boston Globe who is currently assistant director of the Institute of Politics at Harvard University.

Newton resident Paul McDaniel will speak on "Ethics and the Law" at the Second Church on Feb. 15.

McDaniel is chairman of the recently appointed Task Force for the Mass. Dept. of Revenue and is a Boston College Law School faculty member.

The church is located at 60 Highland Street, off Route 16. The public is invited to attend. For information call 244-2690.

Professor set for NWH talk

LOWER FALLS — What are some of the current issues concerning the long-term drug therapy of schizophrenia?

Alan J. Gelenberg, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and chief of Special Studies Clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital, will discuss this issue in his lecture on Wednesday, Feb. 2 from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m. in the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's School of Nursing's Allen Riddle Living Room.

Dr. Gelenberg's talk is sponsored by the NWH Department of Psychiatry's Education Committee. The fee for the lecture is $10, but will be waived for the staff of all Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Retardation Center affiliated agencies.

Registered nurses may apply for continuing education credits and physicians may apply for CME Category I credits following the lecture.

For further information, call the NWH Department of Psychiatry at 964-2800 ext. 2434.
